CEO COMMENTS

We have concluded another successful year and see continued opportunities to outpace the market, says Carl-Henric Svanberg, President and CEO of Ericsson (NASDAQ:ERIC). We have achieved sales of SEK 178 b., an increase of 17%, while maintaining strong margins. Through our focus on operational excellence, costs continue to grow slower than sales.

Our financial strength has enabled us to execute our strategy of organic growth and own development in combination with bolt-on acquisitions. During 2006, we successfully integrated Marconi into our operations, including reaching expected profitability. We also recently announced the acquisition of Redback Networks in a move to further enhance our strong all-IP offering.

During the year we introduced a more customer-oriented organization to further leverage our leadership and expand our market reach. By this move we enhance our abilities to serve customers needs in networks, services and multimedia. We also strengthened our platform for leadership in next-generation converging IP networks, where multimedia applications and services offer obvious business opportunities.

Sony Ericsson celebrated its fifth anniversary with an exceptional performance. Through successful product development, innovative marketing, and excellence in operations, the company achieved record results and market leadership in the high-end segments. Sony Ericsson has established a unique brand platform and successfully leveraged the assets of its parents.

We are well positioned for 2007. With our leading positions in mobile networks and professional services, substantial investments in next-generation IP networks and multimedia, we have the platform to continue to capture market share and drive the industry forward, concludes Carl-Henric Svanberg.

Sales in the quarter were up 18% year-over-year, with growth in infrastructure and services. For the full year sales were SEK 177.8 b. with a growth of 17%, positively impacted by the added Marconi sales. Growth was especially strong in professional services with a sales growth of 30% for the full year.

Gross margin, excluding restructuring charges, was stable sequentially at 41.8% (44.2%), reflecting high level of network rollout and initial network build-outs. The full year gross margin was 42.2% (45.7%), excluding restructuring charges. The strongly growing services business with its lower gross margins as well as the added Marconi business are the main reasons behind the lower gross margin.

Full year operating margin amounted to 20.1% (21.8%), excluding restructuring charges and capital gains. MARKET, BUSINESS AND TECHNOLOGY DEVELOPMENT

Market development

This year, the mobile phone celebrated its 50th anniversary and we are getting close to the point where every second person in the world has a mobile phone. Telecommunication is now reaching into regions without proper roads or electricity supplies, and contributes to economic development as well as peoples quality of lives.

In parallel to higher penetration, the build-out of mobile and fixed broadband capabilities continues, paving the way for broadband everywhere. 2006 was a breakthrough year for mobile broadband with important commercial launches in all parts of the world. Some 100 commercial HSPA networks in over 50 countries and some 130 HSPA devices have been launched. These numbers continue to increase with new rollouts and software upgrades of existing WCDMA networks.

The fixed broadband market also showed strong development and uptake during 2006. At the end of the year, there were well above 250 million fixed broadband connections in the world, and it is expected that the penetration rate reached 5%.

As a result of the improved availability and capabilities of mobile and fixed broadband, 2006 was an important year for rich end-user services. As an example we see mobile music becoming more popular with mobile downloads in Japan outpacing the number of downloads made over the Internet. Over 120 operators worldwide have launched mobile TV and video services.

In 2006, operators' focus on all-IP networks increased and the rapid build-out of mobile and fixed broadband networks led to the introduction of new IP-based services such as Voice over IP, Interactive TV and video-on-demand. These applications require a very high quality of service. As a consequence, networks are becoming more complex and end-to-end capabilities, telecom grade competence and professional services will be critical for suppliers.

Subscriber growth

The growth of net mobile subscriptions continued with close to 150 million in the quarter and 500 million during the year. At the end of the year, worldwide subscription penetration reached 41% with more than 2.7 billion subscriptions in total, of which more than 2.2 billion are GSM/WCDMA. The number of WCDMA subscriptions almost doubled during the year to nearly 100 million at year-end. We expect to pass three billion subscriptions during 2007.

