DATED SEPTEMBER 12, 2007

Filed pursuant to Rule 424(b)(3)
File No. 333-144238

MERGER PROPOSED YOUR VOTE IS VERY IMPORTANT

The boards of directors of Hologic, Inc., or Hologic, and Cytyc Corporation, or Cytyc, have approved a business combination of the two companies pursuant to the terms of an Agreement and Plan of Merger dated as of May 20, 2007. Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, Cytyc will be merged into a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic. Following the completion of the merger, Cytyc stockholders will own approximately 55% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company and Hologic stockholders will own approximately 45% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company.

The combined company will be named Hologic, Inc., and the shares of the combined company will be traded on the Nasdaq Global Select Market, under the symbol HOLX.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, Cytyc's stockholders will receive 0.52 of a share of Hologic common stock and $16.50 in cash for each share of Cytyc common stock. Cytyc stockholders will receive cash for any fractional shares which they would otherwise receive in the merger. Hologic stockholders will continue to own their existing shares after the merger. Hologic common stock is traded on the Nasdaq Global Select Market under the symbol HOLX. On September 11, 2007, the last practicable day before the mailing of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, the closing price per share of Hologic common stock as reported by the Nasdaq Global Select Market was $53.74.

YOUR VOTE IS IMPORTANT. The merger cannot be completed unless, among other things, Cytyc stockholders adopt the merger agreement, and Hologic stockholders approve an amendment to Hologic's certificate of incorporation, which we refer to as the Hologic charter, and approve the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger.

The Hologic board of directors unanimously recommends that Hologic stockholders vote FOR the amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and FOR the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger. The Cytyc board of directors unanimously recommends that Cytyc stockholders vote FOR the adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

Hologic and Cytyc will each hold a special meeting of their respective stockholders to vote on these proposals. Whether or not you plan to attend your company's special meeting, please take the time to vote by completing and mailing the enclosed proxy card or submitting your proxy by telephone or through the Internet using the procedures in the proxy voting instructions included with your proxy card. Even if you return the proxy, you may attend your company's special meeting and vote your shares in person.

This joint proxy statement/prospectus describes the proposed merger and related transactions in more detail. Hologic and Cytyc encourage you to read the entire joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully, including the merger agreement, which is attached as Annex A, and the section entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 26.

We strongly support the combination of our companies and join with our respective boards of directors in recommending that you vote in favor of the proposals presented in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Sincerely,

John W. Cumming

Sincerely,

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE MERGER

The following are some questions that you, as a stockholder of Hologic or Cytyc, may have regarding the merger and the other matters being considered at the stockholders' meetings and the answers to those questions. Hologic and Cytyc urge you to read carefully the entire joint proxy statement/prospectus because the information in this section does not provide all the information that might be important to you with respect to the merger and the other matters being considered at the stockholders' meetings. Additional important information is also contained in the annexes to and the documents incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Q: Why am I receiving this joint proxy statement/prospectus?

A: Hologic and Cytyc are proposing to combine the two companies in a merger transaction pursuant to the terms of a merger agreement that is described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. In the merger, Cytyc will be merged with and into a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic that was formed for the purpose of the merger, with the Hologic subsidiary surviving the merger and remaining a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic under the name Cytyc Corporation. A copy of the merger agreement is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A.

In order to complete the merger, Hologic stockholders must approve an amendment to Hologic's charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and approve the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in connection with the merger, and Cytyc stockholders must adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger. In addition, all other conditions to the merger must be satisfied or waived.

Neither the amendment to the Hologic charter nor the issuance of Hologic common stock in connection with the merger will take place unless both of these proposals are approved by Hologic stockholders and the merger is completed. Hologic will hold a special meeting of its stockholders, referred to as the Hologic special meeting, to obtain the required approvals of Hologic stockholders, and Cytyc will hold a special meeting of its stockholders, referred to as the Cytyc special meeting, to obtain the required approval of Cytyc stockholders.

Q: What will I receive in the merger?

A: Hologic stockholders. Each share of Hologic common stock held by Hologic stockholders immediately before the merger will continue to represent one share of Hologic common stock after the effective time of the merger. In other words, Hologic stockholders will receive no consideration in the merger and the merger will not change the number of shares a Hologic stockholder currently owns.

Cytyc stockholders. For each share of Cytyc common stock held immediately before the effective time of the merger, Cytyc stockholders will have the right to receive 0.52 of a share of Hologic common stock and $16.50 in cash without interest. Cytyc stockholders will also receive cash for any fractional shares of Hologic common stock that they would otherwise receive in the merger. The amount of cash for fractional shares will be calculated by multiplying the fraction of a share of Hologic common stock to which the Cytyc stockholder would be entitled to receive in the merger by the closing sale price of a share of Hologic common stock on the closing date of the merger.

Hologic and Cytyc expect that, upon completion of the merger, assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024, approximately 55% of the outstanding common stock of Hologic will be held by former Cytyc stockholders, and approximately 45% of the outstanding common stock of Hologic will be held by current Hologic stockholders.

Table of Contents

Q: How will Hologic pay for the cash portion of the merger consideration?

A: Hologic has received a firm financing commitment from Goldman Sachs Credit Partners L.P., Bank of America, N.A., Banc of America Securities LLC, Banc of America Bridge LLC, Citigroup Global Markets Inc., JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A., and J.P. Morgan Securities Inc., collectively referred to as the arrangers, in which the arrangers committed to provide, in the aggregate, financing of up to approximately $2.55 billion to pay for the cash portion of the merger consideration, for repayment of existing debt of Hologic and Cytac, for expenses relating to the merger and for working capital following the completion of the merger. For a more detailed description of the terms of the financing and the commitment letter, see The Merger Financing of the Merger beginning on page 59, and for information about certain risks related to the financing, see Risk Factors Risks Related to Indebtedness of the Combined Company beginning on page 30.

Q: Is the merger expected to be taxable to stockholders?

A: Hologic and Cytac intend for the merger to qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, which we refer to as the Code. If you are a Cytac stockholder, you generally will recognize income or gain for U.S. federal income tax purposes equal to the lesser of (i) the amount of cash (excluding cash that you receive in lieu of fractional shares of Hologic common stock) that you receive and (ii) the amount of gain that you realize, which generally is equal to the sum of (a) the amount of cash that you receive plus (b) the fair market value of any Hologic common stock that you receive, over your tax basis in the shares of Cytac common stock that you surrender pursuant to the merger. In addition, if you receive cash in lieu of a fractional share of Hologic common stock, you will recognize gain or loss based on the difference between the cash you receive for such fractional share and your tax basis allocable to the fractional share.

You should read Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger beginning on page 111 for a more complete discussion of the United States federal income tax consequences of the merger.

If you are a Hologic stockholder, you will simply retain your shares of Hologic common stock, and the merger therefore will not be taxable to you.

Tax matters can be complicated and the tax consequences of the merger to you will depend on your particular tax situation. We recommend that you consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the merger to you.

Q: When and where are the Hologic and Cytac special meetings?

A: Hologic special meeting. The Hologic special meeting will be held on October 18, 2007 at 9:00 a.m., local time, at Hologic's principal executive offices located at 35 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts 01730, to consider and vote on the proposals related to the merger and certain other proposals.

Cytac special meeting. The Cytac special meeting will be held on October 18, 2007 at 9:00 a.m., local time, at The Hilton Boston Logan Airport, One Hotel Drive, Boston, Massachusetts 02128 to consider and vote on the proposals related to the merger.

Q: What are Hologic stockholders being asked to vote on?

Edgar Filing: HOLOGIC INC - Form 424B3

- A: Hologic stockholders are being asked to vote (i) to approve an amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock, (ii) to approve the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock to Cytoc stockholders in connection with the merger, (iii) to approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan, (iv) to approve an amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan, and (v) if submitted to a vote of Hologic stockholders, to approve the adjournment of the Hologic special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of any of the foregoing proposals.

Q: Why are Hologic stockholders being asked to approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan?

A: Hologic is submitting the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan for stockholder approval as required by Section 162(m) of the Code. If the plan is approved by stockholders and the terms of the plan are satisfied, the payment of bonuses to certain executive officers of Hologic will be fully deductible by Hologic as qualified performance-based compensation under Section 162(m) of the Code.

Q: Why are Hologic stockholders being asked to approve an amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan?

Following completion of the merger, the combined company will be a much larger company with significantly more employees. The Hologic board of directors believes the combined company will need a significant number of shares available to provide equity-based incentive compensation to the directors, officers and other employees of the combined company following the merger.

A: In order to complete the merger, Hologic stockholders must approve the amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger, and Cytyc stockholders must adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

Hologic stockholders.

If you abstain from voting or do not vote (either in person or by proxy), or fail to direct your broker how to vote, it will have the same effect as a vote AGAINST the proposal to approve the amendment to the Hologic charter.

If you abstain from voting or do not vote (either in person or by proxy), or fail to direct your broker how to vote, it will have NO EFFECT on the proposals to approve the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger, the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan, the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan or to adjourn the Hologic special meeting to solicit additional proxies in favor of any of the foregoing proposals to be acted upon at the Hologic special meeting.

Q: If my shares are held in street name by my broker, will my broker vote my shares for me?

A:

Edgar Filing: HOLOGIC INC - Form 424B3

Your broker is not permitted to decide how your shares should be voted. Your broker will only vote your shares on a proposal if you provide your broker with voting instructions on that proposal. You should instruct your broker to vote your shares by following the directions that your broker provides you. Please check the voting information form used by your broker to see if it offers telephone or Internet voting.

Q: What if I fail to instruct my broker?

A: If you fail to instruct your broker to vote your shares, they will not be voted at your company's special meeting and will have the consequences set forth under Why is my vote important?

Table of Contents

Q: What will happen if I return my proxy card without indicating how to vote?

A. If you sign and send in your proxy and do not indicate how you want to vote on any particular proposal, the Hologic or Cytyc common stock represented by your proxy will be voted FOR that proposal.

Q: What do I do if I want to change my vote?

A: You can change your vote at any time before your proxy is voted at your company's special meeting. You can do this in one of four ways:

you can send a signed notice of revocation;

you can grant a new, valid proxy by executing a new proxy card bearing a later date;

you can vote at a later time by telephone or through the Internet; or if you are a holder of record, you can attend the applicable special meeting and vote in person, but your attendance alone will not revoke any proxy that you have previously given.

If you choose either of the first two methods, your notice of revocation or your new proxy must be received by your company's corporate secretary at the address provided under The Companies beginning on page 7 no later than the beginning of the applicable special meeting. If you are a Hologic stockholder, you can find further details on how to revoke your proxy in The Hologic Special Meeting Revocation of Proxies beginning on page 139. If you are a Cytyc stockholder, you can find further details on how to revoke your proxy in The Cytyc Special Meeting Revocation of Proxies beginning on page 142.

If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information forwarded by your bank, broker or other holder of record to see which options are available to you.

Q: Can I dissent and require appraisal of my shares?

A: Hologic stockholders. Under Delaware law, Hologic stockholders have no right to an appraisal of the fair value of their shares in connection with the merger.

Cytyc stockholders. Under Delaware law, instead of receiving the merger consideration, Cytyc stockholders are entitled to demand to have the fair value of their shares at the effective time of the merger judicially determined and paid to them in cash. A stockholder who desires to exercise appraisal rights must (i) not vote in favor of the merger, (ii) deliver a written demand for appraisal of his or her shares to the corporate secretary of Cytyc before the vote on the merger at the Cytyc special meeting and (iii) otherwise comply with the provisions of Delaware law. You should carefully read and follow the instructions under The Merger Appraisal Rights beginning on page 107 if you wish to exercise your appraisal rights.

Q: What do I do now?

A: Carefully read and consider the information contained in and incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus, including its annexes.

In order for your shares to be represented at your special stockholders meeting:

you can vote by telephone or through the Internet by following the instructions included on your proxy card;

you can indicate on the enclosed proxy card how you would like to vote and sign and return the proxy card in the accompanying pre-addressed postage paid envelope; or you can attend your special meeting and vote in person.

Q: Should stockholders send in their stock certificates with their proxies?

A: No. Cytyc stockholders should not send in their stock certificates at this time. If the merger is completed, Hologic's exchange agent will send former Cytyc stockholders a letter of transmittal and written instructions explaining what they must do to exchange their Cytyc stock certificates or transfer uncertificated shares for the merger consideration payable to them.

Hologic stockholders will retain their current stock certificates after the merger and should not send in their stock certificates.

Q: When do you expect to complete the merger?

A: Hologic and Cytyc are working to complete the merger as quickly as practicable. However, Hologic and Cytyc cannot assure you when or if the merger will be completed. Completion of the merger is subject to satisfaction or waiver of the conditions specified in the merger agreement, including receipt of the necessary approvals of each of Hologic's and Cytyc's stockholders at their respective special meetings and any necessary regulatory approvals. It is possible that factors outside the control of both companies could result in the merger being completed later than expected. Although the exact timing of completion of the merger cannot be predicted with certainty, Hologic and Cytyc anticipate completing the merger in mid-October 2007. See "The Merger Agreement - Conditions to Completion of the Merger" beginning on page 129.

The Merger

The Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of May 20, 2007, among Hologic, Cytyc and Norwester Corp., which is referred to as the merger agreement, is attached as Annex A to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Cytyc and Hologic encourage you to read carefully the merger agreement in its entirety because it is the principal legal agreement that governs the merger.

Structure of the Merger (see page 117)

Subject to the terms and conditions of the merger agreement, at the effective time of the merger, Cytyc will merge with and into Norwester Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic that was formed for the purpose of the merger, with Norwester Corp. surviving the merger as a direct, wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic. At the effective time of the merger, Norwester Corp. will be renamed Cytyc Corporation.

Merger Consideration (see page 117)

Cytyc stockholders. As a result of the merger, Cytyc stockholders will be entitled to receive, for each issued and outstanding share of Cytyc common stock that they own immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, 0.52 of a share, referred to as the exchange ratio, of Hologic common stock, referred to as the stock merger consideration, and $16.50 in cash without interest, referred to as the cash merger consideration. The combined company will not issue any fractional shares of Hologic common stock in the merger. Instead, Cytyc stockholders will receive cash in lieu of any fractional shares of Hologic common stock that they would have otherwise received in the merger. The amount of cash for fractional shares will be calculated by multiplying the fraction of a share of Hologic common stock to which the Cytyc stockholder would be entitled to receive in the merger by the closing sale price of a share of Hologic common stock on the closing date of the merger. The stock merger consideration, together with the cash merger consideration and any cash received in lieu of fractional shares, is referred to as the merger consideration.

Hologic stockholders. Hologic stockholders will continue to own their existing shares of Hologic common stock after the merger. Hologic stockholders should not send in their stock certificates in connection with the merger.

Ownership of the Combined Company After the Merger

Hologic will issue approximately 65.1 million shares of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger based on the number of shares of Cytyc common stock outstanding on June 30, 2007, assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024. At the completion of the merger, it is expected that there will be outstanding approximately 119.1 million shares of common stock of the combined company. The shares of Hologic common stock issued to former Cytyc stockholders in the merger will represent approximately 55% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company immediately after the merger. Shares of Hologic common stock held by current Hologic stockholders will represent approximately 45% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company immediately after the merger.

Treatment of Cytyc Stock Options and Other Equity Based Awards (see page 118)

Outstanding Cytyc stock options at the effective time of the merger will be converted into options to purchase Hologic common stock, with appropriate adjustments made to the number of shares and the exercise price under those options based on the value of the merger consideration. Outstanding Cytyc restricted stock units at the effective time of the merger will be converted into the right to receive, on the same terms and conditions as were applicable to the Cytyc restricted stock units, Hologic common stock, with appropriate adjustments made to the number of shares based on the value of the merger consideration. Outstanding Cytyc performance shares and accrued shares issuable to Cytyc directors will vest as of the effective time of the merger and the holders thereof will be entitled to receive the merger consideration on the same basis as all other shares of Cytyc common stock. Outstanding deferred shares granted under Cytyc's amended and restated director compensation plan will, at the effective time of the merger, be converted into shares of Hologic common stock based on the value of the merger consideration.

Interests of Hologic's and Cytyc's Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger (see pages 75 and 95)

When you consider the Hologic and Cytyc board of directors' respective recommendations that stockholders vote in favor of the proposals described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus, you should be aware that (i) some Cytyc executive officers and directors may have interests that may be different from, or in addition to, Cytyc stockholders' interests, including but not limited to, their receipt of change of control payments under existing Cytyc change of control agreements in connection with the merger, entry into new change of control agreements and retention and severance agreements with Hologic, new employment arrangements with Hologic, accelerated vesting of Cytyc stock options and other equity awards at the effective time of the merger, and the right of Cytyc's executive officers and directors to continued indemnification and insurance coverage for acts or omissions occurring before the merger; and (ii) some Hologic executive officers and directors may have interests that may be different from, or in addition to, Hologic stockholders' interests, including but not limited to, accelerated vesting of stock options and other equity awards upon completion of the merger, payments under change of control agreements in connection with the merger, and a new retention and severance agreement for one executive officer.

Appraisal Rights (see page 107)

Under the General Corporation Law of the State of Delaware, referred to as the DGCL, instead of receiving the merger consideration, Cytyc stockholders are entitled to demand to have the fair value of their shares at the effective time of the merger judicially determined and paid to them in cash. A stockholder who desires to exercise appraisal rights must (i) not vote in favor of the merger, (ii) deliver a written demand for appraisal of his or her shares to the corporate secretary of Cytyc before the vote on the merger at the Cytyc special meeting and (iii) otherwise comply with the provisions of the DGCL. You should carefully read and follow the instructions under The Merger Appraisal Rights commencing on page 107 if you wish to exercise your appraisal rights.

Under the DGCL, Hologic stockholders have no right to an appraisal of the fair value of their shares in connection with the merger.

Hologic and Cytyc intend for the merger to qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code. If you are a Cytyc stockholder, you generally will recognize income or gain for U.S. federal income tax purposes equal to the lesser of (i) the amount of cash (excluding cash that you receive in lieu of fractional shares of Hologic common stock) that you receive and (ii) the amount of gain that you realize, which generally is equal to the sum of (a) the amount of cash that you receive plus (b) the fair market value of any Hologic common stock that you receive, over your tax basis in the shares of Cytyc common stock that you surrender pursuant to the merger. Your income or gain may vary if you acquired your Cytyc common stock in more than one transaction. In addition, if you receive cash in lieu of a fractional share of Hologic common stock, you will recognize gain or loss based on the difference between the cash you receive for such fractional share and your tax basis allocable to the fractional share.

You should read Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger beginning on page 111 for a more complete discussion of the U.S. federal income tax consequences of the merger.

If you are a Hologic stockholder, you will simply retain your shares of Hologic common stock, and the merger therefore will not be taxable to you.

Tax matters can be complicated and the tax consequences of the merger to you will depend on your particular tax situation. We recommend that you consult your tax advisor to determine the tax consequences of the merger to you.

Accounting Treatment (see page 105)

Hologic prepares its financial statements in accordance with U.S. GAAP. The merger will be accounted for using the purchase method of accounting. As discussed under The Merger Accounting Treatment on page 105, based on the facts that Hologic board members and senior management will control and represent a majority of the board of directors and senior management of the combined company, as well as the terms of the exchange, pursuant to which Cytyc stockholders will receive a premium of approximately 32.5% (as of the date preceding the merger announcement) over the fair market value of their shares on such date and cash of $16.50 per share (or approximately 36.0% of the merger consideration), Hologic is considered to be the acquirer of Cytyc for accounting purposes. This means that Hologic will allocate the purchase price to the fair value of Cytyc's assets and liabilities at the effective time of the merger, with the excess purchase price being recorded as goodwill. Under the purchase method of accounting, goodwill is not amortized but is tested for impairment at least annually.

Hologic and Cytac have each agreed to use their reasonable best efforts in order to obtain all regulatory approvals required in order to complete the merger. These approvals include approvals by the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, the U.S. Department of Justice and state antitrust authorities. Hologic and Cytac each submitted their antitrust filings with the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Federal Trade Commission on June 1, 2007, which commenced the initial waiting period of 30 days. On July 2, 2007, the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, referred to as the HSR Act, expired without a request for additional information. Based on the review and analyses performed, Hologic and Cytac do not believe that any other antitrust related filings are required in any foreign jurisdictions.

Listing of Hologic Common Stock (see page 128)

Hologic has agreed to use its commercially reasonable efforts to cause the shares of Hologic common stock to be issued in the merger to be approved for listing on the Nasdaq Global Select Market.

Conditions to Completion of the Merger (see page 129)

The obligations of each of Hologic and Cytac to complete the merger are subject to the satisfaction at or before the effective time of the merger of a number of mutual conditions, including the following:

adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, by Cytac stockholders;

approval of the amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock and the issuance of the Hologic common stock in the merger, by Hologic stockholders;

absence of any applicable law, rule, order, injunction or judgment prohibiting or preventing the completion of the merger;

the applicable waiting period under the HSR Act or under any similar foreign statutes or regulations applicable to the merger shall have expired or terminated or, where applicable, approval shall have been obtained, except where the failure of which to expire, terminate or be obtained would not reasonably be expected to materially and adversely affect Cytac or Hologic, taken as a whole, or would not reasonably be expected to result in criminal liability;

Hologic's registration statement on Form S-4, which includes this joint proxy statement/prospectus, being effective and not subject to any SEC stop order;

approval for the listing on the Nasdaq Global Select Market of the shares of Hologic common stock to be issued in the merger subject to official notice of issuance;

receipt of all required approvals of any governmental body, agency, official or authority, except those that would not reasonably be expected to (i) materially and adversely diminish the benefits expected to be derived by the parties on the date of the merger agreement from the combination of Hologic and Cytac (the combined business to be taken as a whole); or (ii) otherwise have a regulatory material adverse effect as described in the merger agreement; and absence of any applicable law, rule, order, injunction or judgment enacted or deemed applicable to the merger that would reasonably be expected to (i) materially and adversely diminish the benefits expected to be derived by the parties on the date of the merger agreement from the combination of Hologic and Cytac (the combined business to be taken as a whole); or (ii) otherwise have a regulatory material adverse effect as described in the merger agreement.

Table of Contents

In addition, the obligations of each of Hologic and Cytyc to complete the merger are subject to the satisfaction or waiver at or before the effective time of the merger of the following additional conditions:

the other party shall have performed in all material respects all of its obligations required to be performed by it at or prior to the effective time;

the representations and warranties of the other party shall be accurate, to the extent specified in the merger agreement;

no material adverse effect, as defined in the merger agreement, shall have occurred and be continuing with respect to the other party since May 20, 2007; and receipt of opinions of counsel to that party that the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code, and that Hologic, Cytyc and Norwester Corp. will qualify as parties to a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(b) of the Code.

The obligations of Hologic to complete the merger are further conditioned on the requirement that holders of no greater than 10% of the issued and outstanding common stock of Cytyc shall have demanded appraisal for such shares in accordance with the DGCL.

Hologic and Cytyc can mutually agree to terminate the merger agreement at any time. In connection with the merger, the parties have reached certain agreements regarding the governance of Hologic at the effective time of the merger, including the following:

Hologic Board of Directors. The board of directors of Hologic will consist of eleven directors, six of whom will be designated by Hologic and five of whom will be designated by Cytyc. Four of the six persons designated by Hologic will be independent directors as defined under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be John W. Cumming, current chairman and chief executive officer of Hologic, and Glenn P. Muir, current chief financial officer of Hologic. Three of the five persons designated by Cytyc will be independent directors as defined under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be Patrick J. Sullivan, current chairman, chief executive officer and president of Cytyc, and Daniel J. Levangie, current executive vice president of Cytyc and president of Cytyc surgical products.

Committees of the Hologic Board of Directors. The board of directors of Hologic will have audit, compensation, nominating and corporate governance, and corporate development committees. The audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees will each consist of an odd number of directors, consisting of one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors, and the chairman of each of these committees will be a continuing Hologic director. The compensation committee will consist of an even number of directors, consisting of an equal number of continuing Cytyc directors and continuing Hologic directors, and the chairman of the compensation committee will be a continuing Cytyc director.

These amendments include provisions giving effect to the governance provisions described above under Board of Directors and Corporate Governance After the Merger and providing for mandatory indemnification for directors and officers to the extent permitted by Delaware law.

Special Meetings of Hologic and Cytyc Stockholders

Hologic Special Meeting (see page 135)

Meeting. The Hologic special meeting will be held on October 18, 2007, at 9:00 a.m., local time, at Hologic's principal executive offices located at 35 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts 01730. At the Hologic special meeting, Hologic stockholders will be asked:

to approve an amendment to Hologic's charter, effective immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, to increase the authorized number of shares of Hologic common stock from 90,000,000 to 300,000,000 shares;

to approve the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger;

to approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan; to approve the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan; and if submitted to a vote of Hologic stockholders, to approve an adjournment of the Hologic special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of any of the foregoing proposals.

Table of Contents

Record Date; Votes. Hologic has fixed the close of business on August 22, 2007 as the record date, which is referred to as the Hologic record date, for determining the Hologic stockholders entitled to receive notice of and to vote at the Hologic special meeting. Only holders of record of Hologic common stock on the Hologic record date are entitled to receive notice of and vote at the Hologic special meeting, and any adjournment or postponement thereof.

Each share of Hologic common stock is entitled to one vote. On the Hologic record date, there were approximately 53,947,712 shares of Hologic common stock entitled to vote at the Hologic special meeting.

Required Vote. The Hologic proposals require different percentages of votes for approval:

the proposal to amend the Hologic charter requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of Hologic common stock entitled to vote on the proposal;

the proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock to Cytac stockholders in the merger, the proposal to approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan, and the proposal to approve the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated Equity Incentive Plan each require the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast in person or by proxy at the Hologic special meeting; and the proposal to adjourn the Hologic special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies if there are not sufficient votes for the foregoing proposals requires the affirmative vote of a majority of votes cast in person or by proxy, whether or not a quorum is present at the Hologic special meeting.

The proposal to amend the Hologic charter and the proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock to Cytac stockholders in the merger are conditioned on one another and the approval of each of these proposals is a condition to the completion of the merger. Neither the amendment to the Hologic charter nor the issuance of the Hologic common stock to Cytac stockholders in the merger will take place unless both of these proposals are approved by the Hologic stockholders. Therefore, the merger cannot be completed without the approval of both proposals.

Stock Ownership of Hologic Directors and Executive Officers. On August 22, 2007, the Hologic record date, directors and executive officers of Hologic and their respective affiliates owned and were entitled to vote approximately 331,330 shares of Hologic common stock, or approximately 0.6% of the shares of Hologic common stock outstanding on that date. To Hologic's knowledge, the directors and executive officers of Hologic and their respective affiliates intend to vote their shares of Hologic common stock in favor of all Hologic proposals at the Hologic special meeting.

Meeting. The Cytac special meeting will be held on October 18, 2007, at 9:00 a.m., local time, at The Hilton Boston Logan Airport, One Hotel Drive, Boston, Massachusetts 02128. At the Cytac special meeting, Cytac stockholders will be asked:

to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, pursuant to which Cytac will become a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic; and if submitted to a vote of Cytac stockholders, to approve an adjournment of the Cytac special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement if there are not sufficient votes for such proposal.

Record Date; Votes. Cytac has fixed the close of business on August 22, 2007 as the record date, which is referred to as the Cytac record date, for determining the Cytac stockholders entitled to receive notice of and to vote at the Cytac special meeting. Only holders of record of Cytac common stock on the Cytac record date are entitled to receive notice of and vote at the Cytac special meeting, and any adjournment or postponement thereof.

Each share of Cytac common stock is entitled to one vote. On the Cytac record date, there were 117,627,349 shares of Cytac common stock entitled to vote at the Cytac special meeting.

the proposal for the adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of Cytac common stock entitled to vote at the Cytac special meeting; and the proposal to adjourn the Cytac special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement, requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast by stockholders present in person or represented by proxy, whether or not a quorum is present, at the Cytac special meeting.

The following unaudited pro forma balance sheet data at June 30, 2007 reflect the merger as if it had occurred on that date. Such pro forma financial data is based on the historical financial statements of Hologic and Cytyc and gives effect to the merger under the purchase method of accounting for business combinations. As a result, the pro forma financial information is based on certain assumptions and adjustments as discussed in the section titled "Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information", including assumptions relating to the consideration paid and the allocation thereof for the assets and liabilities of Cytyc based on preliminary estimates of their fair value. The following should be read in connection with the sections titled "Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Information", and other information included in or incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Table of Contents

The table below sets forth the closing sale prices of Hologic common stock and Cytyc common stock as reported on the Nasdaq Global Select Market, each on May 18, 2007, the last trading day prior to the public announcement of the transaction, and on September 11, 2007. The table also shows the implied value of one share of Cytyc common stock, which was calculated by multiplying the closing price of Hologic common stock on those dates by the exchange ratio of 0.52 and then adding to this amount $16.50 per share for the cash portion of the merger consideration. The market prices of Hologic and Cytyc common stock likely will fluctuate between the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus and the time of the special meetings and the completion of the merger. No assurance can be given concerning the market prices of Hologic common stock or Cytyc common stock before the completion of the merger or the market price of Hologic common stock after the completion of the merger. The merger consideration is fixed in the merger agreement and will not be adjusted for changes in the market value of the common stock of Hologic or Cytyc. One result of this is that the market value of the Hologic common stock that Cytyc stockholders will receive in the merger may vary significantly from the prices shown in the table below.

	Cytyc Common Stock	Hologic Common Stock	Implied Value of Cytyc Common Stock
May 18, 2007	$ 35.05	$ 57.61	$ 46.46
September 11, 2007	$ 43.66	$ 53.74	$ 44.44

Cytyc stockholders should obtain current market prices for shares of Hologic common stock and Cytyc common stock in deciding whether to vote for the adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger. Hologic stockholders should obtain current market prices for shares of Hologic and Cytyc common stock in deciding whether to vote for the approval of the amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger.

Dividends

Hologic has never declared or paid cash dividends on its capital stock and does not plan to pay any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Hologic's current policy is to retain all of its earnings to finance future growth. In addition, Hologic's $150 million credit facility with Bank of America N.A., as administrative agent, prohibits it from declaring or paying any cash dividends. The proposed new credit facilities expected to be obtained by Hologic in connection with the merger will also contain restrictions on the payment of dividends following the merger.

Cytyc has never declared nor paid cash dividends on its capital stock and does not expect to pay any cash dividends in the foreseeable future.

RISK FACTORS

In addition to the other information included in or incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus, including the matters addressed in Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements below and the additional risks relating to Cytyc included in Annex B of this joint proxy statement/prospectus under the heading Information about Cytyc Risk Factors, you should carefully consider the following risk factors before deciding whether to vote for the adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, in the case of Cytyc stockholders, or for the amendment to the Hologic charter or the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, in the case of Hologic stockholders. If any of the risks described below, elsewhere in this joint proxy statement/prospectus or in the periodic reports incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus actually occurs, the respective businesses, financial results, financial condition, operating results or stock prices of Hologic, Cytyc or the combined company could be materially adversely affected. See Where You Can Find More Information, beginning on page 197 and Annex B, Information about Cytyc Risk Factors.

RISKS RELATED TO THE MERGER

Because the market price of Hologic common stock may fluctuate, and the closing date of the merger is not yet ascertainable, Cytyc stockholders cannot be certain of the precise value of the merger consideration they will receive in the merger.

Upon completion of the merger, each share of Cytyc common stock outstanding immediately prior to the merger will be cancelled and converted into the right to receive merger consideration equal to 0.52 of a share of Hologic common stock and $16.50 in cash. The merger consideration is fixed and will not be adjusted due to any increases or decreases in the price of Hologic common stock or Cytyc common stock. However, the value of Hologic common stock to be received by Cytyc stockholders in the merger will depend upon the market price of a share of Hologic common stock upon the completion of the merger. Therefore, if the price of Hologic common stock declines, Cytyc stockholders will receive less value for their shares upon the completion of the merger than the implied value of the merger consideration calculated on the date the merger agreement was signed or on the date of the Cytyc special meeting.

The merger may not be completed until a period of time after the Hologic special meeting and the Cytyc special meeting, during which time the market value of Hologic common stock and Cytyc common stock will likely fluctuate. Therefore, at the time of their respective special meetings, Hologic and Cytyc stockholders will not know the exact market value of Hologic common stock that will be issued in connection with the merger. The market price of a share of Hologic common stock at the time the merger is completed is likely to be different, and may be lower, than it was at the time the merger agreement was signed and at the time of the special meetings. The closing price of Hologic common stock on the Nasdaq Global Select Market on May 18, 2007 was $57.61 per share. From May 21, 2007 through the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, the trading price of Hologic common stock ranged from a high of $58.32 per share to a low of $47.51 per share. For Hologic and Cytyc historical market prices, see Comparative Per Share Market Price and Dividend Information beginning on page 24.

Stock price changes may result from a variety of factors, including, but not limited to:

changes in the business, operations or prospects of Hologic or Cytyc; catastrophic events, both natural and man-made;

governmental, litigation and regulatory developments or considerations;

quarterly fluctuations in either of the companies' actual or anticipated operating results;

announcements of technological innovations;

new products or product enhancements by either of the companies or their respective competitors;

developments in patents or other intellectual property rights and litigation; developments in relationships with either of the companies' customers and suppliers;

interest rates;

general market and economic conditions;

market assessments as to whether and when the merger will be completed and market assessments of the condition, results or prospects of either company's business; and changes in reimbursement rates.

Stockholders of Hologic and Cytyc are urged to obtain current market prices for Hologic and Cytyc common stock when they consider whether to approve the proposals required to complete the merger at their respective special meetings.

Failure to complete the merger could negatively impact the stock prices and the future business and financial results of Hologic and Cytyc.

If the merger is not completed, the ongoing businesses of Hologic or Cytyc may be adversely affected and Hologic and Cytyc will be subject to several risks, including the following:

being required, under certain circumstances under the merger agreement, to pay a termination fee of between $50 million and $150 million, in the case of a payment by Cytyc to Hologic, or between $33 million and $100 million, in the case of a payment by Hologic to Cytyc;

having to pay significant costs relating to the merger, such as legal, accounting, financial advisor and printing fees;

the attention of management of Hologic and Cytyc will have been diverted to the merger instead of on such company's own operations and pursuit of other opportunities that could have been beneficial to such company; and customer perception may be negatively impacted which could affect the ability of Hologic and Cytyc to compete for, or to win, new and renewal business in the marketplace.

Obtaining required approvals and satisfying closing conditions may delay or prevent completion of the merger or reduce the anticipated benefits of the merger.

Completion of the merger is conditioned upon the receipt of all material governmental authorizations, consents, orders and approvals, including the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting periods under the HSR Act. Hologic and Cytyc intend to pursue all required approvals in accordance with the merger agreement. If the companies do not receive these approvals, or do not receive them on terms that satisfy the conditions set forth in the merger agreement, then neither company will be obligated to complete the merger. On July 2, 2007, the waiting period under the HSR Act expired without a request for additional information.

The governmental agencies from which the companies will seek these approvals have broad discretion in administering the governing regulations. As a condition to approval of the merger, agencies may impose requirements, limitations or costs or require divestitures or place restrictions on the conduct of the combined company's business. These requirements, limitations, costs, divestitures or restrictions could jeopardize or delay the completion of the merger or may reduce the anticipated benefits of the merger. Further, no assurance can be given that the required consents and approvals will be obtained or that the required conditions to closing will be satisfied, and, if all required consents and approvals are obtained and the conditions to the completion of the merger are satisfied, no assurance can be given as to the terms, conditions and timing of the approvals.

The combined company may be unable to successfully integrate Hologic's and Cytyc's operations or to realize the anticipated cost savings, revenues and other benefits of the merger. As a result, the value of the combined company's common stock may be adversely affected.

Hologic and Cytyc entered into the merger agreement because each company believes that the merger will be beneficial to each of Hologic, Cytyc and their respective stockholders. Currently, each company operates as an independent public company. Achieving the anticipated benefits of the merger will depend in part upon whether the two companies integrate their businesses in an efficient and effective manner. The companies may not be able to accomplish this integration process smoothly or successfully. The necessity of coordinating geographically separated organizations, systems and facilities and addressing possible differences in business backgrounds, corporate cultures and management philosophies may increase the difficulties of integration. The companies operate numerous systems, including those involving management information, purchasing, accounting and finance, sales, billing, employee benefits, payroll and regulatory compliance. The integration of certain operations following the merger will require the dedication of significant management resources, which may temporarily distract management's attention from the day-to-day business of the combined company. Employee uncertainty and lack of focus during the integration process may also disrupt the business of the combined company and result in undesired employee attrition. Any inability of management to successfully integrate the operations of the two companies could have a material adverse effect on the business and results of operations of the combined company. The companies may not be able to achieve the anticipated operating and cost synergies or long-term strategic benefits of the merger. An inability to realize the full extent of, or any of, the anticipated benefits of the merger, as well as any delays encountered in the integration process, could have an adverse effect on the business and results of operations of the combined company, which may affect the value of the shares of the combined company's common stock after the completion of the merger.

Due to legal restrictions, Cytyc and Hologic have been able to conduct only limited planning regarding the integration of the two companies following the merger and have not yet determined the exact nature of how the businesses and operations of the two companies will be combined after the merger. The actual integration may result in additional and unforeseen expenses, and the anticipated benefits of the integration plan may not be realized.

The combined company will incur significant transaction and merger-related costs in connection with the merger.

Hologic and Cytyc expect to incur significant costs associated with combining the operations of the two companies. The substantial majority of the expenses resulting from the merger will be comprised of transaction costs related to the merger, systems consolidation costs, and business integration and employment related costs. Hologic and Cytyc will also incur transaction fees and costs related to formulating integration plans. Additional unanticipated costs may be incurred in the integration of the two companies' businesses. Due to legal restrictions, Cytyc and Hologic have been able to conduct only limited planning regarding the integration of the two companies and have not yet been able to formulate detailed integration plans to deliver anticipated synergies. Although Hologic and Cytyc expect that the elimination of duplicative costs, as well as the realization of other efficiencies related to the integration of the businesses, should allow them to offset incremental transaction and merger-related costs over time, this net benefit may not be achieved in the near term, or at all.

Whether or not the merger is completed, the announcement and pendency of the merger could impact or cause disruptions in Cytyc's and Hologic's businesses, which could have an adverse effect on their results of operations and financial condition.

Specifically:

current and prospective customers and suppliers of Hologic and Cytyc may experience uncertainty associated with the merger, including with respect to current or future business relationships with Hologic, Cytyc or the combined company and may attempt to negotiate changes in existing business relationships or consider entering into business relationships with parties other than Hologic, Cytyc or the combined company, either before or after completion of the merger;

Cytyc and Hologic employees may experience uncertainty about their future roles with the combined company, which might adversely affect Cytyc's and Hologic's ability to retain and hire key employees;

if the merger is completed, the accelerated vesting of stock options and other equity-based awards and payment of change in control benefits to some members of Cytyc's and Hologic's management on completion of the merger could result in increased difficulty or cost in retaining Cytyc's and Hologic's officers and employees; and the attention of management of each of Cytyc and Hologic may be directed toward the completion of the merger and transaction-related considerations and may be diverted from the day-to-day business operations of their respective companies.

Certain directors and executive officers of Hologic and Cytyc have interests that may be different from, or in addition to, interests of Hologic and Cytyc stockholders generally.

Some directors and executive officers of Hologic and Cytyc may have interests that differ from yours. For example, some directors and executive officers have employment, indemnification and severance arrangements, rights to acceleration of stock options and other equity-based awards, and other benefits they may receive on a change in control of Hologic or Cytyc, as the case may be, that provide them with interests in the merger that may be different from yours. You should be aware of these interests when you consider your board of directors' recommendation that you vote in favor of the proposals submitted at your stockholder meeting.

The deal-protection provisions of the merger agreement may deter alternative business combinations and could negatively impact the stock prices of Hologic and Cytyc if the merger agreement is terminated.

As a result of certain provisions of the merger agreement, it is possible that a third party who might be interested in pursuing a business combination proposal with Hologic or Cytyc would be discouraged from doing so. Any such proposal might be advantageous to the stockholders of Hologic and Cytyc when compared to the terms and conditions of the transaction described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. In particular, the termination fee provision of the merger agreement may deter third parties from proposing alternative business combinations that might result in greater value to Hologic and Cytyc stockholders than the merger. In addition, in the event the merger agreement is terminated by Hologic or Cytyc in circumstances that obligate either party to pay a termination fee to the other party, Hologic's or Cytyc's stock price may decline as a result of its payment of the termination fee.

The merger is expected to have a dilutive effect on Hologic's earnings per share calculated in accordance with U.S. GAAP, which may adversely affect the market price of Hologic's common stock following the merger.

The merger is expected to have a dilutive effect on earnings per share of Hologic calculated in accordance with U.S. GAAP primarily due to the amortization of the intangible assets in connection with the merger. These expectations are based on preliminary estimates which may materially change after the completion of the merger. The combined company could also encounter additional transaction and integration-related costs or other factors such as the failure to realize all of the benefits anticipated in the merger. All of these factors could cause further dilution to the earnings per share of the combined company or cause a decrease in the price of common stock of the combined company.

Charges to earnings resulting from the application of the purchase method of accounting may adversely affect the market value of the combined company's common stock following the merger.

In accordance with U.S. GAAP, Hologic will be considered the acquirer of Cytyc for accounting purposes. Hologic will account for the merger using the purchase method of accounting, which will result in charges to the combined company's earnings that could adversely affect the market value of Hologic's common stock following the completion of the merger. Under the purchase method of accounting, Hologic will allocate the total purchase price to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed from Cytyc based on their fair values as of the date of the effective time of the merger, and record any excess of the purchase price over those fair values as goodwill. For certain tangible and intangible assets, recording their fair values as of the completion date of the merger will result in the combined company incurring significant additional depreciation and/or amortization expense that exceed the combined amounts recorded by Hologic and Cytyc prior to the merger. This increased expense will be recorded by the combined company over the useful lives of the underlying assets. In addition, to the extent the value of goodwill or intangible assets were to become impaired, the combined company may be required to incur charges relating to the impairment of those assets.

RISKS RELATED TO INDEBTEDNESS OF THE COMBINED COMPANY

Hologic will incur significant indebtedness in order to finance the merger, which will limit the combined company's operating flexibility, and could adversely affect the combined company's operations and financial results and prevent the combined company from fulfilling its obligations.

In order to finance the cash portion of the merger consideration and other expenses incurred in connection with the merger, Hologic intends to incur up to approximately $2.55 billion of new indebtedness, including approximately $250 million under a five year senior secured tranche A term loan facility, $850 million under a 5.5 year senior secured tranche B term loan facility, approximately $1.25 billion under an 18 month senior secured capital markets term loan facility and up to $200 million of additional indebtedness under its proposed new five year revolving credit facility. Additionally, certain other of Hologic's and Cytyc's current indebtedness may remain outstanding. These new credit facilities are anticipated to bear interest at variable rates to be determined. This level of indebtedness may:

make it more difficult for the combined company to satisfy its obligations with respect to its outstanding indebtedness; increase the combined company's vulnerability to general adverse economic and industry conditions, including increases in interest rates; require the combined company to dedicate a substantial portion of its cash flow from operations to interest and principal payments on its indebtedness, which would reduce the availability of its cash flow to fund working capital, capital expenditures, expansion efforts and other general corporate purposes; limit the combined company's flexibility in planning for, or reacting to, changes in its business and the industry in which it operates; place the combined company at a competitive disadvantage compared to its competitors that have less debt; and limit the combined company's ability to borrow additional funds for working capital, capital expenditures, general corporate purposes or acquisitions.

In addition, the terms of the financing obligations to be incurred by the combined company in connection with the merger will contain covenants that restrict the combined company's ability, and that of its subsidiaries, to engage in certain transactions and may impair the combined company's ability to respond to changing business and economic conditions, including, among other things, limitations on the ability to:

incur additional indebtedness;

pay dividends and make distributions;

repurchase stock;

make certain investments;

create liens;

engage in transactions with affiliates;

merge with or acquire another company; and transfer and sell assets.

The combined company's proposed new credit facilities are also anticipated to require the combined company to satisfy certain financial covenants.

The combined company's ability to comply with these provisions may be affected by general economic conditions, political decisions, industry conditions and other events beyond the combined company's control. The combined company's failure to comply with the covenants contained in the proposed new credit facilities, including financial covenants, could result in an event of default, which could materially and adversely affect the combined company's results of operation and financial condition.

If there were an event of default under one of the combined company's debt instruments or a change of control of the combined company, the holders of the defaulted debt could cause all amounts outstanding with respect to that debt to be due and payable immediately and may be cross-defaulted to other debt. The combined company's assets or cash flow may not be sufficient to fully repay borrowings under its outstanding debt instruments if accelerated upon an event of default, and there is no guarantee that the combined company would be able to repay, refinance or restructure the payments on those debt securities.

The combined company may not be able to generate sufficient cash flow to service all of its obligations, including its obligations under its new credit facilities.

The combined company's ability to make payments on and to refinance its indebtedness, including the indebtedness incurred under the proposed new credit facilities, and to fund planned capital expenditures, strategic transactions and expansion efforts will depend on the combined company's ability to generate cash in the future. This, to a certain extent, is subject to general economic, financial, competitive, legislative, regulatory and other factors that are beyond the control of the combined company.

The combined company's business may not be able to generate sufficient cash flow from operations, and the combined company cannot assure that future borrowings will be available to it in amounts sufficient to enable it to pay its indebtedness as such indebtedness matures and to fund its other liquidity needs. If this is the case, the combined company will need to refinance all or a portion of its indebtedness on or before maturity, and there can be no assurance that it will be able to refinance any of its indebtedness, including its new credit facilities, on commercially reasonable terms, or at all. The combined company may need to adopt one or more alternatives, such as reducing or delaying planned expenses and capital expenditures, selling assets, restructuring debt, or obtaining additional equity or debt financing. These financing strategies may not be affected on satisfactory terms, if at all. The combined company's ability to refinance its indebtedness or obtain additional financing, or to do so on commercially reasonable terms, will depend on, among other things, its financial condition at the time, restrictions in agreements governing its indebtedness, and other factors, including the condition of the financial markets and the markets in which the combined company will compete.

If the combined company does not generate sufficient cash flow from operations, and additional borrowings, refinancings or proceeds of asset sales are not available to it, the combined company may not have sufficient cash to enable it to meet all of its obligations.

The combined company may not be able to effect its plans for a refinancing of a substantial portion of its new credit facilities with convertible debt or other equity or equity-linked financing, which could adversely affect the combined company's liquidity and results of operations, and, even if completed, such refinancing could result in substantial dilution to existing stockholders of the combined company.

As soon as practicable after the effective time of the merger, Hologic intends to cause the combined company to refinance a substantial portion of the debt incurred under the proposed new credit facilities with convertible debt or other equity or equity-linked financing, with reduced interest rates, extended maturity and limited or no restrictive or other financial covenants. The combined company's ability to effect this refinancing on commercially reasonable terms will depend on, among other things, its financial condition at the time and other factors, including the condition of the financial markets and the markets in which the combined company will compete. The combined company cannot assure that it will be able to effect this refinancing on a timely basis or on favorable terms, if at all, or that such financing will not result in significant dilution to existing stockholders. Failure of the combined company to effect timely such a refinancing would likely result in an increase in the ongoing interest expense and restrictive covenants, and could otherwise adversely effect the combined company's liquidity and results of operations.

The combined company will be required to enter into hedging transactions for its variable interest rate exposure under its proposed new credit facilities which could adversely affect its ability to repay all or a portion of those facilities without incurring additional costs, and will subject the combined company to risks of default by the counterparties to those transactions.

The terms of the combined company's proposed new credit facility will obligate the combined company to enter into hedging transactions to hedge a substantial portion of the interest rate risk under those facilities. If the combined company repays, redeems or repurchases (voluntarily or mandatorily) all or a portion of its new credit facilities prior to their scheduled maturities, the combined company's obligations under those hedging transactions may cease to match the combined company's obligations under the credit facilities, and could result in significant additional expense to the combined company. These hedging transactions may not qualify for effective hedge treatment in accordance with U.S. GAAP and as a result, any changes in fair value of hedge contracts could be required to be recorded to the statement of income. In addition, default by the counterparties to the combined company's hedging transactions could result in the combined company having to make interest payments at the variable rates payable under the new credit facilities and expose the combined company further to interest rate fluctuation risk under those credit facilities.

RISKS RELATED TO HOLOGIC, CYTYC AND COMBINED COMPANY

Sales and market acceptance of the combined company's products will be dependent on third party reimbursement. Failure of third party payors to provide appropriate levels of reimbursement for use of the combined company's products could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Sales and market acceptance of the combined company's medical products in the United States and other countries will be dependent on the reimbursement of patient's medical expenses by government healthcare programs and private health insurers. The costs of Hologic's and Cytyc's products to customers are substantial, and market acceptance of the combined company's products will continue to depend upon their customers' ability to obtain an appropriate level of reimbursement from third-party payors for use of their products. In the United States, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services, known as CMS, establish guidelines for the reimbursement of healthcare providers treating Medicare and Medicaid patients. Under current CMS guidelines, varying reimbursement levels have been established for Hologic's and Cytyc's products and procedures.

The actual reimbursement amounts are determined by individual state Medicare carriers and, for non-Medicare and Medicaid patients, private insurance carriers. There are often delays between the reimbursement approvals by CMS and by a state Medicare carrier and private insurance carriers. Moreover, states as well as private insurance carriers may choose not to follow the CMS reimbursement guidelines. The use of the combined company's products outside the United States will be similarly affected by reimbursement policies adopted by foreign governments' reimbursements and regulatory positions and insurance carriers.

In November 2006, the CMS announced reductions to the 2007 reimbursement levels for bone density assessments, CAD and breast biopsy. The most significant reductions applicable to the combined company's products were an approximately 40% decline in 2007 in reimbursement for osteoporosis (DXA) testing, which increases to an approximately 70% decline over four years, an approximately 30% decline in 2007 in reimbursement for stereotactic biopsy, which increases to an approximately 63% decline over four years, and an approximately 16% decline in reimbursement for CAD in 2007, which increases to an approximately 50% decline over four years. These reductions or any other reduction or adverse change in reimbursement policies for the use of the combined company's products could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

The combined company's business may be harmed by Hologic's and Cytoc's recently completed acquisitions.

Hologic and Cytoc have recently acquired a number of businesses, technologies, product lines, and products, including Suros Surgical Systems, Inc., R2 Technology, Inc. and AEG Elektrofotografie GmbH, in the case of Hologic, and Adeza Biomedical Corporation and Adiana, Inc., in the case of Cytoc. In addition, Hologic has recently entered into an agreement to acquire BioLucent, Inc. The success of these acquisitions will depend on the combined company's ability to realize the anticipated benefits from combining the acquired businesses with the combined company's business. The combined company may fail to realize these anticipated benefits for a number of reasons, including the following:

problems may arise with the combined company's ability to successfully integrate the acquired businesses, which may result in the combined company not operating as effectively and efficiently as expected, and may include:

diversion of management time, as well as a shift of focus from operating the businesses to issues related to integration and administration or inadequate management resources available for integration activity and oversight; failure to retain and motivate key employees;

failure to successfully manage relationships with customers, distributors and suppliers;

failure of customers to accept new products;

failure to effectively coordinate sales and marketing efforts;

failure to combine product offerings and product lines quickly and effectively;

failure to effectively enhance acquired technology and products or develop new products relating to the acquired businesses; potential difficulties and inefficiencies in managing and operating businesses in multiple locations or operating businesses in which the combined company has either limited or no direct experience;

potential difficulties integrating financial reporting systems; potential difficulties in the timely filing of required reports with the SEC; and

potential difficulties in implementing controls, procedures and policies, including disclosure controls and procedures and internal controls over financial reporting, appropriate for a larger public company at companies that, prior to the acquisition of such companies, had lacked such controls, procedures and policies, which may result in ineffective disclosure controls and procedures or material weaknesses in internal controls over financial reporting;

the combined company may not be able to achieve the expected synergies from an acquisition or it may take longer than expected to achieve those synergies;

an acquisition may result in future impairment charges related to diminished fair value of businesses acquired as compared to the price Hologic or Cytoc paid for them;

an acquisition may involve restructuring operations or reductions in workforce which may result in substantial charges to the combined company's operations; an acquisition may involve unexpected costs or liabilities, or the effects of purchase accounting may be different from the combined company's expectations; and the acquired businesses may be adversely affected by future legislative, regulatory, or tax decisions and/or changes as well as other economic, business and/or competitive factors.

Hologic's acquisition of AEG Elektrofotografie, which conducts its business worldwide, with headquarters in Germany and manufacturing operations in Germany and China, is also subject to the additional challenges and risks associated with volatility in the market for organic photoconductor coatings used for laser printer cartridges, and the combined company's international operations, including those related to integration of operations across different cultures and languages, currency risk and the particular economic, legal, political and regulatory risks associated with specific countries. Failure of the combined company to realize the anticipated benefits from combining the acquired businesses could harm the combined company's business and prospects and adversely affect the market price of the combined company's common stock.

The market for Hologic's direct-to-digital full-field mammography products is relatively new and may not develop as expected.

The markets for Hologic's direct-to-digital full-field mammography products may not continue to develop as expected. There is a significant installed base of conventional screen-film mammography products in hospitals and radiological practices. The use of Hologic's direct-to-digital mammography products in many cases would require these potential customers to either modify or replace their existing x-ray imaging equipment. Moreover, as direct-to-digital mammography products are generally more expensive than conventional screen-film mammography products, Hologic believes that a major factor in the market's acceptance of direct-to-digital mammography products has been and will continue to be based upon the benefits of direct-to-digital technology as compared to less expensive technologies. As a result, the market for Hologic's direct-to-digital mammography products has and will continue to be affected by published studies and reports relating to the comparative efficacy of digital mammography products. The publication of an adverse study could significantly impair the adoption of this technology and harm the combined company's business. The implementation of digital mammography technology is also affected by the trend toward transition by the healthcare industry from conventional film archiving systems to hospital Picture Archiving and Communications Systems, known as PACS, to store x-ray images electronically. Because the benefits of Hologic's direct-to-digital mammography technology may not be fully realized by customers until they install a PACS platform, a large potential market for these products may not develop until PACS environments are more widely used. Because the markets for these products are relatively new, it is likely that the combined company's evaluation of the potential markets for these products will materially vary with time.

Current levels of growth in the market for endometrial ablation procedures, such as Cytoc's NovaSure System, for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding may not be indicative of future growth.

Demand for newly introduced technologies or treatments can initially be exaggerated as supply increases to meet pre-existing demand. However, once the pre-existing demand is met, growth in the market may abruptly stop or significantly slow. Some of the current growth in the market for new endometrial ablation procedures may be the result of a considerable pre-existing unmet demand for products of this nature. Cytoc cannot predict when, or at what rate, this demand may stop or decline in growth. Cytoc cannot assure you that it will be successful in continuing to attract physicians and women to use the NovaSure System, or whether or not evolving trends in the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding will favor new endometrial ablation procedures as compared to traditional approaches. If the demand for treatments like the NovaSure System were to stop abruptly or begin to decline, the combined company's operating results and profitability could be adversely affected.

The success of Cytoc's ThinPrep System depends upon the cost and continued market acceptance of Cytoc's ThinPrep System products.

The success of Cytoc's ThinPrep System depends on the continued market acceptance of its ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System, including any follow-on applications of ThinPrep technology. The laboratory cost of using the ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System for cervical cancer screening, both together and individually, is higher than that of a conventional Pap smear and, Cytoc believes, competing liquid-based slide preparation systems. Due in part to increased competitive pressures in the cytology screening market and healthcare industry to reduce costs, the combined company's ability to continue gaining market acceptance of the ThinPrep System and follow-on products will depend on its ability to demonstrate that the higher cost of using the ThinPrep System is offset by (i) a reduction in costs often associated with conventional Pap smears or competing liquid-based slide preparation systems, such as inaccurate diagnoses and the need for repeat Pap smears, as well as (ii) the ability to conduct additional testing, such as testing for the HPV, Chlamydia trachomatis and Neisseria gonorrhoea on samples collected in a ThinPrep vial of preservative. In particular, for the ThinPrep Imaging System, the combined company will need to work with healthcare providers, insurance companies and other third-party payors, and clinical laboratories to reinforce the known clinical efficacy and cost-effectiveness of the ThinPrep Imaging System.

Cytoc is dependent upon a relatively small number of large clinical laboratory customers in the United States for a significant portion of its sales of the ThinPrep System.

Cytoc is dependent upon a relatively small number of large clinical laboratory customers in the United States for a significant portion of its sales of the ThinPrep System. The business and prospects of the combined company may be harmed if the combined company is unable to increase sales to, or maintain pricing levels with Cytoc's existing customers and establish new customers both within and outside the United States. Due in part to a trend toward consolidation of clinical laboratories in recent years and the relative size of the largest United States laboratories, it is likely that a significant portion of ThinPrep System sales will continue to be concentrated among a relatively small number of large clinical laboratories.

The combined company's success will depend on new product development.

Each of Hologic and Cytoc has continuing research and development programs designed to develop new products and to enhance and improve its products. Hologic is expending significant resources on the development of digital x-ray imaging products, including the development of a digital mammography product to perform breast tomosynthesis, a 3-dimensional imaging technique. Cytoc is expending significant resources on continued product line enhancements. The successful development of the combined company's products and product enhancements is subject to numerous risks, both known and unknown, including:

unanticipated delays;

access to capital;

budget overruns;

technical problems; and

other difficulties that could result in the abandonment or substantial change in the design, development and commercialization of these new products, including, for example, changes requested by the FDA in connection with pre-market approval applications for products or 510(k) notification.

Given the uncertainties inherent with product development and introduction, there can be no assurance that any of the combined company's product development efforts will be successful on a timely basis or within budget, if at all. The failure of the combined company to develop new products and product enhancements, such as Hologic's digital mammography tomosynthesis product, on a timely basis or within budget could harm the combined company's business and prospects and could adversely affect the market price of the combined company's common stock.

The markets for and future growth of the combined company's products and treatments may not develop as expected.

There can be no assurance that the combined company's existing products or treatments, or the enhancement of products or treatments will be commercially successful. The successful commercialization of the combined company's products and treatments are subject to numerous risks, both known and unknown, including:

uncertainty of the development of a market for such product or treatment; trends relating to, or the introduction or existence of, competing products, technologies or alternative treatments or therapies that may be more effective, safer or easier to use than the combined company's products, technologies, treatments or therapies; perceptions of the combined company's products or treatments as compared to other products and treatments;

recommendation and support for the use of the combined company's products or treatments by influential customers, such as hospitals, radiological practices, breast surgeons and radiation oncologists and treatment centers;

the availability and extent of data demonstrating the clinical efficacy of the combined company's products or treatments; competition, including the presence of competing products sold by companies with longer operating histories, more recognizable names and more established distribution networks; and other technological developments.

Often, the development of a significant market for a product or treatment will depend upon the establishment of a reimbursement code or an advantageous reimbursement level for use of the product or treatment. Moreover, even if addressed, such reimbursement codes or levels frequently are not addressed until after a product or treatment is developed and commercially introduced, which can delay the successful commercialization of a product or treatment. If the combined company is unable to successfully commercialize and create a significant market for its products and treatments, such as Hologic's digital mammography tomosynthesis product, due to, among other things, the lack of reimbursement codes or disadvantageous reimbursement levels for such products or treatments, the combined company's business and prospects could be harmed and the market price of the combined company's common stock could be adversely affected.

The combined company may not be successful in growing its international sales, which could have a material adverse effect on its business and financial condition.

The combined company cannot guarantee that it will successfully continue to develop international sales channels or capabilities that will enable it to generate significant revenue from international sales. The combined company may not be able to obtain favorable third-party reimbursements and required regulatory approvals in foreign countries. Failure to continue to increase international sales could harm the business and prospects of the combined company.

The combined company's success depends on its ability to manage growth effectively.

The operations and facilities, including the number of employees and the geographic area of operations, of Hologic and Cytac have grown rapidly, and the combined company's operations and facilities are expected to continue to grow. The failure of the combined company to manage growth effectively could harm the business and prospects of the combined company. The growth of the combined company may significantly strain the combined company's managerial, operational and financial resources and systems. To manage the combined company's growth effectively, it is expected that the combined company will continue to implement and improve additional management and financial systems and controls, and to effectively retain, expand, train and manage its employee base.

The business of the combined company could be harmed if it infringes upon the intellectual property rights of others.

There has been substantial litigation regarding patent and other intellectual property rights in the medical device and related industries. Hologic and Cytac have each been involved in infringement litigation, and may in the future be notified that the combined company may be infringing intellectual property rights possessed by third parties.

For example, in March 2005, Hologic was served with a complaint alleging that Hologic's HTGrid infringes U.S. Patent Number 5,970,118. The plaintiff sought to preliminarily and permanently enjoin Hologic from infringing the patent, as well as damages resulting from the alleged infringement, treble damages and reasonable attorney fees, and such other and further relief as may be available. In March 2007, the court granted Hologic's motion for summary judgment and dismissed the complaint with prejudice. The plaintiff has a right to appeal the matter after conclusion of the case as a whole.

On June 16, 2003, Cytac filed a suit for Declaratory Judgment in United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts asking the court to determine and declare that certain of TriPath Imaging, Inc.'s patents are invalid and not infringed by Cytac's ThinPrep Imaging System. On June 17, 2003, TriPath announced that it had filed a lawsuit against Cytac in the United States District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina alleging patent infringement, false advertising, defamation, intentional interference, unfair competition, and unfair and deceptive trade practices. In its complaint TriPath sought the issuance of a preliminary and permanent injunction enjoining Cytac from infringing the asserted patents and to award unspecified damages, unspecified treble damages and attorneys' fees, and the impounding and destruction of the alleged infringing products. As to the non-patent claims, TriPath sought unspecified damages, punitive damages and attorneys' fees. The non-patent claims have been dismissed and the patent cases have since been consolidated into a single action. On August 22, 2007 the judge issued rulings on summary judgment motions filed by both Cytac and TriPath. As a result, two of the four asserted patents were determined to be either invalid or not infringed by Cytac and the remaining two patents were found to have questions of fact for resolution at trial. The Court has scheduled a trial start date of October 29, 2007. See Annex B under Information about Cytac Legal Proceedings.

