BT AND HP ANNOUNCE $1.5 BILLION DEAL AND GLOBAL IT AND COMMUNICATIONS ALLIANCE
Agreement Transforms Supplier Relationship into Strategic Alliance;
Managed Services Agreement Forms Basis for Joint Go-to-Market Effort

NEW YORK, May 4, 2004 -- BT and HP today announced plans to develop a strategic go-to-market alliance that will address mutual growth opportunities in the global information and communications technology (ICT) marketplace. As the communications and IT sectors continue to converge, the companies see this as a major opportunity to utilize their combined capabilities in delivering enhanced service offerings to the growing global ICT market.

As a first step, the companies have signed managed services agreements with a combined value of $1.5 billion over the next seven years. Under these agreements, HP will manage BT's midrange and desktop information technology (IT) infrastructure in the UK, and BT will manage HP's voice and data network and product support call centers within the EMEA (Europe, Middle East and Africa) region.

These agreements build upon each company's core capabilities and provide a strong foundation for the longer-term alliance. The immediate focus of the companies is to implement successfully the managed service agreements over the coming months, while concurrently developing the joint go-to-market approach.

"Connections matter more than ever today, and in a world where business and technology are inextricably linked, bringing together IT and communications into one seamless environment creates a solid foundation for growth," said Carly Fiorina, HP chairman and chief executive officer. "When we capitalize on our combined strengths, we not only take our own capabilities to a new level, but we then bring the very same standard of simplicity and excellence to our own customers, quickly, securely and reliably."

Ben Verwaayen, BT chief executive officer, commented, "This is a great opportunity for BT that delivers key components of our ICT strategy. The global market for ICT provides us with a substantial growth opportunity that can significantly benefit both companies' revenues. In a consolidating industry, we believe it makes sense to create a strong alliance between a world-class communications company and a global IT company."

Starting this summer, the companies plan initially to address targeted European enterprises, plus the UK mid-market, consumer and small- and medium-size business (SMB) markets through a combination of service offerings. Subsequently, other markets will be added as conditions and opportunities develop, in order to ultimately provide global solutions capability via the alliance.

The companies are evaluating the development of world-class propositions in segments such as ICT infrastructure, application management, mobility, workplace solutions and contact center services. The approach will include the creation of a common service delivery model that is designed to improve the technical alignment across both companies in order to deliver, both together and separately, seamless ICT services.

About BT

BT Group plc is the listed holding company for an integrated group of businesses providing voice and data services in the UK and elsewhere in Europe. British Telecommunications plc, a wholly-owned subsidiary of BT Group, holds virtually all businesses and assets of the BT group.

BT is one of Europe's leading providers of telecommunications services. Its principal activities include local, national and international telecommunications services, higher-value broadband and internet products and services, and IT solutions. In the UK, BT serves over 20 million business and residential customers with more than 29 million exchange lines, as well as providing network services to other licensed operators.

BT consists principally of three lines of business:

- BT Retail, serving businesses and residential customers and including BT Openworld, one of the UK's leading ISPs.
- BT Wholesale, providing network services and solutions within the UK, including ADSL, conveyance, transit, bulk delivery of private circuits, frame relay and ISDN connections.
- BT Global Services, BT's managed services and solutions provider, serving multi-site organizations worldwide. Its core target market is the top 10,000 global multi-site organizations with European operations.

There are a number of other businesses within the BT group, including BT Exact, an internationally renowned centre of excellence in IT and networking technologies. It is also BT's technology and research and development business. In the year ended 31 March 2003, BT's turnover was GBP18,727m. with profit before taxation of GBP1,829m. BT TO USHER IN NEW ERA OF BROADBAND INVESTMENT

New LLU services to encourage investment and innovation

BT is to develop new services that should alter the face of broadband competition in the UK. The company is to re-design and simplify its current local loop unbundling (LLU) product in the strong belief that such a move will benefit those companies who are willing to invest and innovate. The move should also reduce the need for future regulatory intervention and so create greater certainty for the whole industry to invest with confidence.

In a move designed to enhance and extend infrastructure competition, BT is to cut the prices for its LLU products by up to 70 per cent in a phased series of price cuts. The long term aim is that products such as BT DataStream will be subject to less regulation in areas where LLU has been a success. This should benefit companies that are prepared to invest.

BT will continue to offer the widest variety of wholesale access products in Europe. The new LLU product will be closer to simpler continental models and BT aims to introduce it to the market within six months. Immediate price cuts will be made to ensure there is sustainable demand prior to launch and to enable potential customers to plan ahead with confidence.

The monthly rental price for the existing shared LLU product will come down on

Edgar Filing: BT GROUP PLC - Form 6-K

June 1 from GBP4.42 to GBP2.26 per line with the connection fee also falling from GBP117 to GBP83.33. Taking both cuts into consideration, this represents an overall saving of 35 per cent on the current price.

Prices will be reduced again - making a total reduction of up to 70 per cent - once the full cost benefits of the re-scoped product and the achievement of certain volumes filter through. Prices for the fully unbundled LLU product are also to come down initially by an average of 15 per cent.

BT is to make several other changes. These include adjusting the price for elements of its BT DataStream products to ensure there are adequate margins between BT DataStream and BT IPStream Home 500. These adjustments will be announced by the end of May with the margin being maintained with regard to all BT IPStream capacity based charging products.

In addition, BT is also to introduce a new wholesale calls product for Carrier Pre-Selection (CPS) operators where they have invested in connecting to a local exchange. This product will allow them to use BT directly for on-switch or inter-local exchange calls at a price such that their overall costs can be considerably reduced. The final product will be developed in consultation with Ofcom and the industry with interim arrangements to be put in place from July.

BT chief executive Ben Verwaayen said today: "Our announcement marks a major move towards the telecommunications market of the future. BT has always argued that a market needs to develop in which those who are willing to invest and innovate can reap the rewards. This is a significant step in that direction.

"We now have a far clearer idea of how Ofcom sees the market developing and we share their view that competition based at the infrastructure level will be good for everyone and for the UK in general.

"Their statements about regulatory certainty are crucial as we have enormously ambitious plans for the networks of the future and require that certainty for shareholders if we are going to invest the huge sums required.

"BT took a bold step forward two years ago when it cut the price of broadband and changed the shape of the broadband industry. This is an equally ambitious move and one we are confident will have long term benefits for both the UK and BT."