Business achievements

The strong GSM growth is driven by the continued demand for capacity and coverage. Growth is also enhanced by CDMA operators in Latin America and Asia Pacific migrating their networks to the GSM/WCDMA track, resulting in new contract awards. Ericsson was awarded new and extension contracts in high-growth markets such as Bangladesh, China, India, Indonesia, Pakistan and Russia, as well as in countries throughout Africa and Latin America.

Due to the growing demand for mobile broadband, Ericsson is now a supplier to 44 mobile broadband networks (HSPA) launched across the world, almost every second network launched. Cingular in the US and Telstra in Australia recognized the importance of mobile broadband early on, and Ericsson rolled out their nationwide HSPA networks during 2006 in record time. Our strong position was further confirmed when operators E-mobile and Softbank in Japan, in the world's most advanced mobile market, chose our WCDMA/HSPA solutions.

During 2006, the share of larger projects with wider scopes such as deployments on behalf of Cingular, E-mobile, Telstra and Vivo increased. Operators strive to be first to provide service everywhere and with telecom grade performance. Due to our long experience, global processes and unique local capabilities we were able to roll out 400-500 sites per week at peak periods in Australia, Brazil, India and the US respectively.

The growth in professional services amounted to 30% for the full year. As networks get more complex growth in services accelerates and Ericsson provides advanced support services, around-the-clock, to networks with more than 725 million subscribers. In addition, operators' focus on network outsourcing is evident. Our leadership position in this field is solid with 35 new contracts announced during 2006. We now manage 100 networks with more than 100 million subscribers.

Technology achievements

Technology leadership is the foundation for market leadership in this industry. During the year, our strong R&D focus has resulted in a number of technology milestones and new products such as the launches of the new multi-access GSM/WCDMA base station, the new generation WCDMA base stations and a WCDMA/HSPA indoor access point for the home.

We also performed the world's first 28 Mbps HSPA downlink, and together with 3 Italia achieved the world's first enhanced uplink in a commercial HSPA network. In early 2007, our customers will also be able to upgrade their commercial HSPA networks to 7.2 Mbps downlink. This will further enhance the end user experience of mobile broadband.

Our efforts to meet operator demand also in fixed broadband are paying off, and our solution for fixed broadband access (VDSL2) was named best access technology at Broadband World Forum 2006.

Ericsson's increased efforts in next-generation IP networks, including the acquisition of Redback as well as the new organization with its increased focus on multimedia, is a strategic move to further strengthen our position in the market.

The implementation of IMS (IP Multimedia Subsystem) is an important part of next-generation networks. During the year, Ericsson signed 19 IMS contracts for commercial deployment and has additionally performed more than 30 trials. Vodafone Group also named Ericsson supplier of the year and preferred IMS supplier.

REGIONAL OVERVIEW

Western Europe sales were up by 35% compared to the same quarter last year and 24% for the full year. Voice traffic is increasing as a result of lower tariffs. Growth is primarily driven by strong services sales and high demand for transmission and fixed broadband access. HSPA is gaining traction and new multimedia offerings continue to drive data traffic.

Central and Eastern Europe, Middle East and Africa sales grew by 22% compared to the same quarter last year. Full year sales were up 23%. Countries in Africa and the Middle East are showing strong growth. There is still low penetration in large parts of the region but also a growing demand for mobile broadband.

Asia Pacific sales grew by 34% compared to the same quarter last year. Full year sales were up 42%. There was a continued high activity level throughout the region, particularly in e.g. Australia, India, Indonesia and Japan. Japan leads the world in mobile broadband development. Subscriber growth continues in China, increasing the need for 2G capacity while operators are waiting for 3G. Latin America sales declined by 20% compared to the same quarter last year. Full year sales were down 14%. Sales increased 14% sequentially, mainly driven by Central America and South Latin America. The slower market should be seen in light of last year's very strong growth. There is, however, a continued need for investments in quality and coverage as the subscriber and traffic growth continues.

North America sales were down 22% compared to the same quarter last year. Full year sales were down 18% following the strong growth in 2005. The region is leading the way in triple play and focus on fiber-to-the-home is increasing. Recent spectrum auctions are expected to expand the market.

OUTLOOK

All estimates are measured in USD and refer to market growth compared to previous year.

