PART I

ITEM 1 - DESCRIPTION OF BUSINESS

The Company

Bravo! Brands Inc. is a Delaware corporation formed on April 26, 1996. The Company recently changed its name from Bravo! Foods International Corp. We believe the new name more succinctly and accurately reflects our current business model and scope.

Nature of Business

We develop, brand, market, distribute and sell nutritious, flavored milk products throughout the United States, and, during the first half of 2006, in the United Kingdom. Our products are available through co-packing agreements with aseptic milk processors and are currently sold under our brand names Slammers® and Bravo!™.

We have employed a co-branding strategy that builds on strong, iconic brands to build awareness and position for our Slammers® and Bravo!™ brands. Our focus is on brands that have a strong flavor profile and strong consumer following, which we then leverage to build our sales and brand positioning.

The Business

In the third quarter of 2001, we developed branded extended shelf life and aseptic, bacteria free, long life flavored milk products. The extended shelf life (“ESL”) product was sold in 16 ounce single serve plastic bottles and had to be refrigerated. The shelf life of this product was 90 days. In addition, we developed a line of aseptic packaged milks that did not require refrigeration and had a shelf life of 8 months. This product was packaged in an 11.2 ounce Tetra Pak Prisma™ sterile paper container. During early 2004 we were limited to Tetra Pak Prisma™ packaging for aseptic production and ESL processing, with which we distributed and marketed products through the cold distribution network and the ambient distribution network. The licensing agreement with Warner Bros. for Looney Tunes™ trademarks, which commenced in the United States in 2000, was used for both our ESL and aseptic Prisma package designs. The Prisma packaged products were sold through channels where ambient distribution was advantageous. Commencing in February 2004, we used Marvel trademarks for Super Heroes® and Marvel Heroes® for the design and marketing of our sixteen ounce single serve milk with an extended shelf life. Both our ESL and aseptic product categories were produced at Jasper Products, LLC located in Joplin, Missouri.

Through the end of 2004, the majority of our products were shipped through traditional warehouses. The development of an ambient plastic bottle, however, allowed us to sell into the immediate consumption sales channel through the “tobacco and candy” distribution system in 2005. The benefits of this distribution were lower freight costs, wider distribution of a product with a six month shelf life and the ability to utilize the Direct Store Delivery (DSD) distribution network.

During the second half of 2004, we entered into a license agreement with Masterfoods USA, a division of Mars Incorporated. This agreement combined our “better for you” co-branding strategy with the brand recognition and appetite appeal of the Masterfoods product line. Beyond appetite appeal, our Masterfoods brands allowed us to differentiate between flavors in the same way chocolate candy can be differentiated, as well as creating one of the first milk and juice beverage combinations available in the marketplace. We also introduced our shelf-stable packaging with the Masterfoods agreement. In the first quarter of 2005, we began distribution of Masterfoods products.

On August 31, 2005, we signed an exclusive, 10-year distribution agreement with Coca-Cola Enterprises Inc. (CCE), the world's largest marketer, distributor and producer of bottle and can nonalcoholic beverages. This resulted in a termination of all prior relationships with our beverage brokers and independent distributors, which we formerly utilized for regional distribution across the United States. On November 1, 2005, CCE began distribution of Slammers® Milky Way®, Slammers® 3 Musketeers®, Slammers® Strawberry and Orange Starburst® Slammers®, Vanilla and Chocolate PRO Slammers™ and Vanilla and Chocolate Slim Slammers®.

During the fourth quarter of 2005, we experienced record revenues from the initial CCE order, but due to limited capacity, we were unable to fully meet initial demand. In late 2005, we contracted with Jasper Products to triple production capacity, from 2.5 million bottles per month to 7.5 million bottles per month by July 1, 2006. This increase in production capacity was completed on schedule.

We continued to innovate and expand our product offering during 2006. This was accomplished primarily through new licensing agreements with General Mills® and Organic Valley® for co-branded single serve milk. With these new licenses, we have developed and marketed products including TRIX® Slammers®, COCOA PUFFS® Slammers® and eight-ounce organic white milk, all in aseptic plastic bottles. We also introduced Bravo! Blenders™ in the New York and tri-state area, to be distributed by F&G Distributors of New York.

During early 2006, we began the development of a "snowman" shaped eight ounce bottle that provided the rigidity needed to be stacked for sale in vending machines. Given the potential of sales within the education channel, we developed and began production of the first aseptic eight-ounce vendible bottle with products that met the American Beverage Association ("ABA") and Clinton Foundation established guidelines for lower calorie and nutritious beverages in schools. The eight-ounce Slammers® are available in an assortment of flavors and can fill vending machine slots traditionally occupied by twelve-ounce soda cans. We began shipment of our new eight-ounce vendible bottles to Coca-Cola Enterprises on October 31, 2006. The production and shipment of our fourteen-ounce vendible bottle is scheduled for first quarter 2007. In addition, we have developed a vendible twelve ounce bottle, which will be added in 2007 to accommodate the Clinton/ABA school guidelines that limit serving size in high schools to twelve ounces.

Master Distribution Agreement - Coca-Cola Enterprises

The appointment of Coca-Cola Enterprises as the exclusive distributor for our products was effective August 31, 2005, while distribution commenced on October 31, 2005. The ten year agreement expires on August 15, 2015, and Coca-Cola Enterprises has the option to renew the Master Agreement for two subsequent periods of ten additional years. Concurrent with the execution of the agreements, we issued three-year warrants to Coca-Cola Enterprises for the right to purchase 30 million shares of our common stock at an exercise price of $0.36 per share.

Under the terms of the agreement, Coca-Cola Enterprises is obligated to use all commercially reasonable efforts to solicit, procure and obtain orders for our products and merchandise and actively promote the sale of such products in the Territory, as defined in the agreement. Distribution in other Territory areas will be dependent upon, among other things, third-party licensing considerations and compliance with the regulatory requirements for the products in foreign countries.

We have agreed to provide the following:

- strategic direction of our products;
- maintain sales force education and support
- actively market and advertise our products and design and develop point of sale materials and advertising.

We are also responsible for handling:

- consumer inquiries;
- product development; and
- the manufacture and adequate supply of our products for distribution by Coca-Cola Enterprises.

Under the agreement, Coca-Cola Enterprises has the right of first refusal to distribute any new products developed by us, and the agreement establishes a process for the potential expansion of Coca-Cola Enterprises' distribution of our products to new territories. Our "Allied" sales team distributes products not sold through Coca-Cola Enterprises. Either party may terminate the agreement for a material breach, insolvency or bankruptcy. Coca-Cola Enterprises may terminate the agreement (i) for change of control by our company; (ii) upon a material governmental regulatory enforcement action or threatened governmental action having a material adverse consumer or sales impact on our products; and (iii) upon twelve months notice after August 15, 2006.

Third Party Intellectual Property Licenses

All of our third party licensing agreements recognize that we will use third party production agreements (called co-packing arrangements) for the processing of flavored milk products and that our milk products will be produced and may be distributed directly by those processors.

Masterfoods USA

On September 21, 2004, we entered into a licensing agreement with Masterfoods USA, a division of Mars, Incorporated, for the use of Milky Way®, Starburst® and 3 Musketeers® trademarks in connection with the manufacture, marketing and sale of single serve flavored milk drinks in the United States, its Possessions and Territories and US Military installations worldwide. On March 31, 2006, we reached an agreement with Masterfoods extending the U.S. license for an additional five years, ending December 31, 2012. In addition the agreement granted us the rights to the Dove Dark Chocolate and Dove Milk Chocolate brands.

Effective January 1, 2006, we signed two new seven year licensing agreements for Canada and Mexico with Masterfoods USA. The Canada licensing agreement provides use of Starburst® Slammers® Fruit & Crème Smoothies and 3 Musketeers® Slammers® Chocolate Milk. The Mexico licensing agreement is for single serve Milky Way® Slammers® Chocolate Milk and 3 Musketeers® Slammers® Chocolate Milk. Each agreement covers most trade channels including grocery, food service, Club Stores as well as schools with children over the age of 13, colleges and universities, vending machines, amusement parks and movie theaters.

We have agreed to pay a royalty based upon the total net sales of the licensed products sold and advance payments of certain agreed upon guaranteed royalties. Ownership of the licensed marks and the specific milk flavors to be utilized with the marks remains with Masterfoods. We have a right of first refusal for other milk beverage products utilizing the Masterfoods marks within the licensed territory.

General Mills

In February 2006, we signed a five year licensing agreement with General Mills Marketing, Inc. for a term extending through December 31, 2011. The agreement covered the production, distribution and marketing of General Mills trademarks including; TRIX Slammers®, COCOA PUFFS® Slammers® and WHEATIES®. In addition to these brands, the agreement covers LUCKY CHARMS®, COUNT CHOCULA®, BOOBERRY® and FRANKENBERRY®.

We have agreed to pay a royalty based upon the total net sales of the licensed products sold and advance payments of certain agreed upon guaranteed royalties. Ownership of the licensed marks and the specific milk flavors to be utilized with the marks remains with General Mills. We have a right of first refusal for other milk beverage products utilizing the General Mills marks within the licensed territory.

Organic Valley

In October 2006, we signed a licensing agreement and a separate organic milk supply agreement with Cooperative Regions of Organic Producer Pools (“CROPP”) to license, produce and sell its brand, Organic Valley®, in a new product line of aseptic packaged organic fluid milk products. Our agreement includes an Evergreen clause with automatic annual renewals and a twelve-month termination notice. We have launched eight-ounce Organic Valley 1% low fat milk and expect to introduce additional flavors such as 1% chocolate milk, vanilla and berry flavors in the near future.

Diabetes Research Institute

In November 2006, we extended our licensing agreement with Diabetes Research Institute to October 31, 2007. We agreed to a base royalty and a variable royalty rate for the use of intellectual property, which consists of a logo plus design on the labels of our Slim Slammers™, 3 Musketeers® and Bravo! Blenders™ product lines.

Marvel Enterprises, Inc.

On February 4, 2005, we entered into a two-year license agreement for the utilization of Marvel Heroes characters on our flavored milks in the United Kingdom and Ireland. In March 2005, we entered into a new one-year license agreement with Marvel Enterprises, Inc. to use its Super Heroes’s properties to promote our branded milk products in the United States, Canada and Mexico. On February 4, 2005, we entered into a license agreement for the utilization of Marvel Heroes characters on our flavored milk bottles in the Middle East. This license will expire March 31, 2007.

We have not renewed these license agreements and have focused on new license agreements on food products that have a perceived taste, flavor or nutritional value.

In House Intellectual Property

In addition to our third-party licenses, we have developed and sell flavored milks bearing trademarks developed by us, including “Slammers®” “Pro Slammers™”, “Slim Slammers®”, Bravo!™ and “Blenders™”.

Production Contracts/Administration

Our operations in the United States, Mexico and Canada are run directly by Bravo! Brands Inc.

United States

Since 2003, our milk products have been produced by Jasper Products, located in Joplin, Missouri. In addition to the production of our products, Jasper has provided the infra-structure necessary for our invoicing, shipping and collection activities. We anticipate the invoicing and collection responsibilities for these activities will be brought in house during 2007.

In September 2006, we executed a six-year non-exclusive production agreement with HP Hood LLC of Chelsea, Massachusetts, for the production of our products through 2012, with production commencing in the second quarter 2007. The contract specifies annual production volume of 70 million bottles.

United Kingdom & Middle East

In 2006 we ceased our international business to focus on fully developing our business in North America.

Canada

In August 2006, we entered into an agreement with William Neilson Limited, a leading Canadian dairy, to produce our Slammer® Starburst® brands. The co-packing agreement covers the production of single-server shelf-stable products to be produced under the license agreement with Masterfoods for the Canadian Market.

Industry Trends

The flavored milk industry has grown from approximately $750 million in 1995 to $2.0 billion in 2006. The single serve portion of this category is difficult to measure, since approximately 2/3 of the sales in the single serve milk industry are sold in immediate consumption channels or other channels that do not report readily available sell through data. For example, Wal-Mart has become the largest retailer in the USA for milk, selling an estimated 15% of total milk sales. Wal-Mart does not report sales for the industry data resources reported and analyzed by market watch companies such as A.C. Neilson or Information Resources Inc. Similarly, most convenience stores and “up-and-down-the-street” retailers in the immediate consumption sales channels, as well as vending and schools, do not report sales data.

We have analyzed the industry using reports available from milk and beverage industry sources. These include the total, segmented and rate of growth sales that are reported, the immediate consumption sales rates for all consumables compared to retail grocery buying patterns and opinions of experts in the milk industry as to the relative size of reported versus non-reported sales. Based upon these reports and analysis, we believe the current size of the single serve flavored milk industry (packaging 16 oz. or smaller) is approximately $1.5 billion domestically. The industry grew at annual rates of between 2 and 10 percent during the last five years. We believe that this space is positioned for growth now and will continue to be in the immediate consumption channels such as vending, convenience stores and food service market segments. In addition, reduced fat flavored milk sales have grown 29% in the last five years.

Market Analysis

The flavored milk business is a relatively new category in the dairy field. The flavored “refreshment” segment is both the fastest growing and most profitable category in the industry and is receiving the most attention in the industry today. Pioneered by Nestle and Dean Foods, this segment is in demand both in the U.S. and internationally.