In connection with litigation or if any claims are asserted against the combined company's intellectual property rights, the combined company may seek to enter into royalty or licensing arrangements. There is a risk in these situations that no license will be available or that a license will not be available on reasonable terms.

Alternatively, the combined company may decide to litigate such claims or to design around the patented technology. These actions could be costly and would divert the efforts and attention of the combined company's management and technical personnel. As a result, any infringement claims by third parties or claims for indemnification by customers resulting from infringement claims, whether or not proven to be true, may harm the combined company's business and prospects.

If Hologic fails to achieve and maintain the high manufacturing standards that Hologic's direct radiography products require, the combined company may not be successful in developing and marketing those products.

The manufacture of Hologic's direct radiography detectors is highly complex and requires precise high quality manufacturing that is difficult to achieve. Hologic has in the past and the combined company may in the future experience difficulties in manufacturing these detectors in commercial quantities, primarily related to delays and difficulties in obtaining critical components for these detectors that meet Hologic's high manufacturing standards. Hologic's initial difficulties led to increased delivery lead-times and increased costs of manufacturing these products. The combined company's failure, including the failure of its contract manufacturers, to achieve and maintain the required high manufacturing standards could result in further delays or failures in product testing or delivery, cost overruns, product recalls or withdrawals, or other problems that could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Interruptions, delays, shutdowns or damage at the combined company's manufacturing facilities could harm its business.

Hologic manufactures most of its products at its manufacturing facilities in Danbury, Connecticut, Bedford, Massachusetts, Indianapolis, Indiana and Newark, Delaware. In addition, Hologic manufactures the selenium coatings used in the digital x-ray image capture radiographic systems in Germany and its selenium and organic photoconductor coatings for other uses in Germany and China. Cytac assembles and manufactures its ThinPrep products at its facilities in Marlborough, Massachusetts and Londonderry, New Hampshire. In addition, Cytac manufactures its NovaSure System and MammoSite System in Costa Rica. An interruption in manufacturing capabilities at any of these facilities, as a result of equipment failure or other reasons, could reduce, delay or prevent the production of the combined company's products. The manufacturing facilities of the combined company will be subject to the risk of catastrophic loss due to unanticipated events, such as fires, earthquakes, explosions, floods or weather conditions. The combined company's manufacturing facilities may experience plant shutdowns, strikes or other labor disruptions, or periods of reduced production as a result of equipment failures, loss of power, gray outs, delays in deliveries or extensive damage to any of its facilities, which could harm the business and prospects of the combined company. Because some of the combined company's manufacturing operations will be located in Germany, China and Costa Rica, those manufacturing operations will also be subject to additional challenges and risks associated with international operations described below.

The uncertainty of healthcare reform could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

In recent years, the healthcare industry has undergone significant change driven by various efforts to reduce costs, including efforts at national healthcare reform, trends toward managed care, cuts in Medicare, consolidation of healthcare distribution companies and collective purchasing arrangements by office-based healthcare practitioners. Healthcare reform proposals and medical cost containment measures in the United States and in many foreign countries could:

limit the use of the combined company's products; reduce reimbursement available for such use; or adversely affect the use of new therapies for which the combined company's products may be targeted.

Table of Contents

These reforms or cost containment measures, including the uncertainty in the medical community regarding their nature and effect, could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

The combined company's business could be harmed if products contain undetected errors or defects or do not meet customer specifications.

Hologic and Cytac are continuously developing new products and improving their existing products. Newly introduced products can contain undetected errors or defects. In addition, these products may not meet their performance specifications under all conditions or for all applications. If, despite internal testing and testing by customers, any of the combined company's products contain errors or defects or fail to meet customer specifications, then the combined company may be required to enhance or improve those products or technologies. The combined company may not be able to do so on a timely basis, if at all, and may only be able to do so at considerable expense. In addition, any significant reliability problems could result in adverse customer reaction, negative publicity or legal claims and could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

The combined company will rely on one or only a limited number of suppliers for some key components or subassemblies for its products, which could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Hologic and Cytac each rely on one or only a limited number of suppliers for some key components or subassemblies for their products. In particular, Hologic has a limited number of suppliers for the panel for its direct radiography products and AEG, one of Hologic's subsidiaries, is Hologic's sole source provider for Selenium coatings. In addition, Hologic has only limited sources of supply for some key components used in its mini C-arm systems and its Surob biopsy systems. Cytac currently obtains certain key components of its products, including the proprietary filter material and microscope slides used in the ThinPrep Pap Test, radioisotopes, certain balloons and other items used in the design and manufacture of the MammoSite System and the Iotrex liquid isotope used with the GlioSite System, from single or a limited number of sources due to technology, availability, price, quality and other considerations. Additionally, the NovaSure System utilizes several components that may become obsolete or no longer be manufactured.

Obtaining alternative sources of supply of these components could involve significant delays and other costs and regulatory challenges, and may not be available to the combined company on reasonable terms, if at all. The failure of a component supplier or contract assembler to provide sufficient quantities, acceptable quality and timely components or assembly service at an acceptable price, or an interruption of supplies from such a supplier could harm the business and prospects of the combined company. Any disruption of supplies of key components could delay or reduce shipments, which could result in lost or deferred sales for the combined company.

The combined company will face intense competition from other companies and may not be able to compete successfully.

A number of companies have developed, or are expected to develop, products that compete or will compete with the combined company's products. Some of combined company's competitors will be large companies that may enjoy significant competitive advantages over the combined company, including:

significantly greater name recognition;

established distribution networks;

additional lines of products, and the ability to offer rebates or bundle products to offer discounts or incentives to gain competitive advantage;

more extensive research, development, sales, marketing and manufacturing capabilities; and better positioning to continue to improve their technology in order to compete in an evolving industry.

Table of Contents

The markets in which the combined company will sell in are intensely competitive, subject to rapid change and may be significantly affected by new product introductions and other market activities of industry participants. Other companies may develop products that are superior to or less expensive, or both, than the combined company's products. Improvements in existing competitive products or the introductions of new competitive products may reduce the combined company's ability to compete for sales, particularly if those competitive products demonstrate better safety or effectiveness, clinical results, ease of use or lower costs.

If the combined company is unable to compete effectively against existing and future competitors and existing and future alternative treatments, the business and prospects of the combined company could be harmed.

The combined company's success will depend upon its ability to adapt to rapid changes in technology and customer requirements.

The markets for Hologic's and Cytyc's products have been characterized by rapid technological change, frequent product introductions and evolving customer requirements. These trends will likely continue into the foreseeable future. The combined company's success will depend, in part, upon its ability to enhance the existing products of Hologic and Cytyc, successfully develop new products that meet increasing customer requirements and gain market acceptance. If the combined company fails to do so its products may be rendered obsolete or uncompetitive by new industry standards or changing technology.

The combined company's results of operations will be subject to significant quarterly variation and seasonal fluctuation.

Hologic's and Cytyc's results of operations have been and may continue to be subject to significant quarterly variation. The combined company's results for a particular quarter may also vary due to a number of factors, including:

the overall state of healthcare and cost containment efforts;

the timing and level of reimbursement for the combined company's products domestically and internationally;

the development status and demand for the combined company's products;

the development status and demand for therapies to treat breast cancer and osteoporosis; economic conditions in the combined company's markets;

foreign exchange rates;

the timing of orders;

the timing of expenditures in anticipation of future sales;

the mix of products the combined company sells;

the introduction of new products and product enhancements by the combined company or its competitors;

pricing and other competitive conditions; and unanticipated expenses.

Customers may also cancel or reschedule shipments. Production difficulties could also delay shipments. Any of these factors also could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Table of Contents

The combined company's delay or inability to obtain any necessary United States or foreign regulatory clearances or approvals for its products could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Hologic's and Cytoc's products are, and the combined company's products will be, medical devices that are the subject of a high level of regulatory oversight. The combined company's delay or inability to obtain any necessary United States or foreign regulatory clearances or approvals for its products, such as Hologic's digital mammography tomosynthesis product, could harm its business and prospects and could adversely affect the market price of the combined company's common stock. The process of obtaining clearances and approvals can be costly and time-consuming. There is a risk that any approvals or clearances, once obtained, may be withdrawn or modified.

Medical devices cannot be marketed in the United States without clearance or approval by the FDA. Any modifications to a device that has received a pre-market approval that affect its safety or effectiveness require a pre-market approval supplement or possibly a separate pre-market approval, either of which is likely to be time-consuming, expensive and uncertain to obtain. If the FDA requires the combined company to seek one or more pre-market approval supplements or new pre-market approvals for any modification to a previously approved device, the combined company may be required to cease marketing or to recall the modified device until it obtains approval, and the combined company may be subject to significant criminal and/or civic sanctions, including but not limited to, regulatory fines or penalties.

Medical devices sold in the United States must also be manufactured in compliance with FDA Good Manufacturing Practices, which regulate the design, manufacture, packing, storage and installation of medical devices. Moreover, medical devices are required to comply with FDA regulations relating to investigational research and labeling. States may also regulate the manufacture, sale and use of medical devices, particularly those that employ x-ray technology. The combined company's products will also be subject to approval and regulation by foreign regulatory and safety agencies.

Recent proposed changes to reclassify full-field digital mammography to permit 510(k) clearance could increase competition for Hologic's digital mammography products.

On May 23, 2006 the FDA Radiological Devices Panel recommended the reclassification of full-field digital mammography systems from Class III to Class II devices. The FDA has not taken any additional steps to act on the panel's recommendation. If the FDA implements the panel's recommendation, the reclassification would allow full-field digital mammography systems to be cleared for commercialization through the 510(k) process, which is less rigorous than the present pre-market approval process. If and when implemented, the reclassification for full-field digital mammography systems from Class III to Class II devices may lower barriers of entry into the digital mammography market, may result in more competitors entering the United States market and could harm sales of Hologic's digital mammography systems.

The combined company's products may be subject to recalls even after receiving FDA clearance or approval, which could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

The FDA and similar governmental bodies in other countries have the authority to require the recall of medical products in the event of material deficiencies or defects in design or manufacture. A government mandated or voluntary recall by the combined company could occur as a result of component failures, manufacturing errors or design defects, including defects in labeling. Any recall could harm the reputation of the combined company's products and adversely affect the combined company's business and prospects.

Some of the combined company's activities may subject the combined company to risks under federal and state laws prohibiting kickbacks and false or fraudulent claims.

Hologic and Cytoc are, and the combined company will be, subject to the provisions of a federal law commonly known as the Medicare/Medicaid anti-kickback law, and several similar state laws, which prohibit payments intended to induce physicians or others either to refer patients or to acquire or arrange for or recommend the acquisition of healthcare products or services. While the federal law applies only to referrals, products or services for which payment may be made by a federal healthcare program, state laws often apply regardless of whether federal funds may be involved. These laws constrain the sales, marketing and other promotional activities of manufacturers of medical devices by limiting the kinds of financial arrangements, including sales programs, with hospitals, physicians, laboratories and other potential purchasers of medical devices. Other federal and state laws generally prohibit individuals or entities from knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, claims for payment from Medicare, Medicaid, or other third-party payors that are false or fraudulent, or are for items or services that were not provided as claimed. Anti-kickback and false claims laws prescribe civil and criminal penalties (including fines) for noncompliance that can be substantial. While Hologic and Cytyc continually strive, and the combined company will strive, to comply with these complex requirements, interpretations of the applicability of these laws to marketing practices is ever evolving and even an unsuccessful challenge could cause adverse publicity and be costly to respond to, and thus could harm the business and prospects of the combined company.

The combined company is subject to the risk of product liability claims relating to its products.

Hologic's and Cytyc's businesses involve, and the combined company's business will involve, the risk of product liability and other claims inherent to the medical device business. If even one of the combined company's products is found to have caused or contributed to injuries or deaths, the combined company could be held liable for substantial damages. Hologic and Cytyc maintain, and the combined company will maintain, product liability insurance subject to deductibles and exclusions. There is a risk that the insurance coverage will not be sufficient to protect the combined company from product and other liability claims, or that product liability insurance will not be available to the combined company at a reasonable cost, if at all. An under-insured or uninsured claim could harm the business and prospects of the combined company. In addition, claims could adversely affect the reputation of the related product, which could damage that product's competitive position in the market.

The sale and use of one of the combined company's diagnostic products could also lead to the filing of product liability claims if someone were to allege that one of the combined company's products contained a design or manufacturing defect that resulted in the failure to detect a disorder for which it was being used to screen or caused injuries to a patient. Any product liability claim brought against the combined company, with or without merit, could result in the increase of the combined company's product liability insurance rates or the inability to secure additional coverage in the future. Also, even a meritless or unsuccessful product liability claim could be time consuming and expensive to defend, which could result in a diversion of management's attention from the combined company's business and could adversely affect the perceived safety and efficacy of the combined company's products, and could harm the business and prospects of the combined company.

The combined company will use hazardous materials and products.

Hologic's and Cytyc's research and development involves, and the combined company's research and development will involve, the controlled use of hazardous materials, such as toxic and carcinogenic chemicals and various radioactive compounds. Although Hologic and Cytyc believe that their safety procedures for handling and disposing of such materials comply with the standards prescribed by federal, state and local regulations, the risk of accidental contamination or injury from these materials cannot be eliminated. In the event of this type of accident, the combined company could be held liable for any resulting damages, and any such liability could be extensive. Hologic and Cytyc are also subject, and the combined company will be subject, to substantial regulation relating to occupational health and safety, environmental protection, hazardous substance control, and waste management and disposal. The failure to comply with such regulations could subject the combined company to, among other things, fines and criminal liability.

Fluctuations in the exchange rates of European currencies and the other foreign currencies in which the combined company will conduct its business, in relation to the U.S. dollar, could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Hologic maintains a sales and service office in Belgium, and Hologic's AEG Elektrofotografie subsidiary conducts its business worldwide, with headquarters in Germany and manufacturing operations in Germany and China. The expenses of these offices are denominated in local currencies, and Hologic's foreign sales may be denominated in local currencies, the Euro or U.S. dollars.

Cytyc's business outside the United States is conducted primarily in local currencies, except at its Costa Rica subsidiary, where the majority of business is conducted in U.S. dollars.

Fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates could affect the combined company's cost of goods and operating margins and could result in exchange losses. In addition, currency devaluation can result in a loss to the combined company if it holds deposits of that currency. Hologic has hedged its foreign currency exposure by borrowing funds in local European currencies to pay the expenses of its foreign offices. In addition, Hologic's recently acquired AEG operation has engaged in hedging activities, such as currency swaps, to hedge its foreign currency exposure. There is a risk that any hedging activities will not be successful in mitigating the combined company's foreign exchange risk exposure.

The combined company's international operations expose the combined company to additional operational challenges that it might not otherwise face.

Hologic and Cytyc are, and the combined company will be, subject to a number of additional risks and expenses due to their international operations. Any of these risks or expenses could have a material adverse effect on the combined company's operating results. These risks and expenses include:

difficulties in staffing and managing operations in multiple locations as a result of, among other things, distance, language and cultural differences;

protectionist laws and business practices that favor local companies;

greater difficulties in trade accounts receivable collection; difficulties and expenses related to implementing internal controls over financial reporting and disclosure controls and procedures;

expenses associated with customizing products for clients in foreign countries; possible adverse tax consequences;

governmental currency controls;

multiple, conflicting and changing government laws and regulations (including, among other things, antitrust and tax requirements, international trade regulations and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act);

reduced protection for intellectual property rights in some countries; political and economic changes and disruptions;

export/import controls; and tariff regulations.

The business of the combined company could be harmed if it is unable to protect its proprietary technology.

Hologic and Cytac have relied, and the combined company will rely, primarily on a combination of trade secrets, patents, copyright and trademark laws and confidentiality procedures to protect its products and technology. Despite these precautions, unauthorized third parties may infringe, copy or reverse engineer portions of the combined company's technology. Hologic and Cytac do not know if current or future patent applications will be issued with the scope of the claims sought, if at all, or whether any patents issued will be challenged or invalidated. In addition, Hologic and Cytac have each obtained or applied for corresponding patents and patent applications in several foreign countries for some of its patents and patent applications. There is a risk that these patent applications will not be granted or that the patent or patent application will not provide significant protection for Hologic's, Cytac's or the combined company's products and technology. Competitors of the combined company may independently develop similar technology that Hologic's, Cytac's or the combined company's patents do not cover. In addition, because patent applications in the United States are not generally publicly disclosed until eighteen months after the application is filed, applications may have been filed by third parties which relate to Hologic's, Cytac's or the combined company's technology. Moreover, there is a risk that foreign intellectual property laws will not protect the intellectual property rights of the combined company to the same extent as United States intellectual property laws. In the absence of significant patent protection, the combined company may be vulnerable to competitors who attempt to copy its products, processes or technology.

The combined company's future success will depend on the continued services of key personnel.

The loss of any key personnel of the combined company, particularly key research and development personnel, could harm the combined company's business and prospects and could impede the achievement of the combined company's research and development, operational or strategic objectives. The combined company's success will also depend upon its ability to attract and retain other qualified managerial and technical personnel. Competition for such personnel, particularly software engineers and other technical personnel, is intense. The combined company may not be able to attract and retain personnel necessary for the development of its business.

The combined company's business may be harmed by acquisitions it completes in the future.

The combined company's identification of suitable acquisition candidates involves risks inherent in assessing the values, strengths, weaknesses, risks and profitability of acquisition candidates, including the effects of the possible acquisition on its business, diversion of its management's attention and risks and costs associated with unanticipated problems or latent liabilities, such as litigation, investigations or inquiries in connection with acquisitions that it completes. If the combined company is successful in pursuing future acquisitions, it will be required to expend significant funds, incur additional debt or issue additional securities, which may negatively affect its results of operations and be dilutive to the combined company's stockholders. If the combined company spends significant funds or incurs additional debt, its ability to obtain financing for working capital or other purposes could decline, and it may be more vulnerable to economic downturns and competitive pressures. Neither Hologic nor Cytac can guarantee that the combined company will be able to finance additional acquisitions or that the combined company will realize any anticipated benefits from acquisitions that it completes. Should the combined company acquire another business, the process of integrating acquired operations into its existing operations may result in unforeseen operating difficulties and may require significant financial resources that would otherwise be available for the ongoing development or expansion of its existing business.

The combined company's failure to manage current or future alliances or joint ventures effectively may harm the combined company's business and prospects.

Hologic and Cytac have entered into, and the combined company may enter into, alliances, joint ventures or other business relationships. Alliances with certain partner or companies could make it more difficult for the combined company to enter into advantageous business transactions or relationships with others. Moreover, the combined company may not be able to:

identify appropriate candidates for alliances or joint ventures; assure that any alliance or joint venture candidate will provide the combined company with the support anticipated;

successfully negotiate an alliance or joint venture on terms that are advantageous to the combined company; or successfully manage any alliance or joint venture.

Furthermore, any alliance or joint venture may divert management time and resources. Entering into a disadvantageous alliance or joint venture, failing to manage an alliance or joint venture effectively, or failing to comply with obligations in connection therewith, could harm the combined company's business and prospects.

The combined company will be exposed to potential risks and it will continue to incur significant costs as a result of the internal control testing and evaluation process mandated by Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002.

Hologic assessed the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting as of September 30, 2006 and assessed all deficiencies on both an individual basis and in combination to determine if, when aggregated, they constitute a material weakness. As a result of this evaluation, no material weaknesses were identified.

Cytc assessed the effectiveness of its internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2006, and determined that it did not implement controls necessary to provide reasonable assurance that the accounting for certain stock option exercise activity that occurred during the period from 1996 through 2002 was properly recorded in its financial statements included in its annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2006, in accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees. To remedy this material weakness Cytc enhanced its policies surrounding consultations on complex technical accounting matters to include third-party subject matter experts, including experts with additional specific knowledge of the accounting for the types of stock option exercise activity described above, to assist Cytc in reaching a conclusion regarding the accounting for this stock option exercise activity in accordance with Accounting Principles Board Opinion No. 25. This remediation effort was tested and found to be effective as of the date of the filing of Cytc's amendment to its annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2006.

Following the completion of the merger, the combined company expects to continue to incur significant costs, including increased accounting fees and increased staffing levels, in order to maintain compliance with Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act. The combined company will continue to monitor controls for any weaknesses or deficiencies. No evaluation can provide complete assurance that the combined company's internal controls will detect or uncover all failures of persons within the company to disclose material information otherwise required to be reported. The effectiveness of the combined company's controls and procedures could also be limited by simple errors or faulty judgments. In addition, as the combined company continues to expand globally, the challenges involved in implementing appropriate internal controls will increase and will require that the combined company continues to improve its internal controls over financial reporting.

Hologic's assessment of internal controls in fiscal 2006 did not include Hologic's recently acquired entities of AEG, R2 and Suros. In 2007, Cytc acquired Adeza Biomedical Corporation and Adiana, Inc. Hologic's assessment of internal control over financial reporting is expected to include AEG, R2 and Suros in fiscal 2007, and is expected to include Cytc, Adeza Biomedical Corporation and Adiana Inc. in fiscal 2008. The combined company expects to face additional challenges in implementing the required processes, procedures and controls as a result of the merger and other acquired operations. For example, Hologic's recently acquired companies do not have disclosure controls and procedures or internal control over financial reporting that are as thorough or effective as those required by securities law applicable to public companies in the United States. Although the combined company intends to devote substantial time and incur substantial costs, as necessary, to ensure ongoing compliance, the combined company cannot be certain that it will be successful in complying with Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act.

In the future, if the combined company fails to complete the Sarbanes-Oxley 404 evaluation in a timely manner, or if its independent registered public accounting firm cannot attest in a timely manner to the combined company's evaluation, the combined company could be subject to regulatory scrutiny and a loss of public confidence in the combined company's internal controls which could adversely impact the market price of Hologic common stock. The combined company or its independent registered public accounting firm may identify material weaknesses in internal controls over financial reporting which may result in a loss of public confidence in the combined company's internal controls and adversely impact the market price of Hologic common stock. In addition, any failure to implement required, new or improved controls, or difficulties encountered in their implementation, could harm the combined company's operating results or cause the combined company to fail to meet its reporting obligations.

RISKS RELATED TO HOLOGIC COMMON STOCK

Provisions in Hologic's charter and bylaws and its stockholder rights plan may have the effect of discouraging advantageous offers for Hologic's business or common stock and limit the price that investors might be willing to pay in the future for shares of Hologic common stock.

Hologic's charter, bylaws and the provisions of the DGCL include provisions that may have the effect of discouraging or preventing a change in control. In addition, Hologic has a stockholder rights plan that may have the effect of discouraging or preventing a change in control. These provisions could limit the price that Hologic stockholders might receive in the future for shares of Hologic common stock.

Hologic's stock price is volatile.

The market price of Hologic common stock has been, and may continue to be, highly volatile. Hologic believes that a variety of factors could cause the price of its common stock to fluctuate, perhaps substantially, including:

announcements and rumors of developments related to Hologic's business, including changes in reimbursement rates, proposed and completed acquisitions, or the industry in which Hologic competes; quarterly fluctuations in Hologic's actual or anticipated operating results and order levels;

general conditions in the worldwide economy;

announcements of technological innovations;

new products or product enhancements by Hologic or its competitors;

developments in patents or other intellectual property rights and litigation; and developments in relationships with Hologic's customers and suppliers.

In addition, in recent years the stock market in general and the markets for shares of high-tech companies, have experienced extreme price fluctuations which have often been unrelated to the operating performance of affected companies. Any such fluctuations in the future could adversely affect the market price of Hologic's common stock, and the market price of Hologic common stock may decline.

THE MERGER

The following discussion contains important information relating to the merger. You are urged to read this discussion together with the merger agreement and related documents attached as annexes to this joint proxy statement/prospectus before voting on the merger agreement and the merger or the amendment to Hologic's charter and issuance of Hologic common stock in the merger.

Structure of the Merger

The merger agreement provides for the merger of Cytyc with and into Nor'easter Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic that was formed for the purpose of the merger, with Nor'easter Corp. surviving the merger. At the effective time of the merger, the surviving entity will remain a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic, and Nor'easter Corp. will be renamed Cytyc Corporation. The merger will become effective when Nor'easter Corp. and Cytyc file a certificate of merger with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware (or at such later time as Hologic and Cytyc mutually agree and specify in the certificate of merger). The time the merger becomes effective is referred to as the effective time of the merger.

Merger Consideration

At the effective time of the merger, each issued and outstanding share of Cytyc common stock will be converted into the right to receive 0.52 of a share, referred to as the exchange ratio, of Hologic common stock, referred to as the stock merger consideration, and $16.50 in cash without interest, referred to as the cash merger consideration. The stock merger consideration, together with the cash merger consideration and any cash received in lieu of fractional shares, is referred to as the merger consideration. Cytyc stockholders will receive cash in lieu of any fractional shares of Hologic common stock that would have otherwise been received in the merger. See The Merger Agreement Fractional Shares beginning on page 118.

Hologic and Cytyc expect that, upon completion of the merger, assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024, the Cytyc stockholders immediately prior to the merger will own approximately 55% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company, and the Hologic stockholders immediately prior to the merger will own approximately 45% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company.

Background of the Merger

Each of Hologic's and Cytyc's board of directors has from time to time in recent years engaged with senior management in strategic reviews and considered ways to enhance its company's performance and prospects in light of the business and economic environment. For each company, these reviews have included consideration of potential transactions with third parties that would further its strategic objectives and the potential benefits and risks of those transactions. With respect to both Hologic and Cytyc, these strategic reviews have on several occasions related to informal exploratory discussions regarding potential strategic transactions, including possible business combinations with each other and other companies in the life sciences/healthcare industry.

Given the relative close proximity and similar business focus of Hologic and Cytyc, both being Massachusetts-based public companies focused on women's health, the companies have been familiar with each other's businesses for a number of years.

Approximately three years ago, Thomas Umbel, senior vice president of business development of Hologic contacted a business development representative of Cytyc, to discuss whether the parties would be interested in further exploring potential business opportunities. Nothing materialized from these conversations at that time.

Later, in May 2006, Mr. Umbel and Eric von Stetten, director of research of Hologic, and John P. McDonough, senior vice president of Cytec, had informal discussions regarding the merits of a possible business combination between Hologic and Cytec. These discussions remained preliminary and were not pursued further at that time.

On September 11, 2006, at a regular meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, Mr. von Stetten reviewed and discussed with the board of directors strategic initiatives and diversification opportunities within the women's healthcare market, which included a discussion of the preliminary inquiries made to Cytec.

On January 30, 2007, John W. Cumming, chairman and chief executive officer of Hologic, and Mr. Umbel met with representatives of Goldman Sachs to discuss possible strategic transactions with a number of companies, including Cytec.

In February 2007, Mr. Umbel contacted Mr. McDonough to determine if Cytec would be interested in re-examining a possible business combination.

On February 22, 2007, Mr. Umbel met with Mr. McDonough at Cytec's executive offices in Marlborough, Massachusetts to exchange views with respect to a possible business combination between Hologic and Cytec.

On February 23, 2007, Patrick J. Sullivan, chairman, chief executive officer and president of Cytec, and Mr. Cumming spoke by telephone regarding the possibility of combining the two companies and agreed to meet in person to discuss further.

During the week of February 26, 2007, Messrs. Cumming and Sullivan spoke by telephone and further discussed the possibility of a business combination between Hologic and Cytec. Mr. Sullivan informed Mr. Cumming that he would discuss their conversation with certain members of senior management of Cytec and its board of directors.

On March 6, 2007, at a meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, Mr. Cumming reviewed and discussed with the Hologic board of directors an overview of the women's healthcare market and possible opportunities for Hologic in those markets, including the potential benefits of a possible business combination with Cytec. In connection with that discussion, Mr. Cumming advised the board of directors of the preliminary status of discussions between Hologic and Cytec. Following the discussion, Mr. Cumming was authorized to continue to pursue those discussions.

At a meeting of the Cytec board of directors on March 14, 2007, members of Cytec senior management reviewed with the Cytec board of directors the prior discussions between representatives of Cytec and Hologic and discussed with the Cytec board of directors the strategic rationale for a potential business combination. In addition, representatives of Hogan & Hartson LLP, Cytec's outside legal counsel, referred to as Hogan & Hartson, discussed the fiduciary duties applicable to the Cytec board of directors in the context of the ongoing discussions. Following questions and discussions among the participants at the meeting, the Cytec board of directors authorized and directed Cytec's senior management to continue discussions with Hologic.

On April 6, 2007, at a special meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, the board of directors met with members of senior management and its outside legal counsel, Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP, referred to as Brown Rudnick. The parties also conducted mutual financial, legal and other customary due diligence. During this period, representatives of Cytyc informed representatives of Hologic that Cytyc would seek a premium of at least 30% to the current market price and would seek to have at least 25-30% of the merger consideration be in cash. The parties also agreed in principle that at the effective time of the merger the standing committees of the board of directors of Hologic would include an audit, a compensation, a nominating and corporate governance and a corporate development committee. Each of the audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees would consist of an odd number of directors, consisting of one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors, and the chairman of each of these committees would be a continuing Hologic director. On May 16, 2007, at a special meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, the board of directors met with members of senior management, Brown Rudnick and Cooper & Dunham LLP, Hologic's separate intellectual property legal counsel. During this meeting, Cooper & Dunham LLP reported its due diligence findings. Following this report, Mr. Cumming discussed compensation matters relating to Hologic's management team in the context of the proposed business combination, including the proposed conditional waiver by himself and Messrs. Cascella and Muir of their change of control rights, and a proposed retention agreement for Mr. Cascella. See Interests of Hologic's Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger commencing on page 75 for a further discussion of these waivers and agreements.

On May 18, 2007, at a special meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, the board of directors met with members of senior management, Brown Rudnick, and representatives of Hologic's due diligence advisors who had been conducting accounting, tax and other financial due diligence of Cytyc. During this meeting, representatives of Hologic's due diligence advisors discussed their due diligence report relating to accounting, tax and financial matters. Mr. Cumming and Brown Rudnick then further updated the board of directors on the status of the negotiations and outstanding issues on the merger agreement.

On May 19, 2007, at a special meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, the board of directors met with members of senior management and Brown Rudnick and financial advisors. At the meeting, Brown Rudnick and members of senior management presented their final due diligence findings to the board of directors. Hologic senior management also summarized with the board of directors the rationale, opportunities, benefits, prospects and risks associated with a potential transaction with Cytyc. Brown Rudnick also reviewed and discussed in detail the final merger agreement, including changes made in the merger agreement since the draft discussed in detail at the May 14, 2007 meeting of the board of directors, the proposed amendment to Hologic's certificate of incorporation to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock, the proposed amendments to Hologic's amended and restated bylaws, and the proposed amendment to Hologic's stockholder rights agreement. Mr. Muir and Brown Rudnick also reviewed and discussed the terms of the final financing commitment letter, including the terms and conditions and covenants associated with the contemplated financing, and the execution risk regarding the documentation of the loans.

At different times during the special meeting of the board of directors of Hologic, representatives of each of Goldman Sachs and Jefferies joined the meeting and reviewed their respective presentations with the board of directors of Hologic. At the conclusion of each of their respective presentations and responses to questions from the board of directors regarding their presentations, each of Goldman Sachs and Jefferies rendered to the Hologic board of directors its oral opinion (each of which opinions was later confirmed in writing), as described under Opinions of Financial Advisors to the Hologic Board of Directors that, as of the date of its opinion, and based upon and subject to the assumptions, procedures, factors, limitations and qualifications set forth in its opinion, the merger consideration to be paid for each outstanding share of Cytyc common stock, taken in the aggregate, to be paid pursuant to the merger agreement, was fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic.

During the meeting, the board of directors of Hologic met in executive session with Brown Rudnick to further discuss the final merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement. The compensation committee of the Hologic board of directors also met to review and discuss the proposed employment arrangements with officers of Hologic and Cytyc in connection with the merger. After review and discussion, the compensation committee approved each of these employee related agreements contemplated by the merger agreement.

Following review and discussion among the members of the Hologic board of directors, including consideration of the factors described under Hologic Reasons for the Merger beginning on page 55, the Hologic board of directors unanimously determined that the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including the amendment to Hologic's charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, are advisable and in the best interests of Hologic and its stockholders, and the Hologic directors voted unanimously to approve the merger and the merger agreement, resolved to recommend these and related matters to Hologic's stockholders for their approval and authorized Hologic's management to take certain actions to bring the transaction negotiations to a successful conclusion, including, without limitation, the execution and delivery of the financing commitment and transactions contemplated thereby.

On May 20, 2007, the Cytyc board of directors convened a special meeting with Cytyc senior management, Hogan & Hartson, Morgan Stanley and JPMorgan. Representatives of Cytyc senior management updated the Cytyc board on the status of discussions with Hologic and with respect to certain terms of the proposed merger agreement that had been finalized over the past several days. Cytyc senior management then discussed with the Cytc board the rationale, opportunities, benefits, prospects and risks associated with a potential transaction with Hologic based on the terms outlined in the proposed merger agreement. Representatives of each of Morgan Stanley and JPMorgan reviewed their respective presentations with the board of directors of Cytc. At the conclusion of each of their respective presentations and responses to questions from the board of directors regarding their presentations, each of Morgan Stanley and JPMorgan rendered to the Cytc board of directors its oral opinion (subsequently confirmed in writing) to the effect that, as of the date of its opinion, and subject to and based on the factors, assumptions, limitations and qualifications set forth in its opinion, the merger consideration to be received by the holders of Cytc common stock pursuant to the merger agreement was fair, from a financial point of view, to such holders. See Opinions of Financial Advisors to the Cytc Board of Directors. Members of senior management and representatives of Hogan & Hartson then provided the board of directors an overview of the due diligence review conducted with respect to Hologic by representatives of Cytc, financial and accounting advisors, and Hogan & Hartson, and discussed the results of such review. Representatives of Hogan & Hartson then summarized the terms of the merger agreement with Hologic and related documents, including those areas that had been finalized in the past several days, and also discussed fiduciary duties of the Cytc board of directors under the circumstances and the proposed amendment to the Cytc stockholder rights agreement. Following these discussions, and further review and discussion among the members of the Cytc board of directors, the Cytc board of directors unanimously determined that the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement and the merger are advisable and fair to and in the best interests of Cytc and its stockholders, and the Cytc directors voted unanimously to approve the merger and to approve and adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

Following the approvals of the boards of directors of each of Hologic and Cytc, both companies executed the merger agreement and later that day issued a joint press release on May 20, 2007 announcing the transaction.

Hologic Reasons for the Merger

In reaching its decision to approve the merger agreement and recommend approval of an amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock and the issuance of Hologic common stock in the merger, the Hologic board of directors consulted with Hologic's management, as well as with its legal and financial advisors, and considered a number of factors, including the following factors which the Hologic board of directors viewed as generally supporting its decision to approve the merger and the merger agreement and recommend that Hologic stockholders vote FOR the proposal to amend the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and FOR the proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock in the merger.

Strategic Considerations. Hologic's board of directors considered a number of factors pertaining to the strategic rationale for the merger as supporting its decision to approve the merger, including the following:

the combined company will provide Hologic with a stronger financial base and a more diversified and balanced product portfolio while maintaining Hologic's focus on women's health;

the likelihood of the enhancement of the strategic position of the combined company, which combines Hologic's and Cytc's complementary businesses, and creates a broader company with enhanced operational and financial flexibility and increased opportunities for growth;

the combined company's complementary products and technologies position the combined company to offer a comprehensive product portfolio that addresses many screening and treatment needs for women. This product portfolio will enable the combined company to provide integrated solutions in screening, diagnostics and therapeutics for women's health, including breast cancer, cervical cancer, menorrhagia, pre-natal health, osteoporosis, endometriosis and permanent contraception;

the combined company will be able to offer an expanded product portfolio with over 90% of its total revenue from products that have leading market shares in the United States;

the combined company will have a comprehensive sales and service organization exclusively focused on women's health in the diagnostic and medical technology industry in the United States, which is expected to significantly increase the combined company's presence in hospitals, private practices and healthcare organizations;

the combined company's integrated product offering and broader channel coverage should provide significant cross-selling opportunities across the organization, with increasing penetration of key customer segments, such as OB/GYNs and breast cancer treatment specialists;

the significantly greater scale and scope of the combined company's operations is expected to better enable the combined company to take advantage of growth opportunities and creates a strong platform for further expanding operations through product development and complementary strategic transactions;

the complementary nature of the businesses, the relative close proximity of the two companies and the strong executive teams with proven records of successfully executing strategic transactions, are expected to facilitate an efficient integration of the two companies;

the combined company's operations are expected to result in improved margins for Hologic;

the combination of the cross-selling opportunities, expanded international reach, and the penetration of new and existing markets are expected to enhance revenue growth;

the transaction is expected to generate annual cost savings from the enhanced efficiency of sales and marketing efforts, increased purchasing scale, sourcing and logistics efficiencies, and shared administrative services;

the transaction is expected to be accretive to Hologic's adjusted earnings per share in the first year after the transaction closes and significantly accretive thereafter; and the transaction is expected to enable the combined company to generate significant cash flows, which should enable the combined company to rapidly repay indebtedness incurred in connection with the transaction and reduce the leverage of the combined company resulting from the transaction.

Other Factors Considered by the Hologic Board of Directors. In addition to considering the factors described above, the Hologic board of directors considered the following additional factors, all of which it viewed as supporting its decision to approve the merger:

the business, operations, financial condition, earnings and prospects of each of Cytyc, Hologic and the combined company;

current and historical prices and trading information with respect to each of Cytyc's and Hologic's common stock, which assisted the Hologic board of directors in its conclusion that the merger was fairly priced;

the fact that the merger consideration represented a premium to Cytyc stockholders of approximately 33% based on the closing prices of each company's stock on the Nasdaq Global Select Market on May 18, 2007, the last trading day before the merger was publicly announced, and that the exchange ratio and cash merger consideration is fixed, which the Hologic board believed was consistent with market practice for mergers of this type and with the strategic purpose of the merger;

the expected qualification of the merger as a reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Code, as described in the section entitled Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Merger ;

the current and prospective competitive climate in the industries in which Hologic and Cytoc operate, including the potential for consolidation, and the alternatives reasonably available to Hologic if it did not pursue the merger;

the expected benefits to customers and suppliers of Hologic and Cytyc, and the opportunities for the employees of the combined company;

the belief that the terms and conditions of the merger agreement are reasonable, including:

the fact that the representations and warranties and covenants are generally reciprocal;

the fact that the conditions to closing are limited;

the governance agreements with respect to the combined company post-merger, as further described under Board of Directors and Management of Hologic Following the Merger; Headquarters, including the fact that (i) Mr. John W. Cumming will serve as chief executive officer of the combined company; (ii) the Hologic board of directors will consist of six continuing Hologic directors and five continuing Cytyc directors; (iii) the audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees will consist of an odd number of directors, with one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors and each such committee will be chaired by a Hologic director, and the compensation committee will consist of an even number of continuing Hologic directors and continuing Cytyc directors and such committee will be chaired by a continuing Cytyc director; and (iv) the principal executive offices of the combined company will continue to be located in Bedford, Massachusetts;

the fact that Hologic is permitted to provide material non-public information to and engage in negotiations with a third party that makes an acquisition proposal that is or is reasonably likely to lead to a superior proposal (as described in The Merger Agreement Certain Covenants No Solicitation beginning on page 122), on the terms and subject to the conditions of the merger agreement;

the ability of Hologic, under certain circumstances, to terminate the merger agreement in order to enter into an alternative transaction that is deemed by the Hologic board of directors to be a superior proposal;

the fact that the merger agreement permits the Hologic board of directors, under certain circumstances, to change its recommendation with respect to the merger in response to a material development or change in circumstances occurring or arising after the date of execution of the merger agreement that was not known to the Hologic board of directors as of, or prior to, the date of execution of the merger agreement, provided that the change or development is not, and does not result from, a change in the market price of the common stock of Cytyc primarily as a result of the announcement of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby;

the circumstances under which the termination fees are payable by Hologic or Cytyc under the merger agreement and the view of the Hologic board of directors that these provisions should not preclude a bona fide alternative proposal involving Hologic;

the fact that the termination fee provisions are the product of negotiations; and

the waivers executed by Messrs. Cumming, Cascella and Muir conditionally waiving certain change of control payments, the retention agreement to be entered into with Mr. Cascella, and the change of control agreements, retention and severance agreements and other similar retention arrangements to be offered to key employees of Cytac should assist the combined company in retaining key employees;

the fact that Hologic secured fully committed debt financing in the amount of approximately $2.55 billion for the cash portion of the merger consideration, the repayment of existing debt and the expenses associated with the transaction and continued operations of the combined company;

the terms and conditions of the financing commitment letter, including the likelihood of completing the financing contemplated by the commitment letter on the anticipated schedule without significant risk;

the financial analyses and presentations of each of Goldman Sachs and Jefferies, and their respective opinions, dated May 20, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the assumptions, procedures, factors, limitations and qualifications set forth in their respective opinions, the merger consideration to be paid for each outstanding share of Cytyc common stock, taken in the aggregate, to be paid pursuant to the merger agreement, was fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic. See Opinions of Financial Advisors to the Hologic Board of Directors beginning on page 62; and the anticipated market capitalization, earnings and adjusted earnings per share and capital structure of the combined company. The Hologic board of directors weighed these advantages and opportunities against a number of other factors identified in its deliberations weighing negatively against the merger, including:

the possibility that the merger might not be completed or that completion might be delayed or subject to conditions that may be imposed by governmental authorities;

the challenges inherent in the combination of two businesses of the size and scope of Hologic and Cytyc and the possible diversion of management's attention for an extended period of time;

the risk that the combined company might not retain key employees despite its best efforts;

the risk of not capturing all the anticipated cost savings and operational synergies between Hologic and Cytyc and the risk that other anticipated benefits might not be realized; regulatory and litigation risks associated with the transaction or with the combination of the two companies; the fees and expenses associated with completing the merger and retaining key personnel; risks associated with the incurrence of significant indebtedness to complete the merger, such as the increased leverage of the combined company and restrictions on operations of the combined company following the completion of the merger;

the fact that the stockholders of Hologic immediately prior to the merger will own approximately 45% of the combined company immediately following the merger (assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024);

the fact that the merger is expected to have a dilutive effect on earnings per share of Hologic calculated in accordance with U.S. GAAP;

the fact that Hologic expects to incur additional charges related to write-offs in connection with in-process research and development;

the fact that upon termination of the merger agreement under specified circumstances, Hologic may be required to pay Cytyc a termination fee of either $33 million or $100 million depending on the termination event and this termination fee may discourage other parties that may otherwise have an interest in a business combination with, or an acquisition of, Hologic; and the other risks of the type and nature described under Risk Factors , and the matters described under Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements.

In view of the wide variety of factors considered in connection with its evaluation of the merger and the complexity of these matters, the Hologic board of directors did not find it useful and did not attempt to quantify or assign any relative or specific weights to the various factors that it considered in reaching its determination (i) to approve the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, and (ii) to recommend that Hologic stockholders vote FOR the proposal to amend the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock and FOR the proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock in the merger. In addition, individual members of the Hologic board of directors may have given differing weights to different factors. The Hologic board of directors conducted an overall analysis of the factors described above, including through discussions with, and questioning of, Hologic's management and outside legal counsel and financial advisors.

In considering the recommendation of the Hologic board of directors with respect to the proposal to amend the Hologic charter to increase the authorized shares of common stock and issue shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, you should be aware that certain Hologic directors and officers have arrangements that may cause them to have interests in the transaction that are different from, or are in addition to, the interests of Hologic stockholders generally. See "Interests of Hologic Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger" beginning on page 75.

Hologic's board of directors considered all these factors together and, on the whole, thought them to be favorable to and to support its determination to recommend approval by Hologic stockholders of the proposals necessary to complete the merger.

Recommendation of the Hologic Board of Directors

At its May 19, 2007 meeting, after due consideration with members of Hologic's senior management and Hologic's outside legal counsel and financial advisors, the Hologic board of directors unanimously determined that the merger agreement, and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including the amendment to the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of common stock and the issuance of Hologic common stock in the merger, are advisable to and in the best interests of Hologic and its stockholders. Accordingly, the Hologic board of directors unanimously recommends to its stockholders that they vote FOR the proposal to amend the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock, FOR the proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, FOR the approval of the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Plan, FOR the approval of the amendment to Hologic's Seconded Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan and FOR the adjournment of the special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of any of the foregoing proposals.

Financing of the Merger

At the time Hologic signed the merger agreement, it entered into a commitment letter with Goldman Sachs Credit Partners L.P., dated as of May 20, 2007. The commitment letter was amended and restated on June 26, 2007 to include Banc of America Securities LLC, Bank of America, N.A., Banc of America Bridge LLC, Citigroup Global Markets Inc., JPMorgan Chase Bank, N.A. and J.P. Morgan Securities Inc. as additional arrangers of the financing. These arrangers, together with Goldman Sachs Credit Partners L.P., are referred to as the arrangers. Under the amended and restated commitment letter, referred to as the commitment letter, the arrangers have agreed to provide senior secured financing in an aggregate principal amount of up to $2.55 billion to Hologic at or about the closing date of the merger. Hologic will use the proceeds of new senior secured credit facilities together with the combined company's available cash:

to pay the cash consideration of the merger totaling approximately $2.1 billion; to repay in full all borrowings outstanding, if any, and terminate all commitments under Cytoc's existing first lien senior secured credit facility; to repay in full all borrowings outstanding, if any, and terminate all commitments under Hologic's existing senior secured revolving credit facility; and to pay fees, commissions and expenses, estimated to be approximately $100 million, incurred by the combined company in connection with the merger transaction.

Hologic may also use the proceeds of the new senior secured credit facility, together with the combined company's available cash, to redeem all or a part of Cytac's outstanding $250 million 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024, which have not been converted into Cytac common stock and which have been delivered to Cytac or Hologic for redemption.

The following is a summary of the material provisions of the proposed new credit facilities anticipated in connection with the commitment letter. The terms, conditions and covenants of the new credit facilities are subject to the negotiation, execution and delivery of definitive credit documents. Accordingly, some of the actual terms, conditions and covenants of the new credit facilities may differ in important respects from those we describe below.

Hologic Loan Parties. The commitment letter contemplates that Hologic will be the borrower under the new facilities and that all obligations under the facilities will be guaranteed by all domestic subsidiaries of Hologic, including Cytac and its subsidiaries, provided that neither immaterial subsidiaries of Hologic nor any subsidiary of Hologic that is a Massachusetts securities corporation will be a guarantor. Hologic and the subsidiary guarantors under the new facilities are referred to as the Hologic loan parties.

Credit Facilities. It is contemplated that Hologic will obtain up to $2.55 billion principal amount of credit facilities on the closing date of the merger. The credit facilities to be obtained on the merger closing date will consist of:

a senior secured tranche A term loan facility, known as the term loan A facility, in a total principal amount of up to $250 million; a senior secured tranche B term loan facility, known as the term B loan facility, in a total principal amount of up to $850 million;

a senior secured capital markets term loan, known as the term loan X facility, in a total principal amount of up to $1.25 billion; and a revolving credit facility in a total available principal amount of up to $200 million, provided that no more than $100 million of this facility may be drawn on the merger closing date.

It is contemplated that Hologic may elect, after the closing date and subject in certain circumstances to pro forma compliance by the Hologic loan parties with a specified ratio of total debt to adjusted consolidated EBITDA and other conditions, to increase, under terms and conditions to be determined, the total principal amount of borrowings available under the credit facilities by up to $250 million. EBITDA means earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization.

Security. The commitment letter contemplates that the obligations of the Hologic loan parties under the credit facilities will be secured by first-priority liens on, and first-priority security interests in, substantially all of their assets and a first priority security interest in 100% of the capital stock of each guarantor, 65% of the capital stock of each of the first-tier foreign subsidiaries of Hologic (other than immaterial foreign subsidiaries) and all intercompany debt.

Maturity and Principal Payments. It is contemplated that the final maturity dates for the credit facilities will be as follows:

for the term loan A facility, 5 years after the merger closing date; for the term B loan facility, 5.5 years after the merger closing date; for the term loan X facility, 18 months after the merger closing date; and for the revolving loan facility, 5 years after the merger closing date.

It is contemplated that Hologic will be required to make scheduled principal payments under the term A loan facility in increasing amounts ranging from $3.125 million per quarter on the first quarter following the merger closing date to $9.375 million per quarter commencing the thirteenth quarter following the merger closing date, and under the term B facility, in equal quarterly installments of 0.25% of the total principal amount of the term loan B facility as of the merger closing date during the first 21 quarters after the merger closing date, with the remaining balance of each term loan facility due at the maturity of the applicable term loan facility. The revolving credit facility and the term loan X facility are contemplated to become due at maturity. It is not anticipated that any scheduled amortizations will be required under the revolving facility or the term loan X facility.

It is contemplated that Hologic will be required to make principal repayments first, pro rata among the term loan facilities and second to the revolving credit facility from specified excess cash flows from operations and from the net proceeds of specified types of asset sales, debt issuances, insurance recoveries and equity offerings, provided, however, that net proceeds from certain debt issuances and equity offerings are contemplated to be applied first to the term loan X facility until such facility is repaid in full.

It is contemplated that Hologic may voluntarily prepay any of the credit facilities without premium or penalty (other than applicable breakage costs related to interest on Eurodollar loans).

Interest Payments; Revolver Commitment Fee. It is contemplated that borrowings outstanding under the facilities will bear interest, at Hologic's option, at an annual rate equal to either:

a specified base rate plus a margin to be determined; or a specified Eurodollar rate plus a margin to be determined.

It is contemplated that the margin applicable to loans under the revolving credit facility and the term loan A facility will be subject to specified changes based on certain changes in a specified leverage ratio to be negotiated.

It is contemplated that borrowings outstanding under the new credit facilities with reference to a base rate generally will be payable by Hologic on a quarterly basis. For credit facilities bearing interest with reference to Eurodollar rates, interest shall be payable on the last day of selected interest periods (which shall be one, two, three and six months and in certain circumstances, nine or twelve months) unless the interest period exceeds three months, in which case, interest will be due at the end of every three months.

It is contemplated that Hologic will pay a quarterly commitment fee, at an annual rate of 0.50%, on the undrawn commitments available under the revolving credit facility, subject to reduction based on a leverage ratio to be negotiated.

Covenants. The commitment letter contemplates that the new credit facilities will contain affirmative and negative covenants customarily applicable to senior secured credit facilities, including covenants restricting the ability of the Hologic loan parties, subject to negotiated exceptions, to:

incur additional indebtedness and additional liens on their assets; engage in mergers or acquisitions or dispose of assets;

enter into sale-leaseback transactions;

pay dividends or make other distributions;

voluntarily prepay other indebtedness;

enter into transactions with affiliated persons;

make investments; and change the nature of their businesses.

It is also contemplated that the new credit facilities will require the Hologic loan parties to maintain maximum leverage and interest coverage ratios.

Other Provisions. The commitment letter contemplates that the definitive loan documents will contain customary representations and warranties by the Hologic loan parties, as well as customary events of default, including an event of default upon a change of control of Hologic. Hologic expects that an event of default will occur under the new credit facilities if it or, in some circumstances, another Hologic loan party fails to make any payment when due, fails to comply with affirmative or negative covenants, makes a misrepresentation, defaults on other specified indebtedness, fails to discharge specified judgments, becomes subject to specified claims under ERISA, or becomes subject to specified events of bankruptcy. If an event of default occurs and is not cured within any applicable grace period or is not waived, the lenders would have the right to accelerate repayment of the indebtedness under the credit facilities to the extent provided in the credit documents and applicable law. If its indebtedness were accelerated, Hologic may not have sufficient funds to pay such indebtedness. In such event, Hologic's lenders would be entitled to enforce their security interests in the collateral securing the indebtedness, which will include substantially all of the assets of Hologic and its subsidiaries.

Anticipated Post-merger Refinancing. As soon as practicable after the effective time of the merger, Hologic intends to cause the combined company to seek to refinance a substantial portion of the debt incurred under the proposed new credit facilities with convertible debt or other equity or equity-linked financing, with reduced interest rates, extended maturity and limited or no restrictive or other financial covenants.

Opinions of Financial Advisors to the Hologic Board of Directors

Hologic retained Goldman Sachs and Jefferies as financial advisors to the Hologic board of directors in connection with the merger.

On May 19, 2007, at a meeting of the Hologic board of directors held to evaluate the proposed merger, each of Goldman Sachs and Jefferies delivered to the Hologic board of directors separate oral opinions, which opinions were confirmed by delivery of separate written opinions dated May 20, 2007, to the effect that, as of that date and based on and subject to the assumptions, procedures, factors, limitations and qualifications set forth in each such opinion, the merger consideration to be paid for each outstanding share of Cytoc common stock, taken in the aggregate, to be paid pursuant to the merger agreement, was fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic.

Goldman Sachs and Jefferies' opinions dated May 20, 2007, the full texts of which describe the assumptions made, procedures followed, matters considered and qualifications and limitations on the review undertaken by Goldman Sachs and Jefferies, are attached hereto as Annex C and Annex D, respectively, and are incorporated into this joint proxy statement/prospectus by reference. Goldman Sachs and Jefferies' opinions were directed only to the fairness to Hologic, from a financial point of view, of the merger consideration provided for in the merger and do not address any other aspect of the merger. The opinions do not address the relative merits of the merger as compared to other business strategies or transactions that might be available with respect to Hologic or Hologic's underlying business decision to effect the merger. The opinions do not constitute a recommendation as to how any holder of Hologic common stock or Cytoc common stock should vote at any stockholders' meeting to be held in connection with, or take any action with respect to, the merger. Holders of Hologic common stock are encouraged to read the opinions carefully in their entirety. The summaries of Goldman Sachs and Jefferies' opinions described below are qualified in their entirety by reference to the full texts of the opinions.

Opinion of Goldman Sachs. At the special meeting of the Hologic board of directors on May 19, 2007, Goldman Sachs rendered its oral opinion, subsequently confirmed in writing, to the Hologic board of directors that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the assumptions, procedures, factors, limitations and qualifications set forth in such opinion, the merger consideration to be paid for each outstanding share of Cytoc common stock, taken in the aggregate, to be paid pursuant to the merger agreement, was fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic.

The full text of the written opinion of Goldman Sachs, dated May 20, 2007, which sets forth the assumptions made, procedures followed, matters considered and qualifications and limitations on the review undertaken in connection with its opinion, is attached as Annex C to this joint proxy statement/ prospectus and is incorporated herein by reference. Hologic stockholders should read the opinion in its entirety. Goldman Sachs provided its opinion for the information and assistance of the Hologic board of directors in connection with its consideration of the merger. The Goldman Sachs opinion is not a recommendation as to how any holder of Hologic common stock or Cytyc common stock should vote at any stockholders meeting to be held in connection with, or take any action with respect to, the merger.

In connection with rendering the opinion described above and performing its related financial analyses, Goldman Sachs has reviewed, among other things:

the merger agreement;

annual reports to stockholders and annual reports on Form 10-K of Hologic and Cytyc for the five fiscal years ended on the Saturday closest to September 30, 2006 for Hologic, and December 31, 2006 for Cytyc; certain interim reports to stockholders and quarterly reports on Form 10-Q of Hologic and Cytyc; certain other communications from Hologic and Cytyc to their respective stockholders; certain internal financial analyses and forecasts for Cytyc prepared by its management, as reviewed by the management of Hologic, and certain internal financial analyses and forecasts for Hologic prepared by its management and certain internal pro forma analyses and forecasts of Hologic and Cytyc prepared by the management of Hologic; and certain cost savings and operating synergies projected by the respective managements of Hologic and Cytyc to result from the transaction.

Goldman Sachs also held discussions with members of the senior management of Hologic and Cytyc regarding their assessment of the strategic rationale for, and the potential benefits of, the transaction and the past and current business operations, financial condition, and future prospects of Hologic and Cytyc. In addition, Goldman Sachs reviewed the reported price and trading activity for the shares of Hologic common stock and the shares of Cytyc common stock, compared certain financial and stock market information for Hologic and Cytyc with similar information for certain other companies the securities of which are publicly traded, reviewed the financial terms of certain recent business combinations in the medical device and diagnostics industry specifically and in other industries generally, and performed such other studies and analyses, and considered such other factors, as it considered appropriate.

Goldman Sachs has relied upon the accuracy and completeness of all of the financial, accounting, legal, tax and other information discussed with or reviewed by it and assumed such accuracy and completeness for purposes of the opinion described above. Goldman Sachs assumed, with the consent of the Hologic board of directors, that the financial forecasts and the cost savings and operating synergies projected by Hologic and Cytyc, were reasonably prepared on a basis reflecting the then best currently available estimates and judgments of the management of Hologic and Cytyc. In addition, Goldman Sachs did not make an independent evaluation or appraisal of the assets and liabilities (including any contingent, derivative or off-balance-sheet assets and liabilities) of Hologic or Cytyc or any of their respective subsidiaries and no such evaluation or appraisal was furnished to Goldman Sachs.

Goldman Sachs opinion did not address the underlying business decision of Hologic to engage in the merger, nor did Goldman Sachs express any opinion as to the prices at which shares of Hologic common stock or Cytyc common stock will trade at any time. Goldman Sachs also assumed that all governmental, regulatory or other consents and approvals necessary for completion of the transaction will be obtained without any adverse effect on Hologic or Cytyc or on the expected benefits of the transaction in any way meaningful to its analysis. Goldman Sachs opinion is necessarily based on economic, monetary, market and other conditions as in effect on, and the information made available to Goldman Sachs as of, the date therein.

Goldman Sachs advisory services and opinion were provided for the information and assistance of the Hologic board of directors in connection with its consideration of the transaction and its opinion did not constitute a recommendation as to how any holder of Hologic common stock should vote in respect of the transaction.

The following is a summary of the material financial analyses used by Goldman Sachs and presented to the board in connection with rendering the opinion described above. The following summary, however, does not purport to be a complete description of the financial analyses performed by Goldman Sachs, nor does the order of analyses described represent relative importance or weight given to those analyses by Goldman Sachs. Some of the summaries of the financial analyses include information presented in tabular form. The tables must be read together with the full text of each summary and are alone not a complete description of Goldman Sachs financial analyses. Except as otherwise noted, the following quantitative information, to the extent that it is based on market data, is based on market data as it existed on or before May 18, 2007 and is not necessarily indicative of current market conditions.

Cytc Implied Financial Analysis

Transaction Overview and Valuation Statistics. Goldman Sachs reviewed with the Hologic board of directors the basic structure of the transaction as described to Goldman Sachs by Hologic management, including the following:

consideration of $16.50 and 0.52 shares of Hologic common stock for each share of Cytc common stock;

the implied offer price of $46.46 per share (based on the May 18, 2007 closing price of Hologic's common stock of $57.61); and pro forma ownership, based on 132.4 million diluted shares of Cytc common stock outstanding, by current Hologic stockholders of approximately 45% of the combined company.

Goldman Sachs calculated for the Hologic board of directors various multiples and premiums resulting from the merger, based on information provided by Hologic management and Cytc management (as used herein, reference to information provided by Cytc management refers to such information as reviewed and adjusted by Hologic management). The following table presents the results of Goldman Sachs' calculations:

	Implied Transaction Multiples Without Synergies	Implied Transaction Multiples With Synergies (1)
FY 2008E EBITDA	16.3x	15.2x
FY 2009E EBITDA	13.3x	12.5x
FY 2008E Cash Net Income	28.6x	26.6x
FY 2009E Cash Net Income	22.8x	21.3x
FY 2008E GAAP Net Income	30.9x	28.5x
FY 2009E GAAP Net Income	24.5x	22.8x

(1) Potential cost synergies of $25 million to $30 million within two years, based on Hologic and Cytc management preliminary projections. Comparable Trading Multiple Analysis. Goldman Sachs reviewed and compared certain financial information of Cytc to corresponding financial information, ratios and public market multiples for these publicly traded companies in the medical device and specialized diagnostics industry:

Ventana Medical Systems, Inc.;

Hologic;

Table of Contents

Digene Corp.;

Immucor, Inc.;

Gen-Probe Inc.; and

American Medical Systems Holdings, Inc.

Although none of the selected companies is directly comparable to Cytyc, the companies included were chosen because they are publicly traded companies with operations that for purposes of analysis may be considered similar to certain operations of Cytyc.

Goldman Sachs calculated and compared various financial multiples and ratios for the selected companies and for Cytyc, based on financial data as of May 18, 2007, estimates for the selected companies from Institutional Brokerage Estimate System (IBES), and Cytyc management's projections of Cytyc as adjusted to Hologic's September fiscal year end. With respect to the selected companies and Cytyc, Goldman Sachs calculated enterprise value, which is the market value of common equity plus the estimated market value of debt less cash, as a multiple of 2007E and 2008E earnings before interest, taxes and depreciation and amortization (EBITDA). Goldman Sachs also calculated, based on fiscal year end Cytyc management projections adjusted to Hologic September fiscal year end, the implied transaction value multiples for 2007E and 2008E EBITDA (with and without synergies projected by Cytyc's and Hologic's respective managements). Goldman Sachs compared the multiples of the selected companies to the implied transaction multiples. The result of this analysis is summarized as follows:

Enterprise value as a multiple of:	Selected Companies Range	Implied Transaction Value Multiples
		Without Synergies	With Synergies
2007E EBITDA	14.8x 28.9x	21.0x	20.3x
2008E EBITDA	11.7x 19.0x	16.3x	15.2x

With respect to the selected companies, Goldman Sachs also calculated the ratio of market price to earnings (P/E ratio) for 2007E and 2008E earnings (based on generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP) net income). Goldman Sachs compared the P/E ratios of the selected companies to the implied transaction value P/E ratios. With respect to Cytyc, Goldman Sachs calculated the implied transaction value P/E ratios for 2007E and 2008E earnings for:

projected GAAP net income;

cash net income without synergies; and cash net income with synergies projected by Cytyc's and Hologic's respective managements.

Each of the implied transaction value P/E ratio calculations above was based on fiscal year end Cytyc management projections adjusted to Hologic's September fiscal year end. The result of this analysis is summarized as follows:

P/E ratio	Selected Companies Range	Implied Transaction Value P/E Ratios
		GAAP Net Income	Cash Net Income Without Synergies	Cash Net Income With Synergies

Although none of the selected transactions or the companies party to the transactions is directly comparable to the merger or to Hologic or Cytc, the above transactions were chosen because they involve transactions that, for purposes of analysis, may be considered similar to the merger and/or involve publicly traded companies with operations that, for purposes of analysis, may be considered similar to certain operations of Hologic and Cytc.

