Verizon Chairman and CEO Ivan Seidenberg and MCI President and CEO Michael Capellas today announced the establishment of a planning team in anticipation of the closing of Verizon's acquisition of MCI, expected early in 2006.

An executive steering committee, consisting of Seidenberg, Capellas and Verizon Vice Chairman and President Lawrence T. Babbio, Jr. will oversee the overall integration effort.

A transition team, reporting to the steering committee, will develop the go-to-market strategy and a detailed operational plan designed to achieve the marketing objectives and the operational synergies that will result from the merger. John Killian, Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer of Verizon Domestic Telecom, will chair the group. Francis Shammo, President West Area for Verizon Wireless, will be responsible for developing a financial integration plan and establishing appropriate control mechanisms for the merged organization. Randy Milch, Senior Vice President and Deputy General Counsel at Verizon Domestic Telecom, will be responsible for planning the integration of legal activities for the combined businesses. In order to assist with the development of marketing and network strategies the transition team will initially include, from MCI, Jonathan Crane, EVP and Chief Strategy Officer, Wayne Huyard President of US Sales and Service and Fred Briggs President of Operations and Technology. Also, from Verizon, the transition team will include Mark Wegleitner, Senior Vice President-Technology, Veronica Pellizzi, Senior Vice President -Enterprise Sales and Ed McGuinness, Senior Vice President-Enterprise Marketing. Additional representatives will be named as the transition team initiates planning activities in other areas.

Seidenberg said the transition team will work to ensure Verizon and MCI quickly and effectively optimize their complementary strengths as the companies approach the completion of the merger. Capitalizing on the power inherent in these combined businesses requires focused planning, said Seidenberg. We intend to be ready to compete at the highest possible level the moment we close our merger. This can only be accomplished with the involvement of a seasoned and highly focused team dedicated to winning in the marketplace and structuring all operations for maximum efficiency.

The Steering Committee will make final personnel announcements over the coming months.

Executives from both companies are currently meeting with key investors as they approach MCI's October 6 shareholder vote on the merger.