We estimate that although flavored milk currently amounts to only 8 to 10 percent of milk sales, it represents the majority of the growth in milk sales. With the total milk category exceeding $14.6 billion in 2004, the flavored milk segment was approximately $2.0 billion in 2006, with single serve flavored milk growing to approximately $1.2 billion for the same period. In the past ten years, selling more flavored milks has resulted in more sales of white milk as well.

The International Dairy Foods Association and Dairy Management Inc. have reported on studies suggesting that dairy products may help in weight loss efforts when coupled with a reduced calorie diet, based on data associating adequate calcium intake with lower body weight and reduced body fat. We continue to develop a similar niche in the single serve flavored milk business by utilizing strong, national branding as part of the promotion of our Slammers®, Pro Slammers™, Slim Slammers® and Bravo! Blenders™ products. This niche has as its focus the increased demand for single serve, healthy and refreshing drinks.

In addition there has been major political movement within the beverage industry in an effort to address what has become a national epidemic of childhood obesity. In May 2006, the William J. Clinton Foundation and the American Beverage Association established guidelines for lower calorie and nutritious beverages in schools. Under the new guidelines, schools can sell only water, certain juices, milk and low calorie/no calorie soft drinks. The timeline for implementation of these guidelines is initially set at 75% implementation by the 2008-2009 school year and 100% by 2009-2010, with certain school districts already beginning the implementation. With our development of our eight-ounce vendible bottle, meeting the ABA guidelines and the removal of the majority of carbonated products from schools, the market is set for a rapid increase in single serve milk sales.

Market Segment Strategy

The Bravo! product model addresses a very clear and concise target market. We know from experience that the largest retailers of milk products are demanding new and more diverse refreshment drinks, specifically in the dairy area, in response to consumer interest and demand. To that end, we have and will continue to differentiate our products from those of our competitors through innovative product formulations and packaging designs, such as those implemented in our Slammers®, Pro Slammers™ and Bravo! Blenders™ fortified milk product lines and our Slim Slammers® and Slammers® 3 Musketeers® low calorie, no sugar added products.

Our Slammers® milk products have had promising results penetrating this arena as consumers continue to look for healthy alternatives to carbonated beverages. The positioning of our products as a better for you, fun and great tasting alternative to more traditional beverages at competitive prices, creates value for the producer and the retailer alike. This "profit orientation" for the trade puts old-fashioned milk products in a whole new light. The consumer is happy, the retailer is happy and the producer is able to take advantage of the value added by the brand and the resulting overall increase in milk sales.

We currently are implementing a very important "first-to-market" strategy that we feel will significantly reposition our brands and company. Until now, all single served flavored milk in plastic bottles required refrigeration for storage, distribution and shelf placement. Our co-packing agreements with Jasper Products and HP Hood allow our products to be shipped, warehoused and distributed at ambient temperatures.

The tactical advantage of distributing our milk products at ambient temperatures enables us to overcome a major entry barrier in our immediate consumption strategy. Most beverages are distributed ambient either through Direct Store Delivery ("DSD") beverage distribution channels or warehouse "candy and tobacco" distributors. Refrigerated milk was relegated to dairy direct-store-delivery systems that are controlled by either regional dairy processors or larger national dairy holding companies such as Dean Foods. We avoid the roadblock of being reliant upon our competition for chilled distribution since we are now in the unique position to use the more traditional distribution network that accommodates non-refrigerated beverages. Currently all of our products are produced in ambient "shelf stable" re-sealable plastic bottles. Most of our bottles are now fully vendible.

We have been and continue to pursue a strategic goal of placing Slammers® milks in elementary, middle and high schools through a-la-carte lunch programs and vending facilities in school cafeterias, and we are promoting our Slim Slammers®, 3 Musketeers™ and Blenders® milks as low calorie, non-sugar added alternatives to traditional soft drinks. Penetration of this market segment has been limited by logistic and economic concerns of school administrators in the push to remove traditional carbonated soft drinks from schools in favor of milk and milk based products.

Competition

Nestle pioneered the single serve extended shelf life plastic re-sealable bottle which has become the standard for this industry, and they currently enjoy a dominant market share. Dean Foods owns a number of regional single serve brands that are sold in this format, and they also have an exclusive license to produce Hershey brand flavored milk nationwide. Both the Nestle and Dean product lines, however, require refrigeration. Our analysis indicates that the Nestle's Nesquik brand accounts for approximately 30-35 percent of the U.S. single serve milk category. The other competition comes from private label and regional dairy brands.

Employees

We currently have sixty-one employees, sixty of which are full time. The majority of the employees are sales representatives geographically dispersed throughout the United States and Canada.

Sale of unregistered securities*Quarter Ended December 31, 2006*

In July 2006 we sold $30 million four year senior convertible notes in a private sale to five accredited institutional investors. The Notes carried a 9% annual coupon, payable quarterly, and were convertible into shares of common stock at $0.70 per share. We also issued five year Series A warrants to purchase 13,178,571 shares of common stock and Series B warrants to purchase 43,392,856 shares of common stock (exercisable only if we redeem the Notes, on a pro rata basis) at $0.73 per share. Absent our exercise of our call option to redeem the Notes, the holders have no rights to exercise the Series B Warrants and receive common shares to which the contingent warrants are indexed.

On December 29, 2006, we entered into Amendment and Exchange Agreements with these investors. The investors agreed to waive their option to compel redemption, and we agreed to capitalize the $3,750,000 redemption premium with respect to the Investors' right to compel redemption of the Notes. In connection with these amendments, we issued new amended Notes having an aggregate principal amount of $33,750,000 at a conversion price of $0.32. On December 29, 2006, the closing market trading price of our common stock was $0.31 per share.

ITEM 6. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

EXECUTIVE LEVEL OVERVIEW

Our Business Model

We develop, market, distribute and sell nutritious single serve flavored aseptic milk products throughout the United States using our Company owned Slammers® and Bravo!™ trademarked brands. Our aseptic (shelf stable) innovation offers several competitive advantages, including eliminating the need for refrigerated warehousing and trucking and offering real milk products with shelf lives of up to eight months. In order to create brand recognition, we have adopted a co-branding strategy and negotiated strategic license agreements with Masterfoods (Milky Way®, Starburst®, 3 Musketeers®, Dove®) General Mills (Trix™, Cocoa Puffs™) and Organic Valley® (organic milk). Our broad product offering targets several specific demographic groups and lifestyles. For instance, we have milk available for candy lovers of any age through our Milky Way®, 3 Musketeers®, Dove®, and Starburst® flavored products. Our Slim-Slammers®, Bravo! Blenders™ and Organic Valley® milk products target health conscious adults, and our Cocoa Puffs® and Trix® flavored milk products focus on kids from ages 6 to 12. Our products are primarily distributed through Coca Cola Enterprises Inc. ("CCE"). In the future, we plan to increase our revenues by significantly expanding our sales force, securing additional distribution channels and entering into new categories including sports, energy and coffee milk based beverages.

Industry-Wide Factors Relevant to the Company

While retail milk sales have been flat to slightly declining over the past five years, there have been growth niches within this industry. For instance, organic milk sales increased 77% from 1999 to 2004, and single serve flavored milk consumption doubled from 1997 to 2003, while flavored milk sales grew 10.2% in 2004. Furthermore, reduced fat flavored milk sales increased 29% from 2002 to 2006. Our efforts in 2006 have focused on market segments that have exhibited this continued growth. These efforts are consistent with our overall business strategy of exploiting market trends with the quick development of new and innovative products.

Summary of Certain Key Events during 2006 and 2005

During 2006, we expanded our annual production capacity from 30 million to 160 million bottles. This increase was accomplished by expanding our capacity at Jasper Products from 30 million to 90 million bottles annually and executing a supply agreement with HP Hood on September 19, 2006 for the production of an additional 70 million bottles annually.

Other key accomplishments during 2006 include:

- Worked with our co-packers and bottle suppliers to develop new innovative packaging, including the first 8 ounce vendible bottle for Coca Cola and other vending machines and 12 ounce vendible bottles for high schools that meet the new American Beverage Association serving size guidelines
- Reduced average costs per 14 ounce bottle by 13%
- Established the Allied Brands sales channel to focus on expanding business beyond CCE
- Introduced an organic milk line through partnership with Organic Valley's Cooperative Regions of Organic Producer Pools

- Signed licensing agreement with General Mills for use of the Cocoa Puffs®, Trix®, FrankenBerry®, BooBerry® and Wheaties® products that will introduce our Slammers® brand to a younger demographic
- Negotiated Masterfoods license to 2012 (five year extension) and broadened our co-branded offering to include Dove® Dark and Dove® Milk Chocolate
- Created Bravo's first formalized and detailed three year Strategy and Financial Plan
- Added talent and resources across all departments to support company growth

During 2006, like many early-stage organizations that often seek private-investment in public-enterprise type (PIPE) financings, we faced major challenges associated with our accounting and reporting for our financing arrangements. Unfortunately, issues raised by the Securities and Exchange Commission resulted in the restatement of the financial statements in our 2005 Annual Report. While we addressed the issues and made corrections to the satisfaction of the SEC, correcting our financial statements led to delays in our periodic SEC filings and registration statements related to the PIPE securities which, in turn, resulted in significant penalties that were paid to our investors. Such penalties have ceased to accrue, but contractual terms and conditions that could result in additional future penalties for non-filings, loss of effectiveness or suspension of trading remain. We have increased our internal financial department resources and have engaged highly-specialized consultants, where necessary, to be more responsive to the ever-increasing financial complexities with which, as an issuer, we have been and expect to continue to be confronted.

On August 31, 2005, we entered into a Master Distribution Agreement (“MDA”) with CCE. The ten year exclusive MDA significantly expanded our distribution network. Under the terms of the MDA, CCE has the right of first refusal to distribute all of our new products. We currently are developing a secondary national distribution system for all other products that CCE does not carry.

In January 2005, we launched our Slammers® Starburst® line of Fruit & Cream Smoothies utilizing a “shelf stable” re-sealable plastic bottle for milk products that does not require refrigeration. Until that launch, all single served flavored milk in plastic bottles required refrigeration for storage, distribution, and shelf placement. The tactical advantage of distributing milk products ambient enables us to overcome a major entry barrier to reach the immediate consumption market. Refrigerated milk is relegated to the cold dairy direct-store-delivery systems that are controlled by either regional dairy processors or larger national dairy holding companies that carry their own brands of flavored milks. Shelf stable re-sealable plastic bottles allow us to use a more traditional distribution network that accommodates the non-refrigerated beverages. Also, milk products packaged in shelf stable re-sealable plastic bottles have significantly longer shelf life for storage, allowing us to ship in full truckloads resulting in decreased freight costs. We have converted all of our products to “shelf stable” re-sealable plastic bottles.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

This discussion and analysis of our consolidated financial condition and results of operations are based on our consolidated financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles that are generally accepted in the United States of America.

Critical Accounting Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. The most critical estimates included in our financial statements are the following:

·Estimating the fair value of our complex derivative financial instruments that are required to be carried as liabilities at fair value pursuant to Statements on Financial Accounting Standards No. 133 Accounting for Derivative Financial Instruments and Hedging Activities (FAS 133)

·Estimating the future recoverability of our long-lived assets, consisting of property and equipment and intangible assets, pursuant to Statements on Financial Accounting Standards No. 144 Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-lived Assets (FAS 144)

We use all available information and appropriate techniques to develop our estimates. However, actual results could differ from our estimates.

Derivative Financial Instruments

We do not use derivative financial instruments to hedge exposures to cash-flow, market or foreign-currency risks. However, we frequently enter into certain other financial instruments and contracts, such as debt financing arrangements, redeemable preferred stock arrangements and freestanding warrants with features that are either (i) not afforded equity classification, (ii) embody risks not clearly and closely related to host contracts or (iii) may be net-cash settled by the counterparty to a financing transaction. As required by FAS 133, these instruments are required to be carried as derivative liabilities, at fair value, in our financial statements.

We estimate fair values of derivative financial instruments using various techniques (and combinations thereof) that are considered to be consistent with the objective measuring of fair values. In selecting the appropriate technique(s), we consider, among other factors, the nature of the instrument, the market risks that such instruments embody and the expected means of settlement. For less complex derivative instruments, such as free-standing warrants, we generally use the Black Scholes Merton option valuation technique, since it embodies all of the requisite assumptions (including trading volatility, estimated terms and risk free rates) necessary to fair value these instruments. For complex derivative instruments, such as embedded conversion options, we generally use the Flexible Monte Carlo valuation technique since it embodies all of the requisite assumptions (including credit risk, interest-rate risk and exercise/conversion behaviors) that are necessary to fair value these more complex instruments. For forward contracts that contingently require net-cash settlement as the principal means of settlement, we project and discount future cash flows applying probability-weightage to multiple possible outcomes. Estimating fair values of derivative financial instruments requires the development of significant and subjective estimates that may, and are likely to, change over the duration of the instrument with related changes in internal and external market factors. In addition, option-based techniques are highly volatile and sensitive to changes in our trading market price which has high-historical volatility. Since derivative financial instruments are initially and subsequently carried at fair values, our income will reflect the volatility in these estimate and assumption changes.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets

Our long-lived assets consist principally of intangible assets, and to a much lesser extent, furniture and equipment. These balances represent approximately 65% of total assets at December 31, 2006. We evaluate the carrying value and recoverability of our long-lived assets when circumstances warrant such evaluation by applying the provisions of Financial Accounting Standard No. 144, Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets (“FAS 144”). FAS 144 requires that long-lived assets be reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable through the estimated undiscounted cash flows expected to result from the use and eventual disposition of the assets. Whenever any such impairment exists, an impairment loss will be recognized for the amount by which the carrying value exceeds the fair value.