For each of the selected transactions, Goldman Sachs calculated and, to the extent information was publicly available, compared enterprise value as a multiple of each of sales, EBITDA and earnings before interest and taxes (EBIT), in each case, on a GAAP net income basis and for the latest twelve months, or LTM, prior to the date that the merger was announced, and compared such multiples to the implied Cytc transaction value multiples. The following tables present the results of this analysis:

Selected Transactions	Implied Transaction Value as Multiple of LTM
	Sales	EBITDA	EBIT
High	8.8x	42.5x	60.4x
Mean	4.8x	20.6x	29.6x
Median	4.5x	18.4x	27.5x

Goldman Sachs also calculated the premiums paid based on the closing stock price of the target one day prior to the announcement of each transaction, and premium paid based on the closing stock price of the target one month prior to the announcement of each transaction or the undisturbed stock price in contested situations, and compared such premiums to the premium derived from the implied Cytyc transaction value multiples. The following tables present the results of this analysis:

Selected Transactions	Premium one day prior	Premium one month prior
High	117.4%	163.2%
Mean	46.7%	50.3%
Median	44.8%	43.6%
Low	5.6%	13.1%
Implied Cytyc transaction multiples (1)	32.5%	32.4%

Cytyc Discounted Cash Flow Analysis. Goldman Sachs performed a discounted cash flow analysis on Cytyc using the financial forecasts provided by Cytyc management. Goldman Sachs calculated implied net present values of projected free cash flows for Cytyc, as provided by Cytyc management, for the years 2007 through 2011 using discount rates ranging from 8.0% to 10.0% and using terminal values in the year 2011 based on forward after tax earnings before interest, taxes and amortization (EBITA) multiples ranging from 18.0x to 22.0x. These analyses indicated implied Cytyc equity value per share from $50.38 to $63.25 per share. In addition, for the benefit of Hologic management and the Hologic board of directors, Goldman Sachs ran a downside sensitivity case analysis based on a 9.0% discount rate and a 20.0x forward after tax EBITA multiple with a range of decrease in Cytyc margin from 0.0% to 4.0% and a range of decrease in Cytyc revenue growth between 0.0% to 6.0%, which analysis indicated implied Cytyc equity value per share from $42.76 to $56.65 per share.

Comparative and Contribution Analysis

Comparative Discounted Cash Flow Analyses. Goldman Sachs performed a comparative discounted cash flow analysis on Hologic and the combined company using the financial forecasts provided by Hologic management, Cytyc management and, in the case of the combined company, the savings from synergies and benefits projected by Hologic and Cytyc management to be realized following the merger.

Goldman Sachs calculated implied net present values of projected free cash flows for Hologic on a standalone and pro forma basis based on forecasts provided by Hologic management and Cytyc management, for the years 2007 through 2011 using discount rates ranging from 9.0% to 11.0% and using terminal values in the year 2011 based on forward after tax EBITA multiples ranging from 18.0x to 22.0x. Hologic management provided two alternative forecasts, management's base case and an upside sensitivity case (the primary difference of which is, for illustrative sensitivity purposes, increases in the compounded annual growth rates for revenue and improvements in the operating margins). Goldman Sachs calculated implied equity values per share without synergies for Hologic on a standalone and with and without synergies on a pro forma basis, based on Hologic management's and Cytyc management's preliminary estimates of synergies. The pro forma values exclude the impact of Hologic and Cytyc net operating losses, assume a mid-year convention and 37.0% tax rate, and are discounted to September 30, 2007. The pro forma discounted cash flow analysis assumes $2.186 billion of pro forma net debt based on total cash financing needs and cash balances as of September 30, 2007, and 125.8 million pro forma fully diluted shares (including Hologic shares to be issued in a small, pending private acquisition).

The analysis based on the forecasts resulted in implied standalone Hologic equity value per share ranges ranging from $45.68 to $68.62. With respect to the combined company, the analysis resulted in implied pro forma equity value per share ranges ranging from $54.73 to $78.68 with synergies and $52.38 to $75.76 without synergies.

Illustrative Contribution Analysis. Goldman Sachs analyzed and compared the relative contributions to be made by each of Hologic and Cytyc, based on the forecasts of EBITDA and cash net income for fiscal years 2008 through 2011 provided by Hologic management and Cytyc management, for both the management base case and the upside sensitivity case and with and without synergies provided by Hologic management and Cytyc management preliminary estimates.

For comparison to the approximately 45% ownership that will be retained by Hologic in the combined company, Goldman Sachs calculated the implied percentage of equity for both Hologic and Cytyc based on their relative contribution to EBITDA and Cash Net Income by using Hologic's implied trading multiples for the alternative forecasts. Included in these analyses were potential cost synergies based on Hologic management's and Cytyc management's preliminary estimates. The following table presents the results of these analyses on a blended range basis:

	% Contribution		Implied % of Equity Based on Hologic Current Trading Multiples Without Synergies		Implied % of Equity Based on Hologic Current Trading Multiples With Synergies
	FY 2008E	FY 2011E	FY 2008E	FY 2011E	FY 2008E	FY 2011E
EBITDA
Hologic	36.9%	27.1%	53.6%	35.5%	50.7%	34.2%
Cytyc	72.9%	63.1%	64.5%	46.4%	65.8%	49.3%
Cash Net Income
Cytyc	70.0%	55.0%	65.2%	41.1%	66.5%	44.9%

The above analysis assumes equivalent multiples are applied to both Hologic and Cytyc. Goldman Sachs derived the implied equity value of the pro forma company by adjusting Cytyc's implied enterprise value for transaction debt of $2.286 billion and cash of $42 million. Each analysis also assumes that Hologic's equity value was $3.283 billion as of May 18, 2007, that Hologic completes a small, pending private acquisition and assumes the pro forma capital structure as applied to Cytyc, which would result in an after tax pro forma interest expense deduction to Cytyc cash net income.

Pro Forma Analysis

Pro Forma Accretion/Dilution Analysis. Goldman Sachs compared, for each of the years 2008 and 2009, the forecast earnings per share, referred to as EPS, of Hologic, on a cash EPS and GAAP EPS standalone basis, in relation to the estimated GAAP EPS and the estimated cash EPS of the combined company, with and without synergies. In connection with the analysis, Goldman Sachs used EPS estimates under the forecast alternatives prepared by Hologic management and EPS estimates provided by Cytyc management. Goldman Sachs considered the potential cost synergies, based on Hologic management and Cytyc management preliminary estimates, and the 2008 figures included a $10 million management retention expense as provided by Hologic management. The analysis indicated that, while the transaction would be meaningfully dilutive on a GAAP basis, it would be accretive on a cash EPS basis taking into account synergies. In addition, such analysis was based on preliminary purchase accounting assumptions reviewed with Goldman Sachs by Hologic management.

The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. Selecting portions of the analyses or of the summary set forth above, without considering the analyses as a whole, could create an incomplete view of the processes underlying Goldman Sachs' opinion. In arriving at its fairness determination, Goldman Sachs considered the results of all of its analyses and did not attribute any particular weight to any factor or analysis considered by it. Rather, Goldman Sachs made its determination as to fairness on the basis of its experience and professional judgment after considering the results of all of its analyses. No company or transaction used in the above analyses as a comparison is directly comparable to Hologic or the contemplated transaction.

Goldman Sachs prepared these analyses for purposes of Goldman Sachs providing its opinion to the Hologic board of directors that, as of May 20, 2007 and based upon and subject to the assumptions, procedures, factors, limitations and qualifications set forth in such opinion, the merger consideration to be paid for each outstanding share of Cytoc common stock, taken in the aggregate, pursuant to the merger agreement was fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic. These analyses do not purport to be appraisals nor do they necessarily reflect the prices at which businesses or securities actually may be sold. Analyses based upon forecasts of future results are not necessarily indicative of actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by these analyses. Because these analyses are inherently subject to uncertainty, being based upon numerous factors or events beyond the control of the parties or their respective advisors, none of Hologic, Goldman Sachs or any other person assumes responsibility if future results are materially different from those forecast.

The merger consideration was determined through arm's-length negotiations between Hologic and Cytoc and was approved by the Hologic board of directors. Goldman Sachs provided advice to Hologic during these negotiations. Goldman Sachs did not, however, recommend any specific amount of consideration to Hologic or its board of directors or that any specific merger consideration constituted the only appropriate consideration for the merger.

As described above, the opinion of Goldman Sachs to the Hologic board of directors was one of many factors taken into consideration by the Hologic board of directors in making its determination to approve the transaction. The foregoing summary does not purport to be a complete description of the analyses performed by Goldman Sachs in connection with the fairness opinion and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the written opinion of Goldman Sachs attached as Annex C.

Goldman Sachs and its affiliates, as part of their investment banking business, are continually engaged in performing financial analyses with respect to businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, negotiated underwritings, competitive biddings, secondary distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and other transactions as well as for estate, corporate and other purposes. Goldman Sachs has acted as financial advisor to Hologic in connection with, and has participated in certain of the negotiations leading to, the transaction contemplated by the merger agreement. In addition, Goldman Sachs has provided certain investment banking services to Hologic and Cytoc from time to time, for which Goldman Sachs has received, and may receive, compensation. Goldman Sachs also may provide investment banking services to Hologic in the future for which Goldman Sachs may receive compensation. In addition, Goldman Sachs expects that it and its affiliates will arrange and/or provide financing to Hologic specifically in connection with the transaction for additional compensation.

Goldman Sachs is a full service securities firm engaged, either directly or through its affiliates, in securities trading, investment management, financial planning and benefits counseling, risk management, hedging, financing and brokerage activities for both companies and individuals. In the ordinary course of these activities, Goldman Sachs and its affiliates may provide such services to Hologic, Cytoc and their respective affiliates, may actively trade the debt and equity securities (or related derivative securities) of Hologic and Cytoc for their own account and for the accounts of their customers and may at any time hold long and short positions of such securities.

The Hologic board of directors selected Goldman Sachs as its financial advisor because it is an internationally recognized investment banking firm that has substantial experience in transactions similar to the contemplated transaction. Pursuant to a letter agreement, dated May 8, 2007, Hologic engaged Goldman Sachs to act as its financial advisor in connection with the transaction. Pursuant to the terms of this letter agreement, Hologic has agreed to pay Goldman Sachs a transaction fee of $16 million upon completion of the merger.

In addition, Hologic has agreed to reimburse Goldman Sachs' expenses incurred in connection with this engagement and to indemnify Goldman Sachs and related persons against various liabilities, including certain liabilities under the federal securities laws.

Opinion of Jefferies. Jefferies was engaged to render an opinion to Hologic's board of directors as to whether the merger consideration to be paid by Hologic pursuant to the merger agreement is fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic. On May 19, 2007, Jefferies delivered to the Hologic board of directors its oral opinion, subsequently confirmed in writing, that, as of the date of its opinion, based upon and subject to the assumptions, limitations, qualifications and factors contained in its opinion, the merger consideration to be paid by Hologic pursuant to the merger agreement is fair, from a financial point of view, to Hologic.

The full text of the written opinion of Jefferies is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D and incorporated into this joint proxy statement/prospectus by reference. We urge you to read that opinion carefully and in its entirety for the assumptions made, procedures followed, other matters considered and limits of the review undertaken in arriving at that opinion.

Jefferies' opinion is for the use and benefit of the Hologic board of directors in its consideration of the merger, and Jefferies' opinion does not address the relative merits of the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement as compared to any alternative transaction or opportunity that might be available to Hologic, nor does it address the underlying business decision by Hologic to engage in the merger or the terms of the merger agreement or the documents referred to therein. Jefferies' opinion does not constitute a recommendation as to how any holder of shares of Hologic common stock should vote on the merger or any matter related thereto. In addition, Hologic did not ask Jefferies to address, and Jefferies' opinion does not address, the fairness to, or any other consideration of, the holders of any class of securities, creditors or other constituencies of Hologic. Jefferies expresses no opinion as to the price at which shares of Hologic common stock would trade at any time.

In arriving at its opinion, Jefferies, among other things:

- (i) reviewed a draft dated May 19, 2007 of the merger agreement;
- (ii) reviewed certain publicly available financial and other information about Hologic and Cytyc;
- (iii) reviewed certain information furnished to Jefferies by Hologic's management, including financial forecasts and analyses, relating to the business, operations and prospects of Hologic;
- (iv) reviewed certain information furnished to Jefferies by Cytyc's management and Hologic's management, including financial forecasts and analyses, relating to the business, operations and prospects of Cytyc;
- (v) held discussions with members of senior management of Hologic concerning the matters described in clauses (ii), (iii) and (iv) above;
- (vi) held discussions with members of senior management of Cytyc concerning the matters described in clause (ii) and (iv) above;
- (vii) reviewed certain publicly available information, including share trading price history and valuation multiples, of certain publicly traded companies that Jefferies deemed comparable to Cytyc;
- (viii) compared the proposed financial terms of the merger with the financial terms of certain other transactions that Jefferies deemed relevant; and

(ix) conducted such other financial studies, analyses, and investigations as Jefferies deemed appropriate. In Jefferies' review and analysis and in rendering its opinion, Jefferies assumed and relied upon, but did not independently investigate or verify, the accuracy and completeness of all financial and other information that was supplied or otherwise made available by Hologic or Cytoc or that was publicly available to Jefferies, or that was otherwise reviewed by Jefferies. In Jefferies' review, Jefferies did not obtain any independent evaluation or appraisal of any of the assets or liabilities of, nor did Jefferies conduct a physical inspection of any of the properties or facilities of Hologic or Cytac, nor was Jefferies furnished with any such evaluations or appraisals of such physical inspections, nor does Jefferies have any responsibility to obtain any such evaluations or appraisals.

With respect to the financial forecasts provided to and examined by Jefferies, Jefferies notes that projecting future results of Hologic and Cytac is inherently subject to uncertainty. Hologic and Cytac informed Jefferies, and Jefferies assumed, that such financial forecasts were reasonably prepared on bases reflecting the best currently available estimates and good faith judgments of the management of Hologic and Cytac as to the future financial performance of Hologic and Cytac, respectively. Jefferies expresses no opinion as to such financial forecasts or the assumptions on which they were made.

Jefferies made no independent investigation of any legal or accounting matters affecting Hologic or Cytac, and assumed the correctness in all respects material to Hologic's analysis of all legal and accounting advice given to Hologic and its board of directors, including, without limitation, advice as to the legal, accounting and tax consequences of the terms of, and transactions contemplated by, the merger agreement to Hologic and its stockholders. In addition, in preparing its opinion, Jefferies did not take into account any tax consequences of the transaction to Hologic. Jefferies assumed that the final form of the merger agreement would be substantially similar to the last draft reviewed by Jefferies. Jefferies also assumed that in the course of obtaining the necessary regulatory or third party approvals, consents and releases for the merger, no delay, limitation, restriction or condition would be imposed that would have an adverse effect on Hologic, Cytac or the contemplated benefits of the merger.

Jefferies' opinion was based on economic, monetary, regulatory, market and other conditions existing and that could be evaluated as of the date of its opinion. Jefferies has no obligation to advise any person of any change in any fact or matter affecting its opinion of which Jefferies may have become aware of or of which Jefferies could become aware after the date of its opinion.

The following is a brief summary of the analyses performed by Jefferies in connection with its opinion. This summary is not intended to be an exhaustive description of the analyses performed by Jefferies but includes all material factors considered by Jefferies in rendering its opinion. Jefferies drew no specific conclusions from any individual analysis, but subjectively factored its observations from all of these analyses into its qualitative assessment of the merger consideration. Each analysis performed by Jefferies is a common methodology utilized in determining valuations. Although other valuation techniques may exist, Jefferies believes that the analyses described below, when taken as a whole, provide the most appropriate analyses for Jefferies to arrive at its opinion.

Comparable Public Company Analysis

Jefferies utilized comparable public company analysis, which values a target company by reference to publicly-traded companies with similar products, similar operating and financial characteristics and similar markets. Jefferies reviewed and compared selected financial data for six publicly traded companies chosen by Jefferies that were deemed to be comparable to Cytac based on similar market capitalizations; revenue growth rates; gross margins and EBITDA (earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization) margins; similar business models; and participation in similar, high-growth medical device markets. The comparable companies chosen by Jefferies included:

Digene Corporation
Gen-Probe Incorporated
Inverness Medical Innovations, Inc.

Meridian Bioscience, Inc.
Quidel Corporation
Ventana Medical Systems, Inc.

For each of the comparable companies, Jefferies calculated the ratios of the company's total enterprise value (TEV) as of May 18, 2007 to analyst estimates of that company's 2007 EBITDA. TEV was calculated as market capitalization, plus total debt, less cash and cash equivalents. Jefferies also calculated price-to-earnings ratio for each comparable company by dividing each company's respective closing stock price on May 18, 2007 by (i) consensus analyst estimates of that company's 2007 and 2008 GAAP earnings per share (EPS), including the impact of stock option expenses, and (ii) analyst estimates of that company's 2007 and 2008 cash EPS, including the impact of stock option expenses. Jefferies used information available in publicly available research reports for estimated EBITDA, estimated GAAP EPS and estimated cash EPS.

Jefferies next calculated the corresponding implied multiples for Cytyc in the merger on the same basis, but defining equity market capitalization (for purposes of calculating TEV) as the $46.46 proposed per share merger consideration multiplied by the sum of the number of diluted shares outstanding plus the additional shares that would be issued upon conversion of convertible notes. Such calculations consisted of the ratios of Cytyc's TEV (based on the $46.46 proposed per share merger consideration) to Hologic management's projections of Cytyc EBITDA for the current fiscal year ending December 31, 2007. In addition, Jefferies calculated price-to-earnings ratios based on the $46.46 proposed per share merger consideration to (i) Hologic management's projections of Cytyc GAAP earnings per share and cash earnings per share for the current fiscal year ending December 31, 2007; and (ii) Hologic management's projections of Cytyc GAAP earnings per share and cash earnings per share for the next full fiscal year ending December 31, 2008. Jefferies then compared such implied multiples for Cytyc in the merger to the multiples for the comparable companies.

	High	Low
	Comparable	Comparable	Mean	Median	Implied
Comparable Companies	Multiple	Multiple	Comparable	Comparable	Multiple Multiple	Multiple	Cytyc at $46.46
1) Multiple of TEV/2007E EBITDA	29.6x	12.3x	18.4x	18.2x	19.0x
2) Multiple of Price/2007E GAAP Earnings	49.7x	23.0x	36.2x	36.8x	33.7x
3) Multiple of Price/2007E Cash Earnings	38.0x	22.1x	32.0x	34.5x	31.3x
4) Multiple of Price/2008E GAAP Earnings	34.3x	18.6x	26.0x	27.9x	26.1x
5) Multiple of Price/2008E Cash Earnings	33.4x	16.0x	24.7x	27.7x	24.2x

No company utilized in the comparable public company analysis is identical to Cytyc. Jefferies made judgments and assumptions with regard to industry performance, general business, economic, market and financial conditions, and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Cytyc. Mathematical analysis of comparable public companies (such as determining means and medians) in isolation from other analyses is not an effective method of evaluating transactions.

Table of Contents*Comparable Transaction Analysis*

Jefferies utilized comparable transaction analysis, a method of valuing a business relative to recent merger and acquisition transactions involving similar businesses. Jefferies analyzed eleven previous outright acquisitions of small- and mid-cap public target companies and emerging growth private target companies with one or more of the following characteristics: market leader in high-growth niches of medical technology; focus on diagnostics and women's health; and strong strategic fit with the acquirer based on similar physician call point/complementary products. The comparable transactions chosen by Jefferies included:

For each of these transactions, Jefferies initially calculated the ratios of the TEV of the transaction (based on the acquisition price) to the target company's EBITDA for the latest twelve month period (LTM) ended on the last day of the period covered by the target company's Form 10-K or Form 10-Q, as applicable, last filed prior to the announcement of the relevant transaction. In calculating such ratios, Jefferies calculated TEV of the transaction as the market value of the relevant target company's equity securities plus its indebtedness and minority interests less its cash and cash equivalents.

Jefferies also calculated the ratios of the total equity value in each comparable transaction to (i) estimates of GAAP earnings and cash earnings for the target company's then current fiscal year and (ii) the target company's next full fiscal year. The estimates used by Jefferies for each target company's forward earnings were available in publicly available research reports.

Jefferies next calculated corresponding implied multiples for Cytc in the Merger. Such calculations consisted of the ratio of Cytc's TEV (based on the $46.46 proposed per share merger consideration) to Cytc's EBITDA from March 31, 2006 to March 31, 2007. In addition, Jefferies calculated price-to-earnings ratios based on the $46.46 proposed per share merger consideration to (i) Hologic management's projections of Cytc GAAP earnings and cash earnings for the current fiscal year ending December 31, 2007; and (ii) Hologic management's projections of Cytc GAAP earnings and cash earnings for the next full fiscal year ending December 31, 2008. Jefferies then compared such implied multiples for Cytc in the merger to the multiples for the precedent transactions.

The transactions utilized in the comparable transaction analysis are not identical to the merger. In evaluating the transactions, Jefferies made judgments and assumptions with regard to industry performance, general business, economic, market and financial conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of either Hologic or Cytac. Mathematical analysis of comparable transaction data in isolation from other analyses is not an effective method of evaluating transactions.

Discounted Cash Flow Analysis

Jefferies utilized discounted cash flow analysis, which values a company as the sum of its unlevered (before financing costs) free cash flows over a forecast period and the company's terminal or residual value at the end of the forecast period. Jefferies examined the value of Cytac based on projected free cash flow estimates, which were generated utilizing financial projections from June 30, 2007 through September 30, 2012 that were provided by Cytac management and revised by Hologic management. A range of terminal values at September 30, 2011 was determined based on free cash flow in 2012 and applying perpetual growth rates from 5.0% to 6.0%, and discount rates of 11.5% to 12.5%. Jefferies selected its range of perpetual growth rates (5.0% - 6.0%) based on an average of growth rates over the long-term, which Jefferies deemed appropriate in light of projected above average growth in the near- and medium-term and an eventual maturing of the growth of free cash flows over the long-term.

Jefferies selected discount rates of 11.5% - 12.5% based on the Capital Asset Pricing Model, using a target capital structure for Cytac. Based on the selected range of perpetual growth rates (5.0% - 6.0%) and discount rates (11.5% - 12.5%), Jefferies calculated implied Cytac equity values per share ranging from $42.39 to $56.96 per share.

While discounted cash flow analysis is a widely accepted and practiced valuation methodology, it relies on a number of assumptions, including growth rates and discount rates. The valuation derived from the discounted cash flow analysis is not necessarily indicative of Cytac's present or future value or results. Discounted cash flow analysis in isolation from other analyses is not an effective method of evaluating transactions.

Premiums Paid Analysis

Jefferies utilized premiums paid analysis, a method of valuing a target business by analyzing the premiums paid in selected merger and acquisition transactions. Using publicly available information, Jefferies conducted premiums paid analysis of 24 change of control transactions involving target companies in the medical device industry announced since January 13, 2004.

Table of Contents

For each of the target companies involved in the 24 transactions, Jefferies examined the closing stock price one day prior to announcement of the relevant transaction in order to calculate the mean, median, minimum and maximum premiums paid by the acquirer over the target company's closing stock price at those points in time. Jefferies then compared those premiums to the premium implied by the $46.46 proposed merger consideration over Cytyc's undisturbed stock price of $35.05 on May 18, 2007, the date one trading day prior to the announcement of the merger. A summary of the one day premiums observed in this premiums paid analysis is set forth in the table below:

Premiums Paid	1-Day
Median	25.3%
Maximum	120.8%
Minimum	5.1%
Proposed Merger Consideration (Cytyc)	32.6%

Conclusion

The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. In arriving at its opinion, Jefferies considered the results of all of its analyses as a whole and did not attribute any particular weight to any analysis or factor considered by it. Furthermore, Jefferies believes that selecting any portion of its analysis, without considering all analyses, would create an incomplete view of the process underlying its opinion.

In performing its analyses, Jefferies made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, and general business and economic conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Hologic and Cytyc. The analyses performed by Jefferies are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by such analyses. Jefferies did not recommend any specific consideration to the Hologic board of directors or that any specific consideration constituted the only appropriate consideration with respect to the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

Miscellaneous

Pursuant to an engagement letter dated May 15, 2007, the Hologic board of directors agreed to cause Hologic to pay Jefferies a fee in connection with rendering its opinion to the Hologic board of directors that is customary for transactions similar to the merger, and such fee was paid upon delivery of Jefferies' opinion. The Hologic board of directors also agreed to cause Hologic to reimburse Jefferies for its expenses incurred in connection with rendering its opinion to the Hologic board of directors and to indemnify Jefferies against liabilities arising out of or in connection with the services rendered by Jefferies in connection to its engagement by the Hologic board of directors.

Jefferies maintains a market in Hologic securities and, in the ordinary course of business, Jefferies and its affiliates may trade or hold such securities for their own account and the accounts of their customers and, accordingly, may at any time hold long or short positions in those securities. Jefferies may seek to, in the future, provide financial advisory and financing services to Hologic or entities that are affiliated with Hologic, for which Jefferies would expect to receive compensation.

Interests of Hologic Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger

In considering the recommendation of the Hologic board of directors with respect to the merger, Hologic stockholders should be aware that certain executive officers of Hologic and members of the Hologic board of directors may have interests in the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement that are different than, or in addition to, the interests of the Hologic stockholders generally. The Hologic board of directors was aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, in approving the merger and making its recommendation. These interests are summarized below.

Payments and Consideration to Executive Officers and Directors in Connection with the Merger.

Change of Control Agreements; Waivers. Each of Mr. John W. Cumming, Hologic's current chairman and chief executive officer, Mr. Glenn P. Muir, Hologic's current chief financial officer, Mr. Robert A. Cascella, Hologic's current president and chief operating officer, and Dr. Jay A. Stein, Hologic's current chairman emeritus and chief technical officer, have change of control agreements with Hologic, which provide that such officers are entitled to receive certain payments and benefits in connection with a change of control of Hologic. In addition, certain stock options and restricted stock unit award agreements for each of these officers provide that the officer's unvested options and restricted stock units accelerate upon a change of control, except for restricted stock unit awards granted as a part of such officer's existing retention and severance agreements.

In connection with entering into the merger agreement, each of Messrs. Cumming, Muir and Cascella agreed to waive, solely with respect to the change of control resulting from the merger, the change of control payment and special bonus they would have been entitled to receive under their respective change of control agreements and any accelerated vesting of the stock options and restricted stock units that were entitled to fully vest in connection with the merger. Each officer's waiver provides that if such officer is terminated by Hologic other than for cause or if the officer resigns for good reason before the second anniversary of the merger then the waiver is rescinded. In connection with any rescission of the waiver, a change of control is deemed to have occurred at the effective time of the merger and the officer is entitled to receive all payments and benefits under his change of control agreement and all unvested options and restricted stock units that absent such waiver would have vested at the effective time of the merger shall become vested. These waivers do not apply to any change of control that may occur with respect to Hologic other than the merger. The following table sets forth the payments and other benefits that each of Messrs. Cumming, Muir and Cascella have conditionally waived under their respective change of control agreements that would become payable if their employment were terminated within two years of the effective date of the merger under the circumstances described above.

(1) Represents a lump sum payment in cash equal to the sum of the executive's annual base salary for fiscal 2007 plus the executive's highest annual bonus (as defined in the officer's change of control agreement), multiplied by three.

(2) Represents the sum of the executive's annual base salary plus the executive's highest annual bonus.

- (3) All unvested stock options and restricted stock units, other than those restricted stock units issued in connection with the officer's retention and severance agreement, would vest in connection with a change of control. More detail relating to the number and exercise price of such stock options is as follows (assuming the merger has a closing date of October 18, 2007, the date of the Hologic special meeting):

John W. Cumming: 60,000 options with an exercise price of $7.125 per share.

Robert A. Cascella: 35,000 options with an exercise price of $7.125 per share.

Glenn P. Muir: 35,000 options with an exercise price of $7.125 per share.

- (4) For purposes of the table set forth above, values are calculated (i) with respect to restricted stock units, by assuming that Hologic's common stock price at the effective time of the merger is $55.00 per share and (ii) with respect to stock options, by subtracting the exercise price of the applicable stock option from the assumed $55.00 per share stock price of Hologic's common stock at the effective time of the merger.

- (5) Amounts do not reflect any additional amounts paid to the executive which are necessary to pay any excise tax imposed upon the executive's change of control payments and benefits pursuant to Section 4999 of the Code.

Under the terms of Dr. Stein's change of control agreement he is entitled to a change of control payment in the amount of $1,800,000, which is equal to his base salary plus his highest annual bonus (as defined in his change of control agreement), multiplied by three. As a result of the merger, Dr. Stein will also be immediately vested in outstanding, unvested stock options to purchase 10,000 shares of Hologic common stock (having a value of $478,750, calculated by subtracting the exercise price of the stock options from an assumed $55.00 per share stock price of Hologic's common stock price at the effective time of the merger) and 2,070 restricted stock units representing shares of Hologic common stock (having a value of $113,850, calculated by assuming that Hologic's common stock price at the effective time of the merger is $55.00 per share). In addition, on the one year anniversary of the merger, Dr. Stein is entitled to receive a special bonus if he remains employed by Hologic. The special one time bonus is $600,000, which is equal to his then base salary plus his highest annual bonus. If Dr. Stein is terminated without cause or resigns for good reason prior to the one year anniversary of the merger, then Hologic is obligated to pay him the special bonus within thirty days of the termination date. Hologic is also obligated to gross up the amount paid Dr. Stein for excise taxes, if any, arising under Section 280G of the Code.

Non-Continuing Directors of Hologic. The compensation committee of the board of directors of Hologic approved certain benefits to be received at the effective time of the merger by those current independent directors of Hologic who will not continue as directors of Hologic following the merger. As of the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, the current independent directors of Hologic who will continue to serve as directors of Hologic following the merger have not been determined. Accordingly, the information provided below has been provided for each of the current independent directors of Hologic.

Stock Options Held by Non-Continuing Hologic Directors. Stock options to purchase shares of Hologic's common stock held by independent directors who will not continue as directors of Hologic following the merger will vest and become fully exercisable upon the effective time of the merger and will remain exercisable until December 2009. The table below sets forth the name of each current Hologic director and the number of options that would vest assuming a closing date of October 18, 2007 and further assuming that individual did not continue as a director of Hologic after the merger:

Name	Number of Shares Underlying Stock Options that will Vest in connection with the Merger
Laurie Fajardo(1)	46,000

- (5) Consists of options to purchase 10,000 shares with an exercise price of $6.80; options to purchase 2,000 shares with an exercise price of $37.92; and options to purchase 6,000 shares with an exercise price of $47.28.
- (6) Consists of options to purchase 30,000 shares with an exercise price of $35.68; and options to purchase 6,000 shares with an exercise price of $47.28.

Director Fees for Non-Continuing Directors. The compensation committee of the board of directors of Hologic also determined to accelerate the annual fees that otherwise would have been payable through March 2008 to those independent directors of Hologic who will not continue as directors after the merger. Accordingly, upon the effective time of the merger, each independent director of Hologic who will not continue as a director of Hologic following the merger will be entitled to receive the full amount of any unpaid annual fees payable through March 2008 to Hologic's directors. The total amount of the annual fee payable to a director is $60,000 plus $7,500 for each chair of Hologic's compensation, audit and corporate development committees. Assuming an effective time of the merger on October 18, 2007, the unpaid amounts that will be paid to each independent director of Hologic assuming such director does not continue as a director of Hologic following the merger is as follows: Ms. Fajardo: $15,000; Mr. Jacobs: $15,000; Mr. LaVance: $16,875; Dr. Lerner: $15,000; Ms. Leaming: $16,875; and Mr. Levy: $16,875.

Continuing Hologic Directors. As described under Amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan, each continuing Cytoc director that becomes an independent director of Hologic at the effective time of the merger will receive an automatic grant of options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock pursuant to the terms of Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan. In connection with entering into the merger agreement, the parties agreed to treat all independent directors who will serve as directors of Hologic on the effective time of the merger similarly. Accordingly, subject to discretion and approval of the compensation committee of the board of directors of Hologic, it is expected that each continuing Hologic director who is an independent director will be granted options to purchase 50,000 shares of common stock of Hologic under Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan at the effective time of the merger.

The options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock to be granted to all independent directors of Hologic at the effective time of the merger will become exercisable in 20% installments beginning on January 1 of the first year after the grant date, and on January 1 of each year thereafter, until such options are fully exercisable on January 1 of the fifth year following the grant. If the continuing Hologic directors receive their discretionary grant of options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock, they have agreed to forego their automatic grant of options to purchase 8,000 shares of Hologic common stock that they would have otherwise received on January 1, 2008 pursuant to the terms of Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan. The continuing Cytyc directors are not eligible for the automatic grant of options to purchase 8,000 shares under Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan because such persons would not have been serving as a Hologic director for a period of six months before January 1, 2008.

Retention and Severance Agreements. In connection with Mr. Cascella's waiver described above, Hologic and Mr. Cascella also agreed to the principal terms of a three year retention agreement, which will become effective upon and is subject to the completion of the merger. Mr. Cascella's existing retention and severance agreement entered into in May 2006, will also remain in effect following the merger. Under the terms of the new retention agreement, Mr. Cascella will be entitled to a retention bonus in the amount equal to approximately $2,000,000 payable 50% in cash and 50% in restricted stock units if he remains employed by Hologic for three years following the effective time of the merger. The payment will be accelerated if Hologic terminates Mr. Cascella without cause or if Mr. Cascella resigns for good reason prior to such date. Termination for cause requires that 75% of Hologic's independent directors determine that cause exists.

Other than as described above, no other employment arrangements with any Hologic executive officer were amended in connection with the merger agreement.

Board and Committee Composition of the Combined Company. Certain members of the Hologic board of directors will continue as directors of the combined company. As of the effective time of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic will consist of eleven directors, six of whom will be designated by Hologic and five of whom will be designated by Cytyc. Four of the six persons designated by Hologic will be independent directors, as defined under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be John W. Cumming, current chairman and chief executive officer of Hologic, and Glenn P. Muir, current chief financial officer of Hologic.

Hologic's audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees following the merger will each consist of an odd number of directors, consisting of one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors. The chairman of each of these committees will be a continuing Hologic director. The compensation committee of Hologic following the merger will consist of an even number of directors, consisting of an equal number of continuing Cytyc directors and continuing Hologic directors. The chairman of the compensation committee will be a continuing Cytyc director. See Board of Directors and Management of Hologic Following the Merger; Headquarters beginning on page 105.

Indemnification of Officers and Directors. In connection with entering into the merger agreement, Hologic's board of directors approved an amendment to the indemnification provisions contained in Hologic bylaws. Such amendment will become effective only upon the effective time of the merger. The amended Hologic bylaws provide that Hologic will indemnify any person who was or is or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative, by reason of the fact that he is or was a director or officer of Hologic or, while a director or officer of Hologic, is or was serving at the request of Hologic as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, including service with respect to an employee benefit plan, where the basis of such proceeding is alleged action in an official capacity as a director, officer, employee or agent, against all expense, liability and loss (including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines, ERISA excise taxes or penalties and amounts paid in settlement) reasonably incurred or suffered by such person in connection with such proceeding. The amended bylaws also provide that Hologic will indemnify any person seeking indemnification in connection with a proceeding brought by that person only if the proceeding (or part thereof) was authorized by the Hologic board of directors. The current Hologic bylaws permit indemnification of officers and directors, but do not require Hologic to provide such persons with indemnification. Hologic has entered into indemnification agreements with each of its current directors and certain of its officers, which provide for mandatory indemnification, and has also agreed to enter into similar indemnification agreements with each of the directors of Cytyc who will become directors of Hologic at the effective time of the merger.

Cytyc Reasons for the Merger

At a meeting held on May 20, 2007, the Cytyc board of directors unanimously determined that the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement were advisable and fair to and in the best interests of the Cytyc stockholders and approved and adopted the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger. In evaluating the merger, the Cytyc board of directors consulted with Cytyc's management, as well as with Cytyc's legal and financial advisors. In reaching its conclusion to approve the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, the Cytyc board of directors considered a variety of factors weighing favorably towards the merger, including, without limitation, the material factors listed below:

Strategic Considerations. The Cytyc board of directors considered a number of factors pertaining to the strategic rationale for the merger as supporting its decision to enter into the merger agreement, including the following:

the fact that the merger is a combination of two companies that will provide a strong financial base and a diversified product portfolio in the increasingly competitive women's healthcare marketplace;

the complementary aspects of the respective businesses of Cytyc and Hologic, creating the potential for the combined company to be a global leader in women's healthcare; the combined company will offer a product portfolio that meets many of a woman's screening and treatment needs throughout her life, including integrated solutions in screening, diagnostics and therapeutics for women's health, including breast cancer, cervical cancer, menorrhagia, pre-natal health, osteoporosis, endometriosis and permanent contraception;

the combined company will be able to offer an expanded product portfolio with over 90% of its total revenue from products that are the leader in market share in the United States;

the combined company will have comprehensive sales coverage creating one of the largest sales and service organizations exclusively focused on women's healthcare in the diagnostic and medical technology industry in the United States with over 900 sales and service professionals in the United States;

the combined company will provide significant cross-selling synergies;

the combined company will have an enhanced international presence with direct operations in over 20 countries and a commercial presence in over 125 countries worldwide; and the Cytac board of directors' belief that the combined company will provide significantly greater capabilities and competitiveness than Cytac currently has on its own, including:

greater financial, research and development, and marketing resources to better serve its customers;

the acceleration of the introduction of new and improved products and services; and greater ability to develop next-generation products and services.

Strategic Alternatives. The Cytyc board of directors considered the strategic alternatives to the merger available to Cytyc, including remaining a stand-alone entity and pursuing acquisitions of strategic assets and alternative acquisition candidates, and the determination of the Cytyc board of directors that a combination with Hologic is expected to yield greater strategic benefits than other reasonably likely alternatives because of the factors described above in Strategic Considerations.

Financial Considerations. The Cytyc board of directors considered a number of financial factors pertaining to the merger as supporting its decision to enter into the merger agreement, including the following:

that Cytyc stockholders will own approximately 55% of the combined company's outstanding shares immediately after the effective time of the merger (assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024), which will allow Cytyc stockholders to participate in all of the benefits of the combined company, including future growth and expected synergies of the combined company while retaining the flexibility of selling all or a portion of those shares for cash into a very liquid market at any time;

the financial terms of the transaction, including the fixed exchange rate of 0.52 of a share of Hologic common stock for each share of Cytyc common stock and the payment of $16.50 in cash per share of Cytyc common stock to be paid in connection with the merger. Based upon Hologic's closing stock price of $57.61 per share on May 18, 2007 (the last trading day before the merger agreement was announced), the transaction represented a purchase price of $46.46 per share of Cytyc common stock or a 32.5% premium to the Cytyc common stock closing price on May 18, 2007 and representing premiums of 36.9%, 32.2%, 38.2%, 50.1% and 67.0% over the average closing share price during the 15-day, 1-month, 3-month, 6-month and 1-year periods ended May 18, 2007, respectively;

the expected merger benefits estimated to be more than $75 million in anticipated synergies primarily from cross-selling opportunities and $25 million in annual cost savings. See Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements and Risk Factors beginning on pages 47 and 26, respectively;

the opportunity for Cytyc stockholders to benefit from any increase in the trading of Hologic common stock between announcement of the merger and the closing of the merger;

the expectation that the merger would allow the combined company to generate significant cash flows;

the expectation that the merger would be accretive to the adjusted earnings per share of the combined company beginning in fiscal year 2008; that the merger is expected to result in a 20% annual revenue growth rate and 20% growth rate in adjusted earnings per share (excluding the write-off and amortization of acquisition-related intangible assets and related tax effect) in future years; and the fact that Hologic has secured fully committed debt financing for the approximately $2.2 billion cash portion of the merger consideration.

Governance Considerations. The Cytyc board of directors considered a number of governance factors pertaining to the merger as supporting its decision to enter into the merger agreement, including the following:

the fact that the board of directors of the combined company would be comprised of eleven directors, including five designees from Cytyc (including the chief executive officer of Cytyc) and six designees from Hologic;

the fact that Patrick J. Sullivan will become chairman of the combined company;

the fact that, while the combined company's headquarters would be located in Bedford, Massachusetts, the headquarters of the Cytyc business would continue to be located in Marlborough, Massachusetts; and the strong management team to be drawn from both Cytyc and Hologic that will manage the combined company, the complementary cultural fit and organizational structure of both companies and the demonstrated ability of both management of Cytyc and management of Hologic to integrate and obtain benefits from previous business combinations.

Tax Considerations. The Cytyc board of directors considered the ability to complete the merger as a reorganization for U.S. federal income tax purposes with the Cytyc stockholders being taxed on an amount not to exceed the cash portion of the merger consideration that they receive.

Opinions of Financial Advisors. The Cytyc board of directors considered Morgan Stanley's and JPMorgan's separate opinions, each dated May 20, 2007, to Cytyc's board of directors as to the fairness, from a financial point of view and as of the date of the opinion, of the merger consideration to be received by Cytyc stockholders pursuant to the merger agreement, as more fully described in Opinions of Financial Advisors to the Cytyc Board of Directors beginning on page 84.

Terms of the Merger Agreement. The Cytyc board of directors considered that the terms of the merger agreement are reasonable, including:

the merger agreement permits Cytyc to provide material non-public information to, and engage in negotiations with, a third party that makes an acquisition proposal that is or is reasonably likely to lead to a superior proposal (as described in The Merger Agreement Certain Covenants No Solicitation beginning on page 122), on the terms and subject to the conditions of the merger agreement;

the merger agreement provides Cytyc, under certain circumstances, with the ability to terminate the merger agreement in order to enter into an alternative transaction that is deemed by the directors of Cytyc to be a superior proposal;

the merger agreement permits the Cytyc board of directors, under certain circumstances, to change its recommendation with respect to the merger in response to a material development or change in circumstances occurring or arising after the date of execution of the merger agreement that was not known to the Cytyc board of directors as of, or prior to, the date of execution of the merger agreement, provided that the change or development is not, and does not result from, a change in the market price of the common stock of Hologic primarily as a result of the announcement of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby;

the circumstances under which the Cytoc termination fees are payable under the merger agreement and the view of the Cytoc board of directors that these provisions should not preclude a bona fide alternative proposal involving Cytoc;

the fact that the termination fee provisions are the product of negotiations;

the fact that the size of the termination fees are reasonable in light of the size and benefits of the merger;

the circumstances under which the Hologic termination fees are payable to Cytyc under the merger agreement; and the fact that the representations, warranties and covenants of Cytyc and Hologic are generally reciprocal.

Regulatory Approvals. The Cytyc board of directors considered the regulatory approvals required to complete the merger, including expiration or termination of any waiting period or extension thereof under the HSR Act, and the belief of Cytyc's management that the merger would be approved by the requisite authorities, without the imposition of conditions sufficiently material to preclude or materially diminish the benefits expected from the merger, and would otherwise be completed in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement.

Due Diligence. The Cytyc board of directors considered the results of Cytyc's due diligence review of Hologic. The Cytyc board of directors weighed the aforementioned material factors against a number of other factors identified in its deliberations that weighted negatively against the merger, including, without limitation, the following material factors:

the challenges inherent in the combination of two businesses of the size and scope of Cytyc and Hologic and the possible diversion of management's attention for an extended period of time;

the risk of not capturing all of the anticipated synergies between Cytyc and Hologic and the risk that other anticipated benefits of the merger might not be realized;

because the exchange ratio is fixed, in the event of a decrease in the price of Hologic common stock between the date of execution of the merger agreement and the closing of the merger, Cytyc stockholders may receive less value for their shares upon the closing of the merger than calculated pursuant to the exchange ratio on the date of execution of the merger agreement and on the date of the Cytyc special meeting;

certain provisions of the merger agreement that could have the effect of discouraging proposals for alternative transactions involving Cytyc, including:

the restrictions on Cytyc's ability to solicit proposals for alternative transactions involving Cytyc; and that Cytyc may be required to pay to Hologic a termination fee of either $50 million or $150 million depending upon the termination event;

the fees and expenses associated with completing the merger;

the risk that the merger may not be completed despite the parties' efforts or that the closing may be unduly delayed and the effects on Cytyc as a stand-alone company because of such failure or delay; and the other risks described in "Risk Factors" beginning on page 26.

After consideration of these factors, the Cytac board of directors determined that these risks could be mitigated or managed by Cytac or Hologic or by the combined company following the merger, were reasonably acceptable under the circumstances or, in light of the anticipated benefits, the risks were unlikely to have a materially adverse impact on the merger or on the combined company following the merger, and that, overall, these risks were significantly outweighed by the potential benefits of the merger.

Although this discussion of the information and factors considered by the Cytac board of directors is believed to include the material factors considered by the Cytac board of directors, it is not intended to be exhaustive and may not include all of the factors considered by the Cytac board of directors. In reaching its determination to approve and recommend the merger and the merger agreement, the Cytac board of directors did not quantify or assign any relative or specific weights to the various factors that it considered in reaching its determination that the merger and the merger agreement are advisable and fair to and in the best interests of Cytyc and its stockholders. Rather, the Cytyc board of directors based its position and recommendation on the totality of the information presented to and factors considered by it. In addition, individual members of the Cytyc board of directors may have given differing weights to different factors.

In considering the recommendation of the Cytyc board of directors with respect to the merger and the merger agreement, you should be aware that certain Cytyc directors and officers have arrangements that may cause them to have interests in the transaction that are different from, or are in addition to, the interests of Cytyc stockholders generally. See Interests of Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger beginning on page 95.

Recommendations of the Cytyc Board of Directors

The Cytyc board of directors has unanimously determined that the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, are advisable and fair to and in the best interests of Cytyc and the Cytyc stockholders and unanimously recommends that the Cytyc stockholders vote FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, and FOR the proposal to adjourn the Cytyc special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies in favor of such adoption.

Summary of Certain Financial Analyses Conducted by Morgan Stanley

The following is a brief summary of the material analyses performed by Morgan Stanley in connection with its opinion dated May 20, 2007. This summary of financial analyses includes information presented in tabular format. In order to fully understand the financial analyses used by Morgan Stanley, the tables must be read together with the text of each summary. The tables alone do not constitute a complete description of the financial analyses.

Equity Research Analyst Price Targets Analysis

Morgan Stanley reviewed and analyzed future public market trading price targets for Cytyc common stock prepared and published by equity research analysts. These targets reflect each analyst's estimate of the future public market trading price of Cytyc common stock. Morgan Stanley noted that the range of equity analyst price targets of Cytyc common stock was between $37.00 and $42.00 per share. Morgan Stanley further calculated that using a discount rate of 8.5% and a discount period of one year, the present value of the equity analyst price target range was $34.10 to $38.71.

The public market trading price targets published by securities research analysts do not necessarily reflect current market trading prices for Cytyc common stock and these estimates are subject to uncertainties, including the future financial performance of Cytyc and future financial market conditions.

Comparable Company Analysis

Morgan Stanley compared selected financial information for Cytyc with publicly available information for comparable healthcare companies that shared similar characteristics with Cytyc. The companies used in this comparison included those companies listed below:

American Medical Systems Holdings Inc.

Gen-Probe Inc.

ArthroCare Corp.

Ventana Medical Systems Inc.

Immucor Inc.

Digene Corp.

Table of Contents

Based upon IBES consensus estimates for calendar year 2008 earnings per share and long-term growth of earnings per share, and using the closing prices as of May 18, 2007 for shares of the comparable companies listed above, Morgan Stanley calculated the following ratios for each of these companies:

the closing stock price divided by the estimated IBES consensus earnings per share for calendar year 2008, referred to below as the P/E Multiple; and the P/E Multiple divided by the estimated IBES consensus long-term growth rate of earnings per share, referred to below as the P/E/G Ratio.

Based on the analysis of the relevant metrics for each of the comparable companies, Morgan Stanley selected representative ranges of P/E Multiples and P/E/G Ratios for the comparable companies and applied these ranges to the relevant Cytyc financial statistic(s) as provided by Cytyc management and publicly available information. Based on this analysis, Morgan Stanley calculated the implied value per share of Cytyc common stock as of May 18, 2007, as follows:

Financial Metric	Cytyc	Cytyc IBES	Comparable	Implied Value Per
	Calendar Year	Consensus Long-Term	Company Multiple	Share Range for
	2008 EPS	Growth	Statistics	Cytyc
P/E Multiple	$ 1.64	NA	20.0x - 28.0x	$ 32.88 - $46.03
P/E/G Ratio	$ 1.64	17.0%	0.7x - 1.0x	$ 19.56 - $27.95

No company included in the comparable company analysis is identical to Cytyc. In evaluating the comparable companies, Morgan Stanley made judgments and assumptions with regard to industry performance, general business, economic, market and financial conditions and other matters. Many of these matters are beyond the control of Cytyc, such as the impact of competition on the business of Cytyc and the industry in general, industry growth and the absence of any material adverse change in the financial condition and prospects of Cytyc or the industry or in the financial markets in general. Mathematical analysis, such as determining the arithmetic mean or median, or the high or low, is not in itself a meaningful method of using comparable company data.

Analysis of Precedent Transactions

Morgan Stanley compared the premia paid in 57 selected transactions from January 1, 2002 through May 16, 2007 in which the target company was a U.S. based company and was publicly traded. The following table summarizes Morgan Stanley's analysis:

Precedent Transactions Premia	Premium to 1-Day Prior Price	Premium to 4-Weeks Prior Price
Median	15.6%	24.5%
High	75.4%	74.8%
Low	(4.6)%	(1.2)%
Representative Range	10.0% - 30.0%	25.0% - 40.0%
Implied Value per Share	$38.56 - $45.57	$43.85 - $49.11

Discounted Cash Flow Analysis

Morgan Stanley calculated ranges of implied equity values per share for Cytyc, based on discounted cash flow analyses utilizing Cytyc management projections for the calendar years 2007 through 2017. In arriving at the estimated equity values per share of Cytyc common stock, Morgan Stanley calculated a terminal value as of December 31, 2017 by applying a range of perpetual free cash flow growth rates ranging from 1.0% to 3.0%. The unlevered free cash flows from calendar years 2007 through 2017 and the terminal value were then discounted to present values using a range of discount rates from 8.0% to 9.0%. Based on the calculations set forth above, this analysis implied a range for Cytyc common stock of $33.10 to $45.42 per share.

Table of Contents

Morgan Stanley also calculated ranges of implied value per share to be received by Cytyc stockholders in exchange for their Cytyc common stock in the form of shares of the pro forma combined entity plus cash consideration per share. This calculation was based on a discounted cash flow analysis utilizing Cytyc's management projections discussed above, and projections relating to Hologic prepared by Cytyc management for the fiscal years 2007 through 2017, each ending September 30. In calculating the implied value per share to be received by Cytyc stockholders in exchange for their Cytyc common stock in the form of shares of the pro forma combined entity plus cash consideration, Morgan Stanley calculated a terminal value as of September 30, 2017 by applying a range of perpetual free cash flow growth rates from 2.5% to 3.5%. The pro forma unlevered free cash flows from fiscal years 2007 through 2017 and the terminal value were then discounted to present values using a range of discount rates from 8.0% to 9.0%. Morgan Stanley noted the range of implied value per share to be received by Cytyc stockholders assuming the 0.52 exchange ratio plus $16.50 in cash per share of Cytyc common stock was $38.96 to $50.24.

Morgan Stanley also noted the range of implied value per share to be received by Cytyc stockholders in exchange for their Cytyc common stock when including cost synergies from the merger as estimated by Cytyc management, plus $16.50 in cash per share of Cytyc common stock, was $40.00 to $51.67.

Morgan Stanley also noted that the range of implied value per share to be received by Cytyc stockholders in exchange for their Cytyc common stock when including revenue and cost synergies from the merger as estimated by Cytyc management, plus $16.50 in cash per share of Cytyc common stock, was $41.80 to $54.12.

In connection with the review of the merger by Cytyc's board of directors, Morgan Stanley performed a variety of financial and comparative analyses for purposes of rendering its opinion. The preparation of a financial opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to a partial analysis or summary description. In arriving at its opinion, Morgan Stanley considered the results of all of its analyses as a whole and did not attribute any particular weight to any analysis or factor it considered. Morgan Stanley believes that selecting any portion of its analyses, without considering all analyses as a whole, would create an incomplete view of the process underlying its analyses and opinion. In addition, Morgan Stanley may have given various analyses and factors more or less weight than other analyses and factors, and may have deemed various assumptions more or less probable than other assumptions. As a result, the ranges of valuations resulting from any particular analysis described above should not be taken to be Morgan Stanley's view of the actual value of Cytyc. In performing its analyses, Morgan Stanley made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic conditions and other matters. Many of these assumptions are beyond the control of Cytyc. Any estimates contained in Morgan Stanley's analyses are not necessarily indicative of future results or actual values, which may be significantly more or less favorable than those suggested by such estimates.

Morgan Stanley conducted the analyses described above solely as part of its analysis of the fairness of the merger consideration pursuant to the merger agreement from a financial point of view to holders of shares of Cytyc common stock and in connection with the delivery of its opinion to Cytyc's board of directors. These analyses do not purport to be appraisals or to reflect the prices at which shares of common stock of Cytyc might actually trade.

The merger consideration was determined through arm's-length negotiations between Cytyc and Hologic and was approved by Cytyc's board of directors. Morgan Stanley provided advice to Cytyc during these negotiations. Morgan Stanley did not, however, recommend any specific merger consideration to Cytyc or that any specific merger consideration constituted the only appropriate merger consideration for the merger.

Morgan Stanley's opinion and its presentation to Cytyc's board of directors was one of many factors taken into consideration by Cytyc's board of directors in deciding to approve, adopt and authorize the merger agreement. Consequently, the analyses as described above should not be viewed as determinative of the opinion of Cytyc's board of directors with respect to the merger consideration or of whether Cytyc's board of directors would have been willing to agree to a different merger consideration.

Opinion of JPMorgan. Pursuant to an engagement letter dated May 16, 2007, Cytyc retained JPMorgan to act as its financial advisor for the purpose of rendering to the Cytyc board of directors an opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the merger consideration to be received by the holders of Cytyc common stock in the merger. At the meeting of the Cytyc board of directors on May 20, 2007, JPMorgan rendered its oral opinion, subsequently confirmed in writing, to the Cytyc board of directors to the effect that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the matters set forth in JPMorgan's opinion, the merger consideration to be received by holders of Cytyc common stock in the merger was fair, from a financial point of view, to those holders.

The full text of the written opinion of JPMorgan, dated May 20, 2007, which sets forth the assumptions made, matters considered and limits on the review undertaken by JPMorgan in rendering its opinion, is attached as Annex F to this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Cytyc encourages its stockholders to read the opinion carefully in its entirety. JPMorgan's written opinion was addressed to the Cytyc board of directors, was directed only to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the consideration to be received by holders of Cytyc common stock in the merger, and does not constitute a recommendation to any Cytyc stockholder as to how such stockholder should vote with respect to the merger or any other matter. The summary of the opinion of JPMorgan set forth in this joint proxy statement/prospectus is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the opinion.

reviewed certain internal financial analyses and forecasts prepared by Cytyc management relating to the businesses of Cytyc and Hologic, as well as the estimated amount and timing of the cost savings and related expenses and synergies expected to result from the merger, which are referred to below as the synergies; and performed other financial studies and considered other information as JPMorgan deemed appropriate for the purposes of its opinion. JPMorgan also held discussions with certain members of Cytyc management and Hologic management with respect to certain aspects of the merger, the past and current business operations of Cytyc and Hologic, the financial condition and future prospects and operations of Cytyc and Hologic, the effects of the merger on the financial condition and future prospects of Cytyc and Hologic, and certain other matters that JPMorgan believed necessary or appropriate to its inquiry.

In giving its opinion, JPMorgan relied upon and assumed, without assuming responsibility or liability for independent verification, the accuracy and completeness of all information that was publicly available or was furnished to or discussed with JPMorgan by Cytyc and Hologic or otherwise reviewed by or for JPMorgan. JPMorgan did not conduct and was not provided with any valuation or appraisal of any assets or liabilities, nor did JPMorgan evaluate the solvency of Cytyc or Hologic under any state or federal laws relating to bankruptcy, insolvency or similar matters. In relying on financial analyses and forecasts provided to JPMorgan, including the synergies, JPMorgan assumed that they were reasonably prepared based on assumptions reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments by Cytyc management as to the expected future results of operations and financial condition of Cytyc and Hologic to which those analyses or forecasts relate. JPMorgan expressed no view as to those analyses or forecasts, including the synergies, or the assumptions on which they were based. JPMorgan also assumed that the merger will qualify as a tax-free reorganization for United States federal income tax purposes, and that the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement will be completed as described in the merger agreement. JPMorgan also assumed that the representations and warranties made by Cytyc and Hologic in the merger agreement and the related agreements will be true and correct in all ways material to JPMorgan's analysis. JPMorgan relied as to all legal, regulatory and tax matters relevant to the rendering of its opinion upon the advice of advisors to Cytyc. JPMorgan further assumed that all material governmental, regulatory or other consents and approvals necessary for the completion of the merger will be obtained without any adverse effect on Cytyc, Hologic or on the contemplated benefits of the merger.

JPMorgan's opinion was based on economic, market and other conditions as in effect on, and the information made available to JPMorgan as of, the date of its opinion. Subsequent developments may affect the opinion, and JPMorgan does not have any obligation to update, revise or reaffirm its opinion. JPMorgan's opinion was limited to the fairness, from a financial point of view, of the consideration to be received by holders of Cytyc common stock in the merger, and JPMorgan expressed no opinion as to the fairness of the merger to, or any consideration received in connection therewith by, the holders of any other class of securities, creditors or other constituencies of Cytyc or as to the underlying decision by Cytyc to engage in the merger. JPMorgan expressed no opinion as to the price at which Cytyc common stock or Hologic common stock will trade at any future time.

JPMorgan was not requested to and did not provide advice concerning the structure, the specific amount of the merger consideration, or any other aspects of the merger, or to provide services other than the delivery of its opinion. JPMorgan was not authorized to and did not solicit any expressions of interest from any other parties with respect to the sale of all or any part of Cytyc or any other alternative transaction, and did not participate in negotiations with respect to the terms of the merger and related transactions.

In accordance with customary investment banking practice, JPMorgan employed generally accepted valuation methods in reaching its opinion. The following is a summary of the material financial analyses utilized by JPMorgan in connection with providing its opinion. The financial analyses summarized below include Discounted Cash Flow Analysis. JPMorgan conducted a discounted cash flow analysis for the purpose of determining the implied fully diluted equity value per share for Hologic common stock on a standalone basis without giving effect to the proposed merger or any potential synergies, using financial forecasts prepared by Hologic management as adjusted by Cytyc management for the fiscal years 2007 through 2017.

JPMorgan calculated the unlevered free cash flows that Hologic is expected to generate during fiscal years 2007 through 2017. JPMorgan calculated an implied range of terminal values for Hologic using a range of perpetuity growth rates for free cash flows from 3.0% to 4.0% and a range of discount rates from 8.5% to 9.5%. The unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then discounted to present value using a range of discount rates from 8.5% to 9.5%. The present value of the unlevered free cash flows and the range of terminal values were then adjusted for Hologic's cash and total debt as of March 31, 2007. This analysis indicated a range of implied values per share of Hologic common stock of approximately $49.50 to $66.75, compared to the closing price per share of Hologic common stock of $57.61 on May 18, 2007.

Pro Forma Analysis. JPMorgan analyzed the potential pro forma impact of the merger on Hologic's pro forma earnings per share on a cash basis, which excludes the estimated impact of the amortization of identifiable intangibles relating to Hologic's acquisition of Cytyc, and on a GAAP basis. In this analysis, 2008 and 2009 earnings projections for Hologic were based on earnings projections prepared by Hologic management as adjusted by Cytyc management, and earnings projections for Cytyc were prepared by Cytyc management. JPMorgan assumed for purposes of this analysis that the merger would close on September 30, 2007.

Based on this analysis, JPMorgan observed that the merger would result in earnings per share accretion for Hologic stockholders on a cash basis and excluding synergies of 4.0% and 17.1% for 2008 and 2009, respectively, and earnings per share accretion for Hologic stockholders on a cash basis and including synergies of 9.9% and 23.3% for 2008 and 2009, respectively. JPMorgan also observed that the merger would result in earnings per share dilution for Hologic stockholders on a GAAP basis and excluding synergies of 21.2% and 4.4% for 2008 and 2009, respectively, and earnings per share dilution for Hologic stockholders on a GAAP basis and including synergies of 14.8% for 2008 and earnings per share accretion on a GAAP basis and including synergies of 2.2% for 2009.

The summary set forth above does not purport to be a complete description of the analyses or data utilized by JPMorgan. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process and is not necessarily susceptible to partial analysis or summary description. JPMorgan believes that the summary set forth above and its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions thereof, without considering all of its analyses, could create an incomplete view of the processes underlying its analyses and opinion. JPMorgan based its analyses on assumptions that it deemed reasonable, including assumptions concerning general business and economic conditions and industry-specific factors. The other principal assumptions upon which JPMorgan based its analyses are set forth above under the description of each analysis. JPMorgan's analyses are not necessarily indicative of actual values or actual future results that might be achieved, which values may be higher or lower than those indicated. Moreover, JPMorgan's analyses are not and do not purport to be appraisals or otherwise reflective of the prices at which businesses actually could be bought or sold.

As a part of its investment banking business, JPMorgan and its affiliates are continually engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, investments for passive and control purposes, negotiated underwritings, secondary distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and valuations for estate, corporate and other purposes. JPMorgan was selected to deliver an opinion to the Cytyc board of directors with respect to the merger on the basis of JPMorgan's experience and its familiarity with Cytyc.

For services rendered, Cytyc agreed to pay JPMorgan a fee of $4.0 million payable upon delivery of its opinion. In addition, Cytyc has agreed to reimburse JPMorgan for its reasonable expenses incurred in connection with its services, including reasonable fees of outside counsel, and will indemnify JPMorgan against certain liabilities, including liabilities arising under federal securities laws.

In addition, JPMorgan and its affiliates maintain commercial and investment banking and other business relationships with Cytyc, Hologic and their respective affiliates, for which it receives customary fees. In the ordinary course of their businesses, JPMorgan and its affiliates may actively trade the debt and equity securities of Cytyc or Hologic for their own accounts or for the accounts of customers and, accordingly, they may at any time hold long or short positions in those securities. In addition, JPMorgan served as financial advisor to Cytyc in connection with its acquisition of Adeza Biomedical Corporation in 2007 and as financial advisor to Hologic in connection with its acquisition of R2 Technology, Inc. in 2006. After JPMorgan delivered its opinion to the Cytyc board of directors and the merger agreement was entered into, JPMorgan and one of its affiliates became parties to an amended and restated commitment letter with Hologic to provide a portion of the financing required by Hologic in connection with the merger, for which JPMorgan and such affiliate would expect to receive compensation.