The traffic growth in the world's mobile networks is expected to continue as a result of both new services and new subscribers.

For 2006 our estimate is that the GSM/WCDMA track within the global mobile systems market, measured in USD, showed mid-single digit growth.

For 2007 we believe that the GSM/WCDMA track within the global mobile systems market, measured in USD, will continue to show mid-single digit growth.

Our previous estimate for 2007 was that the GSM/WCDMA track within the global mobile systems market, measured in USD, would show moderate growth, similar to 2006.

The addressable market for professional services is expected to show good growth in 2007. With our technology leadership and global presence we are well positioned to take advantage of these market opportunities.

Accounting policies

This interim report is prepared in accordance with IAS 34. The term IFRS used in this document refers to the application of IAS and IFRS as well as interpretations of these standards as issued by IASB's Standards Interpretation Committee (SIC) and International Financial Reporting Interpretations Committee (IFRIC). In this interim report we have adopted the following amendments and interpretations effective as from January 1, 2006. These amendments and interpretations have been endorsed by the EU, except for one amendment to IAS 21. That amendment is commented below under IAS 21.

IAS 19 Employee Benefits

As from January 1, 2006, Ericsson has adopted the new allowed alternative in IAS 19, Employee Benefits, on how to recognize actuarial gains and losses. The previous method to recognize actuarial gains and losses to the extent that they fell outside the 10 percent corridor was that they were amortized over the average remaining service time of plan participants. Instead, as from January 1, 2006, all actuarial gains and losses are recognized directly in equity, net of deferred tax, in the period they occur. Earlier reporting periods have been restated accordingly. The adoption of this new alternative has increased the provision for post-employment benefits with SEK 3.5 billion, accruals for social security with SEK 0.8 billion and has affected equity by SEK 3.1 billion net of tax as per January 1, 2006. The impact on reported equity as per January 1, 2005, is SEK 0,7 billion.

IAS 39 Financial instruments: Recognition and Measurement

Three amendments have been issued by the IASB, effective as from January 1, 2006, with earlier application encouraged.

The amendments relate to:

Cash Flow Hedges of Forecast Intra group Transactions that permits the foreign currency risk of a highly probable intra group forecast transaction to qualify as the hedged item in a cash flow hedge. Ericsson adopted his amendment 2005.

Fair Value Option that restricts the use of the option to designate any financial asset or any financial liability to be measured at fair value through profit and loss. The company carries loans and receivables, deposits and borrowing at amortized cost, except for specific issued bonds where the carrying value is adjusted as a result of the application of fair value hedge accounting. This amendment has therefore not had a any impact on the financial position or result for 2005 and is not expected to have any impact for 2006.

Financial guarantee contracts that requires financial guarantee contracts to be recognized, initially at fair value and subsequently at the higher of (i) the amount determined in accordance with IAS 37 Provisions, Contingent Liabilities and Contingent Assets and (ii) the amount initially recognized less any cumulative amortization. This amendment has not had a significant impact on the financial position or result.

IAS 21 The Effects of Changes in Foreign Exchange Rates

IAS 21 has been amended in relation to the accounting treatment of Net Investments in a Foreign Operation. A monetary item that forms part of a company investment in a foreign operation should not be dependent on the currency of the monetary item. Also, the accounting should not depend on which entity within the group that conducts a transaction with the foreign operation. It is only the second amendment that is endorsed by the EU as of March 31, 2006. These amendments have not had a significant impact on the financial position or result.

IFRIC 4 Determining whether an Arrangement contains a Lease

This interpretation has not had a significant impact on the financial position and result.

IFRIC 6 Liabilities arising from Participating in a Specific Market – Waste of Electric and Electronic Equipment

This amendment has not had a significant impact on the financial position or result.

Parent Company information

The Parent Company reports according to RR 32 – Reporting in separate financial statements . RR 32 requires the Parent Company to use similar accounting principles as for the Group, i.e. IFRS to the extent allowed by RR 32.

Working capital

Changes in working capital are presented in the report as changes in operating net assets from the cash flow statement.