*RESULTS OF OPERATIONSYear Ended December 31, 2006 Compared to Year Ended December 31, 2005Consolidated Revenues

	2006		2005		$ Change		% Change
Revenues	$ 14,661,852	$	11,948,921	$	2,712,931	$	22.7%

The increase in our revenues in 2006 compared to 2005 is the result of our Master Distribution Agreement with CCE, which went into effect in November 2005. Accordingly, we reported a full year of revenue from this contract in 2006, compared to only two months in 2005. Our agreement with CCE stipulates lower unit selling prices than are charged to other customers. CCE is a significant customer and contributed 78% and 34% of our revenues in 2006 and 2005, respectively. Prior to our MDA with CCE, we relied on wholesalers and independent resellers for distribution of our products. Following our execution of the Master Distribution Agreement, we have reduced our reliance on wholesalers and independent resellers to distribute our product and, accordingly, our revenues from these sources decreased from 66% in 2005 to 22% in 2006. The loss of CCE as a customer, or the curtailment of business with CCE, would have a material adverse effect on our operations.

Revenues are net of industry-standard slotting fees and cash discounts of $563,070 and $487,221 in 2006 and 2005, respectively. Slotting fees, which totaled $463,256 and $442,625 in 2006 and 2005, are common in the large store channel and represent cash payments made for rights to place our products on customer retail shelves for a stipulated period of time. A component of our growth plan includes increasing penetration in the large store channel. Therefore, we expect slotting fees to increase in the future.

We plan to increase our revenues during 2007 by reorganizing and augmenting our internal sales force, securing additional national distributors, expanding our product offering, increasing our volume per outlet and driving further penetration of our products into CCE's current customer base.

Geographically, our revenues are dispersed 99% and 1% between the United States of America and internationally, respectively. We plan to develop opportunities to augment our international sales, in particular within Canada and Mexico, during 2007.

Product and Shipping Costs

Product costs as a percentage of revenue increased 11.5% in 2006 primarily for three reasons. First, our average selling price per unit decreased compared with our average selling price in 2005 due to pricing concessions agreed to with CCE under our MDA. These pricing concessions were agreed to in anticipation of increased revenues generated through our relationship with CCE. As provided for in our agreement with CCE, we are increasing selling prices in early 2007.

Second, we sold certain products with remaining shelf life of less than what is allowed under the CCE agreement to other customers at a loss aggregating $440,000. These selling losses are attributed to contract implementation issues with CCE and are expected to be less material during 2007.

Finally, we recorded inventory obsolescence expense of $347,000 in 2006 compared to $0 in 2005. The 2006 expense represents reserves established primarily for the remaining 14 ounce "Commodore" bottles, which have been replaced with the vendible "Snowman" bottles.

Our shipping cost decreased 2.2% as a percentage of revenues. With the increase in sales volume from our relationship with CCE, we were able to decrease our overall shipping costs. This was done by shipping full truck loads of our product in 2006 instead of partial truck loads in 2005.

Marketing Expense and Advertising:

During 2006, we significantly increased our marketing budget by sponsorship of National Hot Rod Association ("NHRA") pro stock race cars. We incurred approximately $3 million in expenses surrounding our NHRA advertising during 2006, which included retail promotions, personal appearances and sales events. The remainder of the increase in marketing and advertising expenditures is attributed to the creation of Bravo!'s first two television commercials, point of sale spending, and radio commercials. This included approximately $2,000,000 in fourth quarter radio and television advertising aimed at boosting brand awareness in our strongest geographic markets. Investment in marketing and advertising is important as we continue to build brand recognition and generate consumer trial and loyalty, and we expect to continue this investment in 2007.

Selling Expense:

Our selling expenses in 2006 increased by approximately $6.0 million due primarily to the hiring of additional sales personnel, a national CCE sales campaign and the non-cash amortization of an intangible asset. During 2006, our sales force headcount increased from 3 to 17 personnel, resulting in $1.3 million incremental payroll expenses. We also spent approximately $1.5 million on a nationwide campaign aimed at educating, motivating, and building brand awareness of the Slammers products within the CCE sales force. Included in selling expense is the non-cash amortization of an intangible asset associated with the CCE agreement, with expense of $1.6 million and $532,000 for 2006 and 2005, respectively. Royalty and travel expenses also contributed to the overall increase in 2006 selling expenditures.

During 2007, we plan to expand our sales force, which will be situated throughout the United States and Canada, from 17 to 112 personnel. The majority of these sales people will be tasked with working very closely with CCE sales personnel. Others will be focused exclusively on targeting customers outside of the CCE distribution network. Our sales force reorganization plan is a major component of our 2007 strategy. We believe that this investment will increase our sales by improving our penetration rates and increasing volume sold to existing customers. Due to the sales force expansion plan, we expect that total selling expenses will increase in 2007.

General and Administrative Expense:

There were two major new expenditures incurred in 2006 that drove our increase in general and administrative expenses. First, we incurred $2.8 million in unused capacity penalties as a result of our manufacturing agreement with Jasper Products. These expenditures were a necessary byproduct of our strategic plan for securing additional capacity in the limited FDA approved shelf-stable plant arena. At the time that increased capacity was secured, however, the need for extra capacity that we anticipated would exist from a ramp-up in sales, had not materialized. We expect these penalties to decrease in 2007, as our sales volume increases. Second, we recorded intangible assets in late 2005 and in 2006 associated with our manufacturing agreements. The amortization expense for these intangible assets amounted to $611,000 in 2006 compared to $0 in 2005.

As a percentage of total revenue, our general and administrative expense increased from 61% in 2005 to 73% in 2006. Total general and administrative expenses are expected to increase as we continue to build the company infrastructure. However, we expect that the expense as a percentage of revenue will be reduced due to revenue growth, cost cutting efforts and the refinement of business operations.

Product Development Expense:

Product development expense in both 2006 and 2005 relates to costs associated with package development. There was a slight decrease in expense in 2006 compared to 2005 due to a more efficient utilization of our resources. Our focus continues to be the development of innovative new products while expanding our current product base.

Non-Recurring Finders' Fee:

We recorded a $3,000,000 one time, non-recurring finder's fee in connection with our execution of the MDA with CCE in 2005. We did not incur similar costs during 2006 and do not expect to incur similar costs in the foreseeable future since our business opportunity with CCE is expected to be further developed over that period.

Derivative Income/Expense

Derivative (income) expense arises from changes in the fair value of our derivative financial instruments and, in rare instances, day-one losses when the fair value of embedded and freestanding derivative financial instruments issued or included in financing transactions exceed the proceeds or other basis. Derivative financial instruments include freestanding warrants and compound embedded derivative features that have been bifurcated from debt and preferred stock financings. In addition, derivative financial instruments arose from the reclassification of other non-financing derivative and other contracts from stockholders' equity because share settlement was presumed not to be within our control while certain variable share price indexed financing instruments were outstanding. We continue to review our derivative liabilities and the terms and conditions that give rise to their liability classification. During the fourth quarter of 2006, we reclassified approximately $19.5 million of our derivative liabilities to stockholders' equity upon the amendment of terms or the conversion of instruments that had a 'tainting' impact. Accordingly, our derivative income and expense in future periods will not be affected by fair value changes arising from these reclassified financial instruments.

Changes in the fair value of compound derivatives indexed to our common stock are significantly affected by changes in our trading stock price and the credit risk associated with our financial instruments. The fair value of warrant derivatives is significantly affected by changes in our trading stock prices. The fair value of derivative financial instruments that are settled solely with cash fluctuate with changes in management's weighted probability estimates following the financing inception and are generally attributable to the increasing probability of default events on debt and preferred stock financings. The fair value of the derivative instruments declined principally due to the decline in our common stock trading price. Since these instruments are measured at fair value, future changes in assumptions, arising from both internal factors and general market conditions, may cause further variation in the fair value of these instruments. Future changes in these underlying internal and external market conditions will have a continuing effect on derivative expense associated with our derivative financial instruments.

Our derivative income amounted to $4,159,981 for the year ended December 31, 2006, compared to derivative expense of $60,823,574 in the prior year. The magnitude of the derivative loss during the year ended December 31, 2005 when compared with the income for the year ended December 31, 2006 reflects the following:

During the year ended December 31, 2005, and specifically commencing in the second quarter, the trading price of our common stock reached significantly high levels relative to its trend. The trading price of our common stock significantly affects the fair value of our derivative financial instruments. To illustrate, our trading stock price at the end of the first quarter of 2005 was $0.15 and then increased to $0.93 by the end of the second quarter. Our trading stock price then declined to $0.61 and $0.59 at the end of the third and fourth quarters, respectively. However, the higher stock price had the effect of significantly increasing the fair value of our derivative liabilities and, accordingly, we were required to adjust the derivatives to these higher values with charges to our income. Furthermore, during the year ended December 31, 2005, we entered into a $2,300,000 debt and warrant financing arrangement, more fully discussed in Note 7(b) in the accompanying financial statements. In connection with our accounting for this financing, we encountered the unusual circumstance of a day-one loss related to the recognition of derivative instruments arising from the arrangement. That means that the fair value of the bifurcated compound derivative and warrants exceeded the proceeds that we received from the arrangement, and we were required to record a loss to record the derivative financial instruments at fair value. The loss that we recorded amounted to $8,663,869. We did not enter into any other financing arrangements during the periods reported that reflected such day-one losses.

The most significant factor driving the $4,159,981 derivative income recognized during the year ended December 31, 2006 was the decline in our stock price during the year. To illustrate, the closing price of our common stock at the close of 2006 was $0.31, compared to $0.59 at the close of 2005, representing a 47% decline in the stock price. Partially offsetting the derivative income was a $3.6 million derivative expense associated with a December 2006 amendment to the July 2006 $30 million convertible debt agreement. In the amendment, the investors agreed to waive their rights to exercise their default put in exchange for an increase in the face value of the financing agreement. This transaction is more fully discussed in Note 7(j) in the accompanying financial statements.

Interest Expense

The increase in interest expense in 2006 compared to 2005 was due to an increase in our debt balance. During 2006, we issued approximately $31.7 million in new debt financings. We also allocated proceeds from these financings to warrants and other features that required bifurcation from hybrid, convertible debt instruments. As a result, our debt is recorded at a discount, and we are required to amortize this discount through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method. During 2006 and 2005, amortization of debt discounts amounted to approximately $1.9 million and $1.4 million respectively. Applying the effective method results in an increasing interest (or amortization) over the term of the debt. In addition, we issued $30.0 million of our total 2006 indebtedness during July 2006. Accordingly, our interest expense will increase in future periods due to (i) increased discount amortization and (ii) the increased interest from our average debt balances being outstanding for longer periods.

Liquidated Damages

During 2006, we recorded liquidated damages expense of $6,472,000 compared to $303,750 in 2005. We have entered into registration rights agreements with certain investors that require us to file a registration statement covering underlying indexed shares, become effective on the registration statement, maintain effectiveness and, in some instances, maintain the listing of the underlying shares. Certain of these registration rights agreements require our payment of cash penalties to the investors in the event we do not achieve the requirements. We record our best estimate of liquidated damages penalties as liabilities and charges to our income when the cash penalties are probable and estimable. Effective February 2007, such penalties have ceased to accrue, but contractual terms and conditions that could result in additional future penalties for non-filings, loss of effectiveness or suspension of trading remain. We will evaluate our estimate of liquidated damages in future periods and adjust our estimates for changes, if any, in the facts and circumstances underlying their calculation.

Legal Settlement

During 2006, we recorded a legal settlement with Marvel for $552,600 that provided solely for the extension of the terms of previously issued warrants. When we extend expired or otherwise expiring warrants, we are required to remeasure them at their fair value on the modification date. Our charge represents the fair value of the options using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique.

Gain (loss) on extinguishment of debt

Debt extinguishment gains and losses arise from modifications that we make from time to time to our debt arrangements. Certain modifications required our re-measurement of the carrying value of the debt to fair value when the modification is deemed to be significant, which is determined based upon changes in cash flows or changes in the fair value of embedded conversion options. We may further modify other debt arrangements as explained under the discussion related to our derivative financial instruments. Each modification will require a determination whether an extinguishment occurred and, if so, an extinguishment gain or loss may require recognition.

Consolidated Net Loss

We reported a net loss in 2006 of $36,697,013 compared with a net loss of $79,528,653 in 2005. There were several factors that gave rise to our losses in 2006 and 2005. First, we are currently expending funds for marketing programs, developing our administrative and operating infrastructure and developing new and existing sales channels. As a result, our current revenue volume has not been sufficient to recover all of our operating expenses. We anticipate that our operating expenses as a percentage of our sales will decrease in future periods as our revenues increase and our costs stabilize. In addition, we incurred a one-time $3,000,000 fee during 2005 related to the signing of the MDA with CCE. Finally, the overall magnitude of the 2005 net loss can be attributable largely to the fair value adjustments related to our derivative financial instruments of $60,823,574. See the discussion above about our derivative income (expense) for additional information.