Interests of Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger

In considering the recommendation of the Cytyc board of directors with respect to the merger, Cytyc stockholders should be aware that executive officers of Cytyc and members of the Cytyc board of directors may have interests in the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement that are different from, or in addition to, the interests of the Cytyc stockholders generally. For additional information about the directors and the executive officers of Cytyc, see Annex B under the sections entitled Information about Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors of Cytyc Corporation, Security Ownership of Certain Beneficial Owners and Management of Cytyc and Cytyc Executive and Director Compensation.

Change of Control Agreements. Cytyc has entered into change of control agreements with its executive officers that provide for payments and benefits in connection with specified terminations of employment after a change of control of Cytyc.

Each change of control agreement provides that the executive officer who is a party to a change of control agreement will be entitled to receive the following payments and benefits from Cytyc if a change of control occurs during the term of the agreement and the executive's employment is terminated by (i) the executive officer for good reason (as defined in the agreement) during the period commencing upon a change of control event and ending two years after a change of control (the change of control period), (ii) Cytyc other than for cause (as defined in the agreement) during the change of control period or (iii) Cytyc other than for cause in anticipation of a change of control:

executive officer, if any (together with any accrued interest or earnings thereon), and unpaid accrued vacation pay (collectively, accrued obligations);

the amount equal to product of (a) the executive officer's annual base salary and bonus and (b) 1.5 for Messrs. Adams, McDonough, Harding, Kingsley and Thomas, Ms. Meszner-Eltrich and Dr. Sheets, and 3 for Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie, to be paid in a cash lump sum within 30 days of the termination date; continuation of all medical and welfare benefits provided by Cytyc to the executive and/or family prior to the termination date for a period of 1.5 years for Messrs. Adams, McDonough, Harding, Kingsley and Thomas, Ms. Meszner-Eltrich and Dr. Sheets, and 3 years for Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie or, if Cytyc is not able to provide such benefits, then reimbursement to the executive for 125% of Cytyc's cost for such benefits; and outplacement services the scope and provisions of which will be at the highest level provided by Cytyc to peer employees.

In the event that any payment by Cytyc to an executive officer in connection with a change of control would be subject to the excise tax imposed under Section 4999 of the Code, Cytyc will be obligated to make whole the executive officer with respect to such excise tax.

An executive officer's receipt of severance benefits pursuant to a change of control agreement is subject to the following conditions: (i) execution of a general release of Cytyc by the executive officer; (ii) presentation of satisfactory evidence that the executive has returned all of Cytyc's company property, confidential information and documentation to Cytyc; (iii) compliance with the provisions of the confidentiality agreement and non-competition agreement that the executive officer has entered into with Cytyc; and (iv) submission to Cytyc of a signed written resignation of the executive officer's status as an officer and/or director of Cytyc or of any of Cytyc's affiliates, if applicable.

Amendments to Change of Control Agreements. In connection with entering into the merger agreement, Cytyc plans to enter into amendments to the change of control agreements it has in place with its executive officers. Each amendment is expected to become effective immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, but will have no further force and effect in the event the merger agreement is terminated prior to the effective time of the merger. Each amendment will provide that, immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, Cytyc will pay to the executive officer the change of control payment described in the second bullet point under "Change of Control Agreements," notwithstanding the requirement that the executive officer experience a termination of employment to receive the payment. Each amendment also will provide that in the event that any payment by Cytyc to an executive officer in connection with a change in control would be subject to the excise tax imposed under Section 409A of the Code, Cytyc will be obligated to make whole the executive officer with respect to such tax and any interest or penalties thereon.

- (1) Consists of estimated payments of base salary and bonus due at the closing of the merger as a result of a change of control event pursuant to each executive officer's existing change of control agreement, as amended, with Cytyc. Estimated payments were calculated using each executive officer's salary and bonus information as of September 4, 2007. Due to the structure of the merger, Cytyc does not believe these payments would be excess parachute payments under Section 280G of the Code and therefore would not be subject to the excise tax imposed under Section 4999 of the Code.
- (2) Each of Patrick J. Sullivan and Daniel J. Levangie has entered into a retention and severance agreement with Hologic. One-half of the amount set forth above consists of a cash retention bonus and the other one-half consists of the value of Hologic restricted stock units to be received by each of Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie, subject to the terms and conditions (including continued employment with Hologic) set forth in the retention and severance agreements. Under the retention and severance agreements, Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie may receive additional benefits if their employment with Hologic is terminated. The retention and severance agreements are described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus under "Employment Arrangements with Hologic - Hologic Retention and Severance Agreements."
- (3) Hologic has agreed to offer positions with Hologic or the surviving corporation after the completion of the merger to the executive officer listed above and has provided a term sheet to each such executive officer that establishes the basic terms and conditions of such executive officer's employment thereafter. The amount set forth above consists of the cash retention bonus provided for in the term sheet, subject to the terms and conditions (including continued employment with Hologic or the surviving corporation) set forth in the term sheet. Under the term sheet, the executive officer may receive additional benefits if his or her employment with Hologic or the surviving corporation is terminated. The term sheets are described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus under "Employment Arrangements with Hologic - Term Sheets with Certain Other Executives."

Employment Arrangements with Hologic. In connection with the merger, Hologic has agreed to employ each of Patrick J. Sullivan, current chairman, chief executive officer and president of Cytyc, and Daniel J. Levangie, current executive vice president of Cytyc and president of Cytyc surgical products, as of the effective time of the merger. Mr. Sullivan will be employed as chairman and an executive officer of Hologic and will receive an annual salary of $700,000. Mr. Levangie will be employed as president of Cytyc surgical products which, as of the effective time of the merger, will be a division of Hologic, and will receive an annual salary of $425,000. For the employment period through December 31, 2007, Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie will be eligible for annual bonus awards as determined in accordance with Cytyc's executive incentive plan. Effective January 1, 2008, Mr. Sullivan will be eligible to receive an annual bonus of up to 150% of his base salary and Mr. Levangie will be eligible to receive an annual bonus of 50% - 100% of his base salary, in each case subject to the terms and conditions of Hologic's executive bonus plan.

In addition, in connection with entering into the merger agreement, Hologic entered into a retention and severance agreement and a change of control agreement with each of Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie, which would become effective upon and are subject to the completion of the merger.

Hologic Change of Control Agreements. Each change of control agreement of Hologic provides that 30 days after a change of control, Hologic will pay the executive a lump sum in cash equal to three times the executive's annual salary for the fiscal year immediately preceding the change of control plus the executive's highest annual bonus (as defined in the change of control agreements). In addition, the change of control agreements provide that, notwithstanding any provision to the contrary contained in any option, restricted stock agreement or other equity compensation agreement or plan, upon a change of control, all unvested stock options, restricted stock or stock appreciation rights held by the executive will become immediately exercisable for a one-year period following the executive's termination date. The change of control agreements confer no benefits prior to a change of control.

In the event that any payments received by the executive in connection with a change of control are subject to the excise tax imposed upon certain change of control payments under federal tax laws, the agreements provide that Hologic's auditing firm immediately preceding the change of control will compute the excise tax imposed on the executive and Hologic will pay that amount to the executive to provide the executive with a payment that is economically equivalent to the payment he would have received but for the imposition of the excise tax.

Under the terms of the change of control agreements, if the executive remains employed through the one-year anniversary of a change of control, then the executive will also receive a special bonus (the Special Bonus) equal to the sum of the executive's annual salary and the greater of the annual bonus (as defined in the change of control agreement) paid or payable for the most recently completed fiscal year during the employment period or the highest annual bonus. In addition, if termination of an executive's employment occurs within the two-year period following a change of control of Hologic and such termination is by Hologic (or its successor) other than for cause or by the executive for good reason, then the executive will be entitled to receive, among other things: (i) all accrued and unpaid compensation; (ii) the Special Bonus, to the extent not previously paid or accrued; and (iii) continued welfare benefits for a period of one year. In addition, such executive's life insurance policy will be transferred to him.

Hologic Retention and Severance Agreements. Each retention and severance agreement provides that the executive will be paid a retention bonus ($1,500,000 in the case of Mr. Sullivan and $1,000,000 in the case of Mr. Levangie) on the date that is two years after the date of closing of the merger (the retention date) if such executive is continuously employed by Hologic in the capacity specified in the retention and severance agreement during that time. Subject to the exceptions set forth in the following paragraph and as more fully set forth in the retention and severance agreement, the retention bonus will not be paid to the executive in the event he ceases to serve in the specified capacity prior to the retention date for any reason, including, without limitation, his death, disability, resignation or termination of his employment by Hologic for any reason. In addition, on the effective date of the retention and severance agreement, Hologic will issue to the executive the specified amount of restricted stock units ($1,500,000 in the case of Mr. Sullivan and $500,000 in the case of Mr. Levangie) based upon the fair market value of Hologic common stock. These restricted stock units are subject to the terms and conditions of the applicable restricted stock unit agreement.

However, if the executive is terminated without cause or if the executive notifies Hologic that he has been assigned duties that are inconsistent with the duties typically assigned to other executive officers of Hologic in similar positions (in the event there are no Hologic officers serving in similar positions, then to officers at comparable public companies), and Hologic fails to cure such occurrence within the time period set forth in the agreement, then the executive will be paid the applicable retention bonus and all restricted stock units will immediately and irrevocably vest within fifteen days of such termination.

In consideration for the benefits provided under the retention and severance agreement, each executive has agreed to execute Hologic's intellectual property rights and non-competition agreement.

If the executive's employment is terminated during the term of the retention and severance agreement, then the executive will be entitled to the following compensation and benefits:

If the executive's employment is terminated (i) by Hologic for cause or disability, (ii) by reason of the executive's death or (iii) by the executive other than for good reason, then Hologic will pay to the executive accrued compensation only;

If the executive's employment is terminated by Hologic without cause or by the executive for good reason, then the executive will be entitled to each and all of the following:

all accrued compensation;

a pro rata bonus;

a lump sum equal to the executive base salary plus bonus amount;

continued medical and dental benefits on the same terms and conditions provided to other executives of Hologic for a period of one year from the date of termination; and out-placement services provided by Crenshaw Associates, Inc. or comparable search firm or, in the alternative, reimburse the executive with $50,000.

In the event that any payment by Hologic to the executive under the retention and severance agreement would be subject to the excise tax imposed upon certain change of control payments under federal tax laws, the payments will be reduced if and to the extent necessary so that no such payment will be subject to the excise tax.

Term Sheets with Certain Other Executives. Hologic has agreed to offer positions with Hologic or the surviving corporation after the completion of the merger to certain officers and vice presidents of Cytyc. These officers include all of the executive officers of Cytyc. Hologic has provided each officer with term sheets that establish the basic terms and conditions of each officer's employment thereafter. The main provisions of the term sheets are summarized below.

Each term sheet provides that the executive will continue his or her existing salary and will be eligible for a bonus determined in accordance with the Cytyc Executive Incentive Plan, which plan will remain in force until December 31, 2007. The term sheet also contains certain restrictive covenants applicable to the executive, including noncompetition and nonsolicitation restrictions.

Each term sheet provides for a retention bonus. Senior vice presidents will receive a retention bonus in an amount equal to such executive officer's base salary determined as of the date of execution of merger agreement, which will be paid out as follows: 67% on the twelve month anniversary of the closing date of the merger and 33% on the eighteen month anniversary of the closing date of the merger. Vice presidents will receive a retention bonus in an amount equal to the executive officer's annual base salary determined as of the date of execution of merger agreement on the twelve month anniversary of the closing date of the merger. In addition, certain vice presidents are eligible to receive an additional one-time incentive bonus of up to $100,000 subject to satisfaction of performance objectives.

If Hologic terminates the executive without cause or the executive resigns for good reason, then Hologic will pay to the executive:

all accrued obligations;

if the executive is a senior vice president and if the termination or resignation occurs prior to the twelve month anniversary of the closing date of the merger, then the remaining balance of the executive's retention bonus; or if the termination or resignation occurs after the twelve month anniversary of the closing date of the merger, but prior to the eighteen month anniversary of the closing date of the merger, then the remaining balance of the executive's retention bonus plus six months severance; or if the termination or resignation occurs after the eighteen month anniversary of the closing date of the merger, then severance in accordance with Hologic's policies;

if the executive is a vice president and

if the termination or resignation occurs after the twelve month anniversary of the closing date of the merger, then severance in accordance with Hologic's policies; and any other amounts or benefits required to be paid or provided that the executive is eligible to receive under any plan, program, policy or practice, contract or agreement of Hologic.

In addition, Hologic, at its sole expense, will provide the executive with outplacement services the scope and provider of which will be at the highest level provided by Hologic to its peer employees.

Cytc Employee Stock Purchase Plan. Under the Cytc Employee Stock Purchase Plan, or Cytc ESPP, employees of Cytc and its subsidiaries are eligible to purchase Cytc common stock at a price equal to the lesser of 85% of the average market price of Cytc common stock on the first business day of the payment period and 85% of the average market price of Cytc common stock on the last business day of the payment period. Each employee may purchase annually up to $25,000 of Cytc common stock under this plan. Typically, Cytc common stock is purchased under this plan on the last trading date of any ordinary pay period for employees of Cytc and its subsidiaries. Under the terms of the merger agreement, each Cytc ESPP participant's outstanding right to purchase shares of Cytc common stock under the Cytc ESPP will terminate on the day immediately prior to the effective time of the merger. All amounts allocated to each participant's account as of that date will be used to purchase from Cytc whole shares of Cytc common stock at the applicable price determined under the terms of the Cytc ESPP. The Cytc ESPP will terminate immediately following these purchases of Cytc common stock.

Insurance and Indemnification. The merger agreement provides that, following the merger, Hologic will cause the surviving corporation to assume the obligations with respect to indemnification and exculpation from liabilities, including advancement of expenses, for acts and omissions occurring at or prior to the effective time of the merger now existing in favor of all past and present officers and directors of Cytc or its subsidiaries to the same extent as provided under Cytc's certificate of incorporation, bylaws or any indemnification contract between such individuals and Cytc in effect as of the date of the merger agreement, without further action, as of the effective time of the merger and such obligations will survive the merger and will continue in full force and effect in accordance with their terms. Hologic also will continue to maintain for a period of six years after the completion of the merger, policies of directors and officers liability insurance with respect to claims arising from acts or omissions occurring prior to the completion of the merger on terms with respect to coverage and amounts no less favorable than the terms of the directors and officers liability insurance policies maintained by Cytac prior to the completion of the merger, but in no event will Hologic be required to pay in any one year an amount in excess of 200% of the annual premiums paid by Cytyc for such insurance in the last full fiscal year. In the event such coverage cannot be obtained for such amount or less in the aggregate, Hologic will only be obligated to provide such coverage as may be obtained for such aggregate amount.

Accounting Treatment

The merger will be accounted for using the purchase method of accounting under U.S. GAAP. Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 141, BUSINESS COMBINATIONS, referred to as SFAS 141, provides guidance for determining the accounting acquirer in a business combination when equity interests are exchanged between two entities. SFAS 141 provides that in a business combination effected through an exchange of equity interests, such as the merger, the entity that issues the equity interests is generally the acquiring entity. In some business combinations, however, the acquired entity issues the equity interests. Commonly, the acquiring entity is the larger entity. However, the facts and circumstances surrounding a business combination sometimes indicate that a smaller entity acquires a larger one. SFAS 141 further provides that in identifying the acquiring entity in a combination effected through an exchange of equity interests, all pertinent facts and circumstances must be considered, including: the relative voting rights of the stockholders of the constituent companies in the combined entity, the composition of the board of directors and senior management of the combined company and the terms of the exchange of equity securities in the business combination, including payment of any premium.

Based on the facts that Hologic board members and senior management will control and represent a majority of the board and senior management of the combined company, as well as the terms of the exchange, pursuant to which the Cytyc shareholders will receive a premium of approximately 32.5% (as of the date preceding the merger announcement) over the fair market value of their shares on such date and cash of $16.50 per share (or approximately 36% of the merger consideration), Hologic is considered to be the acquirer of Cytyc for accounting purposes. This means that the total purchase price will be allocated to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed from Cytyc based on their fair values as of the date of the completion of the merger and any excess of purchase price over those fair values will be recorded as goodwill. Reported financial condition and results of operations of Hologic issued after completion of the merger will reflect Cytyc's balances and results after completion of the merger, but will not be restated retroactively to reflect the historical financial position or results of operations of Cytyc. Following the completion of the merger, the earnings of the combined company will reflect purchase accounting adjustments, including increased amortization and other expense for acquired tangible and intangible assets. For further discussion of the accounting treatment, please see Unaudited Pro Forma Condensed Combined Financial Statements commencing on page 175.

Board of Directors and Management of Hologic Following the Merger; Headquarters

Board of Directors. As of the effective time of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic will consist of eleven directors, six of whom will be designated by Hologic and five of whom will be designated by Cytyc. Four of the six persons designated by Hologic will be independent directors as defined under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be John W. Cumming, current chairman and chief executive officer of Hologic, and Glenn P. Muir, current chief financial officer of Hologic. Three of the five persons designated by Cytyc will be independent directors as defined under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be Patrick J. Sullivan, current chairman, chief executive officer and president of Cytyc, and Daniel J. Levangie, current executive vice president of Cytyc and president of Cytyc surgical products.

From the effective time of the merger until immediately prior to Hologic's annual meeting of stockholders to be held in 2009, vacancies on the board of directors of Hologic will be filled as follows: (i) all vacancies created by the cessation of service of a continuing Hologic director (Continuing Hurricane Director as defined in the merger agreement) who is an independent director will be filled by a nominee proposed to the nominating and corporate governance committee by a majority of the remaining continuing Hologic directors, (ii) all vacancies created by the cessation of service of a continuing Cytyc director (Continuing Cyclone Director as defined in the merger agreement) who is an independent director will be filled by a nominee proposed to the nominating and corporate governance committee by a majority of the remaining continuing Cytyc directors, and (iii) all remaining vacancies will be filled by a nominee proposed and selected by the nominating and corporate governance committee.

Committees of the Board of Directors. At the effective time of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic will have an audit, a compensation, a nominating and corporate governance committee and a corporate development committee. Directors serving on each of these committees are required to meet the independence standards under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and, in addition, each member of the audit committee is required to meet the additional listing standards applicable to audit committee members.

Each of the audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees will consist of an odd number of directors, consisting of one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors. The chairman of each of these committees will be a continuing Hologic director. The compensation committee will consist of an even number of directors, consisting of an equal number of continuing Cytyc directors and continuing Hologic directors. The chairman of the compensation committee will be a continuing Cytyc director.

Chairman; Chairman Emeritus and CEO of Hologic. At the effective time of the merger, Mr. John W. Cumming, Hologic's current chairman and chief executive officer, will serve as the chief executive officer of Hologic, and Mr. Patrick J. Sullivan, currently Cytyc's chairman, chief executive officer and president will serve as chairman of Hologic's board of directors. In addition, at the effective time of the merger, Dr. Jay A. Stein, currently chairman emeritus, director and chief technical officer of Hologic, will serve as chairman emeritus and chief technical officer of Hologic.

See Interests of Hologic Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger beginning on page 75 and Interests of Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger beginning on page 95 for a description of the material interests of executive officers and directors of Hologic and Cytyc, respectively, in the merger that are in addition to, or different than, the interests of stockholders. Additional information about the current directors and executive officers of Hologic can be found in the Proposal 1 Election of Directors, Executive Officers, Share Ownership of Directors, Officers and Certain Beneficial Owners, Executive Compensation and Report of the Compensation Committee on Executive Compensation in the definitive proxy statement for Hologic's 2007 Annual Meeting of stockholders filed with the SEC on January 25, 2007, which is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

See Where You Can Find More Information beginning on page 197.

For additional information about the directors and executive officers of Cytyc, see Information about Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors of Cytyc Corporation and Cytyc Executive and Director Compensation in Annex B to this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Headquarters. At the effective time of the merger, the location of the corporate offices of Hologic will be 35 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts 01730. The headquarters of the Cytyc business will continue to be located in Marlborough, Massachusetts.

Federal Securities Laws Consequences; Stock Transfer Restriction Agreements

All shares of Hologic common stock that Cytyc stockholders receive in the merger will be freely transferable, except for shares of Hologic common stock received by persons who are deemed to be affiliates of Cytyc under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and the related SEC rules and regulations (the Securities Act), at the time of the Cytyc special meeting. These affiliates may resell their shares of Hologic common stock only in transactions permitted by Rule 145 under the Securities Act or as otherwise allowed under that Act. Persons who may be deemed to be affiliates of Cytyc for these purposes generally include individuals or entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control with Cytyc and may include some officers, directors and principal stockholders of Cytyc. The merger agreement requires Cytyc to use commercially reasonable efforts to deliver or cause to be delivered from affiliates of Cytyc to Hologic on or before the effective time of the merger an executed letter agreement to the effect that those persons will not offer, sell or otherwise dispose of any shares of Hologic common stock issued to them in the merger in violation of the Securities Act or the related SEC rules and regulations.

Under Rule 145 of the Securities Act, former Cytyc stockholders who are affiliates of Cytyc at the time of the Cytyc special meeting and who are not affiliates of Hologic after completion of the merger, may sell their Hologic common stock at any time subject to the volume and manner of sale limitations and the current public information requirements of Rule 144 under the Securities Act. Further, so long as such former Cytyc affiliates are not considered affiliates of Hologic following completion of the merger, and a period of at least one year has elapsed from completion of the merger, such former affiliates may sell their Hologic common stock without regard to the volume and manner of sale limitations of Rule 144 under the Securities Act so long as there is adequate current public information available about Hologic in accordance with Rule 144 under the Securities Act. After a period of two years has elapsed from the completion of the merger, and so long as such former affiliates are not, and have not been, for at least three months prior to such sale, affiliates of Hologic, such former affiliates may freely sell their Hologic common stock. Former Cytyc stockholders who become affiliates of Hologic after completion of the merger will be subject to the volume and manner of sale limitations and the current public information requirements of Rule 144 under the Securities Act until each such stockholder is no longer an affiliate of Hologic.

This joint proxy statement/prospectus does not cover any resales of the shares of Hologic common stock to be received by Cytyc stockholders upon completion of the merger, and no person is authorized to make any use of this joint proxy statement/prospectus in connection with a resale.

Appraisal Rights

Cytyc Stockholders. If the merger is completed, record holders of Cytyc common stock who comply with the procedures summarized below will be entitled to appraisal rights. Under Section 262 of the DGCL as a result of completion of the merger, holders of shares of Cytyc common stock with respect to which appraisal rights are properly demanded and perfected and not withdrawn or lost are entitled to have the fair value of their shares at the effective time of the merger (exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger) judicially determined and paid to them in cash by complying with the provisions of Section 262. Cytyc is required to send a notice to that effect to each stockholder not less than 20 days prior to the special meeting. This joint proxy statement/prospectus constitutes that notice to you. The following summary does not constitute any legal or other advice, nor does it constitute a recommendation that Cytyc stockholders exercise their right of appraisal under Section 262. The following is a brief summary of Section 262, which sets forth the procedures for demanding statutory appraisal rights. This summary is not a complete statement of the law pertaining to appraisal rights under Section 262 and is qualified in its entirety by reference to Section 262, a copy of the text of which is attached hereto as Annex G. The statutory right of appraisal granted by Section 262 requires strict compliance with the procedures in Section 262. Failure to follow any of these procedures may result in a termination or waiver of appraisal rights under Section 262.

Cytyc stockholders of record who desire to exercise their appraisal rights must satisfy all of the following conditions.

A Cytyc stockholder of record who desires to exercise appraisal rights must: (i) not vote in favor of the adoption of merger agreement; (ii) deliver a written demand for appraisal of his or her shares of Cytyc common stock to the secretary of Cytyc before the vote on the merger at Cytyc the special meeting; (iii) hold of record his or her shares of Cytyc common stock on the date the written demand for appraisal is made and must continuously hold his or her shares of Cytyc common stock through the effective time of the merger; and (iv) strictly comply with the procedures set forth in Section 262.

A demand for appraisal must be executed fully and correctly, by or for the stockholder of record, as such stockholder's name appears on the certificates representing shares, or if the shares are held as direct registration shares, as such stockholder's name appears on the books and records of the transfer agent as the owner of shares. If shares are owned of record in a fiduciary capacity, such as by a trustee, guardian or custodian, such demand must be executed by the fiduciary. If shares are owned of record by more than one person, as in a joint tenancy or tenancy in common, such demand must be executed by all joint owners. An authorized agent, including an agent of two or more joint owners, may execute the demand for appraisal for a stockholder of record; however, the agent must identify the record owner and expressly disclose that, in exercising the demand, he is acting as agent for the record owner.

A record owner, such as a broker, who holds shares as a nominee for others may exercise appraisal rights with respect to the shares held for all or less than all beneficial owners of shares as to which the holder is the record owner. In such case the written demand must set forth the number of shares covered by such demand. Where the number of shares is not expressly stated, the demand will be presumed to cover all shares outstanding in the name of such record owner.

Beneficial owners who are not record owners and who intend to exercise appraisal rights should instruct the record owner to comply strictly with the statutory requirements with respect to the exercise of appraisal rights before the vote on the merger agreement at the Cytvc special meeting. A holder of shares held in street name who desires appraisal rights with respect to such shares must take such actions as may be necessary to ensure that a timely and proper demand for appraisal is made by the record owner of such shares. Shares held through brokerage firms, banks and other financial institutions are frequently deposited with and held of record in the name of a nominee of a central security depository, such as Cede & Co., The Depository Trust Company's nominee. Any holder of shares desiring appraisal rights with respect to such shares who held his or her shares through a brokerage firm, bank or other financial institution is responsible for ensuring that the demand for appraisal is made by the record holder thereof and are urged to consult with such nominee to determine the appropriate procedures that must be followed. The stockholder should instruct such firm, bank or institution that the demand for appraisal must be made by the record holder of the shares, which might be the nominee of a central security depository if the shares have been so deposited.

As required by Section 262, a demand for appraisal must be in writing and must reasonably inform Cytvc of the identity of the record holder (which might be a nominee as described above) and of such holder's intention to seek appraisal of such shares.

250 Campus Drive
Marlborough, MA 01752
Attention: Secretary

The written demand for appraisal should specify the stockholder's name and mailing address, the number of shares owned, and that the stockholder is thereby demanding appraisal of his or her shares and such written demand must be received by Cytvc prior to the Cytvc special meeting. Neither voting (in person or by proxy) against, abstaining from voting on or failing to vote on the proposal to adopt the merger agreement will alone suffice to constitute a written demand for appraisal within the meaning of Section 262.

In addition, the stockholder must not vote his or her shares of common stock in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement. Because a proxy that does not contain voting instructions will, unless revoked, be voted in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement, a stockholder who votes by proxy and who wishes to exercise appraisal rights must vote against the adoption of the merger agreement or abstain from voting on the adoption of the merger agreement. Further, the stockholder must continuously hold the shares of record from the date of making the demand through the effective time of the merger.

Within ten days after the effective time of the merger, the surviving corporation will provide notice of such effective time to each stockholder who, in response to this joint proxy statement/prospectus, has timely delivered and properly made a written demand of appraisal as set forth in this section.

At any time within 60 days after the effective time of the merger, any stockholder who has demanded appraisal will have the right to withdraw his or her demand for appraisal and to accept the merger consideration to which such stockholder is entitled pursuant to the merger. After this period, such holder may withdraw his or her demand for appraisal only with the consent of the surviving corporation in the merger.

Within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, either the surviving corporation in the merger or any stockholder who has timely and properly demanded appraisal of his or her shares and who has complied with the required conditions of Section 262 and is otherwise entitled to appraisal rights may file a petition in the Delaware Court of Chancery demanding a determination of the fair value of the shares of all stockholders who have properly demanded appraisal. Stockholders seeking to exercise appraisal rights should not assume that the surviving corporation will file a petition with respect to the appraisal of the fair value of their shares or that the surviving corporation will initiate any negotiations with respect to the fair value of those shares. The surviving corporation will be under no obligation to take any action in this regard. Accordingly, it is the obligation of stockholders who wish to seek appraisal of their shares of Cytac common stock to initiate all necessary action with respect to the perfection of their appraisal rights within the time periods and in the manner prescribed in Section 262.

If no petition for appraisal is filed with the Delaware Court of Chancery within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, stockholders rights to appraisal will cease and all stockholders will be entitled only to receive the merger consideration as provided for in the merger agreement. No petition timely filed in the Delaware Court of Chancery demanding appraisal will be dismissed as to any stockholders without the approval of the Delaware Court of Chancery, and such approval may be conditioned upon such terms as the Delaware Court of Chancery deems just.

Within 120 days after the effective time of the merger, any stockholder who has complied with subsections (a) and (d) of Section 262 will be entitled, upon written request, to receive from the surviving corporation a statement setting forth the total number of shares of Cytac common stock not voted in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement with respect to which demands for appraisal have been received by Cytac and the aggregate number of holders of those shares. This statement must be mailed to the stockholder within ten days after the surviving corporation has received the written request or within ten days after the time for delivery of demands for appraisal under subsection (d) of Section 262 has expired, whichever is later.

If a petition for an appraisal is timely filed by a stockholder and a copy thereof is served upon the surviving corporation, the surviving corporation will then be obligated within 20 days to file with the Delaware Register in Chancery a duly verified list containing the names and addresses of all stockholders who have demanded an appraisal of their shares and with whom agreements as to the value of their shares have not been reached. After notice to such stockholders as required by the Court, the Delaware Court of Chancery is empowered to conduct a hearing on such petition to determine those stockholders who have complied with Section 262 and who have become entitled to appraisal rights thereunder. The Delaware Court of Chancery may require the holders of shares of capital stock who demanded payment for their shares to submit their stock certificates to the Delaware Register in Chancery for notation thereon of the pendency of the appraisal proceeding, and if any stockholder fails to comply with such direction, the Delaware Court of Chancery may dismiss the proceedings as to such stockholder.

After determining the stockholders entitled to appraisal of their shares, the Delaware Court of Chancery will determine the fair value of those shares, exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger, together with a fair rate of interest, to be paid, if any, upon the amount determined to be the fair value. In determining the fair value of the shares and, if applicable, a fair rate of interest, the Delaware Court of Chancery will take into account all relevant factors. In Weinberger v. UOP, Inc., the Delaware Supreme Court discussed the factors that could be considered in determining fair value in an appraisal proceeding, stating that proof of value by any techniques or methods that are generally considered acceptable in the financial community and otherwise admissible in court should be considered. Section 262 provides that fair value is to be determined exclusive of any element of value arising from the accomplishment or expectation of the merger. Delaware courts have decided that the statutory appraisal remedy, depending on factual circumstances, may or may not be a dissenter's exclusive remedy. The Delaware Court of Chancery will also determine the amount of interest, if any, to be paid upon the amounts to be received by persons whose shares of common stock of Cytac have been appraised.

Stockholders considering seeking appraisal should bear in mind that the fair value of their shares determined under Section 262 could be more than, the same as or less than the merger consideration they are entitled to receive pursuant to the merger agreement if they do not seek appraisal of their shares. Furthermore stockholders should bear in mind that opinions of investment banking firms as to fairness from a financial point of view are not necessarily opinions as to fair value under Section 262.

The cost of the appraisal proceeding may be determined by the Delaware Court of Chancery and taxed upon the parties as the Delaware Court of Chancery deems equitable in the circumstances. Upon application of a stockholder seeking appraisal rights, the Delaware Court of Chancery may order that all or a portion of the expenses incurred by such stockholder in connection with the appraisal proceeding, including, without limitation, reasonable attorneys' fees and the fees and expenses of experts, be charged pro rata against the value of all shares entitled to appraisal. In the absence of such a determination of assessment, each party bears its own expenses.

Any stockholder who has duly demanded an appraisal in compliance with Section 262 will not, after the effective time of the merger, be entitled to vote the shares subject to the demand for appraisal rights for any purpose or be entitled to the payment of dividends or other distributions on those shares (except for any dividends or other distributions payable to stockholders of record as of a record date prior to the effective time of the merger).

In view of the complexity of Section 262 of the DGCL, any Cytac stockholder who is considering exercising appraisal rights should consult a legal advisor, since failure to comply strictly with the provisions of the DGCL may defeat their appraisal rights.

The foregoing is a summary of Section 262, which sets forth the procedures for demanding statutory appraisal rights. This summary is not intended to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to Section 262, a copy of the text of which is attached hereto as Annex G.

Hologic Stockholders. Hologic stockholders are not entitled to appraisal rights in connection with the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby.

MATERIAL UNITED STATES FEDERAL INCOME TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE MERGER

Cytc Stockholders

In the opinions of Hogan & Hartson LLP (Hogan & Hartson) and Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP (Brown Rudnick), the following are the anticipated material United States federal income tax consequences to U.S. holders (as defined below) of Cytc common stock of the receipt of shares of Hologic common stock and cash in exchange for Cytc common stock pursuant to the merger. This summary is based upon the provisions of the Code, applicable current and proposed United States Treasury Regulations, judicial authorities and administrative rulings and practice, all as in effect as of the date of this registration statement and all of which are subject to change, possibly on a retroactive basis.

For purposes of this discussion, the term U.S. holder means a beneficial owner of Cytc common stock that is for United States federal income tax purposes: (i) a citizen or resident of the United States; (ii) a corporation, or other entity taxable as a corporation for United States federal income tax purposes, created or organized in or under the laws of the United States or any state thereof or the District of Columbia; (iii) a trust if it (a) is subject to the primary supervision of a court within the United States and one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust or (b) has a valid election in effect under applicable United States Treasury Regulations to be treated as a United States person; or (iv) an estate the income of which is subject to United States federal income tax regardless of its source.

Holders of Cytc common stock who are not U.S. holders may have different tax consequences than those described below and are urged to consult their own tax advisors regarding the tax treatment to them under United States and non-United States tax laws.

The United States federal income tax consequence to a partner in an entity treated as a partnership, for United States federal income tax purposes, that holds Cytc common stock generally will depend on the status of the partner and the activities of the partnership. Partners in a partnership holding Cytc common stock should consult their own tax advisors.

This discussion assumes that a U.S. holder holds Cytc common stock as a capital asset within the meaning of Section 1221 of the Code. This discussion does not address all aspects of United States federal income taxation that may be relevant to a U.S. holder in light of its personal circumstances or to U.S. holders subject to special treatment under the United States federal income tax laws (for example, insurance companies, dealers or brokers in securities or currencies, traders in securities who elect mark-to-market accounting, tax-exempt organizations, financial institutions, mutual funds, partnerships or other pass-through entities (and persons holding Cytc common stock through a partnership or other pass-through entity), United States expatriates and stockholders subject to alternative minimum tax, U.S. holders who hold Cytc common stock as part of a hedging, straddle, conversion or other integrated transaction, a person whose functional currency for United States federal income tax purposes is not the U.S. dollar or U.S. holders who acquired their Cytc common stock through the exercise of employee stock options or other compensation arrangements). In addition, the discussion does not address any aspect of foreign, state, local, estate or gift taxation that may be applicable to a U.S. holder.

Holders of Cytc common stock are strongly urged to consult with their own tax advisors as to the tax consequences of the merger with respect to their particular circumstances, including the applicability and effect of the alternative minimum tax and any state, local or foreign and other tax laws and of changes in those laws.

Tax Consequences of the Merger Generally. In the opinions of Hogan & Hartson and Brown Rudnick, the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code. It is a condition to Cytc's and Hologic's respective obligations to complete the merger that Hogan & Hartson and/or Brown Rudnick will have rendered opinions, dated the closing date of the merger, substantially to the effect that the merger will be treated as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code. These opinions are and will be based on facts, representations and assumptions set forth in the respective opinions and representations set forth in certificates to be received from Hologic and Cytyc. None of the tax opinions given in connection with the merger or as set forth herein will be binding on the Internal Revenue Service, and neither Hologic nor Cytyc intends to request any ruling from the Internal Revenue Service as to the United States federal income tax consequences of the merger.

Consequently, no assurance can be given that the Internal Revenue Service will not assert, or that a court would not sustain, a position contrary to any of those set forth herein. In addition, if any of the facts, representations or assumptions upon which those opinions are based is inconsistent with the actual facts, the United States federal income tax consequences of the merger could be adversely affected.

It is assumed for purposes of the remainder of the discussion that the merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of the Code. Based on this assumption, upon the exchange of Cytyc common stock for a combination of Hologic common stock and cash, a U.S. holder will generally recognize gain (but not loss) in an amount equal to the lesser of:

the amount of gain realized (i.e., the excess, if any, of the sum of the cash and the fair market value of the Hologic common stock a U.S. holder received over its tax basis in the Cytyc common stock surrendered in the merger); and the amount of cash received in the merger (other than cash received instead of a fractional share of the Hologic common stock). For this purpose, gain or loss must be calculated separately for each identifiable block of shares surrendered in the exchange, and a loss realized on one block of shares may not be used to offset a gain realized on another block of shares. If a U.S. holder has different bases or holding periods in respect of shares of Cytyc common stock, a U.S. holder should consult its tax advisor prior to the exchange with regard to identifying the bases or holding periods of the particular shares of Hologic common stock received in the merger.

Any recognized gain will generally be long-term capital gain if the U.S. holder's holding period with respect to the Cytyc common stock surrendered is more than one year at the effective time of the merger. In some cases, where a U.S. holder actually or constructively owned Hologic common stock immediately before the merger, such cash received in the merger could be treated as having the effect of the distribution of a dividend, under the tests set forth in Section 302 of the Code, in which case such gain would be treated as dividend income. These rules are complex and dependent upon the specific factual circumstances particular to each U.S. holder. Consequently, each U.S. holder that may be subject to those rules should consult its tax advisor as to the application of these rules to the particular facts relevant to such U.S. holder.

Tax Basis and Holding Period. A U.S. holder's aggregate tax basis in the shares of Hologic common stock received in the merger, including any fractional share interests deemed received by the U.S. holder under the treatment described below, will equal its aggregate adjusted tax basis in the Cytyc common stock surrendered in the merger, increased by the amount of taxable gain, if any, recognized in the merger (including any portion of the gain that is treated as a dividend but excluding any gain or loss resulting from the deemed receipt and redemption of a fractional share interest described below) and decreased by the amount of any cash received in the merger (excluding any cash received instead of a fractional share interest). The holding period for the shares of Hologic common stock received in the merger (including a fractional share interest deemed received and redeemed as described below) will include the holding period for the shares of Cytyc common stock surrendered in the merger.

Cash Instead of a Fractional Share. A U.S. holder who receives cash instead of a fractional share of Hologic common stock will be treated as having received the fractional share of Hologic common stock pursuant to the merger and then as having exchanged the fractional share of Hologic common stock for cash in a redemption by Hologic. In general, this deemed redemption will be treated as a sale or exchange, provided the redemption is not essentially equivalent to a dividend. The determination of whether a redemption is essentially equivalent to a dividend depends upon whether and to what extent the redemption reduces the U.S. holder's deemed percentage stock ownership of Hologic. While this determination is based on each U.S. holder's particular facts and circumstances, the Internal Revenue Service has ruled that a redemption is not essentially equivalent to a dividend and will therefore result in sale or exchange treatment in the case of a stockholder of a publicly held company whose relative stock interest is minimal and who exercises no control over corporate affairs if the redemption results in even a minor reduction in the stock interest of the stockholder. As a result, the redemption of a fractional share of Hologic common stock is generally treated as a sale or exchange and not as a dividend, and a U.S. holder generally will recognize capital gain or loss equal to the difference between the amount of cash received and the basis in its fractional share of Hologic common stock as set forth above. This capital gain or loss generally will be long-term capital gain or loss if, as of the effective time of the merger, the holding period for the shares is greater than one year. The deductibility of capital losses is subject to limitations.

Information Reporting and Backup Withholding. Cash payments received in the merger by a U.S. holder may, under certain circumstances, be subject to information reporting and backup withholding (currently at a rate of 28%) of the cash payable to the holder, unless the holder provides proof of an applicable exemption or furnishes its taxpayer identification number, and otherwise complies with all applicable requirements of the backup withholding rules. Any amounts withheld from payments to a U.S. holder under the backup withholding rules are not additional tax and will be allowed as a refund or credit against the U.S. holder's United States federal income tax liability, provided that the required information is timely furnished to the Internal Revenue Service.

Reporting Requirements. A U.S. holder who receives shares of Hologic common stock as a result of the merger will be required to retain records pertaining to the merger and will be required to file with its United States federal income tax return for the year in which the merger takes place a statement setting forth certain facts relating to the merger.

REGULATORY AND OTHER APPROVALS REQUIRED FOR THE MERGER

Under the merger agreement, subject to the terms of the merger agreement, each of Hologic and Cytyc has agreed to use its reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions and to do, or cause to be done, all things necessary, proper or advisable under applicable law to complete the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including (i) preparing and filing as promptly as practicable with any governmental authority or other third party all documentation to effect all necessary filings, notices, petitions, statements, registrations, submissions of information, applications and other documents; and (ii) obtaining and maintaining all approvals, consents, waivers, licenses, orders, registrations, permits, authorizations, clearances and other confirmations required to be obtained from any governmental authority or other third party that are necessary, proper or advisable to complete the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement.

A condition to Hologic's and Cytyc's respective obligations to complete the merger is that any waiting period applicable to the merger under the HSR Act will have expired or been terminated. A further condition is that all required governmental regulatory consents and approvals will have been obtained except those that in the aggregate fall below the materiality standard described in the merger agreement. See "The Merger Agreement - Conditions to Completion of the Merger" beginning on page 129.

Under the HSR Act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, certain transactions, including the merger, may not be completed unless certain waiting period requirements have expired or been terminated. Each of Hologic and Cytyc filed a Pre-Merger Notification and Report Form pursuant to the HSR Act with the U.S. Department of Justice and the U.S. Federal Trade Commission on June 1, 2007. Under the HSR Act, the merger may not be completed until approximately 30 days after the initial filing (unless early termination of this waiting period is granted) or, if the Antitrust Division of the U.S. Department of Justice or the U.S. Federal Trade Commission issues a request for additional information, 30 days after Hologic and Cytyc have substantially complied with such request for additional information (unless this period is shortened pursuant to a grant of earlier termination). Under the merger agreement, subject to the conditions and limitations described in the merger agreement, Hologic and Cytyc have agreed to take all actions necessary to cause the expiration or termination of the applicable waiting periods under the HSR Act. On July 2, 2006, the waiting period under the HSR Act expired without a request for additional information. Notwithstanding such expiration, at any time before or after the effective time of the merger the U.S. Federal Trade Commission, the U.S. Department of Justice or others could take action under the antitrust laws with respect to the merger, including seeking to enjoin the completion of the merger, to rescind the merger or to conditionally approve the merger upon the divestiture of assets of Hologic or Cytyc or to impose restrictions on the operations of the combined company post-closing. There can be no assurance that the merger will not be challenged on antitrust grounds or, if such a challenge is made, that the challenge will not be successful. In addition, state antitrust authorities and private parties in certain circumstances may bring legal action under the antitrust laws seeking to enjoin the merger or seeking conditions to the completion of the merger.

Other than the filings described above, neither Hologic nor Cytyc is aware of any regulatory approvals required to be obtained, or waiting periods required to expire, to complete the merger. If Hologic and Cytyc discover that other approvals or waiting periods are necessary, Hologic and Cytyc will seek to obtain or comply with them in accordance with the merger agreement.

Table of ContentsTHE MERGER AGREEMENT

The following is a summary of the material terms of the merger agreement. This summary does not purport to describe all the terms of the merger agreement and is qualified by reference to the complete merger agreement, a copy of which is attached as Annex A to this joint proxy statement/prospectus and incorporated by reference. The rights and obligations of the parties are governed by the express terms and conditions of the merger agreement and not by this summary or any other information contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. All stockholders of Hologic and Cytac are urged to read the merger agreement carefully and in its entirety.

Explanatory Note Regarding Summary of Merger Agreement and Representations and Warranties in the Merger Agreement

The summary of the terms of the merger agreement is intended to provide information about the terms of the merger. The terms and information in the merger agreement should not be relied on as disclosures about Hologic or Cytac without consideration of the entirety of public disclosure by Hologic and Cytac as set forth in their respective public reports with the SEC. The terms of the merger agreement (such as the representations and warranties) govern the contractual rights and relationships and allocate risks between the parties in relation to the merger. In particular, the representations and warranties made by the parties to each other in the merger agreement have been negotiated between the parties with the principal purpose of setting forth their respective rights with respect to their obligation to close the merger should events or circumstances change or be different from those stated in the representations and warranties. The representations and warranties may also be subject to a contractual standard of materiality different from those generally applicable to stockholders under federal securities laws. Matters may change from the state of affairs contemplated by the representations and warranties. Hologic and Cytac will provide additional disclosure in their public reports to the extent that they are aware of the existence of any material facts that are required to be disclosed under federal securities laws and will update such disclosure as required by federal securities laws.

Structure of the Merger

The merger agreement provides for the merger of Cytac with and into Nor easter Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic that was formed for the purpose of the merger, with Nor easter Corp. surviving the merger. At the effective time of the merger, the separate existence of Cytac will cease and the surviving entity will remain a wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic, and Nor easter Corp. will be renamed Cytac Corporation. The merger will become effective when Nor easter Corp. and Cytac file a certificate of merger with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware (or at such later time as Hologic and Cytac mutually agree and specify in the certificate of merger). The time the merger becomes effective is referred to as the effective time of the merger.

Merger Consideration

At the effective time of the merger, each issued and outstanding share of Cytac common stock will be converted into the right to receive 0.52 of a share of Hologic common stock and $16.50 in cash without interest. Cytac stockholders will receive cash in lieu of any fractional shares of Hologic common stock that would have otherwise been received in the merger. See Fractional Shares beginning on page 118. If between the date of the merger agreement and the effective time of the merger there is a reclassification, recapitalization, stock split or combination, exchange or readjustment of shares, or any stock dividend with respect to the capital stock of Hologic or Cytac, the merger consideration will be appropriately adjusted.

Hologic and Cytac expect that, upon completion of the merger, assuming conversion of all of Cytac's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024, the Cytac stockholders immediately prior to the merger will own approximately 55% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company and the Hologic stockholders immediately prior to the merger will own approximately 45% of the outstanding common stock of the combined company.

Exchange of Shares

Prior to the effective time of the merger, Hologic will appoint American Stock Transfer & Trust Company or another bank or trust company reasonably satisfactory to Cytyc to act as an exchange agent to handle the exchange of Cytyc common stock in the merger for the merger consideration. Promptly after the effective time of the merger, and in any event within ten business days after the effective time of the merger, Hologic will send, or will cause the exchange agent to send, to each holder of Cytyc common stock at the effective time of the merger a letter of transmittal for use in the exchange and instructions explaining how to surrender stock certificates or transfer uncertificated shares of Cytyc common stock to the exchange agent. Holders of Cytyc common stock that surrender their stock certificates or transfer their uncertificated shares to the exchange agent, together with a properly completed letter of transmittal, will be entitled to receive the appropriate merger consideration. You should not return stock certificates with the enclosed proxy card.

After the effective time of the merger, holders of unexchanged shares of Cytyc common stock will not be entitled to receive any dividends or other distributions payable by Hologic after the closing until their shares of Cytyc common stock are surrendered. However, once those shares are surrendered, Hologic will pay or will cause the exchange agent to pay the holder, without interest, any dividends with a record date after the effective time of the merger that were previously paid to Hologic stockholders or are payable at the time the shares of Cytyc common stock are surrendered.

Fractional Shares

Hologic will not issue fractional shares of Hologic common stock in the merger. All fractional shares of Hologic common stock that a holder of shares of Cytyc common stock would otherwise be entitled to receive as a result of the merger will be aggregated. For any fractional share that results from such aggregation, the exchange agent will pay the holder an amount of cash, without interest, equal to the fraction of a share of Hologic common stock to which the Cytyc stockholder would otherwise be entitled in the merger multiplied by the closing sale price of a share of Hologic common stock on the closing date.

Cytyc Stock Options, Restricted Stock Units, Performance Shares, Deferred Shares, Employee Stock Purchase Plan

Under the merger agreement, the board of directors of Cytyc, as soon as practicable following the date of the merger agreement, must adopt resolutions or take any other actions as may be required to effect the following:

each stock option to purchase shares of common stock of Cytyc outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the merger will be amended and converted into an option to acquire, on the same terms and conditions (after giving effect to any applicable acceleration of vesting thereunder) as were applicable under the Cytyc stock option, the number of shares of Hologic common stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the sum of:

the product of (A) the number of shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc stock option and (B) the exchange ratio; and

the product of (A) the number of shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc stock option and (B) the quotient obtained by dividing (x) $16.50 by (y) the average of the per share closing sale prices of Hologic common stock for the ten consecutive trading days ending on (and including) the date that is three trading days prior to the closing date, at an exercise price per share of Hologic common stock (rounded up to the nearest whole cent) equal to the quotient obtained by dividing (i) the aggregate exercise price for the shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc stock option by (ii) the aggregate number of shares of Hologic common stock to be subject to the Cytyc stock option after giving effect to the adjustments in this bullet point and the two sub-bullet points immediately above;

each restricted stock unit of Cytyc outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the merger will be amended and converted into the right to receive, on the same terms and conditions (after giving effect to any applicable acceleration of vesting thereunder) as were applicable under the Cytyc restricted stock unit, the number of shares of Hologic common stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the sum of:

the product of (A) the number of shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc restricted stock unit and (B) the exchange ratio; and

the product of (A) the number of shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc restricted stock unit and (B) the quotient obtained by dividing (x) $16.50 by (y) the average of the per share closing sale prices of Hologic common stock for the ten consecutive trading days ending on (and including) the date that is three trading days prior to the closing date;

each performance share of Cytyc outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the merger will vest at the target award level in accordance with the terms and conditions applicable under the Cytyc performance share and holders thereof will be entitled to receive the merger consideration on the same basis as all other shares of common stock of Cytyc;

each share of common stock of Cytyc deferred, a share unit, under the Cytyc amended and restated director compensation method plan will be converted into, on the same terms and conditions (after giving effect to any applicable acceleration of vesting thereunder) as are applicable under the Cytyc amended and restated director compensation method plan, a number of shares of Hologic common stock (rounded down to the nearest whole share) equal to the sum of:

the product of (A) the number of shares of Cytyc common stock subject to the Cytyc share unit and (B) the exchange ratio; and

holders of each share of Cytyc common stock accrued in 2007 for issuance to members of the board of directors of Cytyc on January 1, 2008 will be entitled to receive the merger consideration on the same basis as all other shares of Cytyc common stock. The merger agreement further provides that the board of directors of Cytyc, as soon as practicable following the date of the merger agreement, must adopt any resolutions or take any other actions as may be required to provide that with respect to the Cytyc employee stock purchase plan:

each participant's outstanding right to purchase shares of Cytyc common stock under the Cytyc employee stock purchase plan will terminate on the day immediately prior to the day on which the effective time of the merger occurs, provided that all amounts allocated to each participant's account under the Cytyc employee stock purchase plan as of that date will then be used to purchase from Cytyc whole shares of Cytyc common stock at the applicable price determined under the terms of the Cytyc employee stock purchase plan for the then outstanding offering periods using that date as the final purchase date for each particular offering period; and the Cytyc employee stock purchase plan will terminate immediately following those purchases of Cytyc common stock. Hologic has agreed that, as soon as practicable following the effective time of the merger, it will deliver to the holders of Hologic stock options, restricted stock units, and share units that were converted from Cytyc stock options, restricted stock units and share units appropriate notices

setting forth those holders' rights pursuant to the respective stock incentive plans and the contracts evidencing the grants of those converted options, restricted stock units and share units, as the case may be, which will provide, among other things, that those converted options, restricted stock units, share units and contracts have been assumed by Hologic and will continue in effect on the same terms and conditions (subject to the adjustments described above after giving effect to the merger).

The merger agreement provides that, except as otherwise described above and except to the extent required under the respective terms of the converted options, restricted stock units and share units, as the case may be, all restrictions or limitations on transfer and vesting with respect to such converted options, restricted stock units and share units, to the extent that those restrictions or limitations shall not have already lapsed, and all other terms of thereof, will remain in full force and effect with respect to those converted options, restricted stock units and share units after giving effect to the merger and their assumption by Hologic as set forth above.

Hologic has agreed to take all action necessary for the assumption of the Cytyc stock options, restricted stock units and share units as described above, including the reservation, issuance and listing of a sufficient number of shares of Hologic common stock as is necessary to effectuate the transactions described above. Subject to receiving full cooperation from Cytyc and its independent registered public accounting firm, within one business day of the closing date, Hologic is required to file a registration statement on an appropriate form, or a post-effective amendment to a previously filed registration statement, with respect to the shares of Hologic common stock subject to the above converted options, restricted stock units and share units and, where applicable, is required to use all commercially reasonable efforts to have the registration statement declared effective as soon as practicable after the effective time of the merger.

Significant portions of the representations and warranties of Cytyc and Hologic are qualified as to materiality or material adverse effect. Under the merger agreement, a material adverse effect means, when used in connection with Hologic or Cytyc, any change, effect, event, occurrence or state of facts that is, or would reasonably be expected to be, materially adverse to the business, financial condition or results of operation of that entity and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, except any change, effect, event, occurrence or state of facts to the extent resulting from or arising in

Certain Covenants

Hologic and Cytyc have agreed to certain covenants in the merger agreement, including:

Stockholder Meetings. Each of Hologic and Cytyc has agreed to use all commercially reasonable efforts in accordance with and subject to the DGCL, its certificate of incorporation and bylaws and Nasdaq rules to cause a meeting of its stockholders to be called and held as soon as reasonably practicable for the purpose of voting on the adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, in the case of Cytyc, and for the purpose of securing stockholder approval of the stock issuance in connection with the merger and the charter amendment to increase the authorized shares of capital stock, in the case of Hologic. In addition, each party has agreed to use all commercially reasonable efforts to obtain from its stockholders the required stockholder vote, in the case of Hologic, in favor of the and the charter amendment proposal and the stock issuance proposal, and in the case of Cytyc, in favor of adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

No Solicitation. The merger agreement provides that, from the time of the execution of the merger agreement until the completion of the merger or the termination of the merger agreement, subject to certain exceptions, neither Hologic nor Cytyc will, nor will either party authorize or permit any of their respective subsidiaries, or any of their respective directors, officers or employees, investment bankers, attorneys, accountants, consultants or other agents or advisors to, directly or indirectly:

solicit, initiate or take any action to knowingly facilitate or knowingly encourage the submission of any acquisition proposal of the type described below;

enter into, continue or otherwise participate in any discussions or negotiations with, furnish any information relating to itself or any of its subsidiaries to or afford access to the business, properties, assets, books or records of itself or any of its subsidiaries to, otherwise cooperate in any way with, or knowingly assist, participate in, knowingly facilitate or knowingly encourage any effort by any third party seeking to make or who has made an acquisition proposal; make an adverse recommendation change, which means either of the following as the context may indicate: any recommendation by its board of directors of an acquisition proposal or any failure by its board of directors to make, or any withdrawal or modification in a manner adverse to the other party of, its recommendation to its stockholders that, in the case of Hologic stockholders, they approve the amendment of the Hologic charter and the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger, or in the case of Cytyc stockholders, they adopt the merger agreement;

grant any waiver or release under any standstill or similar agreement with respect to any class of equity securities of itself or any of its subsidiaries;

enter into any agreement in principle, letter of intent, term sheet or other similar instrument relating to an acquisition proposal (other than a confidentiality agreement of the sort and in the circumstances described in the following paragraph); or propose publicly or agree to do any of the foregoing related to any acquisition proposal.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the board of directors of each of Hologic and Cytac may, prior to the receipt of the relevant stockholder approval, (i) engage in discussions or negotiations with any third party in response to an unsolicited bona fide written acquisition proposal that the party's board of directors has determined in good faith (after consultation with its outside legal counsel and financial advisors of nationally recognized reputation) constitutes or is reasonably likely to lead to a superior proposal (as described and defined below); and (ii) after making such determination furnish to such third party non-public information relating to that party or any of its subsidiaries pursuant to a confidentiality agreement with terms no less favorable than those contained in the existing confidentiality agreement between Hologic and Cytac, if, in each case, the board of directors of such party determines in good faith by a majority vote, after considering the advice of outside legal counsel, that failing to take such action would be inconsistent with its fiduciary duties under applicable law.

The merger agreement prohibits a party from engaging in such discussions or negotiations or providing such information unless that party has delivered to the other party prior written notice advising the other party that it intends to take such action. The merger agreement also requires that the parties notify each other if any acquisition proposals are presented to either party, and the parties are required to keep each other reasonably informed, on a current basis, of the status and details of any acquisition proposals.

Subject to compliance with the terms of the merger agreement, each party is permitted to take and disclose to its stockholders a position with respect to any acquisition proposal as may be contemplated by Rule 14e-2(a) under the Exchange Act or make a statement required under Rule 14d-9 under the Exchange Act or make any disclosure of factual matters to its stockholders if, in the good faith judgment of its board of directors (after consultation with its outside legal counsel), it is required to disclose in order not to breach its fiduciary duties to its stockholders under applicable law.

An acquisition proposal for Cytac is any inquiry, proposal or offer relating to, or any third party indication of interest in, (i) any direct or indirect acquisition or purchase of 20% or more of the consolidated net assets of Cytac and its subsidiaries or 20% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of Cytac or any of its subsidiaries whose assets, individually or in the aggregate, constitute more than 20% of the consolidated assets of Cytac; (ii) any tender offer (including a self-tender offer) or exchange offer that, if completed, would result in such third party beneficially owning 20% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of Cytac or any of its subsidiaries whose assets, individually or in the aggregate, constitute more than 20% of the consolidated assets of Cytac; or (iii) a merger, consolidation, share exchange, business combination, sale of substantially all of the assets, reorganization, recapitalization, liquidation, dissolution or other similar transaction involving Cytac or any of its subsidiaries whose assets, individually or in the aggregate, constitute more than 20% of the consolidated assets of that person, in each case, subject to certain exceptions set forth in the merger agreement.

An acquisition proposal for Hologic is any inquiry, proposal or offer relating to, or any third party indication of interest in, (i) any direct or indirect acquisition or purchase of 20% or more of the consolidated net assets of Hologic and its subsidiaries or 20% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of Hologic or any of its subsidiaries that, if completed, would result in the third party beneficially owning 20% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of Hologic or any of its subsidiaries whose assets, individually or in the aggregate, constitute more than 20% of the consolidated assets of Hologic; or (ii) any tender offer (including a self-tender offer) or exchange offer that, if completed, would result in such third party beneficially owning 20% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of Hologic or any of its subsidiaries whose assets, individually or in the aggregate, constitute more than 20% of the consolidated assets of Hologic, in each case, subject to certain exceptions set forth in the merger agreement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Hologic is permitted to engage in acquisition discussions, which includes any inquiries, proposals or offerings relating to a proposed acquisition or purchase by Hologic of 50% or more of any class of equity or voting securities of a third party or any purchase or acquisition of the business or assets of a third party.

A superior proposal is a bona fide, unsolicited written acquisition proposal (which definition is read, for this purpose, without the word inquiry) for at least a majority of the outstanding shares of common stock of Cytyc or Hologic (as the case may be) or a sale or purchase of all or substantially all of the assets of Cytyc or Hologic (as the case may be) on terms that the board of directors of such party determines in good faith by a majority vote, after consultation with its legal advisor and financial advisors of nationally recognized reputation and taking into account such matters deemed relevant in good faith by such board of directors, including among other things, all the terms and conditions of the acquisition proposal, including any break-up fees, expense reimbursement provisions, conditions to completion and long-term strategic considerations, are more favorable from a financial point of view to the stockholders of such party than the merger and for which (i) financing, if a cash transaction (whether in whole or in part), is then fully committed or reasonably determined to be available; and (ii) such proposed transaction is reasonably capable of being completed on the terms set forth in the acquisition proposal, in each case as determined by the board of directors of that party.

Each party has agreed to terminate, and to cause its subsidiaries, advisors, employees and other agents to terminate, any discussions or negotiations with any person with respect to any acquisition proposal that began before the date of the merger agreement.

Board of Directors Covenant to Recommend. The board of directors of Hologic has agreed to recommend the approval by Hologic stockholders of (i) a proposal to be effective immediately prior to the effective time of the merger, to amend the Hologic charter, to increase the authorized number of shares of Hologic common stock and (ii) a proposal to issue shares of Hologic common stock to Cytyc stockholders in the merger on the terms and conditions set forth in the merger agreement. The board of directors of Cytyc has agreed to recommend the approval by Cytyc stockholders of a proposal to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, subject to the terms of the merger agreement, including applicable notice requirements, each party's board of directors can make an adverse recommendation change, other than in response to an acquisition proposal, if (i) it has not received the approval of its stockholders in connection with the merger; and (ii) in response to a material development or change in circumstances occurring or arising after May 20, 2007 that was not known to such party's board of directors as of or prior to May 20, 2007 (which change or development does not relate to an acquisition proposal and which is not, and does not result from, a change in the market price of the common stock of the other party primarily as a result of the announcement of the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement) (referred to as an intervening event), the board of directors of such party determines in good faith (after consultation with, and taking into account the advice of, legal counsel) that, in light of such intervening event, the failure of the board of directors to effect such an adverse recommendation change would result in a breach of its fiduciary duties under applicable law.

In addition, subject to the terms of the merger agreement, including applicable notice requirements, each party and its board of directors can make an adverse recommendation change, in response to an acquisition proposal, and, subject to payment of applicable termination fees, immediately terminate the merger agreement, if (i) it has not received the approval of its stockholders in connection with the merger; (ii) it has received an unsolicited bona fide written acquisition proposal from a third party; (iii) its board of directors has determined in good faith (after consultation with its outside legal counsel and financial advisors of a national recognized reputation and taking into account any adjustments to the terms and conditions of the merger agreement proposed by the other party) that the acquisition proposal constitutes a superior proposal; and (iv) its board of directors, after consultation with outside legal counsel, determines in good faith that failing to take such action would be inconsistent with its fiduciary duties under applicable law.

