Item 5. Other Events and Required FD Disclosure.

As previously reported, the U.S. Air Force has notified the Company that it is reviewing the Company's present responsibility as a government contractor in connection with an incident in 1999 in which two employees were found to have in their possession certain information pertaining to Lockheed Martin Corporation, a competitor under the Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle Program ("EELV"). The employees, one of whom was a former employee of Lockheed, were terminated, and a third employee was reprimanded and then retired a few days later. The Air Force has expressed concerns over possible misuse of Lockheed's information and the Company's investigation and disclosure of the underlying facts. As previously reported, the same incident is under investigation by the U.S. Attorney in Los Angeles.

On June 10, 2003, Lockheed filed a suit against the Company and its three former employees in the U.S. District Court for the Middle District of Florida. The suit alleges that the Company and its employees committed violations of federal and Florida law resulting from their solicitation, acquisition, and use of Lockheed information during the competition for launch contract awards under the EELV program and from the Company's alleged concealment of this conduct. The complaint seeks compensatory damages, including treble and punitive damages, consequential damages, costs, return of all proprietary information, and injunctive relief against all defendants.

The Company is cooperating with these parallel government investigations and intends to defend the Lockheed suit vigorously. It is not possible at this time to predict the outcome of these matters or whether an adverse outcome would or could have a material adverse financial impact on the Company.