Consolidated Loss Applicable to Common Shareholders

We reported a loss applicable to common shareholders in 2006 of $37,977,475 compared with $80,850,670 in 2005. Loss applicable to common shareholders represents net loss as adjusted for preferred stock dividends and accretion of our redeemable preferred stock and our equity classified preferred stock to redemption values using the effective method. Many of our preferred stock series have cumulative dividend features, and we will continue to reflect preferred stock dividends in our loss applicable to common shareholders until the preferred stock is converted, if ever. In addition, many of our redeemable preferred stock series were initially discounted due to the allocation of financing proceeds to detachable warrants and embedded derivative financial instruments. We use the effective method to amortize these discounts. The use of the effective method involves the accretion of our discounted redeemable preferred stock to redemption values. Accretion is the change of present value of a financing instrument to its appropriate future value over the anticipated life of the instrument. This method causes accretion to increase over the redemption period of these instruments as the carrying values increase. Accordingly, accretions will increase in future periods until the preferred stock is fully accreted to redemption values or converted.

Consolidated Loss per Common Share Applicable to Common Stockholders

The Company's basic loss per common share applicable to common stockholders in 2006 was $(0.20) compared with a basic loss per common share applicable to common stockholders in 2005 of $(0.60). Because the Company experienced net losses in 2006 and 2005, all potential common share conversions existing in our financial instruments would have an antidilutive impact on earnings per share; therefore, diluted loss per common share equals basic loss per common share for both years.

The weighted average common shares outstanding increased from 135,032,836 for the year ended 2005 to 192,450,151 for the year ended 2006. The increase is attributed primarily to conversions of our convertible debt and preferred instruments into common shares. Potential common stock conversions excluded from the computation of diluted earnings per share amounted to 195,933,793 and 108,059,082 for 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Consolidated Comprehensive Loss

Comprehensive loss differs from net loss for 2006 and 2005 by $49,264 and ($30,759), respectively, which represents the effects of foreign currency translation on the financial statements of our subsidiaries denominated in foreign currencies. Our foreign operations are currently not significant. Increases in our foreign operations will likely increase the effects of foreign currency translation adjustments on our financial statements.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

We have yet to achieve profitability, and our ability to continue as a going concern will be dependent upon receiving additional third party financings to fund our business at least through the first eight months of 2007. Ultimately, our ability to continue is dependent upon the achievement of profitable operations. There is no assurance that further funding will be available at acceptable terms, if at all, or that we will be able to achieve profitability. These conditions raise substantial doubt about our ability to continue as a going concern. The accompanying financial statements do not reflect any adjustments that may result from the outcome of this uncertainty.

Working Capital Needs and Major Cash Expenditures

In 2006, we experienced delays in filing our financial statements and registration statements due to errors in our historical accounting which we have corrected. As a result of our inability to make these filings timely, we incurred approximately $6.5 million in penalties, the majority of which we paid in cash to our investors during 2006 and January 2007. We also incurred approximately $1.4 million in outside accounting and legal fees during 2006 to remediate the underlying issues leading to the late filings. We are addressing the internal control weaknesses that resulted in the incurrence of these penalties, and we do not expect such material penalty expenditures in the future.

We currently have monthly working capital needs of approximately $1,500,000. This amount is however expected to increase in 2007, primarily due to the following factors:

- Principal payments related to our July 2006 convertible note (described below) commence in May 2007, at which time approximately $1.8 million in principal will become due every other month. In addition, approximately $750,000 in interest is payable to these investors each quarter.
- Our payroll, which currently approximates $400,000 monthly, is expected to double by late 2007, due largely to a planned major sales force expansion.

Material Covenants of Debt Obligations

On February 14, 2007, the Securities and Exchange Commission declared effective a Form SB-2 registration statement covering 60.55% of the securities in a July 2006 transaction, as amended, pursuant to which we issued and sold $30 million senior convertible notes that are due in 2010 and warrants that expire in July 2011. The senior notes are convertible into 105,468,750 shares of our common stock and the warrants can be exercised to purchase an additional 27,605,040 shares of our common stock. Of the securities underlying the notes and warrants, the February 14, 2007 registration statement was limited to and registered 60.55% of the securities in the July 2006 transaction, as amended, consisting of 74.2% of the common stock issuable upon a conversion of the notes and 8.6% of the common stock issuable upon the exercise of the warrants. We anticipate filing an additional registration statement to cover the underlying shares of our common stock not covered by the February 14, 2007 effective statement, as soon as we have the legal ability to do so.

External Sources of Liquidity:

On November 28, 2005, we closed a funding transaction with 13 accredited institutional investors, for the issuance and sale of 40,500,000 shares of our common stock for a purchase price of $20,250,000. In addition, we issued five-year warrants for the purchase of an additional 15,187,500 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $0.80 per share. Our issuance of these securities was pursuant to an exemption to the registration requirements of Section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933 for “transactions of the issuer not involving any public offering” provided in Section 4(2) of the Act and pursuant to a Regulation D offering. In connection with this financing, we issued common stock purchase warrants to purchase 1,012,500 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $.50 per share and 304,688 shares of common stock at an exercise price of $.80 per share to SG Cowen & Co., LLC, who acted as placement agent for this financing. On November 7, 2006, the Securities and Exchange Commission declared effective a Form SB-2 registration statement covering the November 28, 2005 transaction securities.

In July 2006, the Company sold $30 million four year senior convertible notes (the “July 2006 Notes”) in a private sale to five accredited institutional investors. The July 2006 Notes carried a 9% annual coupon, payable quarterly, and were convertible into shares of common stock at $0.70 per share. We also issued five year Series A warrants to purchase 13,178,571 shares of common stock and Series B warrants to purchase 43,392,856 shares of common stock (exercisable only if the Company redeems the July 2006 Notes, on a pro rata basis) at $0.73 per share. Absent the Company’s exercise of its call option to redeem the July 2006 Notes, the holders have no rights to exercise the Series B Warrants and receive common shares to which the contingent warrants are indexed.

On August 31, 2006, the Company entered into Amendment Agreements with respect to the July 2006 Notes, as a result of the Company’s delay in filing its second quarter Form 10QSB. The Company issued new Amended and Restated Notes (the “Restated July 2006 Notes”), at a reduced conversion price of $0.51 per share and granted the investors a “put” to compel the Company’s redemption of the Restated July 2006 Notes through December 15, 2006.

On December 29, 2006, the Company entered into Amendment and Exchange Agreements with the July 2006 investors. The investors agreed to waive their option to compel redemption, and the Company agreed to capitalize the $3,750,000 redemption premium with respect to the investors’ right to compel redemption of the Restated July 2006 Notes. In connection with these amendments, the Company issued new Restated July 2006 Notes having a conversion price of $0.32 and Series A and B Warrants having exercise prices of $0.34 and $0.32, respectively. On December 29, 2006, the closing market trading price of the Company’s common stock was $0.31 per share. On February 14, 2007, the Securities and Exchange Commission declared effective a Form SB-2 registration statement covering 60.55% of the securities in the July 2006 transaction, as amended.

On February 12, 2007, we obtained financing in the amount of $2,000,000 and issued promissory notes aggregating that principal amount to three accredited investors. The notes provide for rights of participation in a subsequent financing by us. We also issued five year warrants for 2,000,000 shares of our common stock at an exercise price of $0.34 per share in connection with this financing. The warrants and underlying common stock were issued pursuant to Regulation D.

On March 15, 2007, we issued promissory notes to three accredited investors aggregating $625,000, and obtained financing from them in that principal amount. The notes provide for interest at 12% per annum, a maturity date of July 12, 2007, rights of participation in a subsequent financing by us and the ability of the investors to convert the notes to common stock at $0.34 per share upon an event of default. We also issued five year warrants for the purchase of 625,000 shares of our common stock at an exercise price of $0.34 per share in connection with this financing. The warrants and underlying common stock were issued pursuant to an exemption to Section 5 of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, set forth in Section 4(2) of the Act and Regulation D, promulgated thereunder.

Information about our cash flows

Cash provided by (used in):	2006	2005	$ Change	% Change
Operating activities	$ (27,226,081)	$ (9,301,078)	$ (17,925,003)	192.7%
Investing activities	(1,327,339)	(4,043,665)	2,716,326	(67.2)%
Financing activities	27,339,732	18,209,600	9,130,132	50.1%

The net increase in cash used in operating activities is due to a number of factors. Our net loss decreased from $79,528,653 in 2005 to $36,697,013 in 2006. However, our net loss in 2005 included a non-cash derivative expense of $60,823,574, while our 2006 net loss included a non-cash derivative gain of $4,159,981. Changes in accounts receivable contributed to a decrease in cash used by operating activities of $2,393,108, as compared to contributing to an increase of $3,356,477 for 2005 for a difference of $5,749,585. Cash used by operating activities increased as a result of changes in inventory during 2006 by $2,113,721, compared to $379,489 for the same period in 2005. This was the result of our building inventory during 2006 in connection with the continued implementation of our MDA with CCE. The changes in accounts payable and accrued liabilities for the year ended December 31, 2006 contributed to a reduction in cash used by operating activities of $5,265,914, whereas such changes in 2005 contributed to a decrease in cash used by operating activities of $7,294,548. Cash flows generated by our operating activities were inadequate to cover our cash disbursement needs for the year ended December 31, 2006, and we had to rely on private placement financing and new convertible debt financing to cover operating expenses.

Cash used in the year ended December 31, 2006 in our investing activities was $1,327,339 for license and trademark costs and equipment purchases, compared to $4,043,665 for the same period in 2005.

Net cash provided by our financing activities for the year ended December 31, 2006 was $27,339,732. Net cash provided by financing activities for the same period in 2005 was $18,209,600, for a net increase of $9,130,132. The increase is attributed to proceeds received from convertible notes payable of $31,669,323 in 2006.

EFFECTS OF INFLATION

We believe that inflation has not had any material effect on our net sales and results of operations.

REPORT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

To the Board of Directors and Shareholders
Bravo! Brands Inc.
North Palm Beach, Florida

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of Bravo! Brands Inc. (formerly Bravo! Foods International Corp.) as of December 31, 2006 and 2005 and the related consolidated statements of operations and comprehensive loss, stockholders' deficit and cash flows for the years then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). Those standards require that we plan and perform the audits to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. The Company is not required to have, nor were we engaged to perform, an audit of its internal control over financial reporting. Our audits included consideration of internal control over financial reporting as a basis for designing audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Company's internal control over financial reporting. Accordingly, we express no such opinion. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements, assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Bravo! Brands Inc. as of December 31, 2006 and 2005 and the results of its operations and its cash flows for the years then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared assuming that the Company will continue as a going concern. As shown in the financial statements, the Company incurred a net loss of $36,697,013 for the year ended December 31, 2006 and as of that date had a working capital deficit of $54,378,517 and an accumulated deficit of $157,031,836. The Company is also delinquent in payment of certain debts. These conditions raise substantial doubt about their ability to continue as a going concern. Management's actions in regard to these matters are more fully described in Note 1. The financial statements do not include any adjustments relating to the recoverability and classification of recorded assets, or the amounts and classification of liabilities that might be necessary in the event the Company cannot continue in existence.

BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

Note 1 -Nature of Business, Liquidity and Management's Plans and Significant Accounting Policies

Nature of Business:

Bravo! Brands Inc., a Delaware corporation, and subsidiary ("the Company") is engaged in the sale of flavored milk products, primarily in the United States. In the future, the Company plans to expand its distribution throughout various international markets.

Liquidity and Management's Plans:

As reflected in the accompanying consolidated financial statements, the Company has continued to incur operating losses and negative cash flows from operations and has a significant working capital deficiency at December 31, 2006. The Company has been dependent upon third party financing as it executes its business model and plans. In addition, during 2006 the Company incurred significant penalties to its investors as a result of its inability to complete its SEC filings on a timely basis. Finally, the Company's revenues are concentrated with one major customer. The loss of this customer or curtailment in business with this customer could have a material adverse affect on the Company's business. These conditions raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern.

The Company plans to increase its sales, primarily by significantly increasing its sales force, partnering with a second national distributor/customer and by broadening its product offerings. The Company's margins are expected to improve due to increased sales, unit price escalations and a major focus on cost containment measures. However, the Company expects to be dependent on third party financing at least through the first eight months of 2007. Ultimately, the Company's ability to continue as a going concern is dependent upon the achievement of profitable operations. There is no assurance that further funding will be available at acceptable terms, if at all, or that the Company will be able to achieve profitability.

The accompanying financial statements do not reflect any adjustments that may result from the outcome of this uncertainty.

Significant Accounting Policies:

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. The most significant estimates included in the Company's financial statements are the following:

- Estimating the fair value of the Company's financial instruments that are required to be carried at fair value.
- Estimating the recoverability of the Company's long-lived assets.
- Estimating future bad debts on accounts receivable that is carried at net realizable values.
- Estimating the Company's reserve for unsalable and obsolete inventories that are carried at lower of cost or market.

The Company uses all available information and appropriate techniques to develop its estimates. However, actual results could differ from the Company's estimates.

BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

Business Segment and Geographic Information

The Company operates in one dominant industry segment that it has defined as the single serve flavored milk industry. While the Company's international business is expected to grow in the future, it currently contributes less than 2% of the Company's revenues, and the Company has no physical assets outside of the United States. The Company currently has one customer in the United States that provided 78% and 34% of its revenue during the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Revenue Recognition

Revenues are recognized pursuant to formal revenue arrangements with the Company's customers, at contracted prices, when the Company's product is delivered to their premises and collectibility is reasonably assured. The Company extends merchantability warranties to its customers on its products but otherwise does not afford its customers with rights of return. Warranty costs have historically been insignificant.