Unless the merger agreement is otherwise terminated in accordance with its terms, whether or not (i) the Hologic board of directors has made an adverse recommendation change; or (ii) an acquisition proposal has been publicly proposed or announced or otherwise submitted to Hologic or any of its advisors, the Hologic proposals described above must be submitted to Hologic stockholders at a meeting of its stockholders called for these purposes. Unless the merger agreement is otherwise terminated in accordance with its terms, whether or not (i) Cytyc's board of directors has made an adverse recommendation change; or (ii) an acquisition proposal has been publicly proposed or announced or otherwise submitted to Cytyc or any of its advisors, the Cytyc proposals described above must be submitted to Cytyc stockholders at a meeting of its stockholders called for this purpose.

Interim Operations of Hologic and Cytyc. Each of Hologic and Cytyc has undertaken a separate covenant that places restrictions on it and its subsidiaries until the earlier of the effective time and the date the merger agreement is terminated. In general, Hologic and its subsidiaries and Cytyc and its subsidiaries are required to conduct their respective businesses in the ordinary course consistent with past practice and to use all commercially reasonable efforts to preserve intact their respective business organizations and relationships with third parties. The companies have also agreed to some specific restrictions which (subject to exceptions described in the merger agreement) are substantially, but not entirely, comparable, because, in a number of instances, an action is applicable to only one of the companies by nature. The most significant activities that each company has agreed not to do, and not to permit its subsidiaries to do, are as follows:

amend its organizational documents;

split, combine or reclassify its shares of capital stock or those of its subsidiaries;

declare dividends or redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire or offer to redeem, repurchase or otherwise acquire any of its capital stock or those of its subsidiaries, except for dividends by any of its subsidiaries on a pro rata basis to the equity owners thereof and any transaction between the company and any of its subsidiaries or between its subsidiaries;

issue, deliver, sell or authorize the issuance, delivery or sale of any equity securities, options or other securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for equity securities, except under limited circumstances;

amend the terms of equity securities, options or other securities convertible into or exchangeable or exercisable for equity securities other than in connection with a transaction between the company and any of its subsidiaries or between its subsidiaries; acquire or dispose of assets, except for acquisitions or dispositions (i) in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice, (ii) below certain dollar thresholds, (iii) between the company and any of its subsidiaries or between its subsidiaries or (iv) that are identified as permitted acquisitions or dispositions; other than in connection with permitted acquisitions, make any loans, advances or capital contributions to, or investments in, any other person, other than in the ordinary course of business consistent with past practice or between the company and any of its subsidiaries or between its subsidiaries;

create, incur or assume any indebtedness for borrowed money or guarantees thereof, other than in the ordinary course consistent with past practice, under existing lines of credit for specified purposes, or between the company and any of its subsidiaries or between its subsidiaries;

enter into any agreement that limits or otherwise restricts in any material respect such party, or that would reasonably be expected to limit or restrict the combined company after the effective time of the merger, from engaging or competing in any material line of business; settle, or offer to propose to settle, any legal proceedings that arise out of the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement; or agree or commit to do any of the foregoing.

Reasonable Best Efforts Covenant. Hologic and Cytac have each agreed to use their respective reasonable best efforts to take, or cause to be taken, all actions and to do, or cause to be done, all things necessary, proper or advisable under applicable law to complete the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including taking all necessary actions to satisfy the closing conditions as promptly as practicable, preparing and filing requisite documents with governmental entities or other third parties and obtaining and maintaining all necessary approvals, consents and authorizations. However, neither Hologic nor Cytac is required to enter into a settlement or other agreement with any governmental entity in connection with the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement or divest or take any other action with respect to any of its subsidiaries or any of their respective affiliates' businesses, assets or properties if the result would reasonably be expected to:

materially and adversely diminish the benefits expected to be derived by the parties on the date of the merger agreement from the combination of Hologic and Cytac via the merger (such combined business to be taken as a whole), in such a manner that either Hologic or Cytoc would not have entered into the merger agreement in the face of such materially and adversely diminished benefits, or otherwise have a material adverse effect (but ignoring the exception for effects caused by the announcement of the merger in the definition of material adverse effect) after the effective time of the merger on Hologic and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole, which is referred to as a regulatory material adverse effect.

Table of ContentsCorporate Governance and Other Matters.

Board of Directors. As of the effective time of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic will consist of eleven directors, six of whom will be designated by Hologic and five of whom will be designated by Cytyc. Four of the six persons designated by Hologic will be independent directors as defined under applicable listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be John W. Cumming, current chairman and chief executive officer of Hologic, and Glenn P. Muir, current chief financial officer of Hologic. Three of the five persons designated by Cytyc will be independent directors under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and the remaining two persons will be Patrick J. Sullivan, current chairman, chief executive officer and president of Cytyc, and Daniel Levangie, current executive vice president of Cytyc and president of Cytyc surgical products.

From the effective time of the merger until immediately prior to Hologic's annual meeting of stockholders to be held in 2009, vacancies on the board of directors of Hologic will be filled as follows: (i) all vacancies created by the cessation of service of a continuing Hologic director (Continuing Hurricane Director as defined in the merger agreement) who is an independent director will be filled by a nominee proposed to the nominating and corporate governance committee by a majority of the remaining continuing Hologic directors; (ii) all vacancies created by the cessation of service of a continuing Cytyc director (Continuing Cyclone Director as defined in the merger agreement) who is an independent director will be filled by a nominee proposed to the nominating and corporate governance committee by a majority of the remaining continuing Cytyc directors; and (iii) all remaining vacancies will be filled by a nominee proposed and selected by the nominating and corporate governance committee. This agreement between the parties will be reflected in the amendments to Hologic's bylaws. The amendment of this provision of Hologic's bylaws will require the affirmative vote of at least 75% of the full board of directors of Hologic. See Hologic Bylaws Amendment beginning on page 156.

Committees of a Board of Directors. At the effective time of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic will have an audit, a compensation, a nominating and corporate governance and a corporate development committee. Directors serving on each of these committees, are required to meet the independence standards under applicable Nasdaq listing standards, and, in addition, each member of the audit committee is required to meet the additional listing standards applicable to audit committee members.

The audit, nominating and corporate governance and corporate development committees will each consist of an odd number of directors, consisting of one more continuing Hologic director than continuing Cytyc directors. The chairman of each of these committees will be a continuing Hologic director. The compensation committee will consist of an even number of directors, consisting of an equal number of continuing Cytyc directors and continuing Hologic directors. The chairman of the compensation committee will be a continuing Cytyc director.

Chairman; Chairman Emeritus and CEO of Hologic. At the effective time of the merger, Mr. John W. Cumming, currently Hologic's chairman and chief executive officer, will serve as the chief executive officer of Hologic, and Mr. Patrick J. Sullivan, currently Cytyc's chairman, chief executive officer and president, will serve as chairman of Hologic's board of directors. In addition, at the effective time of the merger, Dr. Jay A. Stein, currently chairman emeritus, director and chief technical officer of Hologic, will serve as chairman emeritus and chief technical officer of Hologic.

Headquarters. At the effective time of the merger, the location of the corporate headquarters and principal executive offices of Hologic will be 35 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts.

Certain Employee Benefits Matters. The merger agreement provides that Hologic will honor all accrued and vested benefit obligations to and contractual rights of current and former employees of Cytyc and Hologic and their respective subsidiaries, referred to as covered employees, under their respective existing employee plans, to the extent accrued and vested as of the effective time of the merger. Hologic and Cytyc, acting in good faith, will cooperate in reviewing their existing employee plans with a view towards developing appropriate employee benefit and compensation plans, which are referred to as the new benefit plans, after the effective time of the merger, and which among other things: (i) will treat similarly situated covered employees on a substantially equivalent basis, taking into account all relevant factors, including duties, responsibilities, geographic location, tenure and qualifications; and (ii) will not discriminate between covered employees who at the effective time of the merger are covered by Cytyc employee plans, on the one hand, and those covered by Hologic employee plans, on the other hand. Hologic has agreed to adopt the new benefit plans, subject to customary rights to subsequently amend or terminate the plans as Hologic deems appropriate.

The new benefit plans will provide for the following:

eligible participants will receive service credit for purposes of eligibility, participation, vesting and levels of benefits for all periods of employment with Cytyc or Hologic or any of their respective subsidiaries before the effective time of the merger;

all pre-existing conditions or limitations under any new benefit plan which is a welfare plan will be waived to the extent waived under the corresponding plan in which the employee participated immediately before the effective time of the merger; and credit will be given for the plan year in which the effective time of the merger occurs towards applicable deductibles and annual out-of-pocket limits for expenses incurred before the effective time of the merger.

Please see The Merger Interests of Hologic Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger, beginning on page 75 and The Merger Interests of Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger beginning on page 95 for additional information on employee benefits matters covered in the merger agreement.

Indemnification and Insurance. Hologic has agreed to cause the surviving corporation and the surviving corporation has agreed to do the following:

assume the obligations with respect to rights to indemnification and exculpation from liabilities (including advancement of expenses), for acts or omissions occurring at or before the effective time of the merger in favor of the current or former directors or officers of Cytyc or its subsidiaries as provided under Cytyc's certificate of incorporation, bylaws or any indemnification contract between such directors or officers as in effect on May 20, 2007, without further action, as of the effective time of the merger, and those obligations will survive the merger and will continue in full force and effect in accordance with their terms; and for six years after the effective time of the merger, Hologic will, or will cause the surviving corporation to, provide officers and directors liability insurance in respect of acts or omissions occurring before the effective time of the merger covering each current or former director or officer of Cytyc or its subsidiaries that is currently covered by Cytyc's directors and officers liability insurance policies. This insurance tail coverage must be no less favorable than the Cytyc policy in effect on May 20, 2007, except that Hologic or the surviving corporation, as the case may be, will only be obligated to pay up to 200% of the annual premium paid by Cytyc for such insurance as of May 20, 2007. In lieu of the foregoing, Cytyc may obtain prepaid policies prior to the effective time of the merger that provide the officers and directors of Cytyc with coverage of equivalent amount and on no more favorable terms than the Cytyc policy in effect on May 20, 2007.

Listing of Hologic Stock. Hologic has agreed to use all commercially reasonable efforts to cause the shares of Hologic common stock to be issued in the merger to be listed on the Nasdaq, subject to official notice of issuance. Hologic will continue to use the trading symbol HOLX for the shares of Hologic common stock issuable to the Cytyc stockholders in the merger.

Cooperation with Respect to Financing. Cytac has agreed to provide on a timely basis, and use all commercially reasonable efforts to cause its officers, employees and advisors to provide on a timely basis, all reasonable cooperation in connection with the arrangement of financing contemplated by the financing commitment letter between the arrangers and Hologic or any alternative financing Hologic may seek in order to complete the merger. For more information regarding the Commitment Letter, please see "The Merger Financing of the Merger" on page 59.

Certain Other Covenants. The merger agreement contains additional mutual covenants, which include, among other things, agreements by each party to:

take such action required to be taken by such party pursuant to Cytac's indenture, dated as of March 22, 2004, between Cytac and U.S. Bank Trust National Association, with respect to Cytac's 2.25% Convertible Notes due 2024, as may be necessary to complete the merger; not take any action to jeopardize the intended tax treatment of the merger; and take all further actions reasonably requested by the other party to render the rights issuable pursuant to the party's stockholder rights agreement inapplicable to the merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement. In addition, Cytac has agreed to amend the rights agreement, if necessary, to extend the expiration date of such agreement to expire on a date no earlier than November 16, 2007 (or such later date as the merger agreement may be extended pursuant to its terms).

Conditions to Completion of the Merger

The obligations of each of Hologic and Cytac to complete the merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following mutual conditions:

approval by the Hologic and Cytac stockholders of the proposals required to complete the merger (as further described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus);

absence of any applicable law, rule, order, injunction or judgment prohibiting or preventing the completion of the merger;

the applicable waiting period under the HSR Act or under any similar foreign statutes or regulations applicable to the merger shall have expired, terminated or, where applicable, approval shall have been obtained (except where the failure of the waiting period to expire or terminate or the approval to be obtained would not reasonably be expected to, individually or in the aggregate, materially and adversely affect Cytac or Hologic, taken as a whole, or would not reasonably be expected to result in criminal liability);

Hologic's registration statement on Form S-4, which includes this joint proxy statement/prospectus, being effective and not subject to any SEC stop order;

approval for the listing on the Nasdaq of the shares of Hologic common stock to be issued in the merger, subject to official notice of issuance;

absence of any applicable law, rule, order, injunction or judgment enacted or deemed applicable to the merger that would reasonably be expected to (i) materially and adversely diminish the benefits expected to be derived by the parties on the date of the merger agreement from the combination of

Hologic and Cytyc via the merger (the combined business to be taken as a whole), in such a manner that either Hologic or Cytyc would not have entered into the merger agreement in the face of such materially and adversely diminished benefits; or (ii) otherwise have a regulatory material adverse effect; and completion of all actions necessary to cause the amended Hologic charter and amended Hologic bylaws to be effective at the effective time of the merger and ensure that the composition of the Hologic board of directors is consistent with the terms of the merger agreement.

Cytyc shall have performed in all material respects all of its obligations under the merger agreement required to be performed by it at or prior to the effective time of the merger;

The obligations of Cytyc to complete the merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following further conditions:

Hologic shall have performed in all material respects all of its obligations under the merger agreement required to be performed by it at or prior to the effective time of the merger;

In the event that (i) Hologic engages in negotiations or discussions with any third party that has made an unsolicited bona fide written acquisition proposal that Hologic's board of directors has determined in good faith (after consultation with outside legal counsel and financial advisors of nationally recognized reputation) constitutes or is reasonably likely to lead to a superior proposal and that acquisition proposal has been made directly to the stockholders of Hologic generally or shall have otherwise become publicly known or any person shall have publicly announced an intention to make an acquisition proposal; and (ii) the merger agreement is terminated because Hologic's stockholders fail to approve the amendment to the Hologic charter and the issuance of Hologic common stock to Cytac stockholders in the merger at the Hologic special meeting, then Hologic has agreed to pay a fee of $33 million to Cytac, referred to as the Cytac reduced fee, within two business days of such termination; provided, that if within 12 months of such termination, (A) Hologic merges with or into or is acquired by a third party; (B) a third party acquires more than 50% of the total assets of Hologic and its subsidiaries, taken as a whole; (C) a third party acquires more than 50% of the outstanding shares of Hologic common stock; or (D) Hologic or any of its subsidiaries enter into an agreement providing for any of the foregoing, Hologic will pay Cytac a fee equal to the difference between $100 million and the amount of any previously paid Cytac reduced fee.

prior to the Hologic special meeting an acquisition proposal has been made to Hologic or has been made directly to the stockholders of Hologic generally or has otherwise become publicly known or any person has publicly announced an intention to make an acquisition proposal; and

Hologic Record Date; Shares Entitled to Vote

The Hologic board of directors has fixed the close of business on August 22, 2007 as the record date for Hologic stockholders entitled to notice of and to vote at the Hologic special meeting of Hologic stockholders or any adjournment or postponement of the Hologic special meeting.

The only outstanding voting securities of Hologic are the shares of Hologic common stock. Only holders of record of the shares of Hologic common stock on the Hologic record date are entitled to notice of and to vote at the Hologic special meeting. Under the Hologic charter, each share of Hologic common stock is entitled to one vote on all matters submitted to Hologic stockholders.

On the Hologic record date, there were approximately 53,947,712 outstanding shares of Hologic common stock entitled to vote at the Hologic special meeting. Votes are exercisable in person, through the Internet, by telephone or by a properly executed and delivered proxy card with respect to the Hologic special meeting as described in "Voting of Proxies" beginning on page 138.

Quorum Requirement

Under Delaware law and the Hologic bylaws, a quorum of Hologic stockholders at the special meeting is necessary to transact business at the Hologic special meeting. The presence of holders representing at least a majority of the votes of all outstanding Hologic common stock entitled to vote at the Hologic special meeting, whether present in person or by properly executed and delivered proxy, will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at the Hologic special meeting.

All shares of Hologic common stock represented in person or by proxy at the Hologic special meeting, including abstentions and broker non-votes (as defined below) will be treated as present for purposes of determining the presence or absence of a quorum at the Hologic special meeting.

Under NASD rules, brokers who hold shares in street name for customers have the authority to vote on certain routine proposals when they have not received instructions from beneficial owners. Under NASD rules, such brokers are precluded from exercising their voting discretion with respect to the approval and adoption of non-routine matters, such as the amendment to the Hologic charter and the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, the approval of the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan or the approval of the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan. Therefore, absent specific instructions from the beneficial owner of such shares, brokers are not empowered to vote such shares with respect to the approval of these non-routine proposals.

Stock Ownership of Hologic Executive Officers and Directors

On August 22, 2007, the Hologic record date, executive officers and directors of Hologic and their affiliates beneficially owned and were entitled to vote approximately 331,330 shares of Hologic common stock (excluding exercisable options). These shares represent approximately 0.6% of the aggregate voting power of Hologic shares entitled to vote at the Hologic special meeting.

Votes Required to Approve Hologic Proposals

Each of the Hologic proposals to be considered at the Hologic special meeting requires the vote percentage described below. You may vote for or against any or all of the proposals submitted at the Hologic special meeting or abstain from voting.

Required Vote for Hologic Charter Amendment (Proposal I). The affirmative vote of at least a majority of the outstanding shares of Hologic common stock entitled to vote on the proposal, is required to approve the amendment to the Hologic charter. Consequently, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote on Proposal 1 will have the effect of a vote against Proposal 1.

Required Vote for Issuance of Hologic Common Stock in the Merger (Proposal 2). The approval of the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock to Cytoc stockholders in the merger requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast in person or by proxy at the Hologic special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes are not deemed to be votes cast. Accordingly, assuming a quorum is present, an abstention or a failure to vote, including broker non-votes, will have no effect in determining whether the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in the merger will be approved.

Required Vote for the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan (Proposal 3). The approval of the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast in person or by proxy at the Hologic special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes are not deemed to be votes cast. Accordingly, assuming a quorum is present, the abstention or failure to vote, including broker non-votes, will have no effect in determining whether the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan will be approved.

Required Vote for the Amendment to the Hologic, Inc. Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan (Proposal 4). The approval of the amendment to the Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast in person or by proxy at the Hologic special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes are not deemed to be votes cast. Accordingly, assuming a quorum is present, the abstention or failure to vote, including broker non-votes, will have no effect in determining whether the amendment to the Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan will be approved.

Required Vote for Adjournment of the Hologic Special Meeting (Proposal 5). The approval of any adjournment of the Hologic special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies if there are not sufficient votes for any of the foregoing proposals requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast in person or by proxy, whether or not a quorum is present at the Hologic special meeting.

Each of Proposal 1 and Proposal 2 are conditioned upon the other and the approval of each such proposal is a condition to the completion of the merger. Neither the issuance of Hologic common stock in connection with the merger nor the amendment the Hologic charter will take place or be effective unless both of these proposals are approved by the Hologic stockholders. Therefore, the merger cannot be completed without the approval of both Proposal 1 and Proposal 2.

Voting Procedures Stockholders of Record and Beneficial Owners

You are a stockholder of record if your shares of Hologic common stock are registered directly in your own name with Hologic's transfer agent, American Stock Transfer and Trust Company, Inc. (AST). You are a beneficial owner if a brokerage firm, bank, trustee or other agent (called a nominee) holds your stock. This is often called ownership in street name because your name does not appear in the records of AST.

Voting of Proxies

Your vote is important. Accordingly, please sign, date and return the enclosed proxy card whether or not you plan to attend the Hologic special meeting in person.

By Mail. A proxy card is enclosed for your use. To submit your proxy by mail, Hologic asks that you complete and sign the accompanying proxy and, if you are a stockholder of record, return it to MacKenzie Partners, Inc. as soon as possible in the enclosed postage-paid envelope or pursuant to the instructions set out in the proxy card. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided to you by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder. When the accompanying proxy is returned properly executed, the shares of Hologic common stock represented by it will be voted at the Hologic special meeting in accordance with the instructions contained in the proxy.

If proxies are returned properly executed without indication as to how to vote, the Hologic common stock represented by each such proxy will be considered to be voted in favor of all matters for consideration at the Hologic special meeting as follows: FOR the proposal to amend the Hologic charter; FOR the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock to Cytoc stockholders in the merger; FOR the proposal to adopt the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan; FOR the proposal to approve the amendment to the Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan; and FOR the proposal to adjourn the special meeting, including, if necessary, to permit further solicitation of the proxies on any of the foregoing proposals.

Voting in Person. If you wish to vote in person at the Hologic special meeting, a ballot will be provided at the Hologic special meeting. However, if your shares are held in street name by your bank, broker, custodian or other record holder, you must obtain a proxy, executed in your favor, from the holder of record to be able to vote at the meeting.

By Telephone. If you are a stockholder of record, you may also submit your proxy by telephone by dialing the toll-free telephone number on your proxy card and providing the unique control number indicated on the enclosed proxy card. Telephone voting is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and will be accessible until 11:59 p.m., New York City time, on October 17, 2007. Easy-to-follow voice prompts allow you to submit your proxy and confirm that your instructions have been properly recorded. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder for information on telephone voting. If you are located outside the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, see your proxy card or other materials for additional instructions. If you submit your proxy by telephone, you do not need to return your proxy card.

By Internet. If you are a stockholder of record, you may also choose to submit your proxy on the Internet. Internet voting is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and will be accessible until 11:59 p.m., New York City time, on October 17, 2007. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder for information on Internet voting. As with telephone voting, you will be given the opportunity to confirm that your instructions have been properly recorded. If you submit your proxy on the Internet, you do not need to return your proxy card.

Revocation of Proxies

You have the power to revoke your proxy at any time before your proxy is voted at the Hologic special meeting. Your proxy can be revoked in one of four ways:

you can send a signed notice of revocation;

you can grant a new, valid proxy by executing a new proxy card bearing a later date;

you can vote at a later time by telephone or through the Internet; or if you are a holder of record, you can attend the Hologic special meeting (or, if the special meeting is adjourned or postponed, attend the adjourned or postponed meeting) and vote in person which will automatically cancel any proxy previously given, but your attendance alone will not revoke any proxy previously given.

If you choose either of the first two methods, your notice of revocation or new proxy must be received by Hologic's corporate secretary no later than the beginning of the Hologic special meeting or, if the special meeting is adjourned or postponed, before the adjourned or postponed meeting is actually held.

If your shares are held in street name, you may change your vote by submitting new voting instructions to your broker or nominee.

Solicitation of Proxies

This solicitation is made on behalf of the Hologic board of directors and Hologic will pay the costs of soliciting and obtaining proxies, including the cost of reimbursing banks and brokers for forwarding proxy materials to their principals. Proxies may be solicited, without extra compensation, by Hologic's officers and employees by mail, telephone, fax, personal interviews or other methods of communication. Hologic has engaged MacKenzie Partners, Inc. to assist it in the distribution and solicitation of proxies at a fee of approximately $15,000, plus expenses. Hologic and Cytoc will also reimburse brokers and other custodians, nominees and fiduciaries for their expenses in sending these materials to you and getting your voting instructions.

Do not send any stock certificates with your proxy cards.

To Cytyc's knowledge, the directors and executive officers of Cytyc and their respective affiliates intend to vote their shares of Cytyc common stock in favor of all Cytyc proposals at the Cytyc special meeting.

Quorum Requirement

The presence in person or by proxy of at least a majority of the voting power of the shares of Cytyc common stock issued and outstanding and entitled to vote at the Cytyc special meeting is necessary to establish a quorum for the transaction of business at the Cytac special meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes are counted as present or represented for purposes of determining the presence or absence of a quorum. A non-vote occurs when a broker holding shares for a beneficial owner votes on one proposal, but does not vote on another proposal because, in respect of such other proposal, the broker does not have discretionary voting power and has not received instructions from the beneficial owner.

Under NASD rules, brokers who hold shares in street name for customers have the authority to vote on certain routine proposals when they have not received instructions from beneficial owners. Under NASD rules, such brokers are precluded from exercising their voting discretion with respect to the approval and adoption of non-routine matters, such as the merger agreement. Therefore, absent specific instructions from the beneficial owner of such shares, brokers are not empowered to vote such shares with respect to the approval of these non-routine proposals.

An automated system administered by Cytac's transfer agent tabulates the votes. The vote on each matter submitted to stockholders is tabulated separately. Abstentions and broker non-votes are included in the number of shares present or represented for purposes of quorum, but are not considered as shares voting or as votes cast with respect to any matter presented at the Cytac special meeting.

Votes Required to Approve Cytac Proposals

Required Vote for Adoption of Merger Agreement (Proposal 1). The affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of Cytac common stock entitled to vote is required to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger. Consequently, an abstention from voting or a broker non-vote on Proposal 1 will have the effect of a vote against Proposal 1.

Adoption of the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, by the requisite vote of the Cytac stockholders is required to complete the merger.

Required Vote for Adjournment of the Cytac Special Meeting (Proposal 2). Stockholder approval of any adjournment of the Cytac special meeting, including, if necessary, to solicit additional proxies if there are not sufficient votes for the foregoing proposal, requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the votes cast by stockholders present in person or by proxy, whether or not a quorum is present at the meeting. Abstentions and broker non-votes will have no effect on the vote on Proposal 2.

Voting of Proxies

By Mail. A proxy card is enclosed for your use. To submit your proxy by mail, Cytac asks that you sign and date the accompanying proxy and, if you are a stockholder of record, return it as soon as possible in the enclosed postage-paid envelope or according to the instructions provided in the proxy card. If the envelope is missing, please see the instructions on your proxy card. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided to you by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder. When the accompanying proxy is returned properly executed, the shares of Cytac common stock represented by it will be voted at the Cytac special meeting in accordance with the instructions contained in the proxy.

If proxies are returned properly executed without indication as to how to vote, the Cytac common stock represented by each such proxy will be considered to be voted in favor of all matters for consideration at the Cytac special meeting as follows: FOR the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger, and FOR the proposal to approve the adjournment, including, if necessary, in order to solicit additional proxies in favor of the adoption of the merger agreement.

There are no voting agreements in place in respect of any outstanding shares of Cytac common stock entitled to vote at the Cytac special meeting.

Your vote is important. Accordingly, please sign, date and return the enclosed proxy card whether or not you plan to attend the Cytac special meeting in person.

By Telephone. If you are a stockholder of record, you may also submit your proxy by telephone by dialing the toll-free telephone number on your proxy card and providing the unique control number indicated on the enclosed proxy card. Telephone voting is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and will be accessible until 11:59 p.m., New York City time, on October 17, 2007. Easy-to-follow voice prompts allow you to submit your proxy and confirm that your instructions have been properly recorded. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder for information on telephone voting. If you are located outside the United States, Canada and Puerto Rico, see your proxy card or other materials for additional instructions. If you submit your proxy by telephone, you do not need to return your proxy card.

By Internet. If you are a stockholder of record, you may also choose to submit your proxy on the Internet. Internet voting is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and will be accessible until 11:59 p.m., New York City time, on October 17, 2007. Please refer to the enclosed proxy card for information about the website for Internet voting and the unique control number you will be required to provide. If you hold your shares in street name, please refer to your proxy card or the information provided by your bank, broker, custodian or record holder for information on Internet voting. As with telephone voting, you will be given the opportunity to confirm that your instructions have been properly recorded. If you submit your proxy on the Internet, you do not need to return your proxy card.

Voting In Person. If you wish to vote in person at the Cytac special meeting, a ballot will be provided at the Cytac special meeting. However, if your shares are held in street name by your bank, broker, custodian or other record holder, you must obtain a proxy, executed in your favor, from the holder of record to be able to vote at the meeting.

Revocation of Proxies

You have the power to revoke your proxy at any time before your proxy is voted at the Cytac special meeting. Your proxy can be revoked in one of four ways:

you can send a signed notice of revocation;

you can grant a new, valid proxy by executing a new proxy card bearing a later date;

you can vote at a later time by telephone or through the Internet; or if you are a holder of record, you can attend the Cytac special meeting (or, if the special meeting is adjourned or postponed, attend the adjourned or postponed meeting) and vote in person which will automatically cancel any proxy previously given, but your attendance alone will not revoke any proxy previously given.

If you choose either of the first two methods, your notice of revocation or new proxy must be received by Cytac's corporate secretary no later than the beginning of the Cytac special meeting or, if the special meeting is adjourned or postponed, before the adjourned or postponed meeting is actually held.

If your shares are held in street name, you may change your vote by submitting new voting instructions to your broker or nominee.

Solicitation of Proxies

All costs of this solicitation of proxies will be borne by Cytac. In addition to solicitations by mail, certain of Cytac's directors, officers and regular employees, without additional remuneration, may solicit proxies in person or by telephone or telegraph. Brokers, custodians and fiduciaries will be requested to forward proxy soliciting material to the owners of Cytyc common stock held in their names, and Cytyc will reimburse them for their reasonable out-of-pocket costs. Solicitation by Cytyc officers and employees may also be made of some Cytyc stockholders in person or by mail, telephone or telegraph following the original solicitation. In addition, Cytyc has engaged Morrow & Co., Inc. to assist it in the distribution and solicitation of proxies at a fee of $25,000, plus expenses.

Do not send any stock certificates with your proxy cards. If Cytyc stockholders adopt the merger agreement at the Cytyc special meeting, the other conditions to closing are satisfied and the merger is completed, the exchange agent will mail transmittal forms with instructions for the surrender of stock certificates for shares of Cytyc common stock as soon as practicable after completion of the merger.

Householding

In accordance with notices sent to Cytyc stockholders who share a single address and own their Cytyc shares through a bank, broker or other holder of record, Cytyc is sending only one proxy statement to that address unless it received contrary instructions from any stockholder at that address. This householding practice reduces Cytyc's printing and postage costs. Cytyc stockholders may request or discontinue householding, or may request a separate copy of the proxy statement. Cytyc stockholders who wish to either discontinue or begin householding should contact their bank, broker or other record holder. Any householded stockholder may request prompt delivery of a copy of the proxy statement by visiting the Investor Information section of Cytyc's website, www.cytyc.com, or may write to Cytyc at Investor Relations, 250 Campus Drive, Marlborough, Massachusetts 01752.

PROPOSAL TO ADJOURN CYTYC SPECIAL MEETING

The Cytyc stockholders are being asked to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve an adjournment of the special meeting, if necessary, including adjournments to permit further solicitation of proxies in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, including the merger.

If a quorum is not present at the Cytyc special meeting, Cytyc stockholders may be asked to vote on the proposal to adjourn the Cytyc special meeting to solicit additional proxies. If a quorum is present at the Cytyc special meeting, but there are not sufficient votes at the time of the special meeting to approve the proposal to adopt the merger agreement, Cytyc stockholders may also be asked to vote on the proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to permit further solicitation of proxies in favor of that proposal.

If the adjournment proposal is submitted for a vote at the Cytyc special meeting, and if the Cytyc stockholders vote to approve the adjournment proposal, the meeting will be adjourned to enable the Cytyc board of directors to solicit additional proxies in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement. If the adjournment proposal is approved, and the Cytyc special meeting is adjourned, the Cytyc board of directors will use the additional time to solicit additional proxies in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement, including the solicitation of proxies from stockholders that have previously voted against the proposal to adopt the merger agreement. Among other things, approval of the adjournment proposal could mean that, even though Cytyc may have received proxies representing a sufficient number of votes against the proposal to adopt the merger agreement to defeat it, management could present the adjournment proposal for a vote of stockholders and thereby cause the Cytyc special meeting to be adjourned without a vote on the proposal to adopt the merger agreement and seek during that period of adjournment to convince the holders of those shares to change their votes to vote in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement.

Cytyc's board of directors believes that if the number of shares of Cytyc common stock voting in favor of the proposal to adopt the merger agreement is insufficient to approve that proposal, it is in the best interests of Cytyc's stockholders to enable Cytyc's board of directors, for a limited period of time, to continue to seek to obtain a sufficient number of additional votes in favor of the proposal.

HOLOGIC CHARTER AMENDMENT

At the Hologic special meeting, Hologic stockholders will be asked to approve the amendment (described below) of Hologic's certificate of incorporation, as amended, which is referred to as the Hologic charter. The amendment will increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock from 90,000,000 shares to 300,000,000 shares. As a condition to the completion of the merger, the Hologic stockholders must approve the amendment to the Hologic charter described in this section. Annex H to this joint proxy statement/prospectus contains the complete text of the proposed amendment to the Hologic charter, which you are urged to read in its entirety. See "Comparison of Stockholder Rights," beginning on page 159. If the merger is not completed for any reason, Hologic's board of directors will abandon the amendment described in this section and the amendment will be of no force and effect.

Increase of Authorized Common Stock

Under the Hologic charter, 90,000,000 shares of common stock are currently authorized. On August 22, 2007, the Hologic record date, approximately 53,947,712 shares of Hologic common stock were issued and outstanding (not counting shares held in Hologic's treasury).

To complete the merger, assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024, Hologic expects that approximately 65.1 million shares of Hologic common stock will be required to be issued to holders of shares of Cytyc common stock based on the number of shares of Cytyc common stock outstanding as of June 30, 2007 and that approximately 12.6 million shares of Hologic common stock will be required to be reserved for issuance under Cytyc options and other Cytyc equity-based awards.

Accordingly, the shares of Hologic common stock currently authorized under the Hologic charter will not be sufficient to complete the merger. Hologic therefore asks Hologic stockholders to approve the proposed amendment, which will change Article FOURTH of the Hologic charter to increase the number of authorized shares of Hologic common stock from 90,000,000 to 300,000,000 shares.

The increased number of authorized shares will give Hologic sufficient shares to complete the merger. At present, Hologic has no plans to issue shares for any other purpose, other than in connection with Hologic's acquisition of BioLucent, Inc., pursuant to that certain Agreement and Plan of Merger dated as of June 20, 2007 by and among Hologic, Bravo Transition, Inc., and BioLucent, Inc. Hologic believes, however, that it is desirable to have additional shares available for other corporate purposes that might arise in the future. For example, such shares could be used for acquisitions or to raise capital or to effect a stock split.

Whether any future issuance of shares unrelated to the merger would be submitted for stockholder vote depends upon the nature of the issuance, legal and stock exchange requirements and the judgment of the board of directors of the combined company at the time.

APPROVAL OF THE HOLOGIC, INC. SENIOR EXECUTIVE SHORT-TERM INCENTIVE PLAN

The Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan (STIP) was approved by the board of directors, upon recommendation of Hologic's compensation committee, on June 25, 2007, subject to stockholder approval. Hologic is submitting the STIP for stockholder approval as required by Section 162(m) of the Code. If the STIP is approved by stockholders and terms therein are satisfied, then the payment of bonus awards under the STIP to the chief executive officer and the three other executive officers (other than principal financial officer) whose compensation is described each year in the summary compensation table of Hologic's proxy statement (the covered employees) will be fully deductible as qualified performance-based compensation under Section 162(m). The STIP will be effective for determination of annual bonuses for the next fiscal year beginning on October 1, 2007. The following summary of the STIP should be read in conjunction with, and is qualified in its entirety by reference to, the complete text of the STIP, which is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex J.

Summary of the STIP

The STIP provides objective performance-based awards for covered employees, subject to a maximum limit, as described in more detail below. Amounts paid under the STIP are intended to qualify as qualified performance-based compensation, which is excluded from the $1.0 million limit on deductible compensation set forth in Section 162(m) of the Code.

Administration. The STIP will be administered by the compensation committee appointed by the board of directors, which is authorized to designate as participants, and grant awards to, employees of Hologic who are covered employees. The compensation committee must be comprised of at least such number of directors as is required from time to time to satisfy the performance-based compensation exception provided for under Section 162(m) of the Code, each of whom must be an outside director within the meaning of Section 162(m).

Under the STIP, the compensation committee may designate participants and establish performance targets and target awards for each participant not later than 90 days after the beginning of a calendar year or fiscal year of Hologic, or such other period designated by the compensation committee, provided such performance targets and target awards are established before 25% of such period has elapsed. The performance targets may relate to the attainment of specified levels of one or more of the following measures, as defined below: economic value added; earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization; adjusted earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization; earnings before interest and taxes; earnings per share; operating income; adjusted operating income; income before income taxes; adjusted income before income taxes; net income; adjusted net income; operating margin return on equity; return on assets; revenue; and total shareholder return.

Shortly after the end of each performance period, the compensation committee must certify whether or not the performance targets have been achieved. The compensation committee has the right, in its sole discretion, to reduce the amount of the award to any participant to reflect the compensation committee's assessment of the participant's individual performance or for any other reason. These awards are payable in cash as soon as practicable thereafter.

To receive payment of an award, the participant must have remained in Hologic's continuous employ through the end of the applicable performance period. However, if (i) Hologic terminates a participant's employment other than for cause; (ii) a participant terminates his or her employment for good reason; or (iii) a participant becomes permanently disabled or dies during a performance period, the participant or his or her estate shall be awarded, unless his or her employment agreement provides otherwise, a pro rata portion of the award earned for the performance period. The compensation committee has the right, in its sole discretion, to reduce the amount of the award to reflect the compensation committee's assessment of the participant's individual performance prior to the applicable termination event or for any other reason. Unless otherwise specifically defined in an employment agreement or a benefit plan document, a determination as to whether a participant's employment has been terminated for cause, for good reason or due to permanent disability shall be made by the compensation committee in its sole discretion.

Maximum Award. The STIP provides that the maximum award to any participant for any performance period is determined by multiplying a participant's salary by a factor of four. As of the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus, the highest salary of any participant was $510,000. As such, the maximum dollar amount of compensation that could be payable to any participant for any performance period under the STIP is $2.04 million.

Adjustments. In the event that, during a performance period, any recapitalization, reorganization, merger, acquisition, divestiture, consolidation, spin-off, combination, liquidation, dissolution, sale of assets or other similar corporate transaction or event, or any other extraordinary event, occurs, or any other event or circumstance occurs that has the effect, as determined by the compensation committee in its sole and absolute discretion, of distorting the applicable performance targets, including, without limitation, changes in accounting standards, the compensation committee may, to the extent consistent with Section 162(m), adjust or modify, in its sole and absolute discretion, the calculation of the performance targets, to the extent necessary to prevent reduction or enlargement of participants' awards under the STIP for such performance period attributable to such transaction, circumstance or event.

Transfer Restrictions. The rights of a participant with respect to any award under the STIP are not transferable other than by will or the laws of descent and distribution. No award under the STIP will be construed as giving any employee a right to continued employment with Hologic.

Amendment. The board of directors may at any time alter, amend, suspend or terminate the STIP in whole or in part; provided, however, that no alteration or amendment will be effective without the approval of Hologic's stockholders if their approval is required by law.

AMENDMENT TO HOLOGIC'S SECOND AMENDED AND RESTATED

1999 EQUITY INCENTIVE PLAN

Description of the Proposed Amendment

The stockholders of Hologic are being asked to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve an amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan, which is referred to as the 1999 Plan, at the Hologic special meeting to increase the number of shares of Hologic common stock available for issuance under the 1999 Plan by an additional 4,000,000 shares effective upon completion of the merger.

Currently the 1999 Plan provides that the maximum aggregate number of shares of Hologic common stock available for issuance under the 1999 Plan is 600,000 shares, plus an annual increase to be made on the first day of each fiscal year equal to the lesser of (i) 2 1/2% of the Issued Shares (as defined below) on the last day of the immediately preceding fiscal year; (ii) 1,000,000 shares; or (iii) an amount determined by the Hologic board of directors. As of September 4, 2007, since the adoption of the 1999 Plan in March 1999 and taking into account the annual adjustments to the maximum number of shares available for issuance under the 1999 Plan, there have been an aggregate of 7,660,000 shares authorized to be issued under the 1999 Plan, of which 4,234,121 shares have been issued, 2,399,631 shares are reserved for issuance pursuant to outstanding awards, and 1,026,248 shares are available for future issuances.

As a result of the merger, the board of directors of Hologic believes that the combined company, which will be a much larger company with significantly more employees, will need additional shares of common stock available for awards under the 1999 Plan to attract and retain employees and directors to provide an incentive for them to assist the combined company in achieving long-range performance goals, and to enable them to participate in the long-term growth of the combined company. Accordingly, on June 25, 2007, upon the recommendation of Hologic's compensation committee, the board of directors unanimously approved, subject to stockholder approval, an amendment to Section 5(a) of the 1999 Plan to provide that an additional 4,000,000 shares of common stock of Hologic will be available for issuance under the 1999 Plan effective upon completion of the merger. If the amendment is approved by Hologic stockholders and the merger between Hologic and Cytoc is completed, the first sentence of Section 5(a) of the 1999 Plan will be deleted in its entirety and replaced with the following:

Effective on the effective time of the merger between the Corporation and Cytoc Corporation pursuant to that certain Agreement and Plan of Merger, dated as of May 20, 2007, by and among Hologic, Inc., Cytoc Corporation and Norwester Corp., subject to adjustment under subsection (b), the maximum aggregate number of shares of common stock available for issuance under the Plan is 600,000 shares, plus (A) an annual increase to be made on the first day of each fiscal year equal to the lesser of (i) 2 1/2% of the Issued Shares (as defined below) on the last day of the immediately preceding fiscal year, (ii) 1,000,000 shares, or (iii) an amount determined by the board of directors, plus (B) 4,000,000 shares.

The amendment to the 1999 Plan will become effective if it is approved by Hologic stockholders at the Hologic special meeting, but only if the merger contemplated by the merger agreement is completed. Under the merger agreement, approval of the amendment to the 1999 Plan by Hologic stockholders is not a condition to the obligations of the parties to complete the merger. Accordingly, even if the amendment to the 1999 Plan is not approved by Hologic stockholders at the special meeting, the parties will be obligated to complete the merger if the closing conditions to the merger are satisfied.

If the amendment to the 1999 Plan is not approved by Hologic stockholders, the 1999 Plan will continue in effect in its current form. In connection with the merger, Hologic is assuming any grants outstanding under Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan and, if the 1999 Plan is not approved by Hologic stockholders, Hologic may determine to assume Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan in connection with the merger, and may continue to grant equity awards to former Cytyc employees on an as-converted basis, in accordance with the mergers and acquisitions exemption to the equity compensation plan stockholder approval requirement under applicable Nasdaq listing standards. An aggregate of 12,250,000 shares of Cytyc common stock have been reserved for issuance under Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan and, as of September 4, 2007, an aggregate of 12,250,000 shares have been authorized to be issued under the plan, of which 1,350,195 shares have been issued, 8,325,877 shares are reserved for issuance pursuant to outstanding awards, and 2,573,928 shares are available for future issuances. Any awards made pursuant to Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan after the effective time of the merger would be made in shares of common stock of Hologic on an as-converted basis in accordance with the terms of Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan. If the amendment to the 1999 Plan is approved by the Hologic stockholders, it is not expected that any further awards will be made under Cytyc's 2004 Omnibus Plan.

Description of the 1999 Plan

The following summary of the 1999 Plan, as amended, is qualified by its entirety to the complete text of the Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan, as amended, a copy of which has been filed with Hologic's Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 25, 2006 and the amendment of which is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex K. Other than the changes described above to increase the authorized number of shares of Hologic common stock issuable under the 1999 Plan upon the effective time of the merger, the material terms and conditions of the 1999 Plan will not change.

Purpose. The 1999 Plan was approved by Hologic's stockholders in March 1999 and amendments to the 1999 Plan were approved by Hologic's stockholders in February 2004 and in February 2006. The purposes of the 1999 Plan are to attract and retain employees and directors to provide an incentive for them to assist Hologic in achieving long-range performance goals, and to enable them to participate in the long-term growth of Hologic.

Effective Date. The amendment to the 1999 Plan will become effective at the effective time of the merger, if it is approved by Hologic stockholders.

Term. The term of the 1999 Plan expires on March 3, 2009.

Awards Under the Plan. Awards under the 1999 Plan may be made in the form of:

stock options, which may be either incentive stock options or non-qualified stock options;

restricted stock;

restricted stock units;

stock appreciation rights either in tandem with an option or alone and unrelated to an option, or SARs;

performance shares;

award shares;

other stock-based awards; or any combination of the foregoing.

Table of Contents

Eligible Participants. All employees, and in the case of awards other than incentive stock options, directors of Hologic or any affiliate (as that term is defined in the 1999 Plan) capable of contributing significantly to the successful performance of Hologic, other than a person who has irrevocably elected not to be eligible, are eligible to participate in the 1999 Plan.

Administration. The 1999 Plan is currently administered by the compensation committee of Hologic's board of directors. The compensation committee serves at the pleasure of Hologic's board of directors which can, at its sole discretion, discharge any member of the compensation committee, appoint additional new members in substitution for those previously appointed and/or fill vacancies regardless of how they are caused. The board of directors of Hologic has the authority to adopt, alter and repeal administrative rules, guidelines and practices governing the operation of the 1999 Plan and to interpret provisions of the Plan. The board of directors may delegate, to the extent permitted by applicable law, to the compensation committee the power to make awards to participants and all determinations under the 1999 Plan with respect thereto.

Securities to be Offered. If the amendment to the 1999 Plan is approved by Hologic stockholders and the merger between Cytoc and Hologic becomes effective, the 1999 Plan, as amended, would provide that the maximum aggregate number of shares of common stock available for issuance under the 1999 Plan is 600,000 shares, plus (A) an annual increase to be made on the first day of each fiscal year equal to the lesser of (i) 2 1/2% of the Issued Shares (as defined below) on the last day of the immediately preceding fiscal year, (ii) 1,000,000 shares, or (iii) an amount determined by Hologic's board of directors, plus (B) 4,000,000 shares. Issued Shares means the number of shares of Hologic's common stock outstanding on the last day of the immediately preceding fiscal year, plus any shares reacquired by Hologic during the fiscal year that ends on that date. The shares of common stock available for issuance under the 1999 Plan are subject to adjustment for any stock dividend, recapitalization, stock split, stock combination or certain other corporate reorganizations.

Shares issued may consist in whole or in part of authorized but unissued shares or treasury shares. Shares subject to an award that expires or is terminated unexercised or is forfeited for any reason or settled in a manner that results in fewer shares outstanding than were initially awarded will again be available for award under the 1999 Plan. The maximum number of shares which may be granted to an individual in a fiscal year is limited to 1,000,000 shares. As of September 4, 2007, an aggregate of 7,660,000 shares of common stock are authorized for issuance under the 1999 Plan, of which 1,026,248 shares are available for future awards under the 1999 Plan. The closing price of Hologic's common stock on the Nasdaq Global Select Market on September 4, 2007 was $54.16.

Nonqualified and Incentive Stock Options. Subject to the provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may award incentive stock options and nonqualified stock options and determine the number of shares to be covered by each option, the option price therefore and the conditions and limitations applicable to the exercise of the option. Each option shall be exercisable at such times and subject to such terms and conditions as the board of directors may specify in the applicable award or thereafter. The board of directors may provide for the automatic award of an option upon the delivery of shares to Hologic in payment of an option for up to the number of shares so delivered.

The terms and conditions of incentive stock options shall be subject to and comply with Section 422 of the Code and any regulations thereunder. No incentive stock option granted under the 1999 Plan may be granted more than ten years after the effective date of the 1999 Plan and no such grant may be exercisable more than ten years from the date of grant (five years after the date of grant for incentive stock options granted to holders of more than ten percent of the common stock). Incentive stock options shall be granted only to employees of Hologic and shall be transferable by the optionee only by the laws of descent and distribution, and shall be exercisable only by the employee during his or her lifetime.

The exercise price of options granted under the 1999 Plan may not be less than the fair market value of the common stock on the date of grant. Incentive stock options may be granted to holders of more than 10% of Hologic's outstanding voting capital stock only at an exercise price of at least 110% of the fair market value of such stock on the date of grant.

Options Granted to Non-Employee Directors. The 1999 Plan provides that, unless otherwise determined by the board of directors, each director of Hologic who is not an employee of Hologic or affiliated with any holder of more than 5% of the outstanding voting stock of Hologic shall automatically be granted a nonqualified option to acquire 50,000 shares of common stock as of the date he or she is first elected to the board of directors or, with respect to such directors serving on the board of directors as of the effective date of the 1999 Plan, as of the date of Hologic's 1999 Annual Meeting. In each case, the option price for such options will be the fair market value of the common stock on the date of grant and the expiration date shall be the tenth anniversary thereof. The compensation committee has the discretion to determine the terms, including the vesting schedule of the award. Under the compensation committee's current practice, each such nonqualified option will become exercisable in 20% installments beginning on January 1 of the first year after the grant date, and on January 1 of each year thereafter, until such option is fully exercisable on January 1 of the fifth year following the grant date.

Furthermore, the 1999 Plan provides that, unless otherwise determined by the board of directors, each director of Hologic who is not an employee of Hologic and who has served as a director for six months shall automatically be granted a nonqualified option to acquire 8,000 shares of common stock as of January 1 of each year. The option price of these automatically granted options is the fair market value of the common stock on such date and the expiration date will be the tenth anniversary thereof. Under the compensation committee's current practice, each of these options are exercisable in equal six month installments over two years after the date of grant.

In addition, the board of directors may provide for such other terms and conditions of these options as it may determine, as shall be set forth in the applicable option agreements, including, without limitation, acceleration of exercise upon a change of control of Hologic, termination of the options, and the effect on such options of the death, retirement or other termination of service as a director of the optionholder. Under the terms of the 1999 Plan, the Hologic board of directors may also grant additional awards to the non-employee directors.

Restricted Stock. Subject to provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may grant shares of restricted stock to participants, with such restricted periods and other conditions as the board of directors may determine and for no cash consideration or such minimum consideration as may be required by applicable law. During the restricted period, unless otherwise determined by the board of directors, stock certificates evidencing the restricted shares will be held by Hologic and may not be sold, assigned, transferred, pledged or otherwise encumbered, except as permitted by the board of directors. At the expiration of the restricted period, Hologic will deliver such certificates to the participant or, if the participant has died, to the beneficiary designed by the participant.

Restricted Stock Units. Subject to provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may grant restricted stock unit awards. A restricted stock unit is a contractual promise to issue shares at a specified future date, subject to fulfillment of vesting conditions specified by the board of directors. A restricted stock unit award carries no voting or dividend rights or other rights associated with stock ownership. A restricted stock unit award may be settled in common stock, cash, or in any combination of common stock and/or cash; provided, however, that a determination to settle a restricted stock unit award in whole or in part in cash shall be made by the board of directors in its sole discretion.

Stock Appreciation Rights. Subject to the provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may award SARs in tandem with an option (at or after the award of the option) or alone and unrelated to an option. A SAR entitles the holder to receive from Hologic an amount equal to the excess, if any, of the fair market value of the common stock over the reference price. SARs granted in tandem with an option will terminate to the extent that the related option is exercised, and the related option will terminate to the extent that the tandem SARs are exercised.

Performance Shares. Subject to the provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may grant performance shares to participants in the form of grants of shares of common stock. Performance shares are earned over a period of time (a performance cycle) selected by the board of directors from time to time. There may be more than one performance cycle in existence at any one time and the duration of the performance cycles may differ from each other. Unless otherwise determined by the board of directors, the payment value of the performance shares will be equal to the fair market value of the common stock on the date the performance shares are earned or on the date the board of directors determines that the performance shares have been earned. The board of directors shall establish performance goals for each cycle for the purpose of determining the extent to which performance shares awarded for such cycle are earned. As soon as practicable after the end of a performance cycle, the board of directors shall determine the number of performance shares which have been earned on the basis of performance in relation to the established performance goals. Payment values of earned performance shares are distributed to the participant or, if the participant has died, to the beneficiary designated by the participant.

Stock Awards. Subject to the provisions of the 1999 Plan, the board of directors may award stock awards, which may be designated as award shares by the board of directors, subject to such terms, restrictions, conditions, performance criteria, vesting requirements and payment needs, if any, as the board of directors shall determine. Shares of common stock or other rights awarded in connection with a stock award shall be issued for no cash consideration or such minimum consideration as may be required by law.

General Provisions. Each award shall be evidenced by a written document delivered to the participant specifying the terms and conditions thereof and containing such other terms and conditions not inconsistent with the provisions of the 1999 Plan as the board of directors considers necessary or advisable. Each type of award may be made alone, in addition to, or in relation to any other type of award. The terms of each type of award need not be identical and the board of directors need not treat participants uniformly. The board of directors may amend, modify or terminate any outstanding award, including substituting therefor another award, changing the date of exercise or realization and converting an incentive stock option to a nonqualified stock option, provided that the participant's consent to such action shall be required unless the board of directors determines that the action would not materially and adversely affect the participant.

The board of directors will determine whether awards granted pursuant to the 1999 Plan are settled in whole or in part in cash, common stock, other securities of Hologic, other property or such other methods as the board of directors may deem appropriate. The board of directors may permit a participant to defer all or any portion of a payment under the 1999 Plan. In the board of directors' discretion, tax obligations required to be withheld in respect of an award may be paid in whole or in part in shares of common stock, including shares retained from such award. The board of directors will determine the effect on an award of the death, disability, retirement or other termination of employment of a participant and the extent to which and period during which the participant's legal representative, guardian or designated beneficiary may receive payment of an award or exercise rights thereunder. Except as otherwise provided by the board of directors, awards under the 1999 Plan are not transferable other than as designated by the participant by will or by the laws of descent and distribution.

The board of directors in its discretion may take certain actions in order to preserve a participant's rights under an award in the event of a change in control of Hologic, including (i) providing for the acceleration of any time period relating to the exercise or realization of the award, (ii) providing for the purchase of the award for an amount of cash or other property that could have been received upon the exercise or realization of the award had the award been currently exercisable or payable, (iii) adjusting the terms of the award in order to reflect the change in control, (iv) causing the award to be assumed, or new rights substituted therefor, by another entity, or (v) making such other provision as the board of directors may consider equitable and in the best interest of Hologic, provided that, in the case of an action taken with respect to an outstanding award, the participant's consent to such action shall be required unless the board of directors determines that the action, taking into account any related action, would not materially and adversely affect the participant.

The board of directors of Hologic may amend, suspend or terminate the 1999 Plan or any portion thereof at any time; provided that no amendment shall be made without stockholder approval if such approval is necessary to comply with any applicable law, rules or regulations.

Benefits under the Plan. Pursuant to the terms of the 1999 Plan, as such terms will continue to be in effect following the amendment to the plan, each non-employee director is automatically granted a nonqualified option to acquire 50,000 shares of common stock as of the date he or she is first elected to the board of directors. In addition, each non-employee who has served as a director for six months is granted a nonqualified option to purchase 8,000 shares of common stock as of January 1 of each year. The exercise prices of these options will be 100% of the fair market value of Hologic's common stock on the date of grant. Future awards under the 1999 Plan to executive officers and employees, and any additional future discretionary awards to non-employee directors in addition to those granted automatically pursuant to the grant formula, are discretionary and cannot be determined at this time.

In accordance with the terms of the 1999 Plan, each independent continuing Cytoc director that becomes a director of Hologic at the effective time of the merger will receive an automatic grant of options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock in accordance with the terms of the 1999 Plan, regardless of whether the amendment to the 1999 Plan is approved. In connection with entering into the merger agreement, the parties agreed to treat all independent directors who will serve as directors of Hologic at the effective time of the merger similarly. Accordingly, subject to discretion and approval of the compensation committee of the board of directors of Hologic by Hologic stockholders, it is expected that each independent continuing Hologic director will be granted options to purchase 50,000 shares of common stock of Hologic under 1999 Plan at the effective time of the merger. The options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock to be granted to all independent directors of Hologic at the effective time of the merger will become exercisable in 20% installments beginning on January 1 of the first year after the grant date, and on January 1 of each year thereafter, until such options are fully exercisable on January 1 of the fifth year following the grant.

The 1999 Plan also provides that each non-employee who has served as a director for six months is granted a nonqualified option to purchase 8,000 shares of common stock as of January 1 of each year. If the independent continuing Hologic directors receive their discretionary grant of options to purchase 50,000 shares of Hologic common stock, they have agreed to forego their automatic grant of options to purchase 8,000 shares of Hologic common stock that they would have otherwise received on January 1, 2008 pursuant to the terms of the 1999 Plan. The independent continuing Cytoc directors are not eligible for the automatic grant of options to purchase 8,000 shares under Hologic's 1999 Plan because such persons would not have been serving as a Hologic director for a period of six months before January 1, 2008.

United States Federal Income Tax Consequences

The following general discussion of the Federal income tax consequences of the issuance and exercise of options granted under the 1999 Plan is based upon the provisions of the Code as in effect on the date hereof, current regulations thereunder and existing administrative rulings of the Internal Revenue Service. This discussion is not intended to be a complete discussion of all of the Federal income tax consequences of the 1999 Plan or of all of the requirements that must be met in order to qualify for the tax treatment described herein. Changes in the law and regulations may modify the discussion, and in some cases the changes may be retroactive. No information is provided as to state tax laws. In addition, because tax consequences may vary, and certain exceptions to the general rules discussed herein may be applicable, depending upon the personal circumstances of individual holders of securities, each holder of an award should consider his personal situation and consult with his tax advisor with respect to the specific tax consequences applicable to him. The 1999 Plan is not qualified under Section 401 of the Code, nor is it subject to the provisions of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended. The tax treatment of each kind of award under the 1999 Plan is as follows:

Incentive Stock Options. Incentive stock options granted under the 1999 Plan are intended to qualify as incentive stock options under Section 422 of the Code.

A participant generally will not recognize taxable income upon the grant or exercise of an incentive stock option. Under certain circumstances, however, there may be alternative minimum tax or other tax consequences, as described below. If an option holder does not make a disqualifying disposition (as defined below), then the option holder will not recognize any taxable income until shares are sold or exchanged, and any gain recognized upon disposition of shares will be taxable as long-term capital gain. A disqualifying disposition means any disposition of shares acquired on the exercise of an incentive stock option where such disposition occurs within two years of the date the option was granted or within one year of the date the shares were transferred to the option holder. The use of the shares acquired pursuant to the exercise of an incentive stock option to pay the option exercise price under another stock option is treated as a disposition for this purpose.

In general, if the option holder makes a disqualifying disposition, then the excess of (a) the lesser of (i) the fair market value of the shares on the date of exercise or (ii) the amount realized upon disposition of the shares over (b) the option exercise price will be taxable to the option holder as ordinary income. In the case of a gift or certain other transfers, the amount of taxable ordinary income is not limited to the gain that would have resulted from a sale. Instead, it is equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date of exercise over the option exercise price. In the case of a disqualifying disposition, if the amount realized on disposition of the shares exceeds the fair market value of the shares on the date of exercise, the excess will be taxed as either long-term or short-term capital gain depending on the option holder's holding period for the shares. The holding period for the shares generally would begin on the date the shares were acquired and would not include the period of time during which the option was held.

Certain option holders are subject to Section 16(b) of the Exchange Act upon their sale of shares of common stock. If an option holder is subject to Section 16(b), the date on which the fair market value of the shares is determined may similarly be postponed. The Treasury regulations have not yet been amended to conform with the most recent revision to Section 16(b). However, it is generally anticipated that the date on which the fair market value of the shares is determined will be the earlier of (i) the date six months after the date the stock option was granted, or, (ii) the first day on which the sale of the shares would not subject the individual to liability under Section 16(b). It is possible that the six-month period will instead run from the option holder's most recent grant or purchase of common stock prior to his or her exercise of the stock option. On the determination date, the option holder will generally recognize ordinary taxable income in an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares of common stock at that time over the option exercise price.

Despite the general rule, in the case of a substantial risk of forfeiture, or in the case of recipients subject to Section 16(b) (if the determination date is after the date of exercise), the option holder may make an election pursuant to Section 83(b) of the Code, in which case the option holder will recognize ordinary taxable income at the time the stock option is exercised and not on the later date. In order to be effective, the Section 83(b) election must be made and filed with the IRS within 30 days after exercise.

In general, the fair market value of the shares on the date of exercise, less the exercise price, will be included in the option holder's alternative minimum taxable income in the year the option is exercised. However, if in the same year, the shares are disposed of at a lower price, then alternative minimum taxable income is calculated using this lower price instead of the shares' fair market value on the date of exercise. The application of the alternative minimum tax rules for option holders subject to Section 16(b) or who receive shares that are not substantially vested is more complex and may depend upon whether such holders are entitled to and make a Section 83(b) election. Because of the many adjustments that apply to the computation of the alternative minimum tax, it is not possible to predict the application of such tax to any particular option holder. An option holder may owe alternative minimum tax even though he has not disposed of the shares or otherwise received any cash with which to pay the tax. The alternative minimum tax rate is higher than the rate applicable to long-term capital gains.

Hologic will not be entitled to any deduction with respect to the grant or exercise of incentive stock options. In addition, no deduction will be allowed to Hologic upon the disposition of stock acquired upon the exercise of an incentive stock option, unless the disposition is a disqualifying disposition. In the case of a disqualifying disposition, Hologic generally will be entitled to a deduction equal to the amount of compensation income that is recognized by the employee as a result of the disqualifying disposition.

Nonqualified Stock Options. A recipient of a nonqualified stock option generally will not recognize any income for federal tax purposes with respect to the option until the option is exercised. At that time, subject to certain limited exceptions, the recipient will recognize ordinary income in an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares on the date acquired over the option exercise price.

The application of the tax rules to an option holder who receives shares that are subject to a substantial risk of forfeiture (for example, if the shares must be returned to Hologic if the recipient does not work for Hologic for a period of time, if any, specified in the award) are more complex. In that case, the recipient generally will not recognize income until the date the shares are no longer subject to the substantial risk of forfeiture, unless a Section 83(b) election (described below) is made.

Certain option holders are subject to Section 16(b) of the Exchange Act upon their sale of shares of common stock. If an option holder is subject to Section 16(b), the date on which the fair market value of the shares is determined may similarly be postponed. The Treasury regulations have not yet been amended to conform with the most recent revision to Section 16(b). However, it is generally anticipated that the date on which the fair market value of the shares is determined will be the earlier of (i) the date six months after the date the stock option was granted, or (ii) the first day on which the sale of the shares would not subject the individual to liability under Section 16(b). It is possible that the six month period will instead run from the option holder's most recent grant or purchase of common stock prior to his or her exercise of the stock option. On the determination date, the option holder will generally recognize ordinary taxable income in an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value of the shares of common stock at that time over the option exercise price.

Despite the general rule, in the case of a substantial risk of forfeiture, or in the case of recipients subject to Section 16(b) (if the determination date is after the date of exercise), the option holder may make an election pursuant to Section 83(b) of the Code, in which case the option holder will recognize ordinary taxable income at the time the stock option is exercised and not on the later date. In order to be effective, the Section 83(b) election must be made and filed with the IRS within 30 days after exercise.

