I. Board of Directors' Responsibilities.

- A. Board. The business affairs of the Company are managed under the direction of the Board, which represents and is accountable to the stockholders of the Company. The Board's responsibilities include the responsibility to oversee and regularly evaluate: (i) the strategic direction of the Company; (ii) management policies; (iii) the effectiveness with which management implements its policies; (iv) the selection, evaluation and setting of appropriate compensation for the Company's chief executive officer; (v) succession planning; and (vi) the recommendations for and election and compensation of the Company's principal

- B. Classes and Terms. The Board has three classes of directors of as nearly equal size as possible. The term of each class of directors is normally three years, and the term of one class expires each year in rotation.

- C. Qualifications. The Corporate Governance Committee is responsible for developing and periodically reviewing the appropriate skills and characteristics required of Board members in the context of the then current make-up of the Board. The Board will make a determination as to each director's independence on an annual basis. Each director is requested to notify the Chairman of the Board and the chair of the Corporate Governance Committee, as soon as practicable, of any event, situation or condition that may affect the Board's evaluation of his or her independence.

- E. Other Board Memberships. Directors are required to advise the Chairman of the Board and the chair of the Corporate Governance Committee, as soon as practicable, in advance of accepting an invitation to serve on another board. Directors are encouraged to limit the number of other boards (excluding non-profits) on which they serve, taking into account potential board attendance, participation and effectiveness on these boards.

- F. Retirement Age/Change of Status of Director's Principal

Edgar Filing: J C PENNEY CO INC - Form 8-K

Employment. The Company's bylaws provide for director retirement upon reaching age 70. Directors are also required to submit their resignation to the Board for its consideration upon a change in status of their principal employment or occupation.

- G. Selection of Director Nominee Candidates. The Corporate Governance Committee is responsible for recommending to the Board the selection of qualified director nominee candidates for consideration, based on the qualifications set forth in II.C. above.

III. Board Organization.

The Chair establishes the board meeting agenda in consultation with the other directors, the executive officers of the Company, and the corporate secretary. The Chair may also serve as the Company's chief executive officer ("CEO").
- B. Committees of the Board. The Board has standing committees to consider designated matters. Currently, the standing committees of the Board are Audit, Corporate Governance, Finance, and Human Resources and Compensation. Chair positions rotate every three years for all committees with the exception of the Audit Committee, whose chair shall remain in that position for five years, unless otherwise changed by the Board. Except for the Finance Committee, all standing committee members shall be independent directors as determined in accordance with applicable NYSE rules. Each committee has a written charter setting forth the duties, authority and responsibilities of the committee and is responsible to the full Board.

IV. Board Meetings.

- A. Regular Meetings. The Board will meet in person at least six times per year, unless it determines that more or fewer meetings are required.
- B. Special Meetings. The Chair will call additional meetings, as necessary. Any director may request that the Chair call a special meeting. Special meetings may be held in person or by telephone or other form of interactive electronic communication.
- C. Executive Sessions and Role of Presiding Director. The independent directors will meet in executive session at some point during each regularly held meeting of the directors. The presiding director of these executive sessions shall rotate on an annual basis, beginning with the May 19, 2006 meeting of the Board of Directors, at which time the Chair of the Corporate Governance Committee shall serve as presiding director. Thereafter, the independent directors shall select the director to serve as presiding director for each subsequent one year term. At a minimum, the independent directors will use these executive sessions to review, as timely or appropriate: (i) strategic issues; (ii) future Board agenda and the flow of information to directors; (iii) CEO succession; (iv) performance and compensation; (v) management progression and succession; and (vi) the Company's Corporate Governance Guidelines.  - B. Independent Advisors. The Board and each of its committees, consistent with the provisions of their respective charters, have the right at any time to retain independent advisors for legal, financial, compensation or other services to assist them in performing their duties and responsibilities.
 - C. Non-Management Directors. Interested stockholders wishing to communicate with the Company's non-management directors may contact the office of the Company's General Counsel. The Company publishes on its Web site (www.jcpenney.net) a telephone number, mailing address and email address for this purpose.
- VI. Director Orientation and Education. All new directors receive orientation materials upon joining the Board in order to become familiar with the Company's vision, strategic direction, core values and ethics, financial matters, corporate governance practices and other key policies and practices, and participate in such further meetings and sessions as are necessary to maximize their understanding of the Company, its operations and their roles as directors. All directors also receive internal continuing education on matters relevant to Company operations, governance matters, business ethics, legal compliance and diversity. Directors are also encouraged to participate in external continuing education forums for directors, as they or the Board determine is desirable or appropriate from time to time.
- VII. Compensation.
- A. Retainer and Expenses. The Corporate Governance Committee has the responsibility for recommending to the Board the appropriate compensation for non-associate directors. It conducts periodic reviews to assure that the directors are being fairly and reasonably compensated in relation to comparable U. S. companies. Directors are also reimbursed for travel and other expenses incurred in connection with their duties as directors. Compensation should not be set at a level that would call into question the Board's objectivity.
 - B. Loans to Directors and Executive Officers. The Company does not make personal loans to its directors or executive officers.
 - C. Director Stock Ownership Guidelines. The Board has not adopted formal stock ownership guidelines for directors or executive officers. Under the Company's Equity Compensation Plan, however, shares of JCPenney common stock underlying non-associate director annual equity grants are restricted until the director's service on the Board ends.
- VIII. Succession Planning. The CEO reports periodically to an executive session of the Board on succession planning. Such meetings shall cover the entire subject of management development, including policies and principles for

CEO selection and performance review and policies regarding succession in the event of an emergency or the resignation, incapacity or retirement of the CEO.

IX. Annual Performance Review.

A. Chief Executive Officer.

1. Annually, or more frequently as appropriate, the outside directors will meet as a Committee of the Whole to evaluate the CEO's performance based on previously set goals and objectives (such annual CEO goals and objectives shall also be set by the Committee of the Whole). The results of this evaluation are shared with the CEO and are used by the Committee of the Whole in establishing the CEO's compensation.

2. The evaluation should be based on objective criteria including performance of the business, accomplishment of long-term strategic objectives, development of management, etc. The Committee of the Whole in the course of its deliberations will use the evaluation when considering the compensation of the CEO.

B. Board of Directors. Annually, or more frequently as appropriate, the Board conducts a self-evaluation as to its overall effectiveness and performance. Each of the Audit, Corporate Governance, and Human Resources and Compensation Committees also conducts a self-evaluation annually. The purpose of these evaluations is to improve the effectiveness of the Board and its committees.