The Company's revenue arrangements often provide for industry-standard slotting fees where the Company makes cash payments to the respective customer to obtain rights to place the Company's products on their retail shelves for a stipulated period of time. The Company also engages in other promotional discount programs in order to enhance its sales activities. The Company believes its participation in these arrangements is essential to ensuring continued volume and revenue growth in the competitive marketplace. These payments, discounts and allowances are recorded as reductions to the Company's reported revenue. Unamortized slotting fees are recorded in prepaid expenses.

Principles of Consolidation

The Company's consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Bravo! Brands Inc. and its wholly-owned subsidiary Bravo! Brands (UK) Ltd. All material intercompany balances and transactions have been eliminated. Cumulative translation adjustments that the Company makes to reflect the accounts of Bravo! Brands (UK) Ltd. in United States Dollars are recorded as a component of other comprehensive income (loss) and stockholders' deficit. Foreign currency transaction gains and losses are reported as a component of other income (expense).

Shipping and Handling Costs

Shipping and handling costs incurred to deliver products to the Company's customers are included as a component of cost of sales. These costs amounted to $1,530,297 and $1,505,035 for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Marketing and Advertising Costs

Marketing and advertising costs, which are expensed as incurred, aggregated $7,467,605 and $1,564,665 for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid investments purchased with a remaining maturity of three months or less to be cash equivalents. The Company maintains, at times, deposits in federally insured financial institutions in excess of federally insured limits. Management attempts to monitor the soundness of the financial institution and believes the Company's risk is negligible.

Accounts Receivable

The Company's accounts receivable are exposed to credit risk. During the normal course of business, the Company extends unsecured credit to its customers with normal and traditional trade terms. Typically credit terms require payments to be made by the thirtieth day following the sale. The Company regularly evaluates and monitors the creditworthiness of each customer. The Company provides an allowance for doubtful accounts based on its continuing evaluation of its customers' credit risk and its overall collection history. As of December 31, 2006 and 2005, the allowance of doubtful accounts aggregated $140,000 and $350,000, respectively.

In addition, the Company's accounts receivable are concentrated with one customer that represents 70% of the Company's gross accounts receivable balances at December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. Approximately 3% of the Company's gross accounts receivable at December 31, 2006 are due from international customers.

Inventories

Inventories, which consist primarily of finished goods, are stated at the lower of cost on the first in, first-out method or market. Further, the Company's inventories are perishable. Accordingly, the Company estimates and records lower-of-cost or market and unsalable-inventory reserves based upon a combination of the Company's historical experience and on a specific identification basis. As of December 31, 2006 and 2005, the reserve for inventory obsolescence was $347,000 and $0, respectively.

Fixed Assets

Fixed assets are stated at cost. Depreciation is computed using the straight-line method over a period of seven years for furniture, five years for equipment, vehicles, and IT hardware, and three years for purchased software. Maintenance, repairs and minor renewals are charged directly to expenses as incurred. Additions and betterments to property and equipment are capitalized. When assets are disposed of, the related cost and accumulated depreciation thereon are removed from the accounts, and any resulting gain or loss is included in the statement of operations.

Intangible Assets

The Company's intangible assets, which are recorded at cost, consist primarily of the unamortized cost basis of warrants issued in connection with the Company's distribution agreement with Coca-Cola Enterprises ("CCE"). Also included are warrants issued to H.P. Hood ("Hood"), a producer, and Organic Valley, a licensor, as well as a cash payment made to Jasper Products, LLC to secure additional capacity. These assets are being amortized on a straight line basis over estimated useful lives, which range from three to ten years.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets

The Company evaluates the carrying value and recoverability of its long-lived assets when circumstances warrant such evaluation by applying the provisions of Financial Accounting Standard No. 144, Accounting for the Impairment or Disposal of Long-Lived Assets ("FAS 144"). FAS 144 requires that long-lived assets be reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable through the estimated undiscounted cash flows expected to result from the use and eventual disposition of the assets. Whenever any such impairment exists, an impairment loss will be recognized for the amount by which the carrying value exceeds the fair value.

Financial Instruments

Financial instruments, as defined in Financial Accounting Standard No. 107 Disclosures about Fair Value of Financial Instruments (FAS 107), consist of cash, evidence of ownership in an entity and contracts that both (i) impose on one entity a contractual obligation to deliver cash or another financial instrument to a second entity, or to exchange other financial instruments on potentially unfavorable terms with the second entity, and (ii) conveys to that second entity a contractual right (a) to receive cash or another financial instrument from the first entity, or (b) to exchange other financial instruments on potentially favorable terms with the first entity. Accordingly, the Company's financial instruments consist of cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable, accrued liabilities, notes payable, derivative financial instruments, convertible debt and redeemable preferred stock that the Company has concluded is more akin to debt than equity.

The Company carries cash and cash equivalents, accounts receivable, accounts payable and accrued liabilities at historical costs; their respective estimated fair values approximate carrying values due to their current nature. The Company also carries notes payable, convertible debt and redeemable preferred stock at historical cost; however, fair values of debt instruments and redeemable preferred stock are estimated for disclosure purposes (below) based upon the present value of the estimated cash flows at market interest rates applicable to similar instruments.

As of December 31, 2006, estimated fair values and respective carrying values of the Company's notes payable, convertible debt and redeemable preferred stock are as follows:

Derivative financial instruments, as defined in Financial Accounting Standard No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Financial Instruments and Hedging Activities (FAS 133), consist of financial instruments or other contracts that contain a notional amount and one or more underlying (e.g. interest rate, security price or other variable), require no initial net investment and permit net settlement. Derivative financial instruments may be free-standing or embedded in other financial instruments. Further, derivative financial instruments are initially, and subsequently, measured at fair value and recorded as liabilities or, in rare instances, assets.

The Company generally does not use derivative financial instruments to hedge exposures to cash-flow, market or foreign-currency risks. However, the Company has entered into certain other financial instruments and contracts, such as debt financing arrangements, redeemable preferred stock arrangements and freestanding warrants with features that are either (i) not afforded equity classification, (ii) embody risks not clearly and closely related to host contracts, or (iii) may be net-cash settled by the counterparty. As required by FAS 133, these instruments are required to be carried as derivative liabilities, at fair value, in the Company's financial statements.

The following table summarizes the effects on the Company's income (loss) associated with changes in the fair values of its derivative financial instruments by type of financing for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005:

Derivative income (expense):	2006	2005
Convertible note and warrant financings	$ (9,581,790)	$ (42,172,053)

Total Common Shares Indexed		136,543,750	29,005,040	165,548,790

(a) As more fully described in Note 6(a) this instrument was afforded the conventional convertible exemption, which means the Company did not have to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature. However, the Company was required to bifurcate certain other embedded derivatives as discussed in the note. Although the conversion feature did not require derivative accounting, the Company is required to also consider the 1,312,500 common shares into which this instrument is convertible into determining whether the Company has sufficient authorized and unissued common shares for all of the Company's share-settled obligations.

During October 2006, the Financial Accounting Standards Board exposed for public comment FASB Staff Position 00-19(b), Accounting for Registration Payment Arrangements, which, if promulgated in its current form would amend Financial Accounting Standard No. 133 Accounting for Derivative Financial Instruments and Hedging Activities. Generally, the proposed amendment will provide for the exclusion of registration payments, such as the liquidated damages that the Company has incurred, from the consideration of classification of financial instruments. Rather, such registration payments would be accounted for pursuant to Financial Accounting Standard No. 5 Accounting for Contingencies, which is the Company's current accounting practice. That is, all registration payments will require recognition when they are both probable and reasonably estimable. The Company's current financial arrangements result in liability classification because of registration payments and variable-priced instruments that cause share settlement of all of the Company's derivative instruments to be beyond its control. Until the Company can amend or redeem the variable-indexed instruments, the Company will not receive the benefit of equity classification. Upon amendment or redemption, substantially all of the Company's derivative financial instruments will be reclassified to stockholders' equity at their adjusted fair value, and the Company will no longer be required to reflect fair value changes in its earnings.

Share-Based Payments

Effective January 1, 2005, the Company adopted Financial Accounting Standards No. 123(R), Share-Based Payments (FAS123R). Under the fair value method, the Company recognizes compensation expense for all share-based payments granted after January 1, 2005, as well as all share-based payments granted prior to, but not yet vested, as of January 1, 2005, in accordance with SFAS No. 123. Under the fair value recognition provisions of FAS 123(R), the Company recognizes share-based compensation expense, net of an estimated forfeiture rate, over the requisite service period of the award. Prior to the adoption of FAS 123 and FAS 123(R), the Company accounted for share-based payments under Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 25 Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees and the disclosure provisions of SFAS No. 123. For further information regarding the adoption of SFAS No. 123(R), see Note 10 to the consolidated financial statements.

Income Taxes

The Company accounts for income taxes using the liability method, which requires an entity to recognize deferred tax liabilities and assets. Deferred income taxes are recognized based on the differences between the tax basis of assets and liabilities and their reported amounts in the financial statements that will result in taxable or deductible amounts in future years. Further, the effects of enacted tax laws or rate changes are included as part of deferred tax expense or benefit in the period that covers the enactment date. A valuation allowance is recognized if it is more likely than not that some portion, or all, of a deferred tax asset will not be realized.

Loss Per Common Share

The Company's basic loss per common share is computed by dividing loss applicable to common stockholders by the weighted average number of common shares outstanding during the reporting period. Diluted loss per common share is computed similar to basic loss per common share except that diluted loss per common share includes dilutive common stock equivalents, using the treasury stock method, and assumes that the convertible debt instruments were converted into common stock upon issuance, if dilutive. For the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005 potential common shares arising from the Company's stock options, stock warrants, convertible debt and convertible preferred stock amounting to 195,933,793 and 108,059,082 shares, respectively, were not included in the computation of diluted loss per share because their effect was anti-dilutive.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements Affecting the Company:

Statement of Financial Accounting Standard 157, Fair Value Measurements ("SFAS 157")

On September 15, 2006, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued a standard that provides enhanced guidance for using fair value to measure assets and liabilities. The standard applies whenever other standards require (or permit) assets or liabilities to be measured at fair value. The standard does not expand the use of fair value in any new circumstances. This Statement is effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after November 15, 2007, and interim periods within those fiscal years. Earlier application is encouraged, provided that the reporting entity has not yet issued financial statements for that fiscal year, including financial statements for an interim period within that fiscal year. The Company will adopt this pronouncement effective January 1, 2007. The Company is currently evaluating the impact of adopting this pronouncement on its financial statements.

FASB Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes

In June 2006, the Financial Accounting Standards Board issued FASB Interpretation No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes—an interpretation of FASB Statement No. 109 (FIN 48), which provides clarification related to the process associated with accounting for uncertain tax positions recognized in consolidated financial statements. FIN 48 prescribes a more-likely-than-not threshold for financial statement recognition and measurement of a tax position taken, or expected to be taken, in a tax return. FIN 48 also provides guidance related to, among other things, classification, accounting for interest and penalties associated with tax positions, and disclosure requirements. This Interpretation is effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2006. The Company will adopt FIN 48 effective January 1, 2007.

Total notes payable	311,468	937,743
Less current maturities	243,968	937,743

(a) On May 9, 2004 the Company received the proceeds of a $750,000 loan from Mid-Am Capital, payable September 3, 2004, with an annual interest rate of 8%. This loan was secured by a general security interest in all of the Company's assets. The loan, which was delinquent at December 2005, was repaid in full during 2006.

(b) In 1999, the Company issued a promissory note to assume existing debt owed by its then Chinese joint venture subsidiary to a supplier, International Paper. The face value of that unsecured note was $282,637 at an annual interest rate of 10.5%. The note originally required 23 monthly payments of $7,250 and a balloon payment of $159,862 due on July 15, 2000. During 2000, the Company negotiated an extension of this note to July 1, 2001. International Paper imposed a charge of $57,000 to renegotiate the note, which represents interest due through the extension date. The balance due on this note is $187,743 at December 31, 2006, all of which is delinquent. (a) $400,000 Convertible Note Financing

On November 20, 2003, the Company issued $400,000 of 8.0% convertible notes payable, due November 20, 2005 plus warrants to purchase 14,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock with a strike prices ranging from $0.05 to $1.00 for a period of three years. In November 2005, the underlying note agreement was modified to extend the maturity date to November 2006. As of December 31, 2005, this note had an outstanding face value of $200,000, which was fully converted by September 30, 2006. The convertible notes were convertible into a variable number of the Company's common shares based upon a variable conversion price of the lower of $0.05 or 75% of the closing market price near the conversion date. The holder had the option to redeem the convertible notes payable for cash at 130% of the face value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument was convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). In addition, the Company extended registration rights to the holder that required registration and continuing effectiveness thereof; the Company would be required to pay monthly liquidating damages of 2.0% for defaults under this provision.

BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

In the Company's evaluation of this instrument, the Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to a variable conversion feature, and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Since equity classification is not available for the conversion feature, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability, at fair value. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that is carried as a component of derivative liabilities. The Company also determined that the warrants did not meet the conditions for equity classification because, as noted above, share settlement and maintenance of an effective registration statement are not within the Company's control. Therefore, the warrants are also required to be carried as a derivative liability, at fair value.

The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments. The Company estimated the fair value of the warrants on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including volatility, expected terms, and risk free rates) that are necessary to fair value freestanding warrants. As a result of these estimates, the Company's valuation model resulted in compound derivative balances associated with this financing arrangement of $-0- and $1,311,000 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet. Warrants related to the financing were fully converted prior to December 31, 2005.