When an option recipient recognizes income, Hologic will generally be entitled to a compensation deduction for federal income tax purposes in an amount equal to the taxable income recognized by the recipient, provided that Hologic reports the income on a timely provided and filed Form W-2 or 1099, whichever is applicable.

Upon a subsequent sale of shares acquired by the exercise of a nonqualified stock option, a recipient generally will recognize capital gain (or loss) equal to the amount by which the selling price of the shares exceeds (or is exceeded by) their fair market value on the date of exercise. The capital gain or loss will be short-term or long-term depending upon how long the shares were held. Any capital gain or loss would be long-term if the holding period for the shares was more than twelve months. The holding period for the shares generally would begin on the date the shares were acquired, and would not include the period of time during which the option was held.

Stock Appreciation Rights. A recipient of a SAR will not be considered to receive any income at the time an SAR is granted, nor will Hologic be entitled to a deduction at that time. Upon the exercise of an SAR, the holder will have ordinary income equal to the cash received upon the exercise. At that time, Hologic will be entitled to a tax deduction equal to the amount of ordinary income realized by the holder.

Restricted Stock and Performance Shares. The recipient of restricted stock or performance shares will be treated in the same manner as a person who has exercised a nonqualified stock option, as described above, for which Hologic has imposed restrictions on the shares received, and for which the exercise price is either zero or a nominal amount. In general, this means that the holder may either wait until the restrictions have elapsed (or the performance goals have been met), and then pay tax at ordinary income tax rates, based upon the fair market value of the shares at that time, or he or she can file a Section 83(b) election, and pay tax based on the fair market value of the shares at the time they are received. Again, Hologic will get a deduction that corresponds to the income recognized by the recipient.

Restricted Stock Unit Awards. The grant of a restricted stock unit award will not result in income for the grantee or in a deduction for Hologic. Upon the lapse of the restrictions of a restricted stock unit, the grantee will recognize ordinary income and Hologic will be entitled to a deduction measured by the fair market value of the shares plus any cash received.

Stock Awards. A person who receives a stock award that includes common stock will be treated, with regard to such common stock, in the same manner as a person who has exercised a nonqualified stock option, as described above. In general, this means that the holder will have taxable income at the time the shares are received if they are not subject to restrictions, or as described in the preceding paragraph for restricted stock, if they are subject to restrictions. The tax treatment of a stock award that consists of other rights will depend on the provisions of the award. It may be immediately taxable if there are no restrictions on the receipt of the cash or other property that the stock award represents, or the tax consequences may be deferred if the receipt of cash or other property for the stock award is restricted, or subject to vesting or performance goals. In those situations in which a participant receives property subject to restrictions, the participant may wish to make a Section 83(b) election, as described above. At the time that the holder of the stock award has ordinary income, Hologic will be entitled to a tax deduction equal to the amount of ordinary income realized by the holder.

Deductibility of Awards. Section 162(m) of the Code places a $1 million annual limit on the compensation deductible by Hologic paid to certain of its executives. The limit, however, does not apply to performance-based compensation. Hologic believes that awards under the 1999 Plan will qualify for the performance-based compensation exception to the deductibility limit.

Equity Compensation Plan Information

Hologic maintains a number of equity compensation plans for employees, officers, directors and others whose efforts contribute to Hologic's success. The table below sets forth certain information as of Hologic's fiscal year ended September 30, 2006 regarding the shares of Hologic's common stock available for grant or granted under stock option plans that (i) were approved by Hologic's stockholders, and (ii) were not approved by Hologic's stockholders.

(2) Includes the following plans: 1997 Employee Equity Incentive Plan and 2000 Acquisition Equity Incentive Plan. A description of each of these plans is as follows:

1997 Employee Equity Incentive Plan. The purposes of the 1997 Employee Equity Incentive Plan, the 1997 Plan, adopted by the board of directors in May 1997, are to attract and retain key employees, consultants and advisors, to provide an incentive for them to assist us in achieving long-range performance goals, and to enable such person to participate in Hologic's long-term growth. In general, under the 1997 Plan, all employees, consultants, and advisors who are not executive officers or directors are eligible to participate in the 1997 Plan. The 1997 Plan is administered by a committee consisting of at least three members of the board appointed by the board of directors. Participants in the 1997 Plan are eligible to receive non-qualified stock options, stock appreciation rights, restricted stock and performance shares. A total of 2,200,000 shares of common stock were reserved for issuance under the 1997 Plan. Of the shares reserved for issuance under the 1997 Plan, options to purchase 502,784 shares have been granted and are outstanding. In September 2005, Hologic's board of directors determined that no further awards would be made under this plan and cancelled all remaining 166,084 shares available for issuance under the 1997 Plan that are not subject to outstanding stock option awards.

2000 Acquisition Incentive Plan. The purpose of the 2000 Acquisition Equity Incentive Plan, the 2000 Plan, adopted by the board of directors in April 2001, is to attract and retain (a) employees, consultants and advisors of newly acquired businesses who have been or are being hired as employees, consultants or advisors of Hologic or any of its consolidated subsidiaries, and (b) employees, consultants and advisors of Hologic who have or are anticipated to provide significant assistance in connection with the acquisition of a newly acquired business or its integration with Hologic, and to provide such persons an incentive for them to achieve long-range performance goals, and to enable them to participate in Hologic's long-term growth. In general, under the 2000 Plan, only employees, consultants and advisors who are not officers or directors of Hologic are eligible to participate in the 2000 Plan. The 2000 Plan is administered by the board of directors or, at its option, a committee consisting of at least three members of the Board appointed by the board of directors. Participants in the 2000 Plan are eligible to receive non-qualified stock options, stock appreciation rights, restricted stock and performance shares. A total of 1,600,000 shares of common stock were reserved for issuance under the 2000 Plan. Of the shares reserved for issuance under the 2000 Plan, options to purchase 360,820 shares have been granted and are outstanding. In September 2005, the board of directors determined that no further awards would be made under this plan and cancelled all remaining 417,704 shares available for issuance under the 2000 Plan that are not subject to outstanding stock option awards.

PROPOSAL TO ADJOURN HOLOGIC SPECIAL MEETING

The stockholders of Hologic are being asked to consider and vote upon a proposal to approve an adjournment of the special meeting, if necessary, including adjournments to permit further solicitation of proxies in favor of each of the proposals to amend the Hologic charter, approve the issuance of shares of Hologic common stock in the merger, approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan and approve of the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan.

If a quorum is not present at the Hologic special meeting, Hologic stockholders may be asked to vote on the proposal to adjourn the Hologic special meeting to solicit additional proxies. If a quorum is present at the Hologic special meeting, but there are not sufficient votes at the time of the special meeting to approve one or more of the proposals, Hologic stockholders may also be asked to vote on the proposal to approve the adjournment of the special meeting to permit further solicitation of proxies in favor of the other proposals; provided, however, that if (i) there are sufficient votes to approve the Hologic charter and the issuance of the shares of Hologic common stock in the merger and (ii) all of the other conditions to the merger are satisfied, Hologic will not delay completion of the merger to solicit additional proxies in favor of the proposals to approve the Hologic, Inc. Senior Executive Short-Term Incentive Plan or the amendment to Hologic's Second Amended and Restated 1999 Equity Incentive Plan.

If the adjournment proposal is submitted for a vote at the Hologic special meeting, and if the stockholders vote to approve the adjournment proposal, the meeting will be adjourned to enable the Hologic board of directors to solicit additional proxies in favor of one or more proposals. If the adjournment proposal is approved, and the Hologic special meeting is adjourned, the Hologic board of directors will use the additional time to solicit additional proxies in favor of any of the proposals to be presented at the special meeting, including the solicitation of proxies from stockholders that have previously voted against the relevant proposal. Among other things, approval of the adjournment proposal could mean that, even though Hologic may have received proxies representing a sufficient number of votes against a proposal to defeat it, management could present the adjournment proposal for a vote of stockholders and thereby cause the Hologic special meeting to be adjourned without a vote on the proposal and seek during that period to convince the holders of those shares to change their votes to vote in favor of the proposal.

Hologic's board of directors believes that, if the number of shares of common stock voting in favor of any of the proposals presented at the Hologic special meeting is insufficient to approve a proposal, it is in the best interests of Hologic's stockholders to enable Hologic's board of directors, for a limited period of time, to continue to seek to obtain a sufficient number of additional votes in favor of the proposal.

HOLOGIC BYLAWS AMENDMENT

In connection with entering into the merger agreement, the Hologic board of directors approved amending and restating Hologic's current bylaws, which are referred to as the Hologic bylaws. The amendments to the Hologic bylaws will become effective no later than, but only upon, the effective time of the merger. If the merger is not completed for any reason, the changes described in this section will be of no force and effect. The following discussion describes the material changes to the Hologic bylaws and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the amended and restated bylaws of Hologic attached as Annex I to this joint proxy statement/prospectus, which contains the complete text of the Hologic bylaws that will take effect only upon completion of the merger. Additional changes to Hologic's bylaws made in connection with entering into the merger agreement are described under "Comparison of Stockholder Rights" beginning on page 159. Unless otherwise discussed, the current Hologic bylaws do not contain provisions discussed below and such amendments will be additions.

Board Composition.

The amended Hologic bylaws will provide that at the effective time of the merger, the Hologic board of directors will be comprised of eleven directors. The board of directors of Hologic will consist of six continuing Hologic directors, four designated by the continuing Hologic directors, each of whom will be independent and two persons who are not independent, and five continuing Cytyc directors, three designated by the continuing Cytyc directors, each of whom will be independent and two persons who are not independent.

Before the annual meeting of stockholders to be held in 2009 (the 2009 Annual Meeting) all vacancies resulting from the cessation of service of an independent continuing Hologic director will be filled by a nominee proposed by a majority of the remaining continuing Hologic directors and all vacancies resulting from the cessation of service of an independent continuing Cytyc director will be filled by a nominee proposed by a majority of the remaining continuing Cytyc directors. All remaining vacancies shall be filled by a nominee proposed and selected by the nominating and corporate governance committee of the board of directors. The terms continuing Hologic directors and continuing Cytyc directors shall mean, respectively, the directors of Hologic or Cytyc, as the case may be, who were selected to be directors of Hologic as of the effective time of the merger by Hologic or Cytyc, as the case may be, prior to the effective time of the merger, and any additional directors of Hologic who take office after the effective time of the merger who are nominated, or proposed to the nominating and corporate governance committee, by a majority of the continuing Hologic directors or the continuing Cytyc directors, as the case may be. Any continuing Hologic director or continuing Cytyc director who is then serving as a Hologic director shall be nominated by the nominating and corporate governance committee for election as a Hologic director at Hologic's annual meeting of stockholders to be held in 2008, subject to the fiduciary duties of the members of the nominating and corporate governance committee. For the 2009 Annual Meeting and thereafter, the combined company's nominations for persons to serve on the board of directors shall be determined by the nominating and corporate governance committee. Prior to the 2009 Annual Meeting, any amendment of or change to the provisions of the amended Hologic bylaws providing for board composition shall require the affirmative vote of at least 75% of the full board of directors.

Board Committees.

The amended Hologic bylaws provide that the board of directors shall designate a compensation committee, an audit committee, and a nominating and corporate governance committee.

Indemnification.

The amended Hologic bylaws provide that Hologic will indemnify any person who was or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative, by reason of the fact that he is or was a director or officer of Hologic or, while a director or officer of Hologic, is or was serving at the request of Hologic as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust or other enterprise, including service with respect to an employee benefit plan, where the basis of such proceeding is alleged action in an official capacity as a director, officer, employee or agent, against all expense, liability and loss (including attorneys' fees, judgments, fines, ERISA excise taxes or penalties and amounts paid in settlement) reasonably incurred or suffered by such person in connection with such proceeding. Hologic will indemnify any person seeking indemnification in connection with a proceeding brought by that person only if the proceeding (or part thereof) was authorized by the Hologic board of directors. The current Hologic bylaws permit indemnification of officers and directors, but do not require Hologic to provide such persons with indemnification.

Chief Executive Officer.

The amended Hologic bylaws provide that the chief executive officer will be an officer of Hologic as appointed by the board of directors. Unless there is a chairman of the board, or the board of directors votes otherwise, when present, the chief executive officer will preside at meetings of the stockholders and the board of directors. The board of directors will designate the duties and powers of such office.

Chairman Emeritus.

The amended Hologic bylaws also provide that the board of directors may appoint one or more positions for former directors designated as director emeritus or chairman emeritus. Former directors filling these positions will function as advisors to the board of directors and be able to attend all meetings of the board of directors, but will have no right to vote as a director on any matter.

COMPARISON OF STOCKHOLDER RIGHTS

Hologic and Cytyc are both incorporated under Delaware law. Any differences, therefore, in the rights of Hologic stockholders and Cytyc stockholders arise primarily from differences in their respective certificates of incorporation and bylaws. Upon completion of the merger, the charter and bylaws of Hologic will be identical in all respects to the Hologic charter and Hologic bylaws after giving effect to the proposed Hologic charter amendment and Hologic bylaw amendments contemplated by the merger agreement and described in Hologic Charter Amendment and Hologic Bylaws Amendment, beginning on pages 144 and 156, respectively. Consequently, after the effective time of the merger, the rights of the former Cytyc stockholders will be determined by reference to the amended Hologic charter and amended Hologic bylaws. The following table compares the material differences between the current rights of Cytyc stockholders under the Cytyc certificate of incorporation and bylaws (which are referred to as the Cytyc certificate of incorporation and Cytyc bylaws, respectively), and the current rights of Hologic stockholders under the Hologic charter and Hologic bylaws, as well as the rights that those stockholders will have as Hologic stockholders under the amended Hologic charter and amended Hologic bylaws following the completion of the merger. This summary does not purport to be complete and is qualified in its entirety by reference to Cytyc's certificate of incorporation and bylaws, Hologic's charter and bylaws, Hologic's and Cytyc's respective rights plans and the relevant provisions of Delaware law.

Annexes H and I of this joint proxy statement/prospectus contain the complete text of the proposed amended Hologic charter and the complete text of the amended Hologic bylaws, respectively, that will, in each case, take effect as of the effective time of the merger. Copies of the Hologic charter, the Hologic bylaws, the Cytyc certificate of incorporation and the Cytyc bylaws will be sent to you upon request. See Where You Can Find More Information beginning on page 197.

Vacancies on the Board of Directors

The Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that unless and until filled by the stockholders, any vacancy in the board of directors, however occurring, including a vacancy resulting from an enlargement of the board of directors, may be filled only by vote of a majority of the directors then in office, even if less than a quorum, or by a sole remaining director. Any director elected to fill a vacancy shall be elected for the unexpired term of his or her predecessor in office, if applicable, and a director chosen to fill a position resulting from an increase in the number of directors shall hold office until the next election of the class for which such director shall have been chosen and until his or her successor is elected and qualified, or until his or her earlier death, resignation or removal.

The Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that vacancies and newly created directorships resulting from death, resignation, disqualification or other causes, including a vacancy resulting from enlargement of the board, may be filled by a vote of a majority of the directors then in office, even if less than a quorum. The director appointed or elected shall hold office until his successor is chosen and qualified or his earlier resignation or removal.

See also Hologic Bylaws Amendment Board of Directors Board Composition beginning of page 156, which describes how vacancies in the board of directors will be filled following the merger until immediately prior to Hologic's 2009 annual meeting of stockholders.

Board Quorum

The Cytc certificate of incorporation and bylaws provide that a majority of the whole board of directors will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and the act of a majority of the directors present at any meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the board of directors of Cytc, unless a different vote is specified by law, the certificate of incorporation or by the bylaws.

The Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that a majority of the directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business and the act of a majority of the directors present at any meeting at which there is a quorum shall be the act of the board of directors of Hologic, except where a different vote is required by law, by the charter or by the bylaws.

The Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that the presence in person or by proxy at a meeting of the holders of a majority of the shares issued, outstanding and entitled to vote will constitute a quorum for all purposes, unless the representation of a different number is required by law.

Special Meetings of Stockholders

Under Delaware law, a special meeting of stockholders may be called by the board of directors or by any other person authorized to do so in the corporation's certificate of incorporation or bylaws. Under Delaware law, a special meeting of stockholders may be called by the board of directors or by any other person authorized to do so in the corporation's charter or bylaws. Under Delaware law, the written notice of the special meeting must set forth the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called.

Cytec's certificate of incorporation and bylaws provide that special meetings of the stockholders may be called at any time only by Cytec's president, its chairman of the board (if any) or a majority of the board of directors. The business to be transacted at a Cytec special meeting of stockholders must be limited to the purposes stated in the notice of meeting.

Upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic bylaws will provide that special meetings of stockholders may be called at any time by the president, chief executive officer or the board of directors. Hologic's current bylaws provide that the president or the board of directors may call such meetings.

Stockholder Proposals and Nominations

The Cytec bylaws provide that a Cytec stockholder wishing to bring business before the annual Cytec stockholders' meeting must provide proper and timely written notice to Cytec's secretary. To be timely, the notice must be delivered to Cytec's secretary at Cytec's principal executive offices not later than the close of business on the day that is the 120th day nor earlier than the close of business on the 150th day before the first anniversary of the date of the proxy statement delivered in connection with the preceding year's annual meeting. However, if either (i) the date of the annual meeting is more than 30 days before or more than 60 days after such anniversary date or (ii) no proxy statement was delivered to stockholders in connection with the preceding year's annual meeting, then notice by a stockholder to be timely must be delivered not earlier than the close of business on the 90th day before the annual meeting.

Currently, the Hologic bylaws do not contain any provisions that govern the submission of proposals by stockholders. Stockholders may, however, make recommendations to Hologic's nominating committee of candidates for its consideration as nominees for director. The persons so recommended should at a minimum meet the criteria and qualifications referred to in Hologic's nominating committee charter.

Upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic bylaws will provide that for nominations of directors or other business to be properly brought before an annual meeting of stockholders by a stockholder, the stockholder must have given timely notice thereof in writing to the secretary of Hologic and any such proposed business other than the nominations of persons for election to the board of directors must constitute a proper matter for stockholder action. Stockholder nominations at an annual meeting. Stockholder Proposals and Nominations above with respect to the submission of stockholder proposals.

Vote Required for Certain Stockholder Actions

Under Delaware law, except as otherwise required by Delaware law and unless the certificate of incorporation or bylaws of the corporation provide otherwise, in all matters other than the election of directors, the affirmative vote of the majority of voting power present in person or represented by proxy at the meeting and entitled to vote on the subject matter is an act of the stockholders. Cytc's bylaws alter this default rule.

Under Cytc's bylaws, except as otherwise required by Delaware law and unless the certificate of incorporation or bylaws of the corporation provide otherwise (and except with respect to the vote required to approve any amendments to the Cytc certificate of incorporation or bylaws described below under Amendment to Certificate of Incorporation and Amendment of Bylaws) in all matters other than the election of directors, the affirmative vote

Generally, under Delaware law, the approval of any merger or consolidation or a sale of all or substantially all of a corporation's assets requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the total votes represented by the outstanding stock of the corporation entitled to vote on such matter.

Amendment of Certificate of Incorporation

Under Delaware law, the Cytc certificate of incorporation may be amended by the adoption of a resolution of the board of directors, followed by the vote of a majority of the outstanding voting power entitled to vote thereon and a majority of the outstanding stock of each class entitled to vote thereon separately as a class (if any). Except for the matters specified below, the Cytc certificate of incorporation alters this general rule.

Except as set forth in the next sentence, the Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that the affirmative vote of the holders of shares of voting stock representing at least 66-2/3% of the voting power of all of the then outstanding shares of the capital stock entitled to vote generally in the election of directors, voting together as a single class, shall be required to amend the certificate of incorporation. Under Delaware law, the Hologic charter may be amended by the adoption of a resolution of the board of directors, followed by the vote of a majority of the outstanding voting power entitled to vote thereon and a majority of the outstanding stock of each class entitled to vote thereon separately as a class (if any). Except for the matters specified below, the Hologic charter generally provides, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic charter will generally provide, that charter amendments may be made in accordance with the default provisions of Delaware law.

The Hologic charter provides, and upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic charter will provide, that the affirmative vote of the holders of 80% of the outstanding common stock is required to approve amendments to Hologic's charter or to approve extraordinary transactions that are required to be approved by stockholders under Delaware law, including mergers, sales of substantially all of the Company's assets and dissolution, if the actions are not approved by a majority of Hologic's continuing directors (as defined below).

set forth in Article FOURTH (capitalization) may be made in accordance with the default positions of Delaware law discussed above.

The Cytc certificate of incorporation further provide that no amendment or repeal of Article EIGHTH (limitation on liability) shall apply to or have any effect on the liability or alleged liability of any director for or with respect to any acts or omissions of such director occurring prior to such amendment or repeal.

Amendment of Bylaws

The Cytc bylaws may be amended, altered or repealed by the Cytc stockholders by holders of at least 66 ²/₃% of the voting power of the shares of the outstanding shares of capital stock entitled to vote generally in the election of directors. The Cytc certificate of incorporation and bylaws provide that the Cytc board of directors may also adopt, amend, alter or repeal the Cytc bylaws.

Hologic Stockholder Rights

Hologic's charter provides, and upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic charter will provide, that the affirmative vote of the holders of only a majority of the outstanding common stock is required to approve such matters if they have been approved by Hologic's continuing directors. The term "continuing director" is defined to mean:

any member of the board of directors who is unaffiliated with a related person and was a member of the board of directors prior to the time any such person became a related person; and any successor to such a continuing director who is not affiliated with any related person and is recommended to succeed a continuing director by a majority of the continuing directors then on the board of directors.

Hologic's charter expressly authorizes, and upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic charter will expressly authorize, the board of directors to adopt, amend or repeal any or all of the bylaws of the corporation.

The Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended bylaws will provide, that they may be amended, altered or repealed by the stockholders at any annual or special meeting by vote of a majority of all shares outstanding and entitled to vote, except that where the effect of the amendment would be to reduce any voting requirement otherwise required by law, Hologic's charter or Hologic's bylaws, such amendment shall require the vote that would have been required by such other provision. Further, the Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended bylaws will provide, that the bylaws may be amended or altered by the board of directors at a meeting duly called for the purpose by majority vote of the directors then in office, except that directors shall not amend the bylaws in a acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or knowing violation of the law;

any violation of Section 174 of the DGCL relating to the unlawful payment of a dividend or unlawful stock purchases or redemptions; or any transaction from which the director derived an improper personal benefit.

As set forth above under Amendment to Certificate of Incorporation, the Cytc certificate of incorporation further provides that no amendment or repeal of this provision of the certificate of incorporation shall apply to or have any effect on the liability or alleged liability of any director for or with respect to any acts or omissions of such director occurring prior to such amendment or repeal.

Indemnification

The Hologic charter provides, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic charter will provide, that no director shall be personally liable to the corporation or its stockholders for monetary damages for any breach of fiduciary duty by such director as a director. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Hologic charter provides, and the amended Hologic charter will continue to provide, that a director shall be liable to the extent provided by applicable law for:

breach of the director's duty of loyalty to the corporation or its stockholders; acts or omissions not in good faith or which involve intentional misconduct or a knowing violation of law;

However, indemnification shall not be made if such person shall have been adjudged to be liable to the corporation unless and only to the extent that the court shall determine upon application that, despite the adjudication of such liability but in view of all the circumstances of the case, such person is fairly and reasonably entitled to indemnification for such expenses as the court shall deem proper.

The Hologic bylaws provide that Hologic may pay, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide that Hologic will pay, for the expenses incurred by an officer or director in defending any civil or criminal proceeding in advance of the final disposition of the proceeding to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law. Under Delaware law, such expenses may be paid upon receipt of an undertaking by or on behalf of a director or officer to repay the amount if it is ultimately determined that he or she is not entitled to be indemnified by the corporation.

Hologic bylaws will provide, that the corporation may, by action of the board of directors, provide indemnification to employees and agents of the corporation to the extent the board of directors determines is appropriate and authorized by Delaware law.

In addition, the Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that the corporation has the power to purchase and maintain insurance on behalf of any person who is or was a director, officer, employee or agent of the corporation against any expense, liability or loss incurred by such person in any such capacity, whether or not the corporation would have the power to indemnify him against such liability under Delaware law.

Hologic has also entered into indemnification agreements with its directors. The indemnification agreements are intended to provide the maximum protection permitted by Delaware law with respect to the indemnification of directors. Hologic may also enter into similar agreements with certain of its officers who are not also directors. Hologic maintains directors and officers liability insurance.

In addition, the Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that the corporation has the power to purchase and maintain insurance, at its expense, to protect itself and any director, officer, employee or agent of the corporation or another enterprise against any expense, loss or liability incurred by such person in any such capacity, whether or not the corporation would have the power to indemnify him against such liability under Delaware law.

The Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that if Delaware law is amended to expand further the indemnification permitted to indemnities covered by the certificate of incorporation, then Cytc shall indemnify such persons to the fullest extent permitted by Delaware law, as so amended.

The Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that if Cytc is merged into or consolidated with another corporation and it is not the surviving corporation, the surviving corporation shall assume the obligations of Cytc under the Cytc certificate of incorporation with respect to any proceeding arising out of or relating to matters occurring prior to the date of such merger or consolidation.

The Cytc certificate of incorporation provides that dividends may be declared and paid on the common stock from funds lawfully available as and when determined by the board of directors and subject to any preferential dividend rights of any then outstanding preferred stock.

Stockholder Rights Plan

Cytc has adopted a stockholder rights plan pursuant to a rights agreement between Cytc and Computershare Trust Company, N.A. (successor to EquiServe Trust Company, N.A., which was a successor to BankBoston, N.A.), as rights agent.

In connection with the adoption of the rights plan, on August 6, 1997, the board of directors declared a dividend of one preferred stock purchase right for each outstanding share of common stock to stockholders of record at the close of business on September 5, 1997. Each right entitles the holder, subject to the terms and conditions in the rights plan, to purchase from the company a unit consisting of one one-hundredth of a share of Series A junior participating preferred stock, $0.01 par value, at a purchase price of $110 per unit, subject to adjustment.

The rights are represented by Cytc's common stock certificates and are not immediately exercisable. The rights only become exercisable and begin to trade separately from shares of common stock after the occurrence of certain events as described in the rights plan. If the rights have become exercisable and certain triggering events described in the rights plan have occurred, all holders of rights, other than the acquiring person or group, would be entitled to acquire shares of Cytc's common stock at a 50% discount to the then-current market price. In addition, if dividends out of net profits if the capital of the corporation has been reduced to an amount less than the aggregate amount of capital represented by the issued and outstanding stock of all classes having a preference upon the distribution of assets.

The Hologic bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that dividends upon the capital stock may, in its discretion, be declared by the board of directors.

Hologic's board of directors has adopted a stockholder rights plan. As a result, Hologic issued one preferred share purchase right for each outstanding share of common stock. One preferred share purchase right will be issued for each additional share of common stock that the company issues. The rights become exercisable if, without the prior approval of Hologic's board of directors, a person or group acquires 15% or more of Hologic's outstanding common stock or commences or announces a tender or exchange offer which would result in such ownership. Each right that becomes exercisable entitles the registered holder to purchase one half of one-thousandth of a share of the junior participating preferred stock at a purchase price of $60.00 per one-thousandth of a share, subject to adjustment.

If, after the rights become exercisable, Hologic was to be acquired through a merger or other business combination transaction or 50% or more of the assets or earning power were sold, each right would permit the holder to purchase, for the purchase price, common stock of the surviving company having a market value of twice the purchase price.

The rights expire on January 1, 2013, unless earlier redeemed or exchanged by Hologic. The purchase price payable and the shares of preferred stock issuable upon certain triggering events have occurred and Cytc is acquired in a merger, each right will entitle the holder to purchase shares of the acquiring company at a 50% discount to the then-current market price. The rights expire on December 31, 2007. In addition, Cytc's board of directors retains the authority to redeem, at $0.01 per right, the rights at any time until ten days following the acquisition by a person or group of 15% or more of the outstanding common stock. In addition, Cytc's board of directors retains the authority to redeem, at $0.01 per right, the rights at any time until ten days following the acquisition by a person or group of 15% or more of the outstanding common stock.

Cytc's stockholder rights agreement was amended on May 20, 2007, to render it inapplicable to the merger agreement, the merger and the other transactions specifically contemplated thereby, and to provide that the rights agreement will automatically terminate upon the effective time of the merger.

Certain Business Combinations / Anti takeover Provisions

Under Delaware law, a corporation can elect not to be governed by Section 203 of the DGCL, which generally protects publicly held Delaware corporations from unfair transactions and tactics by persons who acquire large blocks of stocks without prior board approval. Cytc has not made this election and is therefore subject to the restrictions of Section 203 of the DGCL.

In general, Section 203 prohibits a publicly held Delaware corporation from engaging in a business combination with an interested stockholder for a period of three years after the date of the transaction in which the person became an interested stockholder, unless the business combination or the transaction by which the person became an interested stockholder is approved in a prescribed manner. A business combination includes certain mergers, asset sales and other transactions resulting in a financial exercise of the rights are subject to adjustment as described in the rights plan. In addition, Hologic's board of directors retains the authority to redeem, at $0.001 per right, the rights at any time prior to the acquisition by a person or group of 15% or more of the outstanding common stock.

On May 20, 2007, in connection with the signing of the merger agreement, Hologic amended its rights plan to render it inapplicable to the merger agreement, merger and the other transactions contemplated thereby.

Hologic's charter and bylaws both before and after the merger and Hologic's shareholder rights plan contain additional provisions, which may render more difficult an unfriendly tender offer, proxy contest, merger or other change in control. These provisions include a so-called anti-greenmail provision, a super-majority voting provision, and a provision that requires the board of directors to consider social, economic and other factors in evaluating whether certain types of corporate transactions proposed by another party are in the best interests of Hologic and its stockholders.

Charter and Bylaws. Hologic's charter and the amended Hologic charter include several other provisions in addition to the authorization of blank check preferred stock which may have the effect of making an unfriendly tender offer, proxy contest, merger or other change in control of Hologic more difficult. These benefit to the interested stockholder. Subject to exceptions, an interested stockholder is a person who, alone or together with his affiliates and associates, owns 15% or more of the corporation's voting stock.

These provisions could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of Cytc or reducing the price that certain investors might be willing to pay in the future for Cytc common stock.

Hologic Stockholder Rights

provisions are intended to enhance the likelihood of continuity and stability in the composition of Hologic's board of directors and in the policies formulated by the board of directors and to discourage certain types of transactions that may involve a change in control. These provisions are also designed to reduce Hologic's vulnerability to unsolicited acquisition proposals and to discourage certain tactics that may be used in proxy fights. These provisions, however, could have the effect of discouraging others from making tender offers for the shares of Hologic's common stock and, as a consequence, they also may inhibit fluctuations in the market price of the shares of the common stock which could result from actual or rumored takeover attempts.

Hologic's charter and the amended Hologic charter contain a so-called anti-greenmail provision. This provision is intended to discourage speculators who accumulate beneficial ownership of a significant block of stock of a company and then, under the threat of making a tender offer or instigating a proxy contest or some other corporate disruption, succeed in extracting from the company a premium price to repurchase the shares acquired by the speculator. This tactic has become known as greenmail. The anti-greenmail provision prohibits Hologic from purchasing any shares of its common stock from a related person, who has beneficially owned such common stock or right to purchase such common stock for less than two years prior to the date of such purchase, at a per share price in excess of the fair market value at the time of the purchase unless the purchase is approved by the holders of two-thirds of the outstanding shares of Hologic's common stock, excluding any votes cast by the related person. The term related person means any person (other than the company or a subsidiary of the company or a founder of the company) who acquires more than 5% of Hologic's voting stock. Stockholder approval is not required for such purchases when the offer is made available on the same terms to all holders of shares of the common stock or when the purchases are effected on the open market.

The Hologic charter also provides, and upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic charter will provide, that the affirmative vote of the holders of 80% of the outstanding common stock is required to approve amendments to Hologic's charter or to approve extraordinary transactions that are required to be approved by stockholders under Delaware law, including mergers, sales of substantially all of the Company's assets and dissolution, if the actions are not approved by a majority of Hologic's continuing directors.

Another provision included in Hologic's charter and the amended Hologic charter requires the board of directors to consider social, economic and other factors in evaluating whether certain types of corporate transactions proposed by another party are in the best interests of the company and its stockholders. These transactions include (i) the purchase or exchange of securities or property for any of Hologic's outstanding equity securities; (ii) the merger or consolidation of Hologic with another corporation; and (iii) the purchase or other acquisition of all or substantially all of the company's properties and assets.

The authority of Hologic's board of directors to issue authorized but unissued shares of common stock might be considered as having the effect of discouraging an attempt by another person or entity to effect a takeover or otherwise gain control of Hologic, since the issuance of additional shares of common stock would dilute the voting power of Hologic's common stock then outstanding.

Cytyc Stockholder Rights

Hologic Stockholder Rights

Hologic's bylaws provide, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic bylaws will provide, that stockholders seeking to nominate candidates for election as directors at an annual or special meeting of stockholders must meet specified procedural requirements. These provisions may preclude stockholders from making nominations for directors at an annual or special meeting of stockholders.

Upon completion of the merger, the amended Hologic bylaws will provide that prior to the annual meeting of stockholders to be held in 2009, a vote of at least 75% of the full board of directors will be required to amend the provisions regarding board composition, as further described above in Hologic Bylaws Amendment Board Composition beginning on page 156.

See also the description of the Rights Plan above under Stockholders Rights Plan.

Section 203 of the DGCL. The Hologic charter subjects, and upon completion of the merger the amended Hologic charter will subject, the corporation to the restrictions on business combinations of Section 203 of the DGCL. This section prohibits publicly held Delaware corporations from engaging in a business combination with an interested stockholder for a period of three years after the date of the transaction in which the person became an interested stockholder, unless the business combination is approved in a prescribed manner. A business combination includes certain mergers, asset sales and the other transactions resulting in a financial benefit to the interested stockholder. Subject to certain exceptions, an interested stockholder is a person who, alone or together with his or her affiliates and associates, owns 15% or more of a corporation's voting stock.

The foregoing provisions could have the effect of delaying, deferring or preventing a change in control of Hologic or reducing the price that certain investors might be willing to pay in the future for shares of Hologic common stock.

Table of ContentsUNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED COMBINED FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements of Hologic have been prepared to give effect to the proposed merger of Hologic and Cytyc. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2007, and the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 and the year ended September 30, 2006, are presented herein to reflect the proposed merger. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet combines the unaudited condensed balance sheets of Hologic and Cytyc as of June 30, 2007 and gives effect to the merger as if it had been completed on that date. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 combines the historical results of Hologic and the unaudited pro forma combined results of Cytyc and gives effect to the merger as if it had occurred on September 25, 2005. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006 combines the unaudited pro forma combined results of Hologic for the year ended September 30, 2006 and the unaudited pro forma combined results of Cytyc for the year ended December 31, 2006 and gives effect to the merger as if it occurred on September 25, 2005. Hologic's unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006 gives effect to Hologic's July 2006 acquisitions of R2 Technology, Inc. and Suros Surgical Systems, Inc. as if they had occurred on September 25, 2005. Cytyc's unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for the year ended December 31, 2006 and the nine months ended June 30, 2007 gives effect to Cytyc's March and April 2007 acquisitions of Adiana, Inc. and Adeza Biomedical Corporation, respectively, as if they had occurred on January 1, 2006. Hologic and Cytyc have different fiscal year end dates. However, as the difference is less than 93 days, Cytyc's results for the year ended December 31, 2006 have been used to prepare the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006, as permitted under Rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X. As a result, Cytyc's results of operations for the three months ended December 31, 2006 are included in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for both the year ended December 31, 2006 and the nine months ended June 30, 2007. Cytyc's summary financial results, for the three months ended December 31, 2006, which are included in both of these periods are as follows:

Revenue	$ 163,100
Gross profit	$ 126,800
Operating expenses	$ 74,800
Operating income	$ 52,000

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements presented are based on the assumptions and adjustments described in the accompanying notes. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are presented for illustrative purposes and do not purport to represent what the financial position or results of operations would actually have been if the merger occurred as of the dates indicated or what such financial position or results will be for any future periods. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are based upon the respective historical and pro forma consolidated financial information of Hologic and Cytyc, and should be read in conjunction with:

the accompanying notes to the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements;

the separate historical consolidated financial statements of Hologic as of and for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 included in Hologic's quarterly report on Form 10-Q for the nine months ended June 30, 2007, which is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus;

the separate historical consolidated financial statements of Hologic as of and for the year ended September 30, 2006 included in Hologic's annual report on Form 10-K for the year ended September 30, 2006, which is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus;

the separate historical consolidated financial statements of Cytyc as of and for the six months ended June 30, 2007, including the purchase price allocations for Adiana, Inc. and Adeza Biomedical Corporation in Note 3 included in Annex B of this joint proxy statement/prospectus under the heading "Cytac Condensed Consolidated Financial Statements (Unaudited); and the separate historical consolidated financial statements of Cytac as of and for the year ended December 31, 2006 included in Annex B of this joint proxy statement/prospectus under the heading "Cytac Consolidated Financial Statements.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information was prepared using the purchase method of accounting. Based on the facts that Hologic board members and senior management will control and represent a majority of the board and senior management of the combined company, as well as the terms of the exchange, pursuant to which Cytac stockholders will receive a premium of approximately 32.5% (as of the date preceding the merger announcement) over the fair market value of their shares on such date and cash of $16.50 per share (or approximately 36.0% of the merger consideration), Hologic is considered to be the acquirer of Cytac for accounting purposes. Accordingly, we have adjusted the historical consolidated financial information to give effect to the impact of the consideration issued in connection with the merger. In the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet, Hologic's cost to acquire Cytac has been allocated to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed based upon management's preliminary estimate of their respective fair values as of the date of the merger. Any differences between fair value of the consideration issued and the fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired will be recorded as goodwill. The amounts allocated to acquired assets and liabilities in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are based on management's preliminary valuation estimates. Definitive allocations will be performed and finalized based on certain valuations and other studies that will be performed by Hologic with the services of outside valuation specialists after the closing of the merger. Accordingly, the purchase price allocation adjustments and related amortization reflected in the following unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are preliminary, have been made solely for the purpose of preparing these statements and are subject to revision based on a final determination of fair value after the closing of the merger. For example, if the value of the definite-lived intangible assets increased by 10%, annual pro forma income from operations would decrease by approximately $10,000.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations also include certain purchase accounting adjustments, including items expected to have a continuing impact on the combined results, such as increased depreciation and amortization expense on acquired tangible and intangible assets, increased interest expense on the assumed debt incurred to complete the merger, decreased interest income related to the assumed reduction in cash used to complete the merger, increased compensation expense related to Cytac's non-vested stock options assumed to be converted into Hologic stock options upon the completion of the merger and the tax impact related to these pro forma adjustments.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of income do not include the impacts of any revenue, cost or other operating synergies that may result from the merger or any related restructuring costs. Cost savings, if achieved, could result from material sourcing and elimination of redundant costs including headcount and facilities.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements reflect the contemplated borrowings of $2,118,000 under the $2,350,000 term loan facilities described under "The Merger Financing of the Merger." Amounts borrowed under term loan facilities and the applicable interest rates have been estimated for the purposes of preparing these unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements and are subject to change based on the actual cash portion of the merger consideration, related fees and expenses and market changes that may result in a change in the actual interest rate applied to borrowings as compared to the rates assumed. For example, if the Libor rate increased by 10% as compared to the Libor rate assumed, annual pro forma income before provision for income taxes would decrease $11,400. Similarly, if the applicable rate applied to the Libor rate increased 25 basis points compared to the rate assumed annual pro forma income before provision for income taxes would decrease $5,300. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements do not reflect the impact of any re-financing of the debt incurred in connection with the merger, liquidity or other balance sheet repositioning that may be undertaken in connection with or subsequent to the merger.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements do not reflect certain amounts resulting from the merger because we consider them to be of a non-recurring nature and are anticipated to be included in the income of Hologic within 12 months succeeding the transaction. These amounts include the estimated charge for acquired in-process research and development of approximately $282,900, the cost of revenue impact of approximately $37,200 for the write up of inventory to fair value and the reduction of deferred revenue of approximately $500 for amounts that would not represent a legal obligation at the close of the transaction. Hologic and Cytyc have just recently begun collecting information in order to formulate detailed integration plans to deliver planned synergies. However, any potential merger related synergies and/or cost savings as a result of the integration have not been included in the pro forma financial information.

Based on Hologic's preliminary review of Cytyc's summary of significant accounting policies disclosed in Cytyc's financial statements, the nature and amount of any adjustments to the historical financial statements of Cytyc to conform their accounting policies to those of Hologic are not expected to be significant. Upon completion of the merger, further review of Cytyc's accounting policies and financial statements may result in required revisions to Cytyc's policies and classifications to conform to Hologic's.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of June 30, 2007, and the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 and the year ended September 30, 2006, are presented herein to reflect the proposed merger. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet combines the unaudited condensed balance sheets of Hologic and Cytac as of June 30, 2007 and gives effect to the merger as if it had been completed on that date. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 combines the historical results of Hologic and the unaudited pro forma combined results of Cytac and gives effect to the merger as if it had occurred on September 25, 2005. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006 combines the unaudited pro forma combined results of Hologic for the year ended September 30, 2006 and the unaudited pro forma combined results of Cytac for the year ended December 31, 2006 and gives effect to the merger as if it occurred on September 25, 2005. Hologic's unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006 gives effect to Hologic's July 2006 acquisitions of R2 Technology, Inc. and Suros Surgical Systems, Inc. as if they had occurred on September 25, 2005. Cytac's unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006 and the nine months ended June 30, 2007 gives effect to Cytac's March and April 2007 acquisitions of Adiana, Inc. and Adeza Biomedical Corporation, respectively, as if they had occurred on January 1, 2006. Hologic and Cytac have different fiscal year end dates. However, as the difference is less than 93 days, Cytac's results for the year ended December 31, 2006 have been used to prepare the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended September 30, 2006, as permitted under Rule 11-02 of Regulation S-X. As a result, Cytac's results of operations for the three months ended December 31, 2006 are included in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations for both the year ended December 31, 2006 and the nine months ended June 30, 2007. Cytac's summary financial results, for the three months ended December 31, 2006, which are included in both of these periods are as follows:

Gross profit	$ 126,800
Operating expenses	$ 74,800
Operating income	$ 52,000

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial information was prepared using the purchase method of accounting. As discussed under Accounting Treatment beginning on page 105, based on the facts that Hologic board members and senior management will control and represent a majority of the board of directors and senior management of the combined company, as well as the terms of the exchange, pursuant to which the Cytac stockholders will receive a premium of approximately 32.5% (as of the date preceding the merger announcement) over the fair market value of their shares on such date and cash of $16.50 per share (or approximately 36% of the merger consideration), Hologic is considered to be the acquirer of Cytac for accounting purposes. Accordingly, we have adjusted the historical consolidated financial information to give effect to the impact of the consideration issued in connection with the merger. In the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet, Hologic's cost to acquire Cytac has been allocated to the assets acquired and liabilities assumed based upon management's preliminary estimate of their respective fair values as of the date of the merger. Any differences between fair value of the consideration issued and the fair value of the assets and liabilities acquired will be recorded as goodwill. The amounts allocated to acquired assets and liabilities in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are based on management's preliminary internal valuation estimates. Definitive allocations will be performed and finalized based on certain valuations and other studies that will be performed by Hologic with the services of outside valuation specialists after the closing of the merger. Accordingly, the purchase price allocation adjustments and related amortization reflected in the foregoing unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are preliminary, have been made solely for the purpose of preparing these statements and are subject to revision based on a final determination of fair value after the closing of the merger. For example, if the value of the definite-lived intangible assets increased by 10%, annual pro forma income from operations would decrease by approximately $10,000.

2. Purchase Price

The following is a preliminary estimate of the purchase price for Cytyc:

	(In thousands)
Estimated number of Cytyc shares to be acquired (in thousands)(a)	125,265
Exchange ratio	0.52
Number of shares of Hologic to be issued to Cytyc stockholders (in thousands)	65,138

(a) Includes 116,581 shares outstanding at June 30, 2007, 158 shares to satisfy restricted stock units, and 100 shares estimated to be issued under Cytyc's Employee Stock Purchase Plan and 8,426 shares to be issued assuming conversion of all of Cytyc's outstanding $250,000 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024.

The assumption that all of the holders of Cytyc's 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes will choose to convert their notes prior to the completion of the merger is based on the following: Each one thousand dollars in principal amount of Cytyc's 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes is currently convertible into approximately 33.70 shares of Cytyc common stock. At the effective time of the merger, for each one thousand dollars in principal amount of Convertible Notes a holder would be entitled to receive 17 shares of Hologic common stock together with cash in lieu of any fractional shares, plus approximately five hundred fifty-six dollars in cash. The Convertible Notes are assumed to be converted into the merger holder would receive in the merger will remain fixed without any increase to reflect the time value of money and, thus, will be diminished following completion of the merger. In addition, the Convertible Notes may be redeemed at par any time on or after March 20, 2009 and prior to maturity.

- (b) Represents the average Hologic closing stock price beginning three trading days before and ending three trading days after May 20, 2007, the date of the public announcement of the merger agreement.
- (c) Represents total Cytyc's stockholder's equity as of June 30, 2007 of $791,339 plus the conversion of Cytyc's outstanding $250,000, 2.25% Senior Convertible Notes due 2024.
- (d) The deferred income tax liability at statutory tax rates related to acquired tangible and intangible assets for which the amortization is not deductible for tax purposes ($$2,834,200 \times 40\% = $1,133,700$).

3. Valuation of Intangibles Assets and Goodwill

The estimated purchase price for the merger with Cytyc will be allocated to assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on their estimated fair values. Hologic will then allocate the purchase price in excess of net tangible assets acquired to identifiable intangible assets, including in process research and development, based upon a detailed valuation that uses information and assumptions provided by management, as further described below. Any excess purchase price over the fair value of the net tangible and intangible assets acquired is allocated to goodwill.

Identifiable Intangible Assets

As part of the preliminary purchase price allocation Cytyc's identifiable intangible assets include existing technology and market based intangible assets. Cytyc's existing technology relates to patents, patent applications and know-how with respect to the technologies embedded in its currently marketed products. In determining the allocation of the purchase price to existing technology, consideration was only given to patent and patent applications that relate to products that have been approved by the FDA. Cytyc's marketing based intangible assets relate to its customer relationships with OB/GYNs, breast surgeons and other physicians as well as its distributor networks and product brands.

Hologic used the income approach to value the existing technology and marketing based intangibles. This approach calculates fair value by discounting the after-tax cash flows back to a present value. The baseline data for this analysis was the cash flow estimates used to price the transaction. Cash flows were forecasted for each intangible asset, then discounted based on an appropriate discount rate. The discount rates applied were benchmarked with reference to the implied rate of return from the transaction model as well as the weighted average cost of capital for the combined company based on the capital asset pricing model.

In estimating the useful life of the acquired assets, Hologic considered paragraph 11 of SFAS No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, which lists the pertinent factors to be considered when estimating the useful life of an intangible asset. These factors included a review of the expected use by the combined company of the assets acquired, the expected useful life of another asset (or group of assets) related to the acquired assets, legal, regulatory or other contractual provisions that may limit the useful life of an acquired asset or may enable the extension of the useful life of an acquired asset without substantial cost, the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition and other economic factors, and the level of maintenance expenditures required to obtain the expected future cash flows from the asset.

Acquired In-Process Research and Development

As part of the preliminary purchase price allocation for Cytyc, approximately $283 million of the purchase price has been allocated to acquired in-process research and development projects. The amount allocated to acquired in-process research and development represents the estimated value based on risk-adjusted cash flows related to in-process projects that have not yet reached technological feasibility and have no alternative future uses as of the date of the acquisition. The primary basis for determining the technological feasibility of these projects is obtaining regulatory approval to market the underlying products. The value attributable to these in-process projects will be expensed at the time of the acquisition. If the projects are not successful or completed in a timely manner, Hologic may not realize the financial benefits expected for these projects or for the transaction as a whole.

The value assigned to acquired in-process technology was determined by estimating the costs to develop the acquired technology into commercially viable products, estimating the resulting net cash flows from the projects, and discounting the net cash flows to their present value. The revenue projection used to value the acquired in-process research and development was based on estimates of relevant market sizes and growth factors, expected trends in technology, and the nature and expected timing of new product introductions by us and our competitors. The resulting net cash flows from such projects were based on our estimates of cost of sales, operating expenses, and income taxes from such projects.

The rates utilized to discount the net cash flows to their present value were based on estimated cost of capital calculations and the implied rate of return from the transaction model plus a risk premium. Due to the nature of the forecasts and the risks associated with the developmental projects, appropriate risk-adjusted discount rates were used for the in-process research and development projects. The discount rates are based on the stage of completion and uncertainties surrounding the successful development of the purchased in-process technology projects.

The purchased in-process technology of Cytoc relates to the following research and development projects: NovaSure Expanded Labeling; Complete TransCervical Sterilization System; Gestiva; Induction Test; ThinPrep Imager; ThinPrep Processor; and Helica.

The most significant purchased in-process technology relates to the NovaSure Endometrial Ablation System for which Hologic has estimated a value of $170 million to $200 million. The NovaSure Endometrial Ablation System is used for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding in a minimally invasive manner to eliminate or reduce bleeding. Currently, we plan to perform clinical trials to expand the labeling on this product for elective use, i.e., for women who have completed child bearing and who wish to end their menstrual periods. It is anticipated that NovaSure Endometrial Ablation System will be available in 2010 or 2011, subject to receipt of appropriate regulatory approvals. Material net cash inflows (net of operating costs, including costs to complete clinical trials) from this elective use of the NovaSure System are expected to commence in 2011 or 2012. The estimated remaining costs to complete the clinical trials are expected to be approximately $2 million to $4 million.

Cytoc's other in-process research and development projects are at different stages of development, ranging from the early stages of development to Phase IIb prototype building, ongoing clinical trials and submission to the FDA of PMA and drug applications. FDA approval or clearance has not been granted for any of the products classified as in-process research and development, nor has Cytoc received any foreign approvals or clearances for any of these products. All products classified as in-process research and development require various levels of in-house and external testing, clinical trials and approvals from the FDA before these future products can be marketed. The expected timing of commercial release for these products ranges from early 2008 through 2012. The estimated cash requirements in the aggregate to complete these remaining products is expected to be approximately $20 million to $30 million.

The successful development of new products and product enhancements is subject to numerous risks and uncertainties, both known and unknown, including, unanticipated delays, access to capital, budget overruns, technical problems and other difficulties that could result in the abandonment or substantial change in the design, development and commercialization of these new products and enhancements, including, for example changes requested by the FDA in connection with pre-market approval applications for products or 510(k) notification. Given the uncertainties inherent with product development and introduction, there can be no assurance that any of the combined company's product development efforts will be successful on a timely basis or within budget, if at all. The failure of the combined company to develop new products and product enhancements on a timely basis or within budget could harm the combined company's results of operations and financial condition. For additional risks that may affect the combined company's business and prospects following completion of the merger, see Risk Factors commencing on page 26 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

In addition, we will re-assess all on-going research and development projects upon the closing of the transaction to determine whether each project qualifies as in-process research and development and reflect any additional development to date.

Table of Contents*Goodwill*

The preliminary purchase price allocation has resulted in goodwill of approximately $3.8 billion. The factors contributing to the recognition of this amount of goodwill are based upon several strategic and synergistic benefits that are expected to be realized from the combination. These benefits include the expectation that the combined company's complementary products and technologies will create a leading women's healthcare company with an enhanced presence in hospitals, private practices and healthcare organizations. Hologic also expects to realize substantial synergies through the use of Cytyc's OB/GYN and breast surgeon sales channel to cross-sell Hologic's existing and future products. The merger provides both companies broader channel coverage within the United States and expanded geographic reach internationally, as well as increased scale and scope for further expanding operations through product development and complementary strategic transactions.

4. Pro Forma Adjustments

The following pro forma adjustments are based on preliminary estimates, which may change as additional information is obtained:

(A) To reflect the assumed increase in debt of $2,118,000 incurred to complete the merger and related estimated deferred financing costs of $32,000, to record the cash paid for the merger and related transaction costs of $2,138,000 and repayment of $55,200 outstanding under Cytyc's existing line of credit. To record the conversion of Cytyc's $250,000 2.25% senior convertible note due 2024 and to write off Cytyc's related deferred financing costs. To record estimated increase in interest expense and estimated decrease in interest income.

Hologic has secured a fully committed debt financing from Goldman Sachs Credit Partners L.P. for the cash portion of the merger consideration. For purposes of the unaudited condensed combined financial statements Hologic has assumed that it will borrow approximately $2,118,000 of the committed funding and use available cash of approximately $75,100 to finance the cash portion of the merger, repay amounts outstanding under Cytyc's existing line of credit and pay merger related fees and expenses. Accordingly, additional interest expense has been recorded for the borrowing of such amounts estimated to complete the merger using a weighted average contemplated borrowing rate of 7.39% (Libor rate as of June 30, 2007 plus 2.03%). The weighted average interest rate was determined based on the contemplated borrowings under the different tranches and the contemplated interest rates under the anticipated new credit facilities. The amortization of anticipated deferred financing costs, estimated to be approximately $32 million, and an annual $1 million commitment fee was also considered to determine the total increase in interest expense. The amortization of the deferred financing costs was based on the assumed weighted average term of the credit facility. The repayment of the estimated financing requirements was not assumed for any of the income statement periods presented. The calculation of additional interest expense for the pro forma periods presented is as follows:

Cash Portion of Merger Consideration	$ 2,066,900
Amount outstanding under Cytyc's LOC as of June 30, 2007	55,200
Merger Related Fees and Expenses	71,000(a)
Total Cash Required	2,193,100
Cash available as of June 30, 2007	(75,100)
Financing Requirement	2,118,000
Weighted average Interest Rate	7.39%
Twelve Months Ended September 30, 2006
Interest Expense	156,500
Amortization of Deferred Financing Costs	14,500
Commitment Fee	1,000
Total Increase in Interest Expense	$ 172,000

Table of ContentsNine Months Ended June 30, 2007

Interest Expense	$ 117,300
Amortization of Deferred Financing Costs	10,900
Commitment Fee	800

Total Increase in Interest Expense $ 129,000

The decrease in interest income is based on the estimated decrease in cash available for investment as a result of estimated cash utilized for the acquisition of $75,100. The weighted average rate of return for the average cash balance of both Hologic and Cytyc was calculated to be approximately 3.91% based on the interest income earned by each entity during the nine months ended June 30, 2007, divided by the average interest bearing cash balance during this period. This rate was applied to the anticipated decrease in cash available for investment to estimate the decrease in interest income.

Weighted Average Rate of Return on cash available for investment	3.91%
Cash available assumed to be utilized for payment of cash portion of merger consideration	$ (75,100)
Twelve Months Ended September 30, 2006	$ (2,900)
Nine Months Ended June 30, 2007	$ (2,200)

(B) To adjust Cytyc's inventory, property and equipment and deferred revenue to their estimated fair value. To record estimated depreciation expense related to the step up of property and equipment, primarily equipment under customer usage agreements with an estimated remaining useful life of 6 years. The cost of revenue impact of the write-up of inventory to fair value of $37,200 and reduction of deferred revenue of $500 for amounts that would not represent a legal obligation at the close of the transaction have been excluded from the pro forma condensed combined statement of income as they are non-recurring items which are anticipated to be included in the income of Hologic within the 12 months succeeding the transaction.

(C) To eliminate Cytyc's existing goodwill, intangible assets, related deferred tax liability and pro forma combined amortization of the intangible assets.

(D) To record goodwill and $2,786,000 of acquired definite-lived intangible assets and related amortization based on expected future cash flows which Hologic has determined reflects the economic benefits which the intangible assets are expected to be utilized over a weighted average life of 15 years for both existing technology and marketing based intangibles. Based on the estimated value of these intangibles and their estimated useful lives, Hologic anticipates recording amortization expense of approximately $759,000 over the 5 years succeeding the close of the transaction. The calculation of amortization expense is as follows:

	Asset Value	Amortization Year Ended September 30, 2006	Amortization Nine Months ended June 30, 2007
Developed Technology	$ 1,829,000	81,073	64,204
Percentage of cash flows		4%	4%
Customer Relationship	$ 904,200	21,161	26,916
Percentage of cash flows		2%	3%
Trade Name	$ 52,800	1,719	1,369
Percentage of cash flows		3%	3%

The estimated charge of $283,000 of acquired in-process research and development has been excluded from the pro forma condensed combined statement of income as it is a non-recurring item which is anticipated to be included in the income of Hologic within the 12 months succeeding the transaction.

Table of Contents

(E) To record deferred taxes related to identified intangible assets and fair value adjustments, where required for step-up in basis for book purposes, at 40%, the estimated statutory tax rate in effect as of June 30, 2007.

(F) To eliminate the historical stockholders equity accounts of Cytyc.

(G) To record the issuance of Hologic common stock and to record the fair value of Cytyc's stock options. The fair value of Cytyc's vested and unvested options was calculated under SFAS 123(R) using the Binominal Option Pricing Model. The most significant assumptions utilized in this model include the market price, expected life, expected volatility, dividend yield and the risk-free interest rate. The market price was calculated in accordance with Emerging Issues Task Force Issue No. 99-12, Determination of the Measurement Date for the Market Price of Acquirer Securities Issued in a Purchase Business Combination, utilizing the average closing price of Hologic's common stock beginning the three trading days before and ending the three trading days after the announcement of the merger agreement. The expected life for each option was determined based on both the in-the-money level of each option and the historical exercise behavior of Cytyc's employees resulting in a weighted average expected life of 2.20 years. The expected volatility utilized of 33.66% was determined based on a weighted average of both the historical and implied volatilities of Hologic and Cytyc's common stock. The dividend yield was assumed to be zero based on the fact that Hologic does not issue a dividend under its dividend policy and has no plans to amend this policy in the foreseeable future. The risk free interest rate was based on the expected life of each option using the Zero Coupon Treasury rates as of June 29, 2007 resulting in a weighted average risk free-interest rate of 4.91%.

(H) To record incremental stock option compensation expense based on the fair value, as determined under SFAS 123(R) and further described in Note G above, of Cytyc's non-vested stock options assumed to be converted into Hologic stock options upon the completion of the merger.

(I) To record the tax provision/(benefit) on pro forma income (loss) before provision (benefit) before income taxes, to reflect the estimated statutory tax rate of 40%. Hologic has included the tax benefit related to the incremental stock-based compensation expense pro forma adjustment based on the estimate that the majority of the Cytyc unvested options are non-qualified stock options. If the estimated statutory tax rate of 40% were to change by 10%, the effect on pro forma net income (loss) for the nine months ended June 30, 2007 and the twelve months ended September 30, 2006, would be approximately $4,600 and $3,800, respectively.

(J) To reflect the estimated weighted average basic and diluted shares expected to outstanding as of the close of the merger. Based on the 0.52 conversion rate, Hologic expects to issue 65,138 common shares to Cytyc stockholders. Therefore, 65,138 shares were added to the Hologic weighted average, basic and diluted, shares outstanding for all periods presented to determine the pro forma weighted average shares outstanding. The impact of options issued in connection with the merger has been determined to be antidilutive.

(K) To eliminate interest expense included in Cytyc pro forma combined condensed statements of operations as all of Cytyc's debt arrangements are being settled in connection with the merger.

(L) The pro forma condensed combined statements of operations do not reflect estimated charges related to change of control payments of approximately $15,000 and stock based compensation expenses for the acceleration of vesting of outstanding stock options for certain members of Cytyc executive management, such charges will be recorded by Cytyc in the period that the proposed merger is completed. The pro forma combined condensed statement of income also excluded a $1,800 charge related to a change of control payment for a certain executive officer of Hologic. This charge will be recorded by Hologic in the period that the proposed merger is completed.

Adjustments to record Hologic's July, 2006 acquisition of Suros as if it happened at the beginning of the year ended September 30, 2006:

- A Gives effect to amortization of developed technology and know how, customer relationship and tradename, as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- B Gives effect to a reduction in interest income related to the utilization of $82,000 of available cash for the acquisition, as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- C To record additional interest expense for assumption of debt to finance the acquisition, as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- D To eliminate revenue and associated expense for transactions between Hologic and Suros, as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- E Eliminate stock based compensation and change in control bonuses as a result of the transaction.
- F To record issuance of additional shares of Hologic common stock as if the acquisition occurred the beginning of fiscal 2006.
- G As required by Article 11 of Regulation S-X, the unaudited pro forma combined condensed statements of operations excludes material non-recurring charges which result directly from the acquisition and which will be recorded within twelve months following the acquisition. Thus, the write-off of acquired in-process research and development, the cost of revenue impact of the write-up of inventory to fair value and revenue impact for amounts that would not represent legal obligation at the close of the transaction have been excluded from the pro forma condensed consolidated statement of income as they are non-recurring items.

- H Gives effect to amortization of developed technology and know how, customer relationship and tradename, as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- I To eliminate revenue and associated expense for transactions between Hologic and R2 as if the transaction had occurred at the beginning of the period.
- J To record issuance of additional shares of Hologic common stock as if the acquisition occurred at the beginning of fiscal 2006.
- K To reflect the income tax effect of the pro forma adjustments to pro forma combined income related to the acquisitions, in order to reflect a pro forma combined tax (benefit) at a statutory rate tax rate of 40%.
- L As required by Article 11 of Regulation S-X, the unaudited pro forma combined condensed statements of operations excludes material non-recurring charges which result directly from the acquisition and which will be recorded within twelve months following the acquisition. Thus, the write-off of acquired in-process research and development, the cost of revenue impact of the write-up of inventory to fair value and revenue impact for amounts that would not represent legal obligation at the close of the transaction have been excluded from the pro forma condensed consolidated statement of income as they are non-recurring items.

FUTURE STOCKHOLDER PROPOSALS

Hologic

Stockholder proposals for inclusion in the Hologic's proxy materials for Hologic's 2008 annual meeting of stockholders must be received by Hologic no later than September 24, 2007. These proposals must also meet the other requirements of the rules of the SEC and Hologic's bylaws relating to stockholder proposals.

Stockholders who wish to make a proposal at Hologic's 2008 Annual Meeting other than one that will be included in Hologic's proxy materials should notify Hologic no later than December 8, 2007. If a stockholder who wishes to present such a proposal fails to notify Hologic by this date, the proxies that management solicits for the meeting will have discretionary authority to vote on the stockholder's proposal if it is properly brought before the meeting. If a stockholder makes a timely notification, the proxies may still exercise discretionary voting authority under circumstances consistent with the proxy rules of the SEC.

Stockholders may make recommendations to the nominating committee of candidates for its consideration as nominees for director at Hologic's 2008 annual meeting of stockholders by submitting the name, qualifications, experience and background of such person, together with a statement signed by the nominee in which he or she consents to act as such, to Hologic's nominating committee, c/o Secretary, Hologic, Inc., 35 Crosby Drive, Bedford, Massachusetts 01730. Notice of such recommendations should be submitted in writing as early as possible, but in any event not later than 90 days prior to the anniversary date of the immediately preceding annual meeting or special meeting in lieu thereof and must contain specified information and conform to certain requirements set forth in the Hologic's bylaws, including a written notice that sets forth: (i) the name and address of the stockholder who intends to make the nomination and of the persons or person to be nominated; (ii) a representation that the stockholder is a holder of record of stock of Hologic entitled to vote at such meeting and intends to appear in person or by proxy at the meeting to nominate the person or persons specified in the notice; (iii) a description of all arrangements or understandings between the stockholder and each nominee and any other person or persons (naming such person or persons) pursuant to which the nomination or nominations are to be made by the stockholder; (iv) such other information regarding each nominee proposed by such stockholder as would be required to be included in a proxy statement filed pursuant to the proxy rules of the SEC; and (v) the consent of each nominee to serve as a director of Hologic if so elected. Cytc

Cytc held its 2006 annual meeting of stockholders on May 2, 2006. If the merger agreement is adopted by the requisite vote of the Cytc stockholders and the merger is completed, Cytc will merge into wholly owned subsidiary of Hologic and, consequently, will not hold an annual meeting of its stockholders in 2007. Cytc stockholders will be entitled to participate, as stockholders of the combined company, in the 2008 annual meeting of stockholders of the combined company.

If the merger agreement is not adopted by the requisite vote of the Cytc stockholders or if the merger is not completed for any reason, Cytc will hold an annual meeting of its stockholders in 2007.

In the event that Cytc holds a 2007 annual meeting of its stockholders, stockholders interested in presenting a proposal for inclusion in Cytc's proxy statement and proxy relating to Cytc's 2007 annual meeting of stockholders may do so by following the procedures prescribed in Rule 14a-8 under the Exchange Act and Cytc's bylaws. Because the 2007 annual meeting date will represent a change of more than 30 days from the anniversary of Cytc's 2006 annual meeting, Cytc will announce a new deadline for the receipt of any stockholder proposals submitted pursuant to Rule 14a-8 for inclusion in Cytc's proxy materials for the 2007 annual meeting. As required by Rule 14a-8, such new deadline will be a reasonable time before Cytc begins to print and mail its proxy materials.

In addition, in accordance with the requirements for advance notice set forth in Cytc's bylaws, in order for a stockholder proposal submitted outside of Rule 14a-8 or a director nomination to be considered timely for the 2007 annual meeting, such proposal or nomination must be received by Cytc's Corporate Secretary by no earlier than the close of business on the 90th day before the 2007 annual meeting and not later than the close of business on the later of the 60th day prior to the 2007 annual meeting or the close of business on the 10th day following the day on which public announcement of the date of the 2007 annual meeting is first made by Cytc. In the event that Cytc holds a 2007 annual meeting of its stockholders, Cytc will announce a new deadline for the receipt of any stockholder proposals submitted outside of Rule 14a-8 or a director nomination. Any notification to bring any proposal before the 2007 annual meeting must comply with the requirements of Cytc's bylaws.

THE MERGER

Section 2.01 The Merger.

(a) At the Effective Time, Cyclone shall be merged with and into MergerSub in accordance with Delaware Law, at which time the separate existence of Cyclone shall cease, and MergerSub shall be the surviving corporation (the Surviving Corporation), and shall be a wholly owned, direct subsidiary of Hurricane.

(b) From and after the Effective Time, the Surviving Corporation shall possess all of the rights, privileges, powers and franchises and be subject to all of the obligations, liabilities, restrictions and disabilities of Cyclone and MergerSub, all as provided under Delaware Law.

Section 2.02 Effective Time. At the Closing the parties shall file a certificate of merger (the Certificate of Merger) with the Delaware Secretary of State in such form as is required by and executed and completed in accordance with the relevant provisions of Delaware Law and make all other filings or recordings required by Delaware Law to effect the Merger. The Merger shall become effective at such time (the Effective Time) as the Certificate of Merger is duly filed with the Delaware Secretary of State (or at such later time as Hurricane and Cyclone mutually agree and specify in the Certificate of Merger).

Section 2.03 Closing. Upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in Article 9, the closing of the Merger (the Closing) will take place as soon as practicable, but in no event later than five (5) Business Days, after the satisfaction or waiver of the conditions (excluding conditions that, by their nature, cannot be satisfied until the Closing), or such other time and date as the parties may agree to in writing. The Closing shall be held at the offices of Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP in Boston, Massachusetts, unless another place is agreed to in writing by the parties hereto.

Section 2.04 Conversion of Shares. At the Effective Time, by virtue of the Merger and without any action on the part of the holders thereof:

(a) subject to this Article 2, each share of Cyclone Stock issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time (other than shares to be cancelled in accordance with Section 2.04(b) and Dissenting Shares referred to in Section 2.11), shall be cancelled and converted into the right to receive (i) 0.52 (the Exchange Ratio) shares of Hurricane Stock (the Stock Merger Consideration) and (ii) $16.50 in cash without interest (the Cash Merger Consideration and, together with the Stock Merger Consideration and cash in lieu of fractional shares of Hurricane Stock as specified below, the Merger Consideration);

(b) each share of Cyclone Stock that is (i) held by Cyclone as treasury stock or (ii) owned by Hurricane or any Hurricane Subsidiary, in each case immediately prior to the Effective Time, shall be canceled and shall cease to exist, and no payment shall be made with respect thereof in accordance with this Article 2; and

(c) each share of common stock, par value $.01 per share, of MergerSub issued and outstanding immediately prior to the Effective Time shall remain issued, outstanding and unchanged as a validly issued, fully paid and nonassessable share of common stock, par value $.01 per share, of the Surviving Corporation.

Section 2.05 Surrender and Payment.

(a) Prior to the Effective Time, Hurricane shall designate its transfer agent, American Stock Transfer & Trust Company, or another bank or trust company reasonably satisfactory to Cyclone to act as the exchange agent hereunder (the Exchange Agent) for the purpose of exchanging for the Merger Consideration (i) certificates representing shares of Cyclone Stock (the Certificates) or (ii) uncertificated shares of Cyclone Stock (the Uncertificated Shares). At the Effective Time, Hurricane shall deposit with the Exchange Agent, to be held in trust for the holders of Cyclone Stock, stock certificates (if such shares shall be certificated) representing shares of Hurricane Stock issuable pursuant to Section 2.04 in exchange for outstanding shares of Cyclone Stock and an amount of cash sufficient to deliver to the holders of Cyclone Stock (other than the Dissenting Shares) the aggregate Merger Consideration. From time to time after the Effective Time, Hurricane shall make available to the Exchange Agent, as needed, cash in amounts that are sufficient to pay cash in lieu of fractional shares pursuant to Section 2.07 and any dividends or other distributions pursuant to Section 2.05(f), in each case, to be paid in respect of the Certificates and the Uncertificated Shares. Promptly after the Effective Time, but in any event within ten (10) Business Days after the Effective Time, Hurricane shall send, or shall cause the Exchange Agent to send, to each holder of shares of Cyclone Stock at the Effective Time a letter of transmittal and instructions (which shall specify that the delivery shall be effected, and risk of loss and title shall pass, only upon proper delivery of the Certificates or transfer of the Uncertificated Shares to the Exchange Agent) for use in such exchange.

(b) Each holder of shares of Cyclone Stock shall be entitled to receive, upon (i) surrender to the Exchange Agent of a Certificate, together with a properly completed letter of transmittal, or (ii) receipt of an agent's message by the Exchange Agent (or such other evidence, if any, of transfer as the Exchange Agent may reasonably request) in the case of a book-entry transfer of Uncertificated Shares, the aggregate Merger Consideration that such holder has a right to receive pursuant to Section 2.04. The shares of Hurricane Stock constituting part of such Merger Consideration, at Hurricane's option, shall be in uncertificated book-entry form, unless a physical certificate is requested by a holder of shares of Cyclone Stock or is otherwise required under Applicable Law. As a result of the Merger, at the Effective Time, all shares of Cyclone Stock shall cease to be outstanding and each holder thereof shall cease to have any rights with respect thereto, except the right to receive the Merger Consideration payable in respect thereof and any dividends or other distributions payable in respect thereof in accordance with Section 2.05(f).

(c) If any portion of the Merger Consideration is to be paid to a Person other than the Person in whose name the surrendered Certificate or the transferred Uncertificated Share is registered, it shall be a condition to such payment that (i) either such Certificate shall be properly endorsed or shall otherwise be in proper form for transfer or such Uncertificated Share shall be properly transferred and (ii) the Person requesting such payment shall pay to the Exchange Agent any transfer or other Taxes required as a result of such payment to a Person other than the registered holder of such Certificate or Uncertificated Share or establish to the satisfaction of the Exchange Agent that such tax has been paid or is not payable.

(d) At the Effective Time, the stock transfer books of Cyclone shall be closed and thereafter there shall be no further registration of transfers on the transfer books of Cyclone or the Surviving Corporation of the shares of Cyclone Stock which were outstanding immediately prior to such time. If, after the Effective

Time, Certificates or Uncertificated Shares are presented to the Surviving Corporation, they shall be canceled and exchanged for the Merger Consideration payable in respect thereof provided for, and in accordance with the procedures set forth, in this Article 2.

(e) Any portion of the Merger Consideration made available to the Exchange Agent pursuant to Section 2.05(a) that remains unclaimed by the holders of shares of Cyclone Stock six months after the Effective Time shall be returned to Hurricane, upon demand, and any such holder who has not exchanged shares of Cyclone Stock for the Merger Consideration in accordance with this Section 2.05 prior to that time shall thereafter look only to Hurricane for payment of the Merger Consideration, and any dividends and distributions with respect thereto, in respect of such shares without any interest thereon. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Hurricane shall not be liable to any holder of shares of Cyclone Stock for any amounts properly paid to a public official pursuant to applicable abandoned property, escheat or similar laws. Any amounts remaining unclaimed by holders of shares of Cyclone Stock six years after the Effective Time (or such earlier date, immediately prior to such time when the amounts would otherwise escheat to or become property of any Governmental Authority) shall become, to the extent permitted by Applicable Law, the property of Hurricane, free and clear of any claims or interest of any Person previously entitled thereto.

(f) No dividends or other distributions with respect to securities of Hurricane constituting part of the Merger Consideration, and no cash payment in lieu of fractional shares as provided in Section 2.07, shall be paid to the holder of any Certificates not surrendered or of any Uncertificated Shares not transferred until such Certificates or Uncertificated Shares are surrendered or transferred, as the case may be, as provided in this Section 2.05. Following such surrender or transfer, Hurricane shall pay or shall cause the Exchange Agent to pay, without interest, to the Person in whose name the securities of Hurricane have been registered, (i) at the time of such surrender or transfer, the amount of any cash payable in lieu of fractional shares to which such Person is entitled pursuant to Section 2.07 and the amount of all dividends or other distributions with a record date after the Effective Time previously paid or payable on the date of such surrender with respect to such securities, and (ii) at the appropriate payment date, the amount of dividends or other distributions with a record date after the Effective Time and prior to surrender or transfer and with a payment date subsequent to surrender or transfer payable with respect to such securities.

Section 2.07 Fractional Shares. No certificates, scrip or shares of Hurricane Stock representing fractional shares of Hurricane Stock or book-entry credit of the same shall be issued upon the surrender for exchange of Certificates or Uncertificated Shares, and such fractional share interests shall not entitle the owner thereof to vote or to have any rights as a stockholder of Hurricane by virtue of such fractional share interests. All fractional shares of Hurricane Stock that a holder of shares of Cyclone Stock would otherwise be entitled to receive as a result of the Merger shall be aggregated and if a fractional share results from such aggregation, such holder shall be entitled to receive, in lieu thereof, an amount in cash without interest determined by multiplying the closing sale price of a share of Hurricane Stock on the Nasdaq on the Closing Date by the fraction of a share of Hurricane Stock to which such holder would otherwise have been entitled. Hurricane shall deposit with the Exchange Agent the funds required to make the cash payments required by this Section 2.07 when and as needed.

Section 2.08 Withholding Rights. Hurricane, the Surviving Corporation or the Exchange Agent shall be entitled to deduct and withhold from the consideration otherwise payable to any Person pursuant to this Article 2 such amounts as Hurricane, the Surviving Corporation or the Exchange Agent is required to deduct and withhold with respect to the making of such payment under any provision of federal, state, local or foreign tax law. If any Certificate shall have been lost, stolen or destroyed, upon the making of an affidavit of that fact by the Person claiming such Certificate to be lost, stolen or destroyed and, if required by Hurricane, delivery by such Person of an agreement in a form reasonably satisfactory to Hurricane or, as Hurricane may reasonably deem necessary, the posting by such Person of a bond, in such reasonable amount as Hurricane may direct, as indemnity against any claim that may be made against it with respect to such Certificate, the Exchange Agent will issue, in exchange for such lost, stolen or destroyed Certificate, the Merger Consideration to be paid in respect of the shares of Cyclone Stock represented by such Certificate, as contemplated by this Article 2.

(b) No Medical Device is under consideration by Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries for recall, withdrawal, suspension, seizure or discontinuance, or has been recalled, withdrawn, suspended, seized or discontinued (other than for commercial or other business reasons) by, Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries in the United States or outside the United States (whether voluntarily or otherwise), in each case since January 1, 2003. No proceedings in the United States or, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, outside of the United States seeking the recall, withdrawal, suspension, seizure or discontinuance of any Medical Device are pending, or, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, threatened against Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries or any licensee of any Medical Device which individually or in the aggregate have had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Cyclone.

(c) As to each Medical Device of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries for which a premarket approval application, premarket notification, investigational device exemption or similar state or foreign regulatory application has been approved, Cyclone and its Subsidiaries are in compliance with 21 U.S.C. §§ 360 and 360e or 21 C.F.R. (e) Neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries is the subject, officially or otherwise, of any pending or, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, threatened investigation by the FDA pursuant to its Fraud, Untrue Statements of Material Facts, Bribery, and Illegal Gratuities Final Policy set forth in 56 Fed. Reg. 46191 (September 10, 1991) or any similar policy.

Neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries, nor, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, any officer, employee or agent of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries, has been convicted of any crime or engaged in any conduct for which such person or entity could be excluded from participating in the federal health care programs under Section 1128 of the Social Security Act of 1935, as amended (the Social Security Act) or any similar Applicable Law.

(g) Since January 1, 2003, neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries has received any written notice that the FDA or any other Governmental Authority has (a) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to withdraw its approval or request the recall of any Medical Device, (b) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to enjoin production of any Medical Device or (c) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to enjoin the production of any Medical Device produced at any facility where any Medical Device is manufactured, tested or packaged, except for any such action that individually or in the aggregate has not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(h) To the Knowledge of Cyclone, there are no facts, circumstances or conditions that would reasonably be expected to form the basis for any investigation, suit, claim, action or proceeding against or affecting Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries relating to or arising under (a) the FDCA or (b) the Social Security Act or regulations of the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services, in each case individually or in the aggregate that has had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(j) Neither Cyclone, nor any Subsidiary, nor any officer, director, or, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, any employee, of Cyclone or a Subsidiary, has been excluded from participation in any Federal health care program (including Medicare or Medicaid) or committed any offense in 42 U.S.C. §1320a-7 that would be the basis for such exclusion.

Section 4.14 Litigation; Investigations. Except as disclosed in the Cyclone SEC Documents prior to the date of this Agreement, there are no claims, actions, suits, formal or informal investigations, inquiries or proceedings (or any reasonable basis therefor) pending against, or, to the Knowledge of Cyclone, threatened against or affecting, Cyclone, any of its Subsidiaries, any present or former Cyclone Designated Officer or director of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries or any Person for whom Cyclone or any Subsidiary may be liable or any of their respective properties before any court or arbitrator or before or by, before or with any Governmental Authority that, if determined or resolved adversely to Cyclone, would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Material Adverse Effect on Cyclone or that, as of the date of this Agreement, in any manner challenges or seeks to prevent, enjoin, alter or delay the Merger or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby. There has not been nor are there currently any internal investigations or inquiries being conducted by Cyclone, the Board of Directors (or any committee thereof) of Cyclone or any third party at the request of any of the foregoing concerning any financial, accounting, tax, conflict of interest, self-dealing, fraudulent or deceptive conduct or other misfeasance or malfeasance issues.

Section 4.15 Title to Properties. Each of Cyclone and its Subsidiaries has valid title to, or valid leasehold or sublease interests or other comparable contract rights in or relating to all of its real properties and other tangible assets necessary for the conduct of its business as currently conducted, except as have been disposed of in the ordinary course of business and except for defects in title, easements, restrictive covenants and similar encumbrances that individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. Each of Cyclone and its Subsidiaries has complied with the terms of all leases or subleases to which it is a party and under which it is in occupancy, and all leases to which Cyclone is a party and under which it is in occupancy are in full force and effect, except for such failure to comply or be in full force and effect that individually or in the aggregate has not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. Neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries has received any written notice of any event or occurrence that has resulted or could result (with or without the giving of notice, the lapse of time or both) in a default with respect to any lease or sublease to which it is a party, which defaults individually or in the aggregate have had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(b) No Tax Return of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries is, or with respect to income Tax Returns has been within the last five years, under audit or examination by any Taxing Authority, and no written notice has been received by Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries that any audit, examination or similar proceeding is pending, proposed or asserted with regard to any Taxes or Tax Returns of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries. (f) Neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries joins or has joined, for any taxable period in the filing of any affiliated, aggregated, consolidated, combined or unitary Tax Return other than consolidated Tax Returns for the consolidated group of which Cyclone is the common parent.

(i) Neither Cyclone nor any of its Subsidiaries is a party to or bound by any Tax Sharing Agreement, Tax indemnity obligation or similar agreement, arrangement or practice with respect to Taxes (including any advance pricing agreement, closing agreement or other agreement relating to Taxes with any Taxing Authority).

(j) No ownership change (as described in Section 382(g) of the Code) has occurred, or is expected to occur prior to the Effective Time, that would have the effect of limiting the use of pre-change losses (as described in Section 382(d) of the Code) of Cyclone and its Subsidiaries following the Effective Time.

(k) No Taxing Authority has asserted in writing any Liens for Taxes with respect to any assets or properties of Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries, except for statutory liens for Taxes not yet due and payable.

Section 4.17 Employee Benefit Plans.

(a) For purposes of this Agreement, unless otherwise provided herein, Cyclone Employee Plans shall mean all Employee Benefit Plans maintained currently or at any time within the past six years, or contributed to by Cyclone, any of Cyclone's Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates or to which Cyclone, any of Cyclone's Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates is obligated to contribute, or under which any of them has or may have any material liability for premiums or benefits. Section 4.17 of the Cyclone Disclosure Schedule sets forth a complete and accurate list of those Cyclone Employee Plans currently in effect.

(b) With respect to each Cyclone Employee Plan, Cyclone has made available to Hurricane complete and accurate copies of (i) such Cyclone Employee Plan (or a written summary of any unwritten plan) together with all amendments, (ii) in the case of any plan for which Forms 5500 are required to be filed, the annual reports (Form 5500) for the three most recent years with schedules attached, (iii) in the case of any plan that is intended to be qualified under Section 401(a) of the Code, the most recent determination letter from the Internal Revenue Service, (iv) each trust agreement, group annuity contract, administration and similar material agreements, investment management or investment advisory agreements, (v) the most recent summary plan descriptions and employee handbook, or other similar material employee communications relating to employee benefits matters, and (vi) the most recent financial statements for each Cyclone Employee Plan that is funded.

(c) Each Cyclone Employee Plan has been administered in all material respects in accordance with ERISA, the Code and all other Applicable Laws and in accordance with its terms, and each of Cyclone, Cyclone's Subsidiaries and their respective ERISA Affiliates have in all material respects met their obligations with respect to each Cyclone Employee Plan and in all material respects have timely made (or timely will make) all required contributions thereto. material liability (including penalties or taxes) under ERISA, the Code or any other Applicable Law, nor will the negotiation or consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement give rise to any such material liability.

(d) With respect to the Cyclone Employee Plans, there are no material benefit obligations for which contributions have not been made or properly accrued and there are no material benefit obligations which have not been accounted for by reserves, or otherwise properly footnoted in accordance with the requirements of GAAP, on the financial statements of Cyclone. To the Knowledge of Cyclone, no such determination, opinion or advisory letter has been revoked and revocation has not been threatened, and no such Cyclone Employee Plan has been amended or operated since the date of its most recent determination letter or application therefor in any respect, and no act or omission has occurred, that would reasonably be expected to adversely affect in any material respect its qualification or materially increase its cost. There has been no termination, partial termination or discontinuance of contributions to any Qualified Plan that will result in material liability to Cyclone. Each Cyclone Employee Plan which is required to satisfy Section 401(k)(3) or Section 401(m)(2) of the Code has been tested for compliance with, and satisfies in all material respects the requirements of Section 401(k)(3) and Section 401(m)(2) of the Code, as the case may be, for each plan year ending prior to the Closing Date for which testing is required to be completed.

(iii) liabilities or obligations that would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane.

(b) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries is a party to, or has any commitment to become a party to, any joint venture, partnership agreement or any similar contract (including any contract relating to any transaction, arrangement or relationship between or among Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, on the one hand, and any unconsolidated affiliate, including any structured finance, special purpose or limited purpose entity or person, on the other hand) where the purpose or intended effect of such arrangement is to avoid disclosure of any material transaction involving Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries in Hurricane's consolidated financial statements.

Section 5.11 Contracts. Except as disclosed in the Hurricane SEC Documents as of the date hereof, neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries is a party to, and none of their respective properties or other assets is subject to, any Contract that is of a nature required to be filed as an exhibit to a report or filing under the 1933 Act or the 1934 Act. None of Hurricane, any of its Subsidiaries or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any other party thereto is in violation of or in default under (nor does there exist any condition which upon the passage of time or the giving of notice or both would cause such a violation of or default by Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any other party thereto under) any Contract to which it is a party or by which it or any of its properties or other assets is bound, except for violations or defaults that individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. (a) As to each Medical Device developed, manufactured, tested, distributed and/or marketed by Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, each such Medical Device is being developed, manufactured, tested, distributed and/or marketed in compliance with all applicable requirements under the FDCA and similar Applicable Laws, including those relating to investigational use, premarket clearance or marketing approval to market a Medical Device, good manufacturing practices, labeling, advertising, record keeping, filing of reports and security, and in compliance with the Advanced Medical Technology Association Code of Ethics on Interactions with Healthcare Professionals and the American Medical Association's guidelines on gifts to physicians, except for failures in compliance that individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane. Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries has received any notice or other communication from the FDA or any other Governmental Authority (A) contesting the premarket clearance or approval of, the uses of or the labeling and promotion of any products of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries or (B) otherwise alleging any violation applicable to any Medical Device of any Applicable Law, in the case of (A) and (B), that individually or in the aggregate have had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane.

(b) No Medical Device is under consideration by Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries for recall, withdrawal, suspension, seizure or discontinuance, or has been recalled, withdrawn, suspended, seized or discontinued (other than for commercial or other business reasons) by, Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries in the United States or outside the United States (whether voluntarily or otherwise), in each case since January 1, 2003. No proceedings in the United States or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, outside of the United States seeking the recall, withdrawal, suspension, seizure or discontinuance of any Medical Device are pending, or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, threatened against Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries or any licensee of any Medical Device which individually or in the aggregate have had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane.

(c) As to each Medical Device of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries for which a premarket approval application, premarket notification, investigational device exemption or similar state or foreign regulatory application has been approved, Hurricane and its Subsidiaries are in compliance with 21 U.S.C. §§ 360 and 360e or 21 C.F.R. Parts 812 or 814, respectively, and all similar Applicable Laws and all terms and conditions of such licenses or applications, except for any such failure or failures to be in compliance which individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane. In addition, Hurricane and its Subsidiaries are in material compliance with all applicable registration and listing requirements set forth in 21 U.S.C. § 360 and 21 C.F.R. (e) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries is the subject, officially or otherwise, of any pending or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, threatened investigation by the FDA pursuant to its Fraud, Untrue Statements of Material Facts, Bribery, and Illegal Gratuities Final Policy set forth in 56 Fed. Reg. 46191 (September 10, 1991) or any similar policy. Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries, nor, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any officer, employee or agent of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, has made an untrue statement of a material fact or fraudulent statement to the FDA or any other Governmental Authority, failed to disclose a material fact required to be disclosed to the FDA or any other Governmental Authority, or committed an act, made a statement, or failed to make a statement that, at the time such disclosure was made, could reasonably be expected to provide a basis for the FDA or any other Governmental Authority to invoke its policy respecting Fraud, Untrue Statements of Material Facts, Bribery, and Illegal Gratuities set forth in 56 Fed. Reg. 46191 (September 10, 1991) or any similar policy.

(f) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries, nor, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any officer, employee or agent of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, has been convicted of any crime or engaged in any conduct for which debarment is mandated by 21 U.S.C. § 335a(a) or any similar Applicable Law or authorized by 21 U.S.C. § 335a(b) or any similar Applicable Law. Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries, nor, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any officer, employee or agent of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, has been convicted of any crime or engaged in any conduct for which such person or entity could be excluded from participating in the federal health care programs under Section 1128 of the Social Security Act or any similar Applicable Law.

(g) Since January 1, 2003, neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries has received any written notice that the FDA or any other Governmental Authority has (a) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to withdraw its approval or request the recall of any Medical Device, (b) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to enjoin production of any Medical Device or (c) commenced, or threatened to initiate, any action to enjoin the production of any Medical Device produced at any facility where any Medical Device is manufactured, tested or packaged, except for any such action that individually or in the aggregate has not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(h) To the Knowledge of Hurricane, there are no facts, circumstances or conditions that would reasonably be expected to form the basis for any investigation, suit, claim, action or proceeding against or affecting Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries relating to or arising under (a) the FDCA or (b) the Social Security Act or regulations of the Office of the Inspector General of the Department of Health and Human Services, in each case individually or in the aggregate that has had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

(i) Hurricane and its Subsidiaries are and at all times in the past three years have been in compliance with: (i) the FDCA; (ii) the provisions of the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 relating to the privacy and security of individually identifiable health information, and all regulations thereunder; (iii) the federal healthcare programs antikickback statute (42 U.S.C. §1320a-7b(b)) and regulations promulgated thereunder; (iv) the federal health care fraud statute (18 U.S.C. §1347); the federal False Claims Act (31 U.S.C. §3729 et seq); and all state antikickback, false claims, and patient privacy laws and regulations, except for failures to be in compliance which individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane. Neither Hurricane, nor any Subsidiary has received any written notice or other communication from any Governmental Authority regarding any actual or possible violation of, or failure to comply with, any legal requirement set forth in this Section 5.13(i), except for violations of, or failures to be in compliance, which individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane.

(j) Neither Hurricane, nor any Subsidiary, nor any officer, director, or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, any employee, of Hurricane or a Subsidiary, has been excluded from participation in any Federal health care program (including Medicare or Medicaid) or committed any offense in 42 U.S.C. §1320a-7 that would be the basis for such exclusion.

Section 5.14 Litigation. Except as disclosed in the Hurricane SEC Documents prior to the date of this Agreement, there are no claims, actions, suits, formal or informal investigations, inquiries or proceedings (or any reasonable basis therefor) pending against, or, to the Knowledge of Hurricane, threatened against or affecting, Hurricane, any of its Subsidiaries, any present or former Hurricane Designated Officer or director of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries or any Person for whom Hurricane or any Subsidiary may be liable or any of their respective properties before any court or arbitrator or before or by, before or with any Governmental Authority that, if determined or resolved adversely to Hurricane, would reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane or that, as of the date of this Agreement, in any manner challenges or seeks to prevent, enjoin, alter or delay the Merger or any of the other transactions contemplated hereby. There has not been nor are there currently any internal investigations or inquiries being conducted by Hurricane, the Board of Directors (or any committee thereof) of Hurricane or any third party at the request of any of the foregoing concerning any financial, accounting, tax, conflict of interest, self-dealing, fraudulent or deceptive conduct or other misfeasance or malfeasance issues.

Section 5.15 Properties; Liens. Each of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries has valid title to, or valid leasehold or sublease interests or other comparable contract rights in or relating to all of its real properties and other tangible assets necessary for the conduct of its business as currently conducted, except as have been disposed of in the ordinary course of business and except for defects in title, easements, restrictive covenants and similar encumbrances that individually or in the aggregate have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. Each of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries has complied with the terms of all leases or subleases to which it is a party and under which it is in occupancy, and all leases to which Hurricane is a party and under which it is in occupancy are in full force and effect, except for such failure to comply or be in full force and effect that individually or in the aggregate has not had and would not reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries has received any written notice of any event or occurrence that has resulted or could result (with or without the giving of notice, the lapse of time or both) in a default with respect to any lease or sublease to which it is a party, which defaults individually or in the aggregate have had or would reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect.

Section 5.16 Taxes.

(a) Each of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries has filed or has caused to be filed in a timely manner (within any applicable extension period) all Tax Returns required to be filed, and all such Tax Returns are complete and accurate in all respects, except for any failure to file, error or omission that would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect. Each of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries has paid or caused to be paid (or Hurricane has paid on its behalf) all Taxes due and owing, and the most recent financial statements contained in the Hurricane SEC Documents filed as of the date hereof reflect an adequate reserve (determined in accordance with GAAP) (excluding any reserves for deferred Taxes established to reflect timing differences between book and Tax income) for all Taxes payable by Hurricane and its Subsidiaries for all taxable periods and portions thereof accrued through the date of such financial statements.

(b) No Tax Return of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries is, or with respect to income Tax Returns has been within the last five years, under audit or examination by any Taxing Authority, and no written notice has been received by Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries that any audit, examination or similar proceeding is pending, proposed or asserted with regard to any Taxes or Tax Returns of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries. The relevant statute of limitations is closed with respect to the income Tax Returns of Hurricane and each of its Subsidiaries for all years through 2001. There is no deficiency, refund litigation, proposed adjustment or matter in controversy with respect to any material amount of Taxes due and owing by Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries. Each deficiency resulting from any completed audit or examination relating to Taxes by any Taxing Authority has been timely paid or is being contested in good faith and has been reserved for on the books of Hurricane. There is no currently effective agreement or other document extending, or having the effect of extending, the period of assessment or collection of any Taxes of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, nor has any request been made for any such extension, and no currently effective power of attorney (other than powers of attorney authorizing employees of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries to act on behalf of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries) with respect to any Taxes has been executed or filed with any Taxing Authority.

(c) Except as included in the determination of deferred income Tax or otherwise accrued or reserved for on the financial statements of Hurricane (or the notes thereto) included in the Hurricane SEC Documents filed as of the date hereof, none of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries will be required to include in a taxable period ending after the Effective Time taxable income attributable to income that accrued (for purposes of the financial statements of Hurricane included in Hurricane's SEC Documents filed as of the date hereof) in a prior taxable period (or portion of a taxable period) but was not recognized for Tax purposes in any prior taxable period as a result of (A) an open transaction disposition made on or before the Effective Time, (B) a prepaid amount received on or prior to the Effective Time, (C) the installment method of accounting, (D) the completed contract method of accounting, (E) the long-term contract method of accounting, (F) the cash method of accounting or Section 481 of the Code or (G) any comparable provisions of state or local Tax law, domestic or foreign, or for any other reason.

and 3402 of the Code and similar provisions under any Federal, state, local or foreign Tax laws) and have, within the time and the manner prescribed by law, withheld from and paid over to the proper Governmental Authorities all amounts required to be so withheld and paid over under Applicable Laws, except where the failure to comply, withhold or pay would not, individually or in the aggregate, reasonably be expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Hurricane.

(e) During the five-year period ending on the date hereof, neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries was a distributing corporation or a controlled corporation in a transaction intended to be governed by Section 355 of the Code.

(f) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries joins or has joined, for any taxable period in the filing of any affiliated, aggregated, consolidated, combined or unitary Tax Return other than consolidated Tax Returns for the consolidated group of which Hurricane is the common parent.

(g) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries has entered into a listed transaction within the meaning of Treasury Regulation Section 1.6011-4(b)(2).

(i) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries is a party to or bound by any Tax Sharing Agreement, Tax indemnity obligation or similar agreement, arrangement or practice with respect to Taxes (including any advance pricing agreement, closing agreement or other agreement relating to Taxes with any Taxing Authority).

(j) No ownership change (as described in Section 382(g) of the Code) has occurred, or is expected to occur prior to the Effective Time, that would have the effect of limiting the use of pre-change losses (as described in Section 382(d) of the Code) of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries following the Effective Time.

(k) No Taxing Authority has asserted in writing any Liens for Taxes with respect to any assets or properties of Hurricane or any of its Subsidiaries, except for statutory liens for Taxes not yet due and payable.

(l) Neither Hurricane nor any of its Subsidiaries (other than any Subsidiary that is a member of Hurricane's consolidated group for United States federal income Tax purposes) has been a United States real property holding corporation within the meaning of Section 897(c)(2) of the Code during the applicable period specified in Section 897(c)(1)(A)(ii) of the Code.

Section 5.17 Employee Benefit Plans.

(a) For purposes of this Section 5.17, unless otherwise provided herein, Hurricane Employee Plans shall mean all Employee Benefit Plans maintained currently or at anytime in the last six years, or contributed to by Hurricane, any of Hurricane's Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates or to which Hurricane, any of Hurricane's Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates is obligated to contribute, or under which any of them has or may have any material liability for premiums or benefits. Section 5.17 of the Hurricane Disclosure Schedule sets forth a complete and accurate list of those Hurricane Employee Plans currently in effect.

(b) With respect to each Hurricane Employee Plan, Hurricane has made available to Cyclone complete and accurate copies of (i) such Hurricane Employee Plan (or a written summary of any unwritten plan) together with all amendments, (ii) in the case of any plan for which Forms 5500 are required to be filed, the annual reports (Form 5500) for the three most recent years with schedules attached, (iii) in the case of any plan that is intended to be qualified under Section 401(a) of the Code, the most recent determination letter from the Internal Revenue Service, (iv) each trust agreement, group annuity contract, administration and similar material agreements, investment management or investment advisory agreements, (v) the most recent summary plan descriptions and employee handbook, or other similar material employee communications relating to employee benefits matters, and (vi) the most recent financial statements for each Hurricane Employee Plan that is funded.

(c) Each Hurricane Employee Plan has been administered in all material respects in accordance with ERISA, the Code and all other Applicable Laws and in accordance with its terms, and each of Hurricane, Hurricane's Subsidiaries and their respective ERISA Affiliates have in all material respects met their obligations with respect to each Hurricane Employee Plan and in all material respects have timely made (or timely will make) all required contributions thereto. All filings and reports as to each Hurricane Employee Plan required to have been submitted to the Internal Revenue Service or to the United States Department of Labor have been timely submitted. With respect to the Hurricane Employee Plans, no event has occurred, and, to Hurricane's Knowledge, there exists no condition or set of circumstances in connection with which Cyclone, Hurricane or any of their respective Subsidiaries or any plan participant could be subject to any material liability (including penalties or taxes) under ERISA, the Code or any other Applicable Law, nor will the negotiation or consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement give rise to any such material liability.

(d) With respect to the Hurricane Employee Plans, there are no material benefit obligations for which contributions have not been made or properly accrued and there are no material benefit obligations which have not been accounted for by reserves, or otherwise properly footnoted in accordance with the requirements of GAAP, on the financial statements of Hurricane. To the Knowledge of Hurricane, no such determination, opinion or advisory letter has been revoked and revocation has not been threatened, and no such Hurricane Employee Plan has been amended or operated since the date of its most recent determination letter or application therefor in any respect, and no act or omission has occurred, that would reasonably be expected to adversely affect in any material respect its qualification or materially increase its cost. There has been no termination, partial termination or discontinuance of contributions to any Qualified Plan that will result in material liability to Hurricane. Each Hurricane Employee Plan which is required to satisfy Section 401(k)(3) or Section 401(m)(2) of the Code has been tested for compliance with, and satisfies in all material respects the requirements of Section 401(k)(3) and Section 401(m)(2) of the Code, as the case may be, for each plan year ending prior to the Closing Date for which testing is required to be completed.

Each party will advise the other parties, promptly after it receives notice thereof, of the time when the Registration Statement has become effective or any supplement or amendment has been filed, the issuance of any stop order, the suspension of the qualification of Hurricane Stock issuable in connection with the Merger for offering or sale in any jurisdiction, or any request by the SEC for amendment of the Joint Proxy Statement or the Registration Statement. If, at any time prior to the Effective Time, Hurricane or Cyclone discovers any information relating to any party, or any of their respective Affiliates, officers or directors, that should be set forth in an amendment or supplement to the Joint Proxy Statement or the Registration Statement, so that none of those documents would include any misstatement of a material fact or omit to state any material fact necessary to make the statements in any such document, in light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, the party that discovers that information shall promptly notify the other party and an appropriate amendment or supplement describing that information shall be promptly filed with the SEC and, to the extent required by law or regulation, disseminated to the stockholders of Hurricane and Cyclone.

(d) Hurricane and Cyclone shall cooperate with one another in (i) determining whether any action by or in respect of, or filing with, any Governmental Authority is required, or any actions, consents, approvals or waivers are required to be obtained from any Governmental Authority, in connection with the consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, (ii) seeking any of those actions, consents, approvals or waivers or making any of those filings, furnishing information required in connection therewith and seeking promptly to obtain any of those actions, consents, approvals or waivers and (iii) setting a mutually acceptable date for the Hurricane Stockholder Meeting and Cyclone Stockholder Meeting, so as to enable them to occur, to the extent practicable, on the same date. Each party shall permit the other party to review any communication given by it to, and consult with each other in advance of any meeting or conference with, any Governmental Authority and to the extent permitted by the applicable Governmental Authority, give the other party the opportunity to attend and participate in those meetings and conferences, in each case in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement.

Section 8.03 Public Announcements.

(a) Cyclone and Hurricane shall consult with each other before issuing any press release, making any other public statement or scheduling any press conference or conference call with investors or analysts with respect to this Agreement or the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and, except as may be required by Applicable Law, order of a court of competent jurisdiction or any listing agreement with or rule of any regulatory body, national securities exchange or association, shall not issue any such press release, make any such other public statement or schedule any such press conference or conference call before that consultation. The initial press release of the parties shall be a joint press release of Hurricane and Cyclone in the form that is mutually agreed.

(b) Before any Merger Communication of Hurricane, Cyclone or any of their respective participants (as defined in Rule 165 of the 1933 Act or Item 4 of Schedule 14A of the 1934 Act) is (i) disseminated to any investor, analyst, member of the media, employee, client, customer or other third-party or otherwise made accessible on the website of Hurricane, Cyclone or any such participant, as applicable (whether in written, video or oral form via webcast, hyperlink or otherwise), or (ii) utilized by any executive officer, key employee or advisor of Hurricane, Cyclone or any such participant, as applicable, as a script in discussions or meetings with any such third parties, Hurricane or Cyclone, as the case may be, shall (or shall cause any such participant to) cooperate in good faith with respect to any such Merger Communication for purposes of, among other things, determining whether that communication (x) is required to be filed under Rules 165 and 425 of the 1933 Act or (y) constitutes soliciting material that is required to be filed by Rule 14a-6(b) or Rule 14a-12(b) of the 1934 Act, as applicable. Hurricane, MergerSub or Cyclone, as applicable, shall (or shall cause any such participant to) give reasonable and good faith consideration to any comments made by the other such party or parties and their counsel on any such Merger Communication. For purposes of the foregoing, the term Merger Communication shall mean, with respect to any Person, any document or other written communication prepared by or on behalf of that Person, or any document or other material or information posted or made accessible on the website of that Person (whether in written, video or oral form via webcast, hyperlink or otherwise), that is related to any of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and, if reviewed by a relevant stockholder, could reasonably be deemed to constitute either (x) an offer to sell such stock or a solicitation of an offer to buy Hurricane Stock or (y) a solicitation of proxies (in each case, as defined in Rule 14a-1 of the 1934 Act) in favor of the Merger.

(a) Cyclone shall use all commercially reasonable efforts in accordance with and subject to Delaware Law, its certificate of incorporation and bylaws and the rules of Nasdaq to cause a meeting of its stockholders (the Cyclone Stockholder Meeting) to be duly called and held as soon as reasonably practicable for the purpose of voting on the approval and adoption of this Agreement and the Merger. Subject to Section 8.07, the Joint Proxy Statement shall contain the recommendation of the Board of Directors of Cyclone that Cyclone's stockholders approve and adopt this Agreement and the Merger (the Cyclone Recommendation). Section 8.05 Director and Officer Liability. Hurricane shall cause the Surviving Corporation, and the Surviving Corporation hereby agrees, to do the following:

(a) Hurricane shall cause the Surviving Corporation to assume the obligations with respect to all rights to indemnification and exculpation from liabilities, including advancement of expenses, for acts or omissions occurring at or prior to the Effective Time now existing in favor of the current or former directors or officers of Cyclone (or its Subsidiaries) (each an Indemnified Person) as provided under Cyclone's certificate of incorporation, bylaws or any indemnification Contract between such directors or officers and Cyclone (in each case, as in effect on the date hereof), without further action, as of the Effective Time and such obligations shall survive the Merger and shall continue in full force and effect in accordance with their terms.

(b) For six years after the Effective Time, Hurricane shall, or shall cause the Surviving Corporation to, provide officers and directors liability insurance in respect of acts or omissions occurring prior to the Effective Time covering each such Indemnified Person currently covered by Cyclone's officers and directors liability insurance policy on terms with respect to coverage and amount no less favorable than those of such policy in effect on the date hereof; provided, however, that Hurricane or the Surviving Corporation, as the case may be, may (i) substitute therefor policies of Hurricane or the Surviving Corporation, as the case may be, containing terms with respect to coverage (including as coverage relates to deductibles and exclusions) and amounts no less favorable to such directors and officers or (ii) request that Cyclone obtain such extended reporting period coverage under its existing insurance programs (to be effective as of the Effective Time); provided, further, that, in satisfying its obligation under this Section 8.05(b), neither Hurricane nor the Surviving Corporation shall be obligated to pay an aggregate annual premium in excess of the amounts described on Section 8.05(b) of the Hurricane Disclosure Schedule. It is understood and agreed that in the event such coverage cannot be obtained for such amount or less in the aggregate, Hurricane or the Surviving Corporation, as the case may be, shall only be obligated to provide such coverage as may be obtained for such aggregate amount. In lieu of the foregoing, Cyclone may obtain prepaid policies prior to the Effective Time, which policies may provide the Indemnified Persons with coverage of equivalent amount and on no more favorable terms than are provided by Cyclone's current policy in effect on the date hereof for an aggregate period of at least six years with respect to claims arising from facts or events that occurred on or before the Effective Time, including in connection with the approval of this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby. If such prepaid policies have been obtained prior to the Effective Time, Hurricane and the Surviving Corporation shall be relieved of all further obligations under this Section 8.05(b); provided, that Hurricane and the Surviving Corporation shall maintain such policies in full force and effect, and continue to honor their obligations thereunder.

(c) Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary and to the maximum extent permitted by Applicable Law, if any claim, action, suit, proceeding or investigation is made or brought against any Indemnified Person on or prior to the date that is the sixth anniversary of the Effective Time, the provisions of this Section 8.05 shall continue in effect until the final disposition of such claim, action, suit, proceeding or investigation.

(d) If Hurricane, the Surviving Corporation or any of their respective successors or assigns (i) consolidates with or merges into any other Person and shall not be the continuing or surviving corporation or entity of such consolidation or merger, or (ii) transfers or conveys all or substantially all of its properties and assets to any Person, then, and in each such case, to the extent necessary, proper provision shall be made so that the successors and assigns of Hurricane or such Surviving Corporation, as the case may be, shall assume the obligations set forth in this Section 8.05.

(e) The provisions of this Section 8.05 (i) are intended to be for the benefit of, and will be enforceable by, each Indemnified Person, his or her heirs and his or her representatives and (ii) are in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other rights to indemnification or contribution that any such person may have by Contract or otherwise.

Section 8.06 Stock Exchange Listing. Hurricane shall use its all commercially reasonable efforts to cause the shares of Hurricane Stock to be issued in connection with the Merger to be listed on Nasdaq, subject to official notice of issuance.

Section 8.07 No Solicitation; Other Offers.

(a) General Prohibitions. Subject to the remainder of this Section 8.07, neither Cyclone nor Hurricane (either, a No-Shop Party) shall, and no such No-Shop Party shall authorize or permit any of its respective Subsidiaries or any of their respective officers, directors, employees, investment bankers, attorneys, accountants, consultants or other agents or advisors to, directly or indirectly, (i) solicit, initiate or take any action to knowingly facilitate or knowingly encourage the submission of any Acquisition Proposal, (ii) enter into, continue or otherwise participate in any discussions or negotiations with, furnish any information relating to that No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries or afford access to the business, properties, assets, books or records of that No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries to, otherwise cooperate in any way with, or knowingly assist, participate in, knowingly facilitate or knowingly encourage any effort by any Third Party that is seeking to make, or has made, an Acquisition Proposal, (iii) make an Adverse Recommendation Change, (iv) grant any waiver or release under any standstill or similar agreement with respect to any class of equity securities of that No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries, (v) enter into any agreement in principle, letter of intent, term sheet or other similar instrument relating to an Acquisition Proposal (other than a confidentiality agreement of the sort and in the circumstances described in Section 8.07(b)) or (vi) propose publicly or agree to do any of the foregoing related to any Acquisition Proposal.

(b) Exception to Permit Discussions and/or Due Diligence. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Board of Directors of a No-Shop Party, directly or indirectly through advisors, agents or other intermediaries, may, prior to Hurricane Stockholder Approval (in the case of Hurricane) or Cyclone Stockholder Approval (in the case of Cyclone), (i) engage in negotiations or discussions with any Third Party that, subject to such No-Shop Party's compliance with Section 8.07(a), has made an unsolicited bona fide written Acquisition Proposal that such No-Shop Party's Board of Directors has determined in good faith (after consultation with its outside legal counsel and financial advisors of nationally recognized reputation) constitutes or is reasonably likely to lead to a Superior Proposal (a Takeover Response) and (ii) after making such determination furnish to such Third Party non-public information relating to that No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries pursuant to a confidentiality agreement with terms no less favorable to that No-Shop Party than those contained in the Confidentiality Agreement dated April 5, 2007 between Cyclone and Hurricane (the Confidentiality Agreement) (a copy of which shall be provided for informational purposes only to the other party), but in each case referred to in the foregoing clauses (i) and (ii) only if the Board of Directors of that No-Shop Party determines in good faith by a majority vote, after considering advice from outside legal counsel to that No-Shop Party, that failing to take that action would be inconsistent with its fiduciary duties under Applicable Law.

(c) Required Notices. The Board of Directors of a No-Shop Party shall not take any of the actions referred to in clauses (i) and (ii) of the preceding subsection unless that No-Shop Party shall have delivered to the other Party a prior written notice advising such other party that it intends to take such action. In addition, a No-Shop Party shall notify the other Party promptly (but in no event later than 24 hours) after receipt by that No-Shop Party, or any of its advisors) of any Acquisition Proposal, any indication that a Third Party is considering making an Acquisition Proposal or of any request for information relating to such No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries or for access to the business, properties, assets, books or records of such No-Shop Party or any of its Subsidiaries by any Third Party that may be considering making, or has made, an Acquisition Proposal. Such No-Shop Party shall provide such notice orally and in writing and shall identify the Third Party making, and the terms and conditions of, any such Acquisition Proposal, indication or request. A No-Shop Party shall keep the other Party reasonably informed, on a current basis, of the status and details of any such Acquisition Proposal, indication or request.

(d) Ability to Change Recommendation.

(A) Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary, a No-Shop Party and its Board of Directors shall be permitted, other than in response to an Acquisition Proposal, to effect an Adverse Recommendation Change if (i) such No-Shop Party shall not have received the Cyclone Stockholder Approval (in the case of Cyclone) or the Hurricane Stockholder Approval (in the case of Hurricane) and (ii) in response to a material development or change in circumstances occurring or arising after the date hereof that was not known to the Board of Directors of the No-Shop Party as of or prior to the date hereof (which change or development does not relate to an Acquisition Proposal and which change or development is not, and does not result from, a change in the market price of the common stock of the other party primarily as a result of the announcement of the transactions contemplated hereby) (such material development or change in circumstances, an Intervening Event), the Board of Directors of such No-Shop Party has determined in good faith (after consultation with, and taking into account the advice of, its outside legal counsel) that, in light of such Intervening Event, the failure of the Board of Directors of such No-Shop Party to effect such an Adverse Recommendation Change would result in a breach of its fiduciary duties under Applicable Law; provided that, the Board of Directors of a No-Shop Party shall nevertheless not make such an Adverse Recommendation Change pursuant to this sentence unless (x) such No-Shop Party promptly notifies the other party, in writing, at least three (3) Business Days before taking that action (unless the Intervening Event arises fewer than six (6) Business Days prior to the Hurricane Stockholders Meeting or Cyclone Stockholders Meeting, as the case may be) advising the other party that the Board of Directors of the No-Shop Party intends to take such action and specifying the reasons therefor in reasonable detail and (y) during such three (3) Business Day period, if requested by the other party, engaged in good faith negotiations with such party to amend this Agreement in such a manner that obviates the need for a Adverse Recommendation Change as a result of the Intervening Event.

(B) Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement to the contrary (but subject to the following sentence), in response to an Acquisition Proposal from a Third Party, a No-Shop Party and its Board of Directors shall be permitted to effect an Adverse Recommendation Change and, subject to compliance with the provisions of Section 11.04, immediately terminate this Agreement in accordance with Section 10.01 if (i) such No-Shop Party shall not have received the Cyclone Stockholder Approval (in the case of Cyclone) or the Hurricane Stockholder Approval (in the case of Hurricane), (ii) it has received an unsolicited bona fide written Acquisition Proposal from a Third Party, (iii) its Board of Directors has determined in good faith (after consultation with its outside legal counsel and financial advisors of a nationally recognized reputation and taking into account any adjustments to the terms and conditions of this Agreement proposed by the other party in response to the notice contemplated by the next sentence) that such Acquisition Proposal constitutes a Superior Proposal and (iv) its Board of Directors, after consultation with its outside legal counsel, determines in good faith that the failure to take such action would be inconsistent with its fiduciary duties under Applicable Law. However, the Board of Directors of a No-Shop Party shall nevertheless not make such an Adverse Recommendation Change or terminate this Agreement in accordance with the foregoing, unless, (x) such No-Shop Party promptly notifies the other party, in writing at least three (3) Business Days before taking that action, of its intention to make an Adverse Recommendation Change (such notice, a Notice of Superior Proposal) and specifying the reasons therefor, including the terms and conditions of any Superior Proposal that is the basis of the proposed action by the Board of Directors of the No-Shop Party and the identity of the person making the proposal (it being understood and agreed that any amendment to the financial terms or any material amendment to any other material term of any such Superior Proposal shall require a new Notice of Superior Proposal and a new three (3) Business Day period), (y) during such three (3) Business Day period, if requested by the other party, engaged in good faith negotiations with such party to amend this Agreement in such a manner than any Acquisition Proposal which was determined to constitute a Superior Proposal no longer is a Superior Proposal; and (z) at the end of such three (3) Business Day period, determined that such Acquisition Proposal has not been withdrawn and continues to constitute a Superior Proposal (taking into account any changes to the financial terms of this Agreement proposed by the other party following a Notice of Superior Proposal, as a result of the negotiations between the No-Shop Party and the other party pursuant to clause (y) or otherwise).

(C) Any Adverse Recommendation Change shall not change the approval of this Agreement, or any other approval of the Board of Directors of Cyclone or Hurricane, as the case may be, including in any respect that would have the effect of causing any state (including Delaware) corporate takeover statute or other similar statute to be applicable to the transactions contemplated hereby or thereby, including the Merger.

(e) Obligation to Terminate Existing Discussions. Each No-Shop Party shall, and shall cause its Subsidiaries and the advisors, employees and other agents of such No-Shop Party to, cease immediately and cause to be terminated any and all existing activities, discussions or negotiations, if any, with any Third Party conducted prior to the date hereof with respect to any Acquisition Proposal and shall use all commercially reasonable efforts to cause any such Third Party (or its agents or advisors) in possession of confidential information about that No-Shop Party that was furnished by or on behalf of that No-Shop Party to return or destroy all such information.

(f) Definition of Superior Proposal. For purposes of this Agreement, Superior Proposal means any bona fide, unsolicited written Acquisition Proposal (which definition shall be read, for this purpose, without the word inquiry in clause (i) and (ii) thereof) for at least a majority of the outstanding shares of Cyclone Stock or Hurricane Stock (as the case may be) or a sale or purchase of all or substantially all the assets of Cyclone or Hurricane (as the case may be) on terms that the Board of Directors of a No-Shop Party determines in good faith by a majority vote, after consultation with its legal advisor and financial advisors of nationally recognized reputation and taking into account such matters deemed relevant in good faith by such Board of Directors, including among other things, all the terms and conditions of the Acquisition Proposal, including any break-up fees, expense reimbursement provisions, conditions to consummation and long-term strategic considerations, are more favorable from a financial point of view to the stockholders of such No-Shop Party than the Merger and for which (x) financing, if a cash transaction (whether in whole or in part), is then fully committed or reasonably determined to be available and (y) such proposed transaction is reasonably capable of being completed on the terms set forth in the Acquisition Proposal, each as determined by the Board of Directors of that No-Shop Party.

(g) Nothing contained in this Section 8.07 shall prohibit a No-Shop Party from (x) taking and disclosing to its stockholders a position contemplated by Rule 14e-2(a) under the 1934 Act or making a statement required under Rule 14a-9 under the 1934 Act or (y) making any disclosure of factual matters to the stockholders of the Company if, in the good faith judgment of the Board of Directors of such No-Shop Party (after consultation with its outside legal counsel) it is required to disclose in order to not breach its fiduciary duties to such No-Shop Party's stockholders under Applicable Law; provided, however that (i) compliance with such rules shall in no way limit or modify the effect that any such action pursuant to such rules has under this Agreement and (ii) in no event shall such No-Shop Party or its Board of Directors or any committee thereof take, or agree or resolve to take, any action prohibited by Section 8.07(a), (b), (c) or (d).

Section 8.08 Accountant's Letters.

(a) Hurricane shall use commercially reasonable efforts to cause to be delivered to Cyclone two letters from Hurricane's independent public accountants, one dated approximately the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and one dated a date within two Business Days of the Closing Date, each addressed to Hurricane and Cyclone, in form reasonably satisfactory to Cyclone and customary in scope for comfort letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with registration statements similar to the Registration Statement.

(b) Cyclone shall use commercially reasonable efforts to cause to be delivered to Hurricane two letters from Cyclone's independent public accountants, one dated approximately the date on which the Registration Statement shall become effective and one dated a date within two Business Days of the Closing Date, each addressed to Cyclone and Hurricane, in form reasonably satisfactory to Hurricane and customary in scope for comfort letters delivered by independent public accountants in connection with registration statements similar to the Registration Statement.

Section 8.10 Access to Information. From the date hereof until the Effective Time and subject to Applicable Law and the Confidentiality Agreement, Cyclone and Hurricane shall (i) give to the other party, its counsel, financial advisors, auditors and other authorized representatives reasonable access (including for the purpose of coordinating integration planning activities and transition planning with the employees of Cyclone and its Subsidiaries) during normal business hours and upon reasonable notice to the offices, properties, books and records of such party, (ii) furnish to the other party, its counsel, financial advisors, auditors and other authorized representatives such financial and operating data and other information as such Persons may reasonably request and (iii) instruct its employees, counsel, financial advisors, auditors and other authorized representatives to cooperate with the other party in its investigation. Any investigation pursuant to this Section shall be conducted in such manner as not to interfere unreasonably with the conduct of the business of the other party. No information or knowledge obtained in any investigation pursuant to this Section shall affect or be deemed to modify any representation or warranty made by any party hereunder. Notwithstanding the foregoing, none of the parties shall be required to provide access to or to disclose information to another party where such access or disclosure would jeopardize the attorney-client or other legal privilege of the disclosing party or contravene any Applicable Law or binding agreement entered into prior to the date of this Agreement (provided that the parties shall use commercially reasonable efforts to provide such information or access in a manner that does not cause such prohibition or violation).

Section 8.11 Notices of Certain Events. Each party shall promptly notify the others of:

- (a) any material notice or other material communication from any Person alleging that the consent of such Person is or may be required in connection with the transactions contemplated by this Agreement, which consent would be material to Hurricane and its Subsidiaries taken as a whole after giving effect to the Merger;

- (c) any actions, suits, claims, investigations or proceedings commenced or, to its knowledge, threatened against, relating to or involving or otherwise affecting Cyclone or any of its Subsidiaries or Hurricane and any of its Subsidiaries, as the case may be, that, if pending on the date of this Agreement, would have been required to have been disclosed pursuant to any of such party's representations or warranties, as the case may be, or that relate to the consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement;
- (d) any inaccuracy of any representation or warranty contained in this Agreement at any time during the term hereof that would reasonably be expected to cause any condition set forth in Article 9 not to be satisfied; and
- (e) any failure of that party to comply with or satisfy any covenant or agreement to be complied with or satisfied by it hereunder that would reasonably be expected to cause any condition set forth in Article 9 not to be satisfied;

provided that the delivery of any notice pursuant to this Section 8.11 shall not limit or otherwise affect the remedies available hereunder to the party receiving that notice.

Section 8.12 Tax Treatment. Hurricane and Cyclone intend the Merger to qualify as a reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Code and the parties hereby adopt this Agreement as a plan of reorganization within the meaning of Treasury Regulation Section 1.368-2(g) and 1.368-3T(a). Each of Hurricane, MergerSub and Cyclone and each of their respective affiliates shall use their best efforts not to take any action, or fail to take any action, or cause any action to be taken or not taken, or suffer to exist any condition, which action or failure to take action or condition would prevent, or would be reasonably likely to prevent, the Merger from qualifying as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code.

Section 8.13 Affiliates. Cyclone shall deliver to Hurricane a letter identifying all known Persons who may be deemed affiliates of Cyclone under Rule 145 of the 1933 Act, and thereafter Cyclone shall use all commercially reasonable efforts to obtain a written agreement from each Person who may be so deemed as soon as practicable and, in any event, at least 30 days prior to the Effective Time, in a customary form to be agreed by the parties for purposes of Rule 145 of the 1933 Act (each, an Affiliate Agreement).

For the 2009 Annual Meeting and thereafter, the nominations for persons to serve on the Board of Directors of Hurricane shall be determined by the Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee of the Board of Directors of Hurricane. Prior to the 2009 Annual Meeting, any amendment of or change to Hurricane's by-law provision relating to the foregoing terms of this Section 8.16(d) shall require the affirmative vote of at least 75% of the full Board of Directors of Hurricane. The composition of the committees of the Board of Directors of Hurricane at the Effective Time shall be as specified on Exhibit H.

(e) Continuing Director Designation. Hurricane shall take all actions necessary to ensure that each Continuing Cyclone Director and each Continuing Hurricane Director is deemed to be a Continuing Director as such term is defined in the Amended Hurricane Charter.

Section 8.17 Control of Operations. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement that may be deemed to the contrary, nothing in this Agreement shall, directly or indirectly, give any party control over any other party's operations, business or decision-making before the Effective Time, and control over all such matters shall remain in the hands of the relevant party, subject to the terms and conditions of this Agreement. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary set forth in this Agreement, no consent of any party will be required with respect to any matter set forth in the Agreement to the extent the requirement of such consent would violate Applicable Law.

Section 8.18 Employee Matters.

(a) From and after the Effective Time, the Cyclone Employee Plans and the Hurricane Employee Plans in effect at the Effective Time will remain in effect (except as provided in Section 2.06) with respect to employees and former employees of Cyclone or Hurricane and their Subsidiaries, as applicable, and the dependents of such employees covered by such plans at the Effective Time (the Covered Employees), until such time as Hurricane otherwise determines, subject to Applicable Law, the terms of such plans and this Section 8.18. Prior to the Effective Time, Hurricane and Cyclone acting in good faith will cooperate in reviewing, evaluating and analyzing the Cyclone Employee Plans and the Hurricane Employee Plans with a view towards developing appropriate employee benefit and compensation plans, programs and arrangements for Covered Employees after the Effective Time which, among other things, (i) will treat similarly situated Covered Employees on a substantially equivalent basis, taking into account all relevant factors, including duties, responsibilities, geographic location, tenure, and qualifications and (ii) will not discriminate between Covered Employees who at the Effective Time are covered by Cyclone Employee Plans, on the one hand, and those covered by Hurricane Employee Plans, on the other hand, and which Hurricane will adopt subject to customary rights to subsequently amend or terminate such plans as Hurricane thereafter deems appropriate (individually a New Benefit Plan and collectively the New Benefits Plans).

(b) Each New Benefit Plan will (i) provide all of the Covered Employees eligible to participate in such plans with service credit for purposes of eligibility, participation, vesting and levels of benefits (but not for benefit accruals under any defined benefit pension plan or any retiree medical or other post-retirement welfare plan or as would otherwise result in a duplication of benefits) for all periods of employment with Cyclone or Hurricane or any of their respective Subsidiaries (or their predecessor entities) prior to the Effective Time, (ii) cause any pre-existing conditions or limitations, eligibility, waiting periods or required physical examinations under any New Benefit Plan which is a welfare plan to be waived with respect to the Covered Employees and their eligible dependents, to the extent waived under the corresponding plan in which the applicable Covered Employees participated immediately prior to the Effective Time and, with respect to life insurance coverage, up to the Covered Employee's current level of insurability, and (iii) give the Covered Employees and their eligible dependents credit for the plan year in which the Effective Time (or the date of commencement of participation in such New Benefit Plan) occurs towards applicable deductibles and annual out-of-pocket limits for expenses incurred prior to the Effective Time (or the date of commencement of participation in such New Benefit Plan).