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the derivative financial instruments associated with the $400,000 convertible note financing.

Changes in the fair value of the compound derivative and, therefore, derivative income (expense) related to the compound derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock price and the credit risk associated with the Company's financial instruments. The fair value of the warrant derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock prices.

BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

The aforementioned allocations to the compound and warrant derivatives resulted in the discount in the carrying value of the notes to zero. This discount, along with related deferred finance costs and future interest payments, are amortized through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method. Interest expense during the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005 amounted to approximately $22,000 and $88,000, respectively.

As noted in the introductory paragraph of this section, the holders extended the notes one additional year to November 2006. This modification was accounted for as an extinguishment because the present value of the amended debt was significantly different than the present value immediately preceding the modification. As a result of the extinguishment, the existing debt carrying value was adjusted to fair value using projected cash flows at market rates for similar instruments. This extinguishment resulted in the Company's recognition of a gain on extinguishment of $22,733 in the fourth fiscal quarter of the Company's year ended December 31, 2005.

(b) $2,300,000 Convertible Note Financing:

On January 28, 2005, May 23, 2005 and August 18, 2005, the Company issued $1,150,000, $500,000 and $650,000, respectively of 8.0% convertible notes payable, due January 28, 2007 plus warrants to purchase 9,200,000, 4,000,000 and 5,200,000, respectively, shares of the Company's common stock with a strike price of $0.129 for a period of five years. At December 31, 2005, this note had an outstanding face value of $15,000, which was fully converted by August 30, 2006. The reduction in face value resulted from conversions to common stock. The convertible notes were convertible into a fixed number of the Company's common shares based upon a conversion price of $0.125 with anti-dilution protection for sales of securities below the fixed conversion price. The Company had the option to redeem the convertible notes for cash at 120% of the face value. The holder had the option to redeem the convertible notes payable for cash at 120% of the face value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument was convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put").

In the Company's evaluation of this instrument, the Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to the anti-dilution protection; and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Since equity classification was not available for the conversion feature, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability, at fair value. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that is carried as a component of derivative liabilities. The Company also determined that the warrants did not meet the conditions for equity classification because these instruments did not meet all of the necessary criteria for equity classification. Therefore, the warrants were also required to be carried as a derivative liability, at fair value.

The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception dates, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments. The Company estimated the fair value of the warrants on the inception dates, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including volatility, expected terms, and risk free rates) that are necessary to fair value freestanding warrants. As a result of these estimates, the Company's valuation model resulted in compound derivative balances associated with this financing arrangement of $-0- and $4,867 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively.

FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the derivative financial instruments associated with the $2,300,000 convertible note financing:

Derivative income (expense)
Compound derivative	$ (24,220)	$ (3,779,033)
Warrant derivative	$ -	$ (17,141,306)

Changes in the fair value of the compound derivative and, therefore, derivative income (expense) related to the compound derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock price and the credit risk associated with the Company's financial instruments. The fair value of the warrant derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock prices.

The aforementioned allocations to the compound and warrant derivatives resulted in the discount in the carrying value of the notes. This discount, along with related deferred finance costs and future interest payments, are amortized through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method. Interest expense during the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005 amounted to approximately $38,500 and $462,000, respectively.

(c) $600,000 Convertible Note Financing:

On June 29, 2004, the Company issued $600,000 of 10.0% convertible notes payable, due December 31, 2005, plus warrants to purchase 2,000,000 and 5,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock with strike prices of $0.25 and $1.00, respectively, for periods of five and two years, respectively. Net proceeds from this financing arrangement amounted to $500,000. As of December 31, 2006 and 2005, the outstanding principal balance on this note was $450,000 and $600,000, respectively. The reduction in principal was due to note conversions. As of December 31, 2006, this debt is past due and the outstanding carrying value of $450,000 does not include $51,000 of unpaid interest, which is being reflected in accrued liabilities. The convertible note is convertible into a fixed number of the Company's common shares based upon a conversion price of $0.15 with anti-dilution protection for sales of securities below the fixed conversion price. The Company has the option to redeem the convertible notes for cash at 120% of the face value. The holder has the option to redeem the convertible notes payable for cash at 130% of the face value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). In addition, the Company extended registration rights to the holder that required registration and continuing effectiveness thereof; the Company is required to pay monthly liquidating damages of 2.0% for defaults under this provision.

In the Company's evaluation of this instrument, the Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to the anti-dilution protection; and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Since equity classification is not available for the conversion feature, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability, at fair value. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that is carried as a component of derivative liabilities. The Company also determined that the warrants did not meet the conditions for equity classification because these instruments did not meet all of the necessary criteria for equity classification. Therefore, the warrants are also required to be carried as a derivative liability, at fair value.

These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet.

As of December 31, 2005, all warrants related to the financing had been converted.

The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments. The fair value of the compound derivatives amounted to $0 and $564,735 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. The Company estimated the fair value of the warrants on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including volatility, expected terms, and risk free rates) that are necessary to fair value freestanding warrants. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet. As of December 31, 2005, all warrants related to the financing had been fully converted.

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the derivative financial instruments associated with the $1,008,000 convertible note financing:

Derivative income (expense)
Compound derivative	($ 16,251)	($ 185,979)
Warrant derivative	-	($ 1,661,859)

Changes in the fair value of the compound derivative and, therefore, derivative income (expense) related to the compound derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock price and the credit risk associated with its financial instruments. The fair value of the warrant derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock prices. Future changes in these underlying market conditions will have a continuing effect on derivative income (expense) associated with these instruments.

The aforementioned allocations to the compound and warrant derivatives resulted in the discount in the carrying value of the notes. On April 21, 2005, the Company issued $360,000, nine-month-term, 10% convertible notes payable, due October 31, 2005. Net proceeds for this financing transaction amounted to $277,488. The notes were convertible into shares of common stock at a fixed conversion rate of $0.20, with anti-dilution protection for sales of securities below the fixed conversion price. The holder converted the notes on September 30, 2005. The Company had the option to redeem the notes payable for cash at 120% of the face value. BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

In the Company's evaluation of this instrument, the Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to the anti-dilution protection afforded the holder, and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Therefore, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that was carried as a component of derivative liabilities through the date of conversion.

The Company allocated the initial proceeds from the financing first to the compound derivative instrument in the amount of $113,925 and the balance to the debt host instrument. The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments.

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the compound derivative arising from the $360,000 convertible notes payable.

Derivative income (expense)

Changes in the fair value of the compound derivative and, therefore, derivative income (expense) related to the compound derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock price and the credit risk associated with its financial instruments. Since the instrument was converted on September 30, 2005, there will be no future charges or credits to derivative income (expense) associated with this instrument.

The above allocations resulted in a discount to the carrying value of the notes amounting to approximately $173,925. This discount, along with related deferred finance costs and future interest payments, was amortized through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method. Interest expense during the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005 amounted to approximately $0- and $163,000, respectively.

(i) $2,500,000 Note Payable, due November 12, 2006:

On May 12, 2006, the Company issued $2,500,000 of six-month, 10% notes payable plus detachable warrants to purchase 1,500,000 shares of the Company's common stock with a strike price of $0.80 for a period of five-years. Net proceeds from this financing transaction amounted to $2,235,000. The holder has the option to redeem the notes for cash in the event of default and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). The Company evaluated the terms and conditions of the notes and warrants and determined that (i) the Default Put required bifurcation because it did not meet the "clearly and closely related" criteria of FAS 133, and (ii) the warrants did not meet all of the requisite conditions for equity classification under FAS 133. As a result, the net proceeds from the arrangement were first allocated to the Default Put ($87,146) and the warrants ($901,665) based upon their fair values, because these instruments are required to be initially and subsequently carried at fair values.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

On July 26, 2006, $1,000,000 of the outstanding note balance was transferred to the new $30 million convertible note financing, and 600,000 of the warrants were cancelled for warrants attached to this new financing (See Note 7(j)). The terms of the exchange resulted in the treatment of the transaction as a debt extinguishment, resulting in a loss of $357,054. The remaining balance of $1,500,000 was repaid on July 31, 2006.

At December 31, 2006, there was a warrant liability for the remaining 900,000 warrants of $234,000, which will continue to be recorded at fair value until the warrants are either exercised or expire.

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the derivative financial instruments associated with the $2,500,000 Note Payable.

Derivative income (expense):
Default Put	$ 220,295	-
Warrant derivative	$ (183,705)	-

The Company estimated the fair value of the put on the inception date using a cash flow technique that involves probability weighting multiple outcomes. The Company estimated the warrant value using the Black Scholes-Merton valuation technique. Significant assumptions included in the Company's valuation models are as follows:

	Inception	December 31, 2006
Trading value of common stock	$ 0.75	$ 0.31
Warrant strike price	$ 0.80	$ 0.32
Volatility	133.00%	87.88%
Risk free rate	5.08%	5.02%
Expected term	Stated term	Remaining term
Discount rate used for cash flows	13.75%	16.00%

The fair value of the warrants declined principally due to the decline in the Company's common stock trading price. Since these instruments are measured at fair value, future changes in assumptions, arising from both internal factors and general market conditions, may cause further variation in the fair value of these instruments. Changes in fair values of derivative financial instruments are reflected as charges and credits to income.

The above allocations resulted in a discount to the carrying value of the notes amounting to approximately $1,246,000. This discount, along with related deferred finance costs and future interest payments were amortized through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method until the date of the repayment and the debt exchange. Interest expense through July 31, 2006 amounted to approximately $351,000.

(j) $30,000,000 Convertible Note Financing:

On July 26, 2006, the Company issued $30,000,000 of 9.0% convertible notes payable, due January 27, 2010, plus warrants to purchase 12,857,143 shares (“Series A Warrants”) of the Company’s common stock at $0.73, for a period of five years. Net proceeds from this financing arrangement amounted to approximately $27,500,000 (net of approximately $2,500,000 in financing costs). There was a $1,000,000 note balance related to the May 2006 financing that was exchanged for an equal amount of convertible notes from this financing (See Note 7(i) for the Company’s accounting for that exchange). The Company had a carrying value on this note of $25,036,990 as of December 31, 2006. The convertible notes were convertible into a fixed number of the Company’s common shares based upon a conversion price of $0.70 with anti-dilution protection for sales of securities below the fixed conversion price. The Company had the option to redeem the convertible notes for cash at an amount equal to the note balance plus accrued interest including the amount of unpaid interest that would have been paid through the third anniversary of the note. The holder has the option to redeem the convertible notes payable for cash at 125% of the face value in the event of default and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company’s common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Default Put”). The Company had the option to redeem the notes payable at a date earlier than maturity (the “call option”). If the Company exercises the call option, the holders will have the right to exercise an additional 42,857,142 warrants and receive common shares to which the contingent warrants are indexed to (“Series B Warrants”). Absent the Company’s exercise of its call option to redeem the convertible notes, the holders have no rights to exercise the warrants and receive common shares to which the contingent warrants are indexed. The Company currently has no plans in the foreseeable future to exercise its call option. If the Company does exercise its call option, however, the number of its common shares that are issuable upon the exercise of the contingent warrants is limited to the number of its common shares underlying the convertible notes that have been redeemed. In addition, the Company extended registration rights to the holder that required registration and continuing effectiveness thereof; the Company is required to pay monthly liquidating damages of 3.0% for defaults under this provision.

In the Company’s evaluation of this instrument, the Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to the anti-dilution protection, and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Since equity classification is not available for the conversion feature, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability, at fair value. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that is carried as a component of derivative liabilities. The Company also determined that the warrants did not meet the conditions for equity classification because these instruments did not meet all of the necessary criteria for equity classification. Therefore, the warrants are also required to be carried as a derivative liability, at fair value.

The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments. The Company estimated the fair value of the warrants on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including volatility, expected terms, and risk free rates) that are necessary to fair value freestanding warrants. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company’s balance sheet.

FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

On August 31, 2006, the Company entered into Amendment Agreements in which the investors agreed to release the Company from events of default that occurred under the terms of the original July 26, 2006 financing. In exchange, Amended and Restated Notes were issued in which the conversion price on the $15,000,000 financing, which was held in escrow, was reduced from $0.70 to $0.51. In addition, the holder could require the Company to redeem any portion of the Amended and Restated Note in cash or common stock at 125% from October 10, 2006 through December 15, 2006. This debt modification was deemed to be a modification rather than a debt extinguishment since it did not rise to the requirements of EITF 96-19 to be deemed a debt extinguishment. The change in the conversion price caused an additional embedded conversion feature liability of approximately $646,000 which was also recorded as a reduction in the carrying amount of the debt.

On December 29, 2006, the Company entered into Amendment Agreements in which the investors agreed to waive their rights to exercise their "Default Put" when an event of default occurred related to the registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission. In exchange, Amended and Restated Notes were issued which increased the original face value of the financing to $33,750,000. In connection therewith, the Company recorded derivative expense of approximately $3,610,000. In addition, the conversion price on $15,000,000 of the financing was reduced from $0.70 to $0.32. The conversion price on the other $15,000,000 of the financing was reduced from $0.51 to $0.32 (this was the portion of the financing adjusted in August 2006). The conversion price for the Series A warrants were reduced from $0.73 to $0.34 and the conversion price for the Series B warrants were reduced from $0.70 to $0.32. Based on guidance from EITF 06-6, this debt modification was deemed to be a debt extinguishment. The extinguishment of debt resulted in a net loss of approximately $28,000 which was also recorded as an increase in the carrying amount of the debt.

The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the derivative financial instruments associated with the $33,750,000 convertible note financing:

Derivative income (expense)
Compound derivative	($ 8,709,026)	$ -
Warrant derivative	$ 144,757	$ -

Changes in the fair value of the compound derivative and, therefore, derivative income (expense) related to the compound derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock price and the credit risk associated with its financial instruments. The fair value of the warrant derivative is significantly affected by changes in the Company's trading stock prices. Future changes in these underlying market conditions will have a continuing effect on derivative income (expense) associated with these instruments.

The aforementioned allocations to the compound and warrant derivatives resulted in the discount in the carrying value of the notes. This discount, along with related deferred finance costs and future interest payments, were amortized through periodic charges to interest expense using the effective method. Interest expense during the year ended December 31, 2006 amounted to approximately $1,931,000.

The Series A derivative warrant fair values are calculated using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique. Significant assumptions as of December 31, 2006, corresponding to the Series A warrants are as follows:

	Series A
Trading market price	$ 0.31
Strike price	$ 0.34
Volatility	87.88%
Risk-free rate	5.02%
Remaining term/life (years)	4.50

The Company's stock prices have been highly volatile. Future fair value changes are significantly influenced by the Company's trading common stock prices. As previously discussed herein, changes in fair value of derivative financial instruments are reflected in earnings.

The fair value of the Series B contingent warrants is included as a component of the compound derivative figure.

Total derivative liabilities		$ 19,941,082	$ 35,939,235

See the notes referenced in the table for details of the origination and accounting for these derivative financial instruments. The Company estimates fair values of derivative financial instruments using various techniques (and combinations thereof) that are considered to be consistent with the objective of measuring fair values. In selecting the appropriate technique, the Company considers, among other factors, the nature of the instrument, the market risks that it embodies and the expected means of settlement. For less complex derivative instruments, such as free-standing warrants, the Company generally uses the Black-Scholes-Merton option valuation technique because it embodies all of the requisite assumptions (including trading volatility, estimated terms and risk free rates) necessary to fair value these instruments. For complex derivative instruments, such as embedded conversion options, the Company generally uses the Flexible Monte Carlo valuation technique because it embodies all of the requisite assumptions (including credit risk, interest-rate risk and exercise/conversion behaviors) that are necessary to fair value these more complex instruments. For forward contracts that contingently require net-cash settlement as the principal means of settlement, the Company projects and discounts future cash flows applying probability-weightage to multiple possible outcomes. Estimating fair values of derivative financial instruments requires the development of significant and subjective estimates that may, and are likely to, change over the duration of the instrument with related changes in internal and external market factors. In addition, option-based techniques are highly volatile and sensitive to changes in the trading market price of the Company's common stock, which has a high-historical volatility. Since derivative financial instruments are initially and subsequently carried at fair values, the Company's income will reflect the volatility in these estimate and assumption changes.

Note 9 - Preferred Stock

The Company's articles of incorporation authorize the issuance of 5,000,000 shares of preferred stock. The Company has designated this authorized preferred stock, as follows:

(a) Series H Preferred Stock:

The Company has designated 350,000 shares of its preferred stock as Series H Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock with a stated and liquidation value of $10.00 per share. Series H Preferred Stock has cumulative dividend rights at 7.0% of the stated amount, ranks senior to common stock and is non-voting. As of December 31, 2006 and 2005, the preferred stock balance was $535,000 and $388,305, respectively. The Series H preferred stock is convertible into the Company's common stock at a fixed conversion price of $0.40 per common share. The Series H Preferred Stock is mandatorily redeemable for common stock on the fifth anniversary of its issuance. The Company has the option to redeem the Series H Preferred Stock for cash at 135% of the stated value. The holder has the option to redeem the Series H Preferred Stock for cash at 140% of the stated value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, listing of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). However, the terms of an amended agreement that were ratified by investors on December 29, 2006, eliminated the holder's option to redeem the Series H Preferred Stock in the event of default and other contingent events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible (the "Default Put").

Initially, based upon the Company's evaluation of the terms and conditions of the Series H Preferred Stock, the Company concluded that it was more akin to a debt instrument than an equity instrument, which meant that the Company's accounting conclusions were based upon those related to a traditional debt security, and that it should be afforded the conventional convertible exemption regarding the embedded conversion feature because the conversion price was fixed. Therefore, the Company was not required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a liability. However, the Company concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt-type instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt-type instruments. In addition, due to the default and contingent redemption features of the Series H Preferred Stock, the Company classified this instrument as redeemable preferred stock, outside of stockholders' equity.

Based upon the Company's evaluation of the terms and conditions of the Series H Preferred Stock subsequent to the Amended Agreements between the Company and investors, the Company concluded that it was more akin to equity rather than debt and thus has been reclassified to stockholders' equity.

Between December 2001 and March 2002, the Company issued 175,500 shares of Series H Preferred Stock for cash of $1,755,000, plus warrants to purchase an aggregate of 4,387,500 shares of common stock at $0.50 for five years. As of December 31, 2006 and 31, 2005, shares of preferred stock outstanding were 53,500 and 64,500, respectively, and warrants outstanding were 500,000 and 4,387,500, respectively. The Company initially allocated $1,596,228 of the proceeds from the Series H Preferred financings to the warrants at their fair values because the warrants did not meet all of the conditions necessary for equity classification. However, due to amended agreements, the warrants currently meet all of the conditions necessary for equity classification and, accordingly, are carried as stockholders' equity, at fair value.

BRAVO! BRANDS INC. AND SUBSIDIARY
NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEARS ENDED DECEMBER 31, 2006 AND 2005

The Company estimated the fair value of the derivative warrants on the inception date, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique. As a result of applying this technique, the Company's valuation of the derivative warrants amounted to $325 and $1,264,109 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. The Company estimated the fair value of the Default Puts on the inception date, and subsequently, using a cash flow technique that involves probability-weighting multiple outcomes at net present values. Since the Default Put was eliminated as a result of amended terms agreed to with the investors on December 29, 2006, the value has been reduced to $0. Significant assumptions underlying the probability-weighted outcomes included both the Company's history of similar default events, all available information about the Company's business plans that could give rise to or risk defaults and the imminence of impending or current defaults. As a result of these subjective estimates, the Company's valuation model resulted in Default Put balances associated with the Series H Preferred Stock of $-0- and $381,377 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet. The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the Default Puts on the Series H Preferred Stock.

Derivative income (expense)
Default Put	$ 381,377	($ 224,451)
Derivative Warrants	$ 1,263,784	($ 887,896)

Derivative income (expense) related to the Default Put includes changes to the fair value arising from changes in the Company's estimates about the probability of default events and amortization of the time-value element embedded in the Company's calculations. Higher derivative expense in the year ended December 31, 2006, when compared to the same periods of 2005, reflected the increased probability that the Default Put would become exercisable because the Company would not timely file certain reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission. While the Default Put became exercisable at that time, the holders of the Series H Preferred Stock did not exercise their right prior to curing the event. However, due to the ratification of a new agreement by investors on December 29, 2006, the Default Put was eliminated from the terms of the original agreement. Therefore, the holders of the Series H Preferred Stock no longer have exercisable rights concerning the default events that were specified in the original agreement.

The discounts to the Series H Preferred Stock that resulted from the aforementioned allocations are being accreted through periodic charges to retained earnings using the effective method. The following table illustrates the components of preferred stock dividends and accretions for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005:

Cumulative dividends at 7%	$ 42,337	$ 79,237
Accretions	256,695	558,089

(b) Series J Preferred Stock:

The Company has designated 500,000 shares of its preferred stock as Series J Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock with a stated and liquidation value of $10.00 per share. Series J Preferred Stock has cumulative dividend rights at 8.0% of the stated amount, ranks senior to common stock and is non-voting. It is also convertible into the Company's common stock at a conversion price of $0.20 per common share. The Series J Preferred Stock is mandatorily redeemable for common stock on the fifth anniversary of its issuance. The Company has the option to redeem the Series J Preferred Stock for cash at 135% of the stated value. The holder has the option to redeem the Series J Preferred Stock for cash at 140% of the stated value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put").

Based upon the Company's evaluation of the terms and conditions of the Series J Preferred Stock, the Company concluded that its features were more akin to a debt instrument than an equity instrument, which means that the Company's accounting conclusions are generally based upon standards related to a traditional debt security. The Company's evaluation concluded that the embedded conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to certain variability in the conversion price, and it further did not meet the conditions for equity classification. Therefore, the Company is required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a liability. The Company also concluded that the Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt-type instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt-type instruments. The Company combined all embedded features that required bifurcation into one compound instrument that is carried as a component of derivative liabilities. In addition, due to the default and contingent redemption features of the Series J Preferred Stock, the Company classified this instrument as redeemable preferred stock, outside of stockholders' equity.

In September 2002, February 2003 and May 2003, the Company issued 100,000 shares, 50,000 shares and 50,000 shares, respectively, of Series J Preferred Stock for cash of $2,000,000. The Company also issued warrants for an aggregate of 14,000,000 shares of the Company's common stock in connection with the financing arrangement. The warrants have terms of five years and an exercise price of $0.25. The Company initially allocated proceeds of $658,000 and $1,190,867 from the financing arrangements to the compound derivative discussed above and to the warrants, respectively. Since these instruments did not meet the criteria for classification, they are required to be carried as derivative liabilities, at fair value.

The Company estimated the fair value of the compound derivative on the inception dates, and subsequently, using the Monte Carlo valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including credit risk, interest risk, stock price volatility and conversion estimates) that are necessary to fair value complex derivative instruments. The Company estimated the fair value of the warrants on the inception dates, and subsequently, using the Black-Scholes-Merton valuation technique, because that technique embodies all of the assumptions (including volatility, expected terms, and risk free rates) that are necessary to fair value freestanding warrants. As a result of these estimates, the Company's valuation model resulted in compound derivative balances associated with the Series J Preferred Stock of $3,416,000 and $5,628,000 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet.

In March 2004, the Company issued 80,000 shares of Series K Preferred Stock for cash of $800,000. In April 2004, the Company issued 15,000 shares of Series K Preferred Stock to extinguish debt with a carrying value of $150,000. At the time of these issuances, the trading market price of the Company's common stock exceeded the fixed conversion price and, as a result, the Company allocated $160,000 and $60,000 from the March and April issuances, respectively, to stockholders' equity which amount represented a beneficial conversion feature. In addition, the Company recorded a debt extinguishment loss of $60,000 in connection with the April exchange of Series K Preferred Stock for debt because the Company estimated that it had a fair value that exceeded the carrying value of the extinguished debt by that amount. Finally, the Company allocated approximately $59,000 and $11,000 to the Default Puts, representing fair values, in connection with the March and April issuances, respectively.

The Company estimated the fair value of the Default Puts on the inception dates, and subsequently, using a cash flow technique that involves probability-weighting multiple outcomes at net present values. Significant assumptions underlying the probability-weighted outcomes included both the Company's history of similar default events, all available information about the Company's business plans that could give rise to or risk defaults and the imminence of impending or current defaults. As a result of these subjective estimates, the Company's valuation model resulted in Default Put balances associated with the Series K Preferred Stock of $139,565 and $206,200 as of December 31, 2006 and 2005, respectively. These amounts are included in Derivative Liabilities on the Company's balance sheet. The following table illustrates fair value adjustments that the Company has recorded related to the Default Puts on the Series K Preferred Stock.

Derivative income (expense)	$ 66,635	($ 132,556)

Derivative income (expense) related to the Default Put includes changes to the fair value arising from changes in the Company's estimates about the probability of default events and amortization of the time-value element embedded in the Company's calculations. Higher derivative expense in the year ended December 31, 2006, when compared to the same periods of 2005, reflected the increased probability that the Default Put would become exercisable because the Company would not timely file certain reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission. While the Default Put became exercisable at that time, the holders of the Series K Preferred Stock did not exercise their right prior to curing the event. There can be no assurances that the holders of the Series K Preferred Stock would not exercise their rights should further defaults arise.

The discounts to the Series K Preferred Stock that resulted from the aforementioned allocations are being accreted through periodic charges to retained earnings using the effective method. The following table illustrates the components of preferred stock dividends and accretions for the years ended December 31, 2006 and 2005:

Cumulative dividends at 8%	$ 76,000	$ 76,000
Accretions	45,097	42,407
	$ 121,097	$ 118,407

As of December 31, 2006, $214,629 of cumulative dividends are in arrears on Series K Preferred Stock.

(d) Other Preferred Stock Designations and Financings:

Series B Preferred: The Company has designated 1,260,000 shares of its preferred stock as Series B Convertible Preferred Stock with a stated and liquidation value of $1.00 per share. Series B Preferred has cumulative dividend rights of 9.0%, ranks senior to common stock and has voting rights equal to the number of common shares into which it may be converted. Series B Preferred is convertible into common stock on a share for share basis. Based upon the Company's evaluation of the terms and conditions of the Series B Preferred Stock, the Company has concluded that it meets all of the requirements for equity classification. The Company has 107,440 shares of Series B Preferred outstanding as of December 31, 2006 and 2005.

Series D Preferred: We have designated 165,000 shares of our preferred stock as Series D Cumulative Convertible Preferred Stock with a stated and liquidation value of $10 per share. Series D Preferred has cumulative dividend rights of 6.0%, ranks senior to common stock and is non-voting. There are no shares of Series D Preferred Stock outstanding during any of the periods presented. However, we continue to have 611,250 warrants outstanding that were issued in connection with the original Series D Preferred Stock Financing arrangement.

Series F Preferred: The Company has designated 200,000 shares of its preferred stock as Series F Convertible Preferred Stock with a stated and liquidation value of $10 per share. There were 5,248 shares of Series F Preferred Stock outstanding as of December 31, 2005. The shares were fully converted by September 30, 2006. Series F Preferred is non-voting and convertible into common stock at a variable conversion price equal to the lower of $0.60 or 75% of the trading prices near the conversion date. In addition, the holder had the option to redeem the convertible notes payable for cash at 125% of the face value in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). The Company concluded that the conversion feature was not afforded the exemption as a conventional convertible instrument due to a variable conversion feature, and it did not otherwise meet the conditions for equity classification. Since equity classification is not available for the conversion feature, the Company was required to bifurcate the embedded conversion feature and carry it as a derivative liability, at fair value. The Company also concluded that the Default Put required bifurcation because, while puts on debt-type instruments are generally considered clearly and closely related to the host, the Default Put is indexed to certain events, noted above, that are not associated with debt-type instruments. These two derivative features were combined into one compound derivative instrument. In addition, due to the default and contingent redemption features of the Series F Preferred Stock, the Company classified this instrument as redeemable preferred stock, outside of stockholders' equity at December 31, 2005.

Note 10 - Share Based Payments

On April 6, 2005, the Company's Board of Directors adopted an incentive share-based plan (the "2005 Stock Incentive Plan") that provides for the grant of stock options for up to 10,397,745 shares of the Company's common stock to its directors, officers, key employees, and consultants. On May 10, 2005, the Company's Board of Directors adopted the recommendation of its Compensation Committee to grant options for 8,922,745 shares to the Company's directors and key employees. As of December 31, 2006, there were 1,275,000 shares of common stock reserved for issuance under the Company's stock option plan. Options granted under 2005 Stock Incentive Plan have a contractual life of 10 years and vest over two years in equal annual installments with the first third exercisable on the grant date, provided that the individual is continuously employed by the Company. The Company did not grant options during the year ended December 31, 2006.

In years prior to 2005, the Company granted options for 650,000 shares to now former employees and options for 220,000 shares to now former directors, all which are fully vested and exercisable, under individual plans. Currently, there are no shares reserved for future issuance under these individual plans.

On January 1, 2006, the Company adopted Financial Accounting Standard 123 (revised 2004), Share-Based Payments ("FAS 123(R)") which is a revision of FAS No. 123, using the modified prospective method. Under this method, compensation cost recognized for the year ended December 31, 2006 includes compensation cost for all share-based payments modified or granted prior to, but not yet vested, as of January 1, 2006, based on the grant date fair value estimated in accordance with the original provisions of FAS No. 123. Compensation cost is being recognized on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period for the entire award in accordance with the provisions of FAS 123(R).

As the Company had previously adopted the fair-value provisions of FAS No. 123, effective January 1, 2005, the adoption of FAS 123(R) had a negligible impact on the Company's earnings. The Company recorded compensation costs of $444,779 and $798,870 for the years ended 2006 and 2005, respectively. The Company recognized no tax benefit for share-based compensation arrangements due to the fact that it is in a cumulative loss position and recognized no tax benefits in its Consolidated Statement of Operations.

As required by FAS 123(R), the Company estimates forfeitures of employee stock options and recognizes compensation cost only for those awards expected to vest. Forfeiture rates are determined for two groups of employees - directors / officers and key employees based on historical experience. The Company adjusts estimated forfeitures to actual forfeiture experience as needed. The cumulative effect of adopting FAS 123(R) of $17,000, which represents estimated forfeitures for options outstanding at the date of adoption, was not material and therefore has been recorded as a reduction of the Company's stock-based compensation costs in Selling and General and Administrative expenses rather than displayed separately as a cumulative change in accounting principle in the Consolidated Statement of Operations. The adoption of SFAS No. 123(R) had no effect on cash flow from operating activities or cash flow from financing activities for the year ended 2006.

The Company estimates the fair value of each stock option on the date of grant using a Black-Scholes-Merton (BSM) option-pricing formula, applying the following assumptions and amortize that value to expense over the option's vesting period using the straight-line attribution approach:

Expected Term (in years)	n/a	6
Risk-free rate	n/a	5.01%
Expected volatility	n/a	141%
Expected dividends	n/a	0%

* No options were granted during this period.

Expected Term: The expected term represents the period over which the share-based awards are expected to be outstanding. It has been determined as the midpoint between the vesting date and the end of the contractual term.

Risk-Free Interest Rate: The Company based the risk-free interest rate used in its assumptions on the implied yield currently available on U.S. Treasury zero-coupon issues with a remaining term equivalent to the stock option award's expected term.

Expected Volatility: The volatility factor used in the Company's assumptions is based on the historical price of its stock over the most recent period commensurate with the expected term of the stock option award.

Expected Dividend Yield: The Company does not intend to pay dividends on its common stock for the foreseeable future. Accordingly, the Company uses a dividend yield of zero in its assumptions.

On May 12, 2006, the Company issued $2,500,000, six-month-term, 10% notes payable plus detachable warrants to purchase 1,500,000 shares of its common stock with a strike price of $0.80 for a period of five-years. Net proceeds from this financing transaction amounted to $2,235,000. The holder has the option to redeem the notes for cash in the event of defaults and certain other contingent events, including events related to the common stock into which the instrument is convertible, registration and listing (and maintenance thereof) of the Company's common stock and filing of reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Default Put"). The Company evaluated the terms and conditions of the notes and warrants and determined that (i) the Default Put required bifurcation because it did not meet the "clearly and closely related" criteria of FAS 133 and (ii) the warrants did not meet all of the requisite conditions for equity classification under FAS 133. As a result, the net proceeds from the arrangement were first allocated to the Default Put ($87,146) and the warrants ($901,665) based upon their fair values, because these instruments are required to be initially and subsequently carried at fair values. These instruments will be carried in the Company's balance sheet following the financing under the classification, Derivative Liabilities and adjusted to fair value. The warrants and shares of common stock underlying the warrants and notes were issued to two accredited investors in a private placement exempt from registration under the Securities Act of 1933 pursuant Regulation D.

On May 16, 2006, the Company issued 2,000,000 shares of common stock pursuant for an exercise of a warrant associated with its January 2005 convertible note financing for total proceeds of $200,000. The common stock underlying this warrant was registered pursuant to a registration statement declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission on August 2, 2005.

On June 7, 2006, the Company issued 101,100 shares of common stock pursuant to a conversion of its May 2005 convertible note. The shares of common stock underlying the convertible note were issued pursuant to a registration statement declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission on August 2, 2005.

On July 3, 2006, the Company issued 2,000,000 shares of common stock pursuant to an exercise of a warrant associated with its November 2003 convertible notes financing for total proceeds of $100,000. The common stock underlying this warrant was registered pursuant to a registration statement declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission on August 3, 2004.

On July, 6, 2006, the Company issued 83,121 shares of common stock in a private placement, pursuant to Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933, to an accredited investor for total proceeds of $51,950,000.

On July, 14, 2006, the Company issued 436,388 shares of common stock upon the cashless exercise of a warrant associated with its Series D convertible preferred stock. These shares were issued to an accredited investor pursuant to Regulation D and Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933.

On July 7, August 17 and August 31, 2006, the Company issued, in the aggregate, 275,000 shares of common stock pursuant to a conversion of its Series H preferred stock. The shares of common stock underlying the preferred were issued pursuant to Regulation D.

On July, 19, 2006, the Company issued 1,008,065 shares of common stock upon the cashless exercise of a warrant associated with its Series H convertible preferred stock. These shares were issued to an accredited investor pursuant to Regulation D and Section 4(2) of the Securities Act of 1933.

On July 26, 2006, the Company entered into a Securities Purchase Agreement with five accredited institutional investors, for the issuance and sale of $30 million in senior convertible notes that are due in January 2010. Under the terms of the financing, the Company sold $30 million in senior convertible notes, of which $15 million (the “Initial Notes”) were released upon closing and $15 million (the “Additional Notes”) were released from escrow in November 2006. The Initial Notes carry a 9% annual coupon, payable quarterly, and were initially convertible into shares of common stock at $0.70 per share. The Additional Notes carry a 9% annual coupon, payable quarterly, and were initially convertible into shares of common stock at $0.70 per share and then subsequently to $0.51 per share. In addition, the Additional Notes also provide that, from and after October 10, 2006 through December 15, 2006, the holder may require the Company to redeem at such holder's option any portion of the holder's Additional Note in cash at a price equal to 125% of the amount redeemed (the “Holder Optional Redemption”). In the event that such holder does not exercise the Holder Optional Redemption, the holder's right to any such optional redemptions shall terminate; provided, however, that once a holder delivers such a request, its right to deliver a subsequent request shall terminate.

The Company also issued to the investors series A warrants to purchase 13,178,571 shares of common stock initially exercisable at $0.73 per share (the "Series A Warrants") that expire in July 2011 and series B warrants to purchase 43,392,856 shares of common stock initially exercisable at $0.73 per share (the "Series B Warrants") that expire in July 2011. The Company has the option to redeem the Initial Notes and the Amended Notes at a date earlier than maturity (the "Company Redemption"). If the Company exercises the Company Redemption, the holders will have the right to exercise the Series B Warrants and receive common shares to which these contingent warrants are indexed. Absent the Company's exercise of the Company Redemption to redeem the Initial Notes and/or the Additional Notes, the holders have no right to exercise the Series B Warrants.

Pursuant to a Registration Rights Agreement between the Company and the investors, also dated July 26, 2006, the Company agreed to prepare and file a registration statement covering the resale of the shares issuable upon the conversion of the senior convertible notes and exercise of the warrants. The Company agreed to file this resale registration statement by the later to occur of (i) August 26, 2006 or (ii) 15 days following the effectiveness of the Form SB-2 filed by the Company on December 21, 2005, but in no event later than October 10, 2006. If, among other things, (a) the Company fails to file the resale registration statement within the period described above, which the Company was unable to do, or (b) the Company fails to cause the resale registration statement to be effective by the SEC within 60 days following the date the Company files the resale registration statement, or within 90 days, if there is a review of the resale registration statement by the SEC, the Company will be obligated to pay to each investor, as partial relief, on the date of such failure, an amount in cash equal to .75% of the aggregate purchase price paid by such investor for the notes and the warrants. The Company will be further obligated to pay, as partial relief, an amount in cash equal to 1.5% of the aggregate purchase price paid by such investor for the notes and the warrants on every thirtieth day that such failure continues (prorated for partial periods).

On August 31, 2006, the Company entered into Amendment Agreements with respect to the July 26, 2006 $30 million senior convertible notes transaction described above. Pursuant to the Amendment Agreements, the investors each agreed to release the Company from the events of default that occurred under the terms of the Initial Notes and Additional Notes as a result of the Company's late filing of its Form 10-QSB for the quarterly period ended June 30, 2006. The Company agreed, in consideration for such releases, to exchange the Additional Notes for amended and restated notes (the "Amended and Restated Notes").

The terms of the Amended and Restated Notes differ from the terms of the Additional Notes in certain regards. The conversion price applicable was reduced from $0.70 to $0.51. The Company also granted the Holder Optional Redemption as discussed above.

ITEM 8. CHANGES IN AND DISAGREEMENTS WITH ACCOUNTANTS ON ACCOUNTING AND FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE

ITEM 8A. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures

We maintain "disclosure controls and procedures," as such term is defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Our disclosure controls and procedures are designed to:

- ensure information required to be disclosed by us is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in Securities and Exchange Commission rules, regulations, and forms, and
- ensure that such information is accumulated and communicated to our management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Accounting Officer, as appropriate, to allow timely and appropriate decisions regarding required disclosure to be made.

Our evaluation was performed under the supervision and with the participation of our audit committee and senior management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Chief Accounting Officer. We evaluated the effectiveness of the design and operation of our disclosure controls and procedures pursuant to Exchange Act Rules 13a-15(b) and 15d-15(b). During this evaluation, management considered the impact of any material weaknesses and other deficiencies in our internal control over financial reporting.

Based upon this evaluation, in July 2006 we determined that the following material weakness existed:

- inadequate controls existed over the process for the identification and implementation of the proper accounting for complex and non-routine transactions
 - inappropriate accounting for compound derivative instruments embedded within our financial instruments

These weaknesses were the most significant factors that drove our need to restate our consolidated financial statements for each of the two years ended December 31, 2004 and 2005 in order to present those financial statements properly.

Because the material weakness identified above had not been fully remedied at December 31, 2006, our Chief Executive Officer and our Chief Accounting Officer have concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures relating to compound derivative instruments embedded within our financial statements were not effective as of December 31, 2006.

To address the issues raised by this control deficiency, the Company has undertaken the following actions:

- Hired two additional full-time experienced accountants, whose key responsibilities include creating a sound internal control structure over the financial reporting function
- Restructured departmental responsibilities to properly align financial reporting responsibilities to the employees most experienced in this area

Engaged an external CPA firm with extensive experience in accounting for complex derivative instruments to assist us in properly accounting and reporting of our financial instruments ·Commenced a project to significantly improve overall internal controls. This plan includes the implementation of a new accounting information system and hiring of consultants experienced in implementing effective internal controls, inclusive of financial reporting for compound derivative instruments embedded within our financial instruments.

We expect that we will remediate the material weakness identified above during 2007.