(c) Immediately prior to the Effective Time, Cyclone shall make the payments set forth in the change of control agreements referred to in Section 8.18 of the Cyclone Disclosure Schedule. Section 8.18 of the Cyclone Disclosure Schedule also sets forth certain other employment arrangements to be entered into by Cyclone as of the Effective Time.

(d) Section 8.18 of the Hurricane Disclosure Schedule sets forth certain employment arrangements to be entered into by Hurricane as of the Effective Time.

(e) From and after the Effective Time, Hurricane will honor all accrued and vested benefit obligations to and contractual rights of current and former employees of Cyclone and Hurricane and their respective Subsidiaries under the Cyclone Employee Plans or Hurricane Employee Plans, as applicable, to the extent accrued and vested as of the Effective Time.

(f)(i) Nothing in this Section 8.18 shall be treated as an amendment of any Cyclone Employee Plan or any Hurricane Employee Plan (or an undertaking to amend any such plan), (ii) nothing in this Section 8.18 will prohibit Hurricane from amending, modifying or terminating any Cyclone Employee Plan or Hurricane Employee Plan pursuant to, and in accordance with, the terms thereof, and (iii) nothing in this Section 8.18 shall confer any rights or benefits including, without limitation third party beneficiary rights, on any person or employee other than Cyclone and Hurricane.

(g) From and after the Effective Time, Hurricane will enter into an indemnification agreement with each Continuing Cyclone Director, such indemnification agreement to be substantially in the form currently provided to Hurricane directors.

Section 8.19 Cyclone Debentures. Each of Cyclone, Hurricane and Merger Sub shall take each action required to be taken by such party pursuant to the Indenture dated as of March 22, 2004, between Cyclone and U.S. Bank Trust National Association, as trustee, with respect to the Cyclone Debentures, as necessary to consummate the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement in compliance therewith.

Section 8.20 Cooperation With Respect to Financing. Except to the extent prohibited by Applicable Law, Cyclone shall provide on a timely basis, and shall use all commercially reasonable efforts to cause its officers, employees and advisers to provide on a timely basis, all reasonable cooperation in connection with the arrangement of the financing contemplated by the Commitment Letter, or any alternative financing Hurricane may seek in order to consummate the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, and to otherwise cooperate with Hurricane in complying with its covenants under the Commitment Letter, including (i) facilitating the pledge of collateral (effective as of the Closing), (ii) providing financial and other pertinent information regarding Cyclone as may be reasonably requested by Hurricane, including all financial statements and financial data of the type required by Regulation S-X and Regulation S-K under the 1933 Act in a registered offering of securities and by ratings and credit agencies, (iii) providing other reasonably requested certificates or documents, including a customary certificate of the chief financial officer of Cyclone with respect to solvency matters, (iv) requesting Cyclone's independent auditors to provide customary consents and comfort letters and (v) requesting such customary legal opinions as may be reasonably requested by Hurricane. Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing herein shall be deemed to require Cyclone to pay any fees to, or reimburse any expenses of, a Third Party in connection with the arrangement of the financing contemplated by the Commitment Letter, or any alternative financing Hurricane may seek in order to consummate the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement.

Section 8.21 Rights Agreements.

(a) The Board of Directors of Cyclone shall take all further actions (in addition to those referred to in Section 4.25) reasonably requested by Hurricane in order to render the Cyclone Rights inapplicable to the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement. In addition, if the Closing does not occur before September 5, 2007, Cyclone shall (i) amend the Cyclone Rights Agreement in order to extend the date on which such agreement expires to a date no earlier than the End Date (as such date may be extended pursuant to this Agreement), or (ii) adopt a new rights agreement containing substantially the same terms as the Cyclone Rights Agreement, except that such agreement shall expire on a date no earlier than the End Date (as such date may be extended pursuant to this Agreement). Except as provided above with respect to the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, the Board of Directors of Cyclone shall not, without the prior written consent of Hurricane, amend, take any action with respect to, or make any determination under the Cyclone Rights Agreement (including a redemption of the Cyclone Rights) to facilitate an Acquisition Proposal.

(b) The Board of Directors of Hurricane shall take all further actions (in addition to those referred to in Section 5.25) reasonably requested by Cyclone in order to (i) render the Hurricane Rights inapplicable to the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement and (ii) ensure that each share of Hurricane Stock received as part of the Merger Consideration shall be accompanied by and issued together with an associated preferred share purchase right pursuant to and in accordance with the Hurricane Rights Agreement. Except as provided above with respect to the Merger and the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, the Board of Directors of Hurricane shall not, without the prior written consent of Cyclone, amend, take any action with respect to, or make any determination under the Hurricane Rights Agreement (including a redemption of the Hurricane Rights) to facilitate an Acquisition Proposal.

Section 9.02 Conditions to the Obligations of Hurricane. The obligations of Hurricane to consummate the Merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following further conditions:

(a)(i) Cyclone shall have performed in all material respects all of its obligations hereunder required to be performed by it at or prior to the Effective Time, (ii) the representations and warranties of Cyclone that are contained in this Agreement and in any certificate or other writing delivered by Cyclone pursuant hereto (which shall, for the purposes of this Section 9.02(a), be read without any qualification contained therein as to materiality or Cyclone Material Adverse Effect, except for the representation set forth in Section 4.09(a)) shall be true at and as of the Effective Time as if made at and as of such time (except to the extent that any such representation and warranty expressly speaks as of an earlier date, in which case such representation and warranty (as so read) shall be true as of such earlier date), with such exceptions as have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have, whether individually or in the aggregate, a Cyclone Material Adverse Effect, and (iii) Hurricane shall have received a certificate signed by the chief executive officer of Cyclone to the foregoing effect; and

(b) No Cyclone Material Adverse Effect shall have occurred since the date hereof and be continuing; and

(c) Holders of no greater than 10% of the issued and outstanding shares of Cyclone Stock shall have demanded appraisal for such shares in accordance with Delaware Law (excluding such holders who have failed to perfect, withdrawn or otherwise lost such right to appraisal) prior to the Closing; and within the meaning of 368(a) of the Code and Hurricane, Cyclone and MergerSub will qualify as parties to a reorganization within the meaning of 368(b) of the Code; provided that if Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP does not render such opinion, this condition shall nonetheless be satisfied if Hogan & Hartson LLP renders such opinion to Hurricane). In rendering such opinion, counsel to Hurricane (or, Hogan & Hartson LLP, if this condition is satisfied by an opinion of Hogan & Hartson LLP) shall be entitled to require and rely upon representations and covenants, including those contained in certificates of officers of Hurricane and Cyclone, reasonably satisfactory in form and substance to such counsel and provided by Hurricane and Cyclone substantially in the form of Exhibits E and F (allowing for such amendments or additions to the representations and covenants as such counsel deems reasonably necessary).

Section 9.03 Conditions to the Obligations of Cyclone. The obligations of Cyclone to consummate the Merger are subject to the satisfaction of the following further conditions:

(a)(i) Hurricane shall have performed in all material respects all of its obligations hereunder required to be performed by it at or prior to the Effective Time, (ii) the representations and warranties of Hurricane that are contained in this Agreement and in any certificate or other writing delivered by Hurricane pursuant hereto (which shall, for the purposes of this Section 9.03(a), be read without any qualification contained therein as to materiality or Hurricane Material Adverse Effect, except for the representation set forth in Section 5.09(a)) shall be true at and as of the Effective Time as if made at and as of such time (except to the extent that any such representation and warranty expressly speaks as of an earlier date, in which case such representation and warranty (as so read) shall be true as of such earlier date), with such exceptions as have not had and would not reasonably be expected to have, whether individually or in the aggregate, a Hurricane Material Adverse Effect, and (iii) Cyclone shall have received a certificate signed by the chief executive officer of Hurricane to the foregoing effect; and

In rendering such opinion, counsel to Cyclone (or, Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP, if this condition is satisfied by an opinion from Brown Rudnick Berlack Israels LLP) shall be entitled to require and rely upon representations and covenants, including those contained in certificates of officers of Hurricane and Cyclone, reasonably satisfactory in form and substance to such counsel and provided by Hurricane and Cyclone substantially in the form of Exhibits E and F (allowing for such amendments or additions to the representations and covenants as such counsel deems reasonably necessary).

Section 11.02 Survival of Representations and Warranties. The representations and warranties contained herein and in any certificate or other writing delivered pursuant hereto shall not survive the Effective Time. This Section 11.02 shall not limit any covenant or agreement of the parties which by its terms contemplates performance after the Effective Time.

Section 11.03 Amendments and Waivers.

(a) Any provision of this Agreement may be amended prior to the Effective Time, by action taken or authorized by the parties respective Boards of Directors, if, but only if, such amendment is in writing and is signed by each party to this Agreement; provided that, after Hurricane Stockholder Approval or Cyclone Stockholder Approval is obtained, no such amendment shall, without the further approval of those stockholders, make any change that would require such approval under Delaware Law. Any provision of this Agreement may be waived prior to the Effective Time if, but only if, such waiver is in writing and is signed by each party against whom the waiver is to be effective.

(b) No failure or delay by any party in exercising any right, power or privilege hereunder shall operate as a waiver thereof nor shall any single or partial exercise thereof preclude any other or further exercise thereof or the exercise of any other right, power or privilege. The rights and remedies herein provided shall be cumulative and not exclusive of any rights or remedies provided by Applicable Law.

Section 11.04 Fees and Expenses.

(a) Except as otherwise provided herein, all costs and expenses incurred in connection with this Agreement shall be paid by the party incurring such cost or expense. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Hurricane and Cyclone each shall pay 50% of (i) any fees and expenses, other than attorneys' and accounting fees and expenses, incurred in respect of the printing, filing and mailing of the Joint Proxy Statement and (ii) 50% of any and all filing fees due in connection with the filings required by or under the HSR Act.

(b) In the event that (i) Cyclone engages in a Takeover Response to an Acquisition Proposal that has been made directly to the stockholders of Cyclone generally or shall have otherwise become publicly known or any Person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional and whether or not withdrawn) to make an Acquisition Proposal and (ii) this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 10.01(b)(iii)(B), Cyclone shall pay Hurricane (by wire transfer of immediately available funds) within two (2) Business Days after such termination, a fee equal to $50,000,000 (the Hurricane Reduced Fee); provided, however, that if within 12 months following the date of such termination any of the events set forth in clauses (1) - (4) of clause (B) of the second to last sentence of this Section 11.04(b) occurs, Cyclone shall pay Hurricane (by wire transfer of immediately available funds), within two (2) Business Days following such event, a fee of $150,000,000 less any previously paid Hurricane Reduced Fee. If a Cyclone Payment Event (as hereinafter defined) occurs, Cyclone shall pay Hurricane (by wire transfer of immediately available funds), within two (2) Business Days following such Cyclone Payment Event (except in the case of a termination pursuant to Section 10.01(d)(iii) in which case the Hurricane Rejection Fee must be paid prior to and as a condition to the effectiveness of the termination triggering the Cyclone Payment Event), a fee of $150,000,000 (the Hurricane Rejection Fee). Cyclone Payment Event means the termination of this Agreement pursuant to (x) Section 10.01(b)(iii)(B) (if there has been an Adverse Recommendation Change by the Board of Directors of Cyclone, whether or not such Adverse Recommendation Change has been withdrawn, modified or changed), Section 10.01(c)(i) or Section 10.01(d)(iii) or (y) Section 10.01(b)(i), Section 10.01(b)(iii)(B) or Section 10.01(c)(ii) but (in the case of this clause (y) only if (A) prior to Cyclone Stockholder Meeting an Acquisition Proposal shall have been made to Cyclone or shall have been made directly to the stockholders of Cyclone generally or shall have otherwise become publicly known or any Person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional and whether or not withdrawn) to make an Acquisition Proposal and (B) within 12 months following the date of such termination: (1) Cyclone merges with or into, or is acquired, directly or indirectly, by merger or otherwise by, a Third Party; (2) a Third Party, directly or indirectly, acquires more than 50% of the total assets of Cyclone and its Subsidiaries, taken as a whole; (3) a Third Party, directly or indirectly, acquires more than 50% of the outstanding shares of Cyclone Stock or (4) Cyclone or any Cyclone Subsidiary(ies) shall have entered into any contract or agreement providing for any of the actions described in any of the immediately preceding clauses (1) through (3). Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, but subject to Section 11.04(e), in no event shall the total fees payable by Cyclone pursuant to this Section 11.04(b) exceed the Hurricane Rejection Fee.

(c) In the event that (i) Hurricane engages in a Takeover Response to an Acquisition Proposal that has been made directly to the stockholders of Hurricane generally or shall have otherwise become publicly known or any Person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional and whether or not withdrawn) to make an Acquisition Proposal and (ii) this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 10.01(b)(iii)(A), Hurricane shall pay Cyclone (by wire transfer of immediately available funds) within two (2) Business Days after such termination, a fee equal to $33,000,000 (the Cyclone Reduced Fee); provided, however, that if within 12 months following the date of such termination any of the events set forth in clauses (1) (4) of clause (B) of the second to last sentence of this Section 11.04(c) occurs, Hurricane shall pay Cyclone (by wire transfer of immediately available funds), within two (2) Business Days following such event, a fee of $100,000,000 less any previously paid Cyclone Reduced Fee. If a Hurricane Payment Event (as hereinafter defined) occurs, Hurricane shall pay Cyclone (by wire transfer of immediately available funds), within two (2) Business Days following such Hurricane Payment Event (except, in the case of a termination pursuant to Section 10.01(c)(iii) in which case the Cyclone Rejection Fee must be paid prior to and as a condition to the effectiveness of the termination triggering the Hurricane Payment Event, a fee of $100,000,000 (the Cyclone Rejection Fee)). Hurricane Payment Event means the termination of this Agreement pursuant to (x) Section 10.01(b)(iii)(A) (if there has been an Adverse Recommendation Change by the Board of Directors of Hurricane, whether or not such Adverse Recommendation Change has been withdrawn, modified or changed), Section 10.01(c)(iii) or Section 10.01(d)(i) or (y) Section 10.01(b)(i), Section 10.01(b)(iii)(A) or Section 10.01(d)(ii) but (in the case of this clause (y)) only if (A) prior to the Hurricane Stockholder Meeting an Acquisition Proposal shall have been made to Hurricane or shall have been made directly to the stockholders of Hurricane generally or shall have otherwise become publicly known or any Person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional and whether or not withdrawn) to make an Acquisition Proposal and (B) within 12 months following the date of such termination: (1) Hurricane merges with or into, or is acquired, directly or indirectly, by merger or otherwise by, a Third Party; (2) a Third Party, directly or indirectly, acquires more than 50% of the total assets of Hurricane and its Subsidiaries, taken as a whole; (3) a Third Party, directly or indirectly, acquires more than 50% of the outstanding shares of Hurricane Stock or (4) Hurricane or any Hurricane Subsidiary(ies) shall have entered into any contract or agreement providing for any of the actions described in any of the immediately preceding clauses (1) through (3). Notwithstanding anything herein to the contrary, but subject to Section 11.04(e), in no event shall the total fees payable by Hurricane pursuant to this Section 11.04(c) exceed the Cyclone Rejection Fee.

(d) Each of Hurricane and Cyclone acknowledges that the agreements contained in this Section 11.04 are an integral part of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and that, without these agreements, neither party would enter into this Agreement. Accordingly, if Hurricane or Cyclone fails promptly to pay any amount due to the other party pursuant to this Section 11.04, the non-paying party shall also pay any costs and expenses incurred by such other party in connection with a legal action to enforce this Agreement that results in a judgment against the non-paying party for that amount, together with interest on the amount of any unpaid fee and/or expense at the publicly announced prime rate of Citibank, N.A. from the date that fee was required to be paid to, but excluding, the payment date.

(e) Any payment by any other party under this Section 11.04 shall be the sole and exclusive remedy of the other such party and its Subsidiaries for damages against the other such party and any of its Subsidiaries and their respective Representatives with respect to the termination or breach giving rise to that payment; provided, however, that nothing herein shall relieve any party from any further liability for any willful or intentional breach of any material covenant or agreement of such party contained herein. For the avoidance of doubt, any payment to be made by any party under this Section 11.04 shall be payable only once to such other party with respect to this Section 11.04 and not in duplication even though such payment may be payable under one or more provisions hereof.

Section 11.05 Disclosure Schedule References. Notwithstanding anything in this Agreement that may be deemed to the contrary:

(a) Any reference in a particular Section of either the Cyclone Disclosure Schedule or the Hurricane Disclosure Schedule shall only be deemed to be an exception to (or, as applicable, a disclosure for purposes of) (i) the representations and warranties (or covenants, as applicable) of the relevant party that are contained in the corresponding Section of this Agreement and (ii) any other representations and warranties of such party that are contained in this Agreement, but only in each case if the relevance of that reference as an exception to (or a disclosure for purposes of) such representations and warranties would be readily apparent on its face to a reasonable person who has read that reference and such representations and warranties, without any independent knowledge on the part of the reader regarding the matter(s) so disclosed. The mere inclusion of an item in either the Cyclone Disclosure Schedule or the Hurricane Disclosure Schedule as an exception to a representation or warranty shall not be deemed an admission that such item represents a material exception or material fact, event or circumstance or that such item has had or would be reasonably expected to have a Material Adverse Effect on Cyclone or Hurricane, as applicable; and Cytc Corporation is a diversified diagnostic and medical device company that designs, develops, manufactures, and markets innovative and clinically effective diagnostic and surgical products. Cytc's products cover a range of cancer and women's health applications, including cervical cancer screening, pre-term birth risk assessment treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding, radiation treatment of early-stage breast cancer, and radiation treatment of patients with malignant brain tumors.

INFORMATION ABOUT CYTYC

Business

Cytc's goal is to become the market leader in providing innovative technologies that enable physicians and laboratories to improve patients' lives throughout the world. To accomplish this, Cytc's strategy is to build and expand upon its existing capabilities in the fields of obstetrics and gynecology, breast cancer, and neurosurgery, which include a sales force of more than 400 people around the world, a clinically driven marketing approach and research and development experience in surgical devices and diagnostic products.

Cytc operates its business in three reportable segments: domestic diagnostic products, domestic surgical products, and international.

Cytc was incorporated in Delaware in 1987. Cytc's internet address is <http://www.cytc.com>.

Domestic Diagnostic Products

Cytc's domestic diagnostic products division develops and markets the ThinPrep® System in the United States primarily for use in cytology testing applications, such as cervical cancer screening, and the FullTerm®, The Fetal Fibronectin Test, which offers clinical and cost benefits for the assessment of the risk of pre-term birth.

The ThinPrep System. The ThinPrep System is the most widely used method for cervical cancer screening in the United States. Cervical cancer is one of the most common cancers among women throughout the world. If detected in the pre-cancerous stage, virtually all cervical cancer cases are preventable. The ThinPrep System for cervical cancer screening is a covered benefit by most health insurance plans in the United States. The ThinPrep System consists of any one or more of the following: the ThinPrep 2000 Processor, ThinPrep 3000 Processor, ThinPrep Imaging System, and related reagents, filters and other supplies, such as the ThinPrep Pap Test and Cytc's proprietary ThinPrep PreservCyt® Solution.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the ThinPrep Pap Test in 1996 as an effective replacement for the conventional Pap smear method for the detection of low grade and more severe lesions in a variety of patient populations. The FDA later allowed expanded labeling to include Cytc's clinical trial data, which indicated a 59.7% increase in the detection of high grade lesions with the ThinPrep System. The ThinPrep System offers significantly improved specimen quality over that of the conventional Pap smear method. Since the FDA approval, a number of studies have been published or presented that evaluate the performance of the ThinPrep Pap Test compared to the conventional Pap smear. These studies have been conducted in every region of the United States, as well as Canada, the United Kingdom, Europe, Asia, Central America and Australia and have consistently demonstrated improved detection of pre-cancerous cervical lesions compared to the conventional Pap smear. Of particular importance is the number of studies demonstrating statistically significant increases in the detection of high-grade cervical lesions, which are the immediate precursors to cervical cancer. These studies demonstrate a wide range of benefits including increased disease detection, reduction of equivocal diagnoses and false negatives, improved specimen adequacy, adjunctive molecular testing, morphology assessment, and cost effectiveness.

The ThinPrep System also serves as a platform for additional gynecological applications using residual patient specimen collected in ThinPrep PreservCyt Solution. Cytc's PreservCyt Solution has been approved by the FDA as a transport medium in testing for sexually transmitted infections due to Chlamydia trachomatis and

Neisseria gonorrhoea directly from the ThinPrep Pap Test vial using Roche Diagnostics Corporation's (Roche) COBAS AmpliCt automated system, as well as using Gen-Probe Incorporated's APTIMA Combo 2 assay. In addition, Cytec's PreservCyt Solution has been approved by the FDA as a transport medium for testing for the human papillomavirus (HPV) using Digene Corporation's (Digene) Hybrid Capture 2 HPV DNA Assay. Cytec has also obtained approval of two pre-market approval supplements from the FDA: (i) one that allows for the removal of up to four milliliters from the PreservCyt sample vial before preparing the ThinPrep Pap Test slide to better facilitate ancillary testing, which improves the implementation of and provides broader application of molecular testing, particularly in high-volume laboratories and (ii) one related to the detection of endocervical and endometrial glandular lesions with the ThinPrep Pap Test.

The ThinPrep Imaging System is a device that uses computer imaging technology to assist in primary cervical cancer screening of ThinPrep Pap Test slides processed through the ThinPrep System. The system combines imaging technology to identify diagnostic fields of interest with an automated microscope to facilitate locating these fields. Cytec's clinical data indicates an increase in sensitivity in the detection of atypical squamous cells of undetermined significance and more severe lesions when using the ThinPrep Imaging System to review a ThinPrep Pap Test slide as compared to manual review. Additionally, cytotechnologists using the ThinPrep Imaging System are subject to higher workload limits compared to the workload limits applicable to manual review of slides. As a result, Cytec believes the ThinPrep Imaging System increases, and is expected to continue to increase, a cytology laboratory's screening productivity and diagnostic accuracy while leveraging the increased effectiveness of the ThinPrep Pap Test. Approximately 38% of all ThinPrep Pap Test slides were screened using the ThinPrep Imaging System by the end of 2006.

The ThinPrep Process. The ThinPrep process begins with the patient's cervical sample being taken by the physician using a cervical sampling device that, rather than being smeared on a microscope slide as in a conventional Pap smear, is rinsed in a vial filled with Cytec's proprietary PreservCyt Solution. This enables virtually all of the patient's cell sample to be preserved before the cells can be damaged by air drying. The ThinPrep specimen vial is then labeled and sent to a laboratory equipped with a ThinPrep Processor for slide preparation.

At the laboratory, the ThinPrep specimen vial is inserted into a ThinPrep Processor, a proprietary sample preparation device which automates the process of preparing cervical specimens. Once the vial is inserted into the ThinPrep Processor, a dispersion step breaks up blood, mucus, non-diagnostic debris and large sheets of cells and homogenizes the cell population. The cells are then automatically collected onto Cytec's proprietary ThinPrep Pap Test Filter, which incorporates a porous membrane specifically designed to collect cells. The ThinPrep Processor constantly monitors the rate of flow through the ThinPrep Pap Test filter during the cell collection process in order to prevent the cellular concentration from being too scant or too dense. A thin layer of cells is then transferred from the filter to a glass slide in a 20 mm-diameter circle and the slide is automatically deposited into a fixative solution. This slide is then available for microscopic examination.

The cytotechnologist manually screens each Pap test slide with a microscope to first determine the adequacy of the slide and to then differentiate diseased or abnormal cells from healthy cells. With the ThinPrep Imaging System, the screening process has been automated to combine the power of computer imaging technology and human interpretive skills. Prior to human review, the ThinPrep Imaging System rapidly scans and locates areas of interest for review. The cytotechnologist then places the imaged slide onto the ThinPrep Imaging System review scope which automatically presents each area of interest to the cytotechnologist in geographic order. The cytotechnologist evaluates each area of interest, selecting those areas which require further pathologist review, or the cytotechnologist may look beyond the identified areas of interest. Alternatively, the cytotechnologist can determine that the slide is negative and simply sign the case out. By directing the cytotechnologist to areas of interest on a slide, the system may increase a cytology laboratory's screening productivity and diagnostic accuracy.

Additional Applications of the ThinPrep System. In addition to acting as a replacement for the conventional Pap smear, the ThinPrep System also offers significant improvements for non-gynecological cytology screening applications. Non-gynecological cytology applications include fine-needle aspiration specimens (e.g., breast, thyroid, lung or liver), lavage specimens (e.g., breast, gastrointestinal), body fluids (e.g., urine, pleural fluid, ascitic fluid, pericardial fluid), respiratory specimens (e.g., sputum, brushing of respiratory tracts) and ancillary testing (e.g., cell blocks, immunocytochemistry, special stains). The ThinPrep System provides significant improvements over other methods of non-gynecological cytology screening by optimizing cell preservation through use of Cytyc's CytoLyt and PreservCyt Solutions, standardizing preparation of specimens using the gentle dispersion and transfer process of the ThinPrep 2000 Processor, simplifying slide screening by offering one single, well-preserved slide per case and allowing laboratories to perform additional ancillary testing out of one PreservCyt Solution vial.

FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test and Gestiva. In connection with Cytyc's acquisition of Adeza Biomedical Corporation, Cytyc acquired a patented diagnostic test, the Fetal Fibronectin Test, that utilizes a single-use, disposable cassette and is analyzed on Adeza's patented instrument, the TLIQ® System. This test is approved by the Food and Drug Administration, or FDA, for broad use in assessing the risk of preterm birth and is branded as FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test. FullTerm is designed to objectively determine a woman's risk of preterm birth by detecting the presence of a specific protein, fetal fibronectin, in vaginal secretions during pregnancy. Adeza began selling its single-use, disposable FullTerm in 1999 and launched its second-generation system, the TLIQ System, in 2001. Sales of TLIQ Systems to hospital and clinical laboratories allow healthcare providers access to Adeza's FullTerm, resulting in the potential for better patient care and for significant cost savings by avoiding unnecessary medical treatment. Cytyc has also acquired Gestiva (17 alpha-hydroxyprogesterone caproate injection 250 mg/ml), a pharmaceutical product candidate to prevent preterm birth in women at risk of preterm delivery. A New Drug Application, or NDA, has been submitted with the FDA for Gestiva. On January 31, 2007, Adeza announced that the Office of Orphan Products Development of the FDA has granted Orphan Drug designation covering Gestiva. If Gestiva is approved, Orphan Drug designation provides the opportunity for seven years of U.S. market exclusivity.

Customers and Competition of the Domestic Diagnostic Products Division.

Customers. Within the domestic diagnostic products division, no customer accounted for more than 10% of Cytyc's consolidated net sales for the year ended December 31, 2006 or the three or six months ended June 30, 2007. One customer, Quest Diagnostics, Incorporated, accounted for 11% and 17% of Cytyc's consolidated net sales for the years ended December 31, 2005 and 2004, respectively. These year-over-year decreases are primarily due to increased unit sales to new and existing customers, therefore resulting in net sales to Quest representing a smaller percentage of total consolidated net sales.

Competition. While Cytyc is the market leader in the sale of liquid-based slide preparation systems in the United States, it faces direct competition in the United States from Becton, Dickinson and Company (Becton Dickinson), who acquired TriPath Imaging, Inc. in the fourth quarter of 2006 and who also manufactures liquid-based slide preparation systems and slide imaging systems, and from other sample preparation systems on a worldwide basis. In addition, Cytyc competes with MonoGen, Inc. who uses a liquid-based slide preparation system. Cytyc also competes with the conventional Pap smear and other alternative methods for detecting cervical cancer and/or its precursors, such as that manufactured by Digene. Cytyc competes on the basis of a number of factors, including clinical performance, product quality, marketing and sales capabilities, manufacturing efficiency, price and customer service and support. The development, FDA approval and commercial marketing of competing systems for cervical cancer screening could have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Cytyc is currently the only provider of FullTerm, a fetal fibronectin test for predicting the risk of preterm birth. However, it could experience competition for the preterm birth diagnostic products from companies that manufacture and market pregnancy-related diagnostic products and services. These companies may be significantly larger and have access to substantially more capital for new product development and sales and marketing. These companies may develop new diagnostic products or technologies that could compete with or entirely displace Cytoc's products and technologies. For example, other biomarkers, including cytokines and other proteins indicative of infection, and proteomics are the subject of research that may yield new products or technologies.

In addition, healthcare providers use diagnostic techniques such as clinical examination and ultrasound to diagnose the likelihood of preterm birth. Healthcare providers may choose to continue using these techniques to assess their patients, rather than use FullTerm. They may also choose to use these techniques in conjunction with FullTerm to predict preterm birth.

Domestic Surgical Products

Cytoc's domestic surgical products division develops and manufactures the NovaSure® System, the MammoSite® Radiation Therapy System and the GlioSite® Radiation Therapy System and markets these products in the United States. As a result of Cytoc's acquisition of Adiana Inc., this segment also develops the Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization System® (TCS), which is a form of permanent female contraception intended as an alternative to tubal ligation and for which Cytoc is in the process of seeking a pre-market approval (PMA) from the FDA.

The NovaSure System. The NovaSure System allows physicians to treat women suffering from excessive menstrual bleeding in a minimally invasive manner to eliminate or reduce their bleeding. The FDA granted pre-market approval in September 2001 for the NovaSure System to treat excessive menstrual bleeding due to benign causes in women for whom childbearing is complete. The NovaSure System was commercially launched in the United States in early 2002.

Cytoc estimates that there are approximately seven million women in the United States that suffer from excessive menstrual bleeding who are generally considered beyond typical childbearing age and of these, approximately 2.5 million seek treatment. Industry sources estimate that one in five women worldwide is affected by excessive menstrual bleeding. Excessive menstrual bleeding can have a significant impact on a woman's quality of life by disrupting family, social, personal and professional activities. Gynecologists typically diagnose excessive menstrual bleeding, determine the best treatment and prescribe or perform the therapy. Successful treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding is typically defined as a reduction of menstrual blood loss to a normal level, a state known as eumenorrhea. Treatment may also result in the complete cessation of menstrual bleeding, a state known as amenorrhea. Often treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding begins with drug therapy, which preserves a woman's ability to bear children but may have significant side effects and/or contra-indications. Women who do not desire to have children may pursue alternative solutions including traditional surgeries, such as hysterectomy, dilation and curettage or rollerball ablation, or second generation minimally invasive endometrial ablation procedures like the NovaSure System.

The NovaSure System provides physicians and patients with a fast, simple, safe and effective treatment for excessive menstrual bleeding. The system consists of a disposable device and a controller that delivers radio frequency, or RF, energy to the endometrial wall of the uterus to ablate the endometrium. The NovaSure disposable device is a hand-held, single-use device that incorporates a flexible gold-plated mesh electrode used to deliver radiofrequency energy during the NovaSure procedure. The NovaSure RF Controller generates and delivers an amount of radiofrequency energy individually determined for each patient, monitors several critical treatment and safety parameters, and automatically controls other aspects of the procedure.

The NovaSure procedure is typically performed as an outpatient procedure in the hospital, ambulatory surgery center or physician's office. Cytoc believes the NovaSure System offers significant benefits to physicians, patients, hospitals and outpatient surgery centers, including clinical efficacy, fast and efficient treatment, lack of a need for pre-treatment, minimal anesthesia requirements, convenience, ease of use, a variety of safety features and nationally available reimbursement. Based on pivotal clinical trial data used to obtain initial U.S. regulatory approval, the NovaSure System was demonstrated to have a success rate for treatment of 77.7% at twelve months after treatment, as compared to a success rate of 74.4% by rollerball ablation, a traditional first generation endometrial ablation treatment.

The NovaSure System is the only commercially available second generation endometrial ablation therapy approved by the FDA to be performed without drug or surgical pre-treatment. Pre-treatment can be time-consuming, expensive and inconvenient for both patients and physicians and can result in uncomfortable or painful side effects and complications. The NovaSure procedure is completed in a single outpatient visit. In addition, in Cytoc's pivotal clinical trial, the mean procedure time, or the period from device insertion to device removal, for the NovaSure System was 4.2 minutes, as compared to 24.2 minutes for rollerball ablation. The NovaSure System has the shortest treatment time (average of 84 seconds of RF energy delivery), based on labeling indications for other FDA-approved second generation endometrial ablation therapies. In addition, patients have a median recovery room time of 85 minutes and most NovaSure patients return to normal activities within one to two days. In Cytoc's pivotal clinical trial, general anesthesia was used in 27% of NovaSure cases as compared to 82% of cases using rollerball ablation. Therefore, Cytoc believes NovaSure is less expensive, avoids the risks associated with general anesthesia and permits faster patient recovery as compared to rollerball ablation. Also, in Cytoc's experience, physicians and nursing personnel quickly understand how to use the NovaSure System effectively after proper training.

The MammoSite System. The MammoSite Radiation Therapy System is a single-use device for the treatment of early-stage breast cancer, which incorporates a patented balloon catheter that positions a therapeutic radiation source directly into the surgical cavity created after removal of a tumor from the breast. Industry sources estimate that one in eight women in the United States will eventually be diagnosed with breast cancer, which accounts for approximately one-third of all female cancers and is the second overall leading cause of cancer death. On a worldwide basis, over 1.2 million women are diagnosed with breast cancer annually. The MammoSite System positions a radiation source directly within the post-surgical cavity, delivering optimally dosed radiation to the tissue that is at the highest risk for cancer recurrence while minimizing radiation exposure to adjacent healthy tissue. Most importantly, the device allows for radiation treatment to be completed within five days as compared to six to seven weeks for traditional radiation therapy. Cytoc believes the MammoSite System also offers patients better cosmetic outcomes resulting in high patient satisfaction.

Over the past few decades, breast cancer diagnosis and treatment has been evolving from the radical mastectomy alone to lumpectomy, which is a less disfiguring, breast-conserving surgical therapy for early-stage cancer patients followed by a course of radiation. The MammoSite System provides partial-breast irradiation, which delivers high-dose radiation to the specific lumpectomy site for five days while minimizing radiation exposure to adjacent healthy tissue. The MammoSite System is an alternative to traditional radiation therapy during which the patient is exposed to external beam radiation for a period of six to seven weeks resulting in radiation exposure to healthy tissue in addition to the cancer site. Published data indicates that on an annual basis, approximately 25% of breast cancer patients who undergo lumpectomy surgery choose not to receive any form of post-surgical radiation as a result of the harmful effects of traditional radiation therapy and the hardship of an extended schedule of daily therapy.

There are few FDA restrictions on the use of the MammoSite System for patients undergoing lumpectomy; however, indications have shown that patients with tumors with a diameter of less than three centimeters and those at least 45 years of age are the most appropriate for the MammoSite procedure. The MammoSite System is comprised of an inflatable balloon catheter in which a radioactive source is introduced for therapy delivery. The inflatable balloon is inserted into the surgical cavity remaining after removal of the tumor. The catheter portion of the system allows the radioactive source to be added or withdrawn over the course of the therapy. This local placement of the balloon enhances therapeutic delivery of radiation to the tissue most likely to contain residual cancerous cells following surgery.

The GliSite System. Each year, over 18,500 people in the United States are diagnosed with primary malignant brain tumors. Brain metastases occur approximately ten times more often than primary tumors and occur in approximately 20% to 40% of all cancer patients, most commonly in patients with primary lung or breast cancer. Malignant brain tumors recur frequently, often within one year and typically near the original tumor site. Industry sources estimate that most patients die within one year of diagnosis and within six months of recurrence.

The GliSite System works in the same manner and utilizes similar technology as the MammoSite System. The GliSite System provides a full course of post-surgical radiation therapy using Iotrex, a proprietary, liquid radiation source for which Cytac has an exclusive license. In clinical trials, the GliSite System has demonstrated equivalent, median survival time, preservation of cognitive function and quality of life compared to external beam whole brain irradiation. The GliSite System allows for radiation treatment to be completed within three to six days and often as an outpatient therapy.

The Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization System. In connection with Cytac's acquisition of Adiana Inc., Cytac acquired the TCS, which is a form of permanent female contraception intended as an alternative to tubal ligation and for which Cytac is in the process of seeking a PMA from the FDA.

Customers and Competition of the Domestic Surgical Products Division Customers.

Customers. No customer within the domestic surgical products division accounted for more than 10% of Cytac's consolidated net sales for the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005 or 2004 or for the three or six months ended June 30, 2007.

Competition. Cytac's NovaSure System currently faces direct competition from Johnson & Johnson, Boston Scientific Corporation, American Medical Systems, Inc. and Microsulis Medical Limited, each of which currently markets an FDA-approved second generation endometrial ablation device for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding. In addition to these devices, there exist alternative treatments to Cytac's NovaSure System, such as drug therapy, hysterectomy, dilation and curettage and rollerball ablation. Rollerball ablation and the Johnson & Johnson endometrial ablation device have been in use for a longer time than Cytac's procedure for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding. Because drug therapy is an alternative to Cytac's NovaSure procedure, Cytac's competitors also include many major pharmaceutical companies that manufacture hormonal drugs for women.

As a result of the relatively short period of time the MammoSite and GliSite Systems have been in the market, these products face competition from the more commonly-known alternatives, such as treatment using external beam radiation, which has longer-term data on patient outcome, and products such as Xofigo Microtube, Inc.'s (Xofigo) electronic brachytherapy.

Current or future competitors may develop technologies and products that demonstrate better safety or effectiveness, clinical results, ease of use or lower cost than Cytac's surgical products. Cytac's surgical products may be rendered obsolete or uneconomical by technological advances or entirely different approaches developed by one or more of its competitors. Cytac believes the principal competitive factors in its market include: product safety and proven efficacy; reliability and ease of use; customer focus and service; effective training, marketing and distribution; patent protection; and reimbursement.

International

Cytac's international division markets its diagnostic and surgical products outside of the United States, with a presence in Canada, Europe, Australia and Hong Kong, all of which Cytac believes represent significant market opportunities for all of its products. These operations have been established to manage sales, service, training and distribution in the Canadian, European and Asia/Pacific markets. Cytac also utilizes a network of third-party distributors in various other countries throughout the world, including Japan and China. Cytac's international strategy is to establish sales channels appropriate for increasing its international customer base, taking into consideration factors such as government regulations and clinical practices of the particular country or region.

Cytc continues to work with the healthcare system in the United Kingdom to convert to liquid-based cytology. The local United Kingdom governments are required by law to convert to liquid-based cytology by 2008. Cytc has agreements in place that account for approximately 3.2 million of the estimated 4.5 million tests that are performed annually in the United Kingdom. As of June 30, 2007, Cytc estimates that approximately 43% of the United Kingdom pap tests have been converted to the ThinPrep Pap Test.

In July 2005, Cytc entered into an exclusive agreement with Olympus Corporation, Japan's microscope market leader, appointing Olympus as the sole and exclusive distributor for the sale of Cytc's ThinPrep System in Japan. Cytc officially launched the ThinPrep System in Japan with Olympus in June 2006 and subsequently has worked with Olympus to establish the ThinPrep System with key opinion leaders in the pathology and OB/Gyn community and at leading institutions across the country. Currently, there are approximately 10 million Pap tests performed annually in Japan.

During 2006, Cytc placed its first ThinPrep Imaging Systems in Belgium, France, Italy, Spain and South Africa.

To support its introduction of Novasure in the international markets, Cytc has expanded its sales team in several key areas and has experienced increased sales growth of its NovaSure product in the United Kingdom, as well as in other parts of Europe. In May 2006, the Australian government included Novasure in its list of technologies that can be reimbursed in the private insurance system. Since then, Cytc has experienced increased physician adoption of Novasure within this market. In addition, Cytc continues to experience increased NovaSure sales growth in Canada.

For MammoSite, Cytc is actively working with key opinion leaders in Europe to introduce the MammoSite System into the European marketplace and Cytc is working toward building its sales force where significant market opportunities exist. In 2006, several clinical studies of MammoSite were launched in the United Kingdom, Italy and Ireland. The goal of these studies is to demonstrate the value of MammoSite as a viable alternative to whole-breast radiation therapy and will add to the body of international clinical work already completed on MammoSite in France, Italy and other European countries.

Cytc believes that international sales and marketing efforts will continue to involve a lengthy process, requiring Cytc to educate healthcare providers, clinical laboratories, government entities and other third-party payors regarding the clinical benefits and cost-effectiveness of Cytc's current products, as well as any other new products and applications. In order to effectively market its current products and any other new products and applications on a worldwide basis, Cytc will need to continue to increase its international marketing, sales, and service capabilities.

Customers and Competition of the International Division.

Customers. No customer within the international division accounted for more than 10% of Cytc's consolidated net sales for the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005 or 2004 or for the three or six months ended June 30, 2007.

Competition. Similar to the diagnostic products marketplace in the United States, in Europe Cytc competes with the conventional Pap smear and other alternative methods for detecting cervical cancer and/or its precursors. In addition to Becton Dickinson, who acquired TriPath Imaging, Inc. in 2006, Cytc competes with a variety of other companies and off-market (non-FDA-approved) tests, since fewer regulatory barriers exist in Europe as compared to the United States. In the endometrial ablation market, Cytc competes with drug therapy, as well as the other endometrial ablation devices, including Johnson & Johnson's Thermachoice, Boston Scientific Corporation's HTA, the Microsulis Endometrial Ablation device and two other relatively small companies that market products that are not FDA approved. Cytc's MammoSite product faces competition from traditional mastectomy, whole breast radiation therapy after lumpectomy, and a more radical breast-conserving procedure called a quadrantectomy. Additional radiation therapy methods, such as intraoperative radiation therapy, are being explored in Europe by potential competitors; however, such alternative methods have not achieved widespread commercial use. In the Asia/Pacific region, the competition in the diagnostic business is composed of the conventional Pap smear, as well as many non-FDA-approved Pap tests, and in the surgical business, the competition is similar to that in Europe.

Third-Party Reimbursement

Laboratory customers bill most insurers (including Medicare) for the ThinPrep Pap Test using a Current Procedural Terminology (CPT) code specifically for liquid-based cervical cell specimen preparation. As of June 30, 2007, based on information provided to Cytyc, Cytyc believes that the ThinPrep Pap Test and the ThinPrep Imaging System is covered by Medicare and almost all third-party payors, thus allowing access for almost all women in the United States. Third-party reimbursement for Cytyc's NovaSure System is well established in the United States. Cytyc's NovaSure System is typically reimbursed by third-party payors and Medicare, with a majority of these third-party payors using Medicare reimbursement amounts, which are revised annually, as a benchmark in setting their reimbursement policies and rates, while other third-party payors do not follow the Medicare rates and may reimburse for only a portion of Cytyc's procedure or not at all. Medicare also sets reimbursement rates annually for endometrial ablations performed in a physician's office and those payment rates include the fees to the physician for performing the service, practice expense costs and professional liability insurance costs. The MammoSite System is generally used in hospital outpatient departments. Medicare's reimbursement system for hospital outpatient services, groups procedures into payment categories based on clinical and cost similarity and assigns a single payment amount to each group. A number of services associated with use of the MammoSite System, including implantation of the catheters, are separately reimbursed under this system with Medicare reimbursement amounts, which are revised annually, often used as a benchmark. Payments by non-Medicare third-party payors can vary substantially depending on the reimbursement arrangements between the third-party payor and the physician or hospital.

Research and Development

Cytyc's core research and development strategy is to enhance its existing product lines, such as the ThinPrep Imaging System, the NovaSure System, the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System and the GliaSite Radiation Therapy System through operational enhancements and cost reductions, as well as to continue to develop additional innovative medical diagnostic and surgical devices and therapeutic applications for women's health. To implement this strategy, Cytyc is utilizing internal resources, sponsored and collaborative research agreements with leading medical institutions and acquisitions of intellectual property.

There can be no assurance that Cytyc will be successful in developing or marketing additional applications of the ThinPrep System, the NovaSure System, the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System, the GliaSite Radiation Therapy System, the Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization (TCS) System, the Cellient Automated Cell Block System or the Helica Thermal Coagulator System or that Cytyc will further enhance the ThinPrep Imaging System. Furthermore, additional applications may require additional approvals from the FDA prior to the marketing of such applications. There can be no assurance that the FDA would approve such submissions on a timely basis, if at all.

Cytyc's research and development expenses totaled $11.4 million and $21.1 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, and $44.1 million, $32.3 million and $20.8 million for the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005 and 2004, respectively.

Business Development

Cytyc is continually evaluating a variety of new business opportunities that would take advantage of its distribution channels, customer call points, and existing technology. Cytyc also evaluates opportunities that could provide new customer types, distribution channels and technology capabilities. Cytyc has been making investments in early-stage companies and expects to continue to make these investments in the future (See Note

Table of Contents

2(j) Other Assets in the notes to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus). Cytyc believes there are new developments in diagnostic tests and therapeutics both within and outside of the women's health sector that could represent promising growth opportunities which Cytyc might pursue through an array of potential transactions, including acquisitions, partnerships, collaborations, early-stage venture investing and direct funding of research projects, to provide access to new technologies and/or enhance product offerings. Cytyc expects that business development will continue to play an important role in the development and execution of its growth strategy.

Sales and Marketing

Cytyc's sales and marketing objective is to achieve broad market acceptance of the ThinPrep System, including: the ThinPrep Imaging System, for cervical cancer screening and other diagnostic applications; the NovaSure System for treating excessive menstrual bleeding; the MammoSite and GliaSite Systems for the treatment of breast and malignant brain tumors; and the Fetal Fibronectin Test for assessing the risk of preterm birth. A critical element of Cytyc's strategy in the United States is to utilize the results of its clinical trials and expanded FDA labeling to demonstrate the safety, efficacy and productivity improvements to patients, healthcare providers, clinical laboratories and third-party payors.

Cytyc plans to continue to expand its market reach through the efforts of its more than 400-person worldwide direct sales force focused on healthcare providers, clinical laboratories and third-party payors. Cytyc's integrated sales force has been trained to cross-sell Cytyc's product offerings, as appropriate. Cytyc is focusing significant sales and marketing efforts towards continued market adoption of the ThinPrep Imaging System, the NovaSure System, the MammoSite System, the GliaSite System and the Fetal Fibronectin Test. Cytyc expects to use its existing relationships with customers, healthcare providers and third-party payors to successfully market all of its products. Cytyc's sales and marketing programs also focus on educating healthcare providers regarding the use of Cytyc's products and on providing materials to help them educate their patients about Cytyc's procedure. Cytyc's international sales and marketing efforts involve educating healthcare providers, clinical laboratories, government entities and other third-party payors regarding the clinical benefits and cost-effectiveness of Cytyc's current products, as well as any other new products and applications. Cytyc will continue to increase its international marketing and sales capabilities in order to effectively market Cytyc's current and any other new products and applications.

Raw Materials and Manufacturing

Cytyc purchases many of the components and raw materials used in its products from numerous suppliers worldwide. In some cases, Cytyc has established long-term supply contracts with its suppliers. For reasons of quality assurance, sole source availability or cost effectiveness, certain components and raw materials are available only from a sole supplier. Cytyc works closely with its suppliers and develops contingency plans to assure continuity of supply while maintaining high quality and reliability. Due to the FDA's requirements regarding manufacture of Cytyc's products, Cytyc may not be able to quickly establish additional or replacement sources for certain components or materials. Generally, Cytyc has been able to obtain adequate supplies of such raw materials and components. In the event that Cytyc is unable to obtain sufficient quantities of raw materials or components on commercially reasonable terms or in a timely manner, Cytyc would not be able to manufacture its products on a timely and cost-competitive basis, which may have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Cytyc assembles all ThinPrep Processors and ThinPrep Imaging Systems at its facility in Marlborough, Massachusetts. Cytyc fills all of the ThinPrep System vials at its facility in Londonderry, New Hampshire. Cytyc manufactures its ThinPrep System filters at both its Marlborough and Londonderry facilities. Cytyc manufactures the majority of the NovaSure disposable devices at its manufacturing facility in San Jose, Costa Rica and manufactures the remainder at its manufacturing facility in Mountain View, California. Additionally, Cytyc contracts with a leading global electronics contract manufacturer for production of the RF Controller component of Cytyc's NovaSure System and Cytyc takes delivery of finished controllers at its Mountain View, California facility for testing and packaging. Cytyc contracts with several third-parties to manufacture portions of Cytyc's MammoSite System and GliaSite System based on Cytyc's specifications. Cytyc takes delivery of the finished MammoSite System and certain supplies for Cytyc's GliaSite System at its Mountain View, California facility.

Quality Systems Management

Cytyc places significant emphasis on providing quality products and services to its customers. A major portion of Cytyc's quality systems relate to the design and development, manufacturing, packaging, sterilization, handling, distribution and labeling of Cytyc's products. These quality systems, including control procedures that are developed and implemented by technically trained professionals, result in rigid specifications for product design, raw materials, components, packaging materials, labels, sterilization procedures and overall manufacturing process control. Cytyc's quality systems integrate the efforts of suppliers of raw materials, components and finished goods to ensure Cytyc meets customer and regulatory requirements. These systems are designed to ensure that appropriate standards and requirements are met before goods are released for distribution. Cytyc's quality systems are also designed to ensure that appropriate standards and requirements are met in the post-production support of its products, including warehousing, servicing and monitoring.

Certain of Cytyc's facilities are certified under ISO 13485:2003, an international quality standard. There can be no assurance that Cytyc will be able to maintain compliance with ISO requirements or that failure to maintain compliance with these requirements will not have a material adverse effect upon Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Government Regulation

The manufacture, sale, lease and service of medical diagnostic and surgical devices intended for commercial use are subject to extensive governmental regulation in the United States and in other countries. Cytyc's existing products are regulated in the United States as medical devices by the FDA under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FDC Act). The ThinPrep System, ThinPrep Imaging System, FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test and NovaSure System required separate pre-market application (PMA) approval prior to commercial distribution, which demonstrated to the FDA that these devices are safe and effective for their intended uses. The devices which comprise the MammoSite System and the GliaSite System required the clearance of 510(k) submissions prior to commercial distribution, based upon a finding that the devices are substantially equivalent to legally marketed devices that are not subject to PMA approval. Pursuant to the FDC Act, the FDA regulates the research, testing, manufacture, safety, labeling, storage, record keeping, advertising, distribution, production and servicing of medical devices in the United States. Non-compliance with applicable requirements of the FDC Act can result in the failure of the government to allow 510(k) clearance or PMA approval for a device, withdrawal of clearances or approvals, total or partial suspension of production, fines, injunctions, civil penalties, recall or seizure of products, and criminal prosecution.

The FDA's regulations may require agency approval of a PMA supplement or clearance of a new 510(k) notification for certain changes if they affect the safety, effectiveness or substantial equivalence of the device, respectively, as a result of: new indications for use; labeling changes; the use of a different facility or establishment to manufacture, process, or package the device; changes in manufacturing facilities, methods, or quality control systems; and changes in performance or design specifications.

The FDA regulatory process can be expensive, lengthy and uncertain for both original and supplemental clearance or approvals. There can be no assurance that Cytyc will be able to obtain necessary regulatory clearances or approvals for any proposed future products or modifications of existing products. The failure to obtain clearances or approvals, loss of previously received approvals, or failure to comply with existing or future regulatory requirements, would have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Beginning in 1996, FDA and/or PMA approvals were obtained for the following:

the ThinPrep System for cervical cancer screening;

the expanded product labeling for the ThinPrep System to include the claim that the ThinPrep System is significantly more effective in detecting Low-Grade Squamous Intraepithelial Lesions and more severe lesions than the conventional Pap smear method in a variety of patient populations;

Cytoc s PMA supplement application for use of a combination of an endocervical brush and spatula sampling devices;

Cytoc s PMA supplement applications for the testing for HPV directly from a single vial of patient specimen collected in ThinPrep solution using Digene s Hybrid Capture and Hybrid Capture II HPV DNA Assay, respectively;

the ThinPrep 3000 Processor, Cytoc s batch processor for automated sample preparation;

Cytoc s PMA supplement application for the inclusion of data describing the improved detection of High-Grade Squamous Intraepithelial Lesions with the ThinPrep Pap Test;

Cytoc s PMA supplement applications to allow for testing for Chlamydia trachomatis and Neisseria gonorrhoea directly from the ThinPrep Pap Test vial using Roche s COBAS Amplicor automated system, as well as Gen-Probe Incorporated s APTIMA Combo 2 Assay;

Cytoc s PMA application for the ThinPrep Imaging System;

Cytoc s PMA supplement that allows for the removal of up to four milliliters from the PreservCyt sample vial before preparing the ThinPrep Pap Test slide to better facilitate ancillary testing, which improves the implementation of and provides broader application of molecular testing, particularly in high-volume laboratories;

Cytoc s PMA application related to the detection of endocervical and endometrial glandular lesions with the ThinPrep Pap Test; and reprocessing specimens.

Cytoc anticipates that any other proposed uses for the ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System that impact safety or effectiveness would likely require approval of a PMA supplement or a new PMA application.

The PMA application for the NovaSure System, which Cytoc acquired in March 2004, was approved by the FDA in September 2001, authorizing commercialization of the NovaSure System for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding due to benign causes in pre-menopausal women who have completed childbearing. The PMA for FullTerm was approved on September 21, 2005 to detect fetal fibronectin in cervicovaginal secretions to be used as an aid to rapidly assess the risk of preterm delivery. The MammoSite System, which Cytoc acquired in March 2005, was cleared by the FDA in May 2002 for the delivery of intra-cavity radiation to the surgical margins following lumpectomy for breast cancer. Subsequent FDA clearances were received in May 2003, February 2004 and August 2004 relating to additional types of MammoSite catheters. The GliaSite System, which Cytoc also acquired in March 2005, received 510(k) clearance in April 2001, authorizing commercialization of the GliaSite System for radiation therapy in patients with any malignant brain tumor following resection surgery.

The ThinPrep, ThinPrep Imaging, FullTerm, NovaSure, MammoSite and GliaSite Systems are, and any other products Cytoc may manufacture or distribute pursuant to an approved PMA application or supplements or 510(k) clearance will be, subject to pervasive and continuing regulation by the FDA, including the Quality System Regulation, or QSR, which requires manufacturers to follow design, testing, control, documentation and other quality assurance procedures; labeling requirements; the FDA's general prohibition against false or misleading statements in labeling or advertising products for unapproved or off-label uses; the Corrections and Removals regulation, which requires that manufacturers report to the FDA recalls and field corrective actions taken to reduce a risk to health or to remedy a violation of the FDC Act that may pose a risk to health; and the Medical Device Reporting regulation, which requires that manufacturers report to the FDA if their device may have caused or contributed to a death or serious injury or malfunctioned in a way that would likely cause or contribute to a death or serious injury if it were to recur. Cytyc is subject to inspection by the FDA to determine its compliance with regulatory requirements. Product labeling, advertising and promotional activities may be subject to scrutiny by the FDA and, in certain instances, by the Federal Trade Commission. Products may only be promoted by Cytyc and any of its distributors for their approved indications. No assurance can be given that modifications to the labeling that may be required by the FDA in the future will not adversely affect Cytyc's ability to market or sell the ThinPrep, ThinPrep Imaging, FullTerm, NovaSure, MammoSite and GliaSite Systems, or any other products Cytyc has developed, may develop or acquire. Cytyc's failure to comply with applicable regulatory requirements could result in possible legal actions by the FDA and other regulatory agencies. Such actions may include fines, product recalls, product seizures, injunctions to halt manufacture and distribution, and other civil and criminal sanctions.

Cytyc is also subject to various federal and state laws pertaining to healthcare fraud and abuse, including federal and state anti-kickback laws, as well as the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act. Anti-kickback laws make it illegal for an entity to solicit, offer, receive, or pay remuneration or anything of value in exchange for, or to induce, the referral of business or the purchasing, leasing, ordering, or arranging for or recommending the purchase, lease or order of any item or service paid for by Medicare, Medicaid or certain other federal healthcare programs. The statute has been broadly interpreted to cover a wide array of practices. Some states have passed similar laws. The federal government has published regulations that identify safe harbors, which if applicable will assure that certain arrangements will not be found to violate the federal anti-kickback statutes. Cytyc's activities relating to the sale and marketing of its products may be subject to scrutiny under these laws. While Cytyc makes every effort to comply with the regulations, it is possible that Cytyc's practices might be challenged under federal anti-kickback or similar laws due to the breadth of the statutory provisions and the absence of extensive guidance regarding compliance. Violations of these laws may be punishable by criminal and/or civil sanctions, including fines and civil monetary penalties, as well as the possibility of exclusion from federal healthcare programs (including Medicare and Medicaid). If the government were to raise questions about Cytyc's behavior or find that Cytyc has violated these laws, there could be a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business. Cytyc's activities could be subject to challenge for the reasons discussed above, due to the broad scope of these laws and the increasing attention being given to them by law enforcement authorities.

Cytyc also is subject to numerous federal, state and local laws relating to such matters as safe working conditions, manufacturing practices, environmental protection, fire hazard control and disposal of hazardous or potentially hazardous substances. There can be no assurance that Cytyc will not be required to incur significant costs to comply with such laws and regulations in the future, or that such laws or regulations will not have a material adverse effect upon Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Sales of medical devices outside of the United States are subject to foreign regulatory requirements that vary widely from country to country. Cytyc meets the essential requirements of the European In Vitro Medical Devices Directive that apply to the ThinPrep Pap Test, ThinPrep Imaging System and FullTerm, as well as the essential requirements of the European Medical Devices Directive that apply to the NovaSure, MammoSite and GliaSite Systems. As a result, Cytyc's products bear the CE mark and may be legally marketed in the countries of the European Union and the European Free Trade Association. The time required to obtain approval from a foreign country to market and sell Cytyc's products may be longer or shorter than that required for FDA approval and the requirements may differ. No assurance can be given that such foreign regulatory approvals will be granted on a timely basis, or at all. In addition, there can be no assurance that Cytyc will meet the FDA's export requirements or receive FDA export approval when such approval is necessary, or that countries to which the devices are to be exported will approve the devices for import. Cytyc's failure to meet the FDA's export requirements or obtain FDA export approval when required to do so, or to obtain approval for importation into various countries, could have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, financial condition and results of operations.

Table of Contents

The laboratories that purchase the ThinPrep System, ThinPrep Imaging System and FullTerm are subject to extensive regulation under the Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA), which require laboratories to meet specified standards in the areas of personnel qualifications, administration, participation in proficiency testing, patient test management, quality control, quality assurance and inspections. Cytyc believes that the ThinPrep System, including the ThinPrep Imaging System and FullTerm, operate in a manner that will allow laboratories purchasing the device to comply with CLIA requirements. However, there can be no assurance that adverse interpretations of current CLIA regulations or future changes in CLIA regulations would not have an adverse effect on sales of the ThinPrep System, ThinPrep Imaging System and FullTerm.

Patents, Trademarks, Copyrights, Licenses and Proprietary Rights

Cytyc relies on a combination of patents, trademarks, trade secrets, copyrights and confidentiality agreements to protect its proprietary technology, rights and know-how. Cytyc pursues patent protection in the United States and files corresponding patent applications in certain foreign jurisdictions. Cytyc holds approximately 120 issued United States patents, approximately 190 pending United States patent applications, and corresponding foreign patents or patent applications relating to various aspects of Cytyc's products, including the ThinPrep System, ThinPrep Imaging System, NovaSure System, MammoSite System, GliaSite System and other related technologies.

There can be no assurance, however, that pending patent applications will ultimately issue as patents or that the claims allowed in any of Cytyc's existing or future patents will provide competitive advantages for its products or will not be successfully challenged or circumvented by competitors. In addition, Cytyc cannot be sure that its products or technologies do not infringe patents that may be granted in the future pursuant to pending patent applications or that Cytyc's products do not infringe any existing patents or proprietary rights of third parties. In the event that any relevant claims of third-party patents are successfully enforced against Cytyc, Cytyc could be prevented from selling its products or could be required to obtain licenses from the owners of such patents or be required to redesign Cytyc's products to avoid infringement. There can be no assurance that such licenses would be available or, if available, would be on terms acceptable to Cytyc or that Cytyc would be successful in any attempts to redesign Cytyc's products or processes to avoid infringement. Cytyc's failure to obtain these licenses or to successfully redesign its products would have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Cytyc's employees and third parties with whom Cytyc has entered into confidentiality agreements are obligated to maintain the confidentiality of Cytyc's trade secrets and proprietary information. There can be no assurance that such obligations will effectively prevent disclosure of Cytyc's confidential information or provide meaningful protection for Cytyc's confidential information if there is unauthorized use or disclosure. At the same time, technology similar to Cytyc's may be independently developed by its competitors.

Cytyc holds an exclusive worldwide license from DEKA Products, LP (DEKA) related to certain elements of the ThinPrep System. In addition, Cytyc is the exclusive licensee of certain patented technology for use in the field of diagnosis and treatment of breast cancer and for technology related to Cytyc's GliaSite System, for the life of the related patents. Cytyc currently is obligated to pay royalties in varying amounts. Cytyc's failure to maintain rights to such technology could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition and results of operations.

Cytyc presently has several trademarks, some of which have been registered with the United States Patent and Trademark Office and other comparable agencies worldwide. There can be no assurance that any copyrights or trademarks Cytyc owns will provide competitive advantages for Cytyc's products or will not be challenged or circumvented by its competitors. Cytyc also holds unregistered copyrights on internally developed documentation and operating software developed for the ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System.

Litigation may be necessary to defend against claims of infringement, or to enforce Cytyc's patents, copyrights, trademarks or trade secrets which could result in substantial cost to Cytyc and diversion of focus away from its business. In addition, the laws of some foreign countries do not protect Cytyc's proprietary rights to the same extent as do the laws of the United States, which may reduce the competitive advantage afforded by Cytyc's intellectual property protection in certain jurisdictions.

Seasonality

Cytyc's industry is subject to seasonal fluctuations in operating results and cash flows, which may reduce net sales and operating cash flows below annual averages. Cytyc experiences fluctuations in its business as a result of time of year, physicians' vacation schedules and severe weather, which vary in severity from year to year. Therefore, comparison of the results of successive quarters may not accurately reflect trends or results for the full year.

Employees

As of June 30, 2007, Cytyc employed approximately 1,550 persons worldwide. Cytyc is not subject to any collective bargaining agreements, has never experienced a work stoppage and considers its relations with its employees to be good.

Financial Information Regarding Segment Reporting and Geographic Areas

Cytyc operates its business in three segments: domestic diagnostic products, domestic surgical products and international. Please refer to Note 2(t) Segment and Enterprise-Wide Reporting in the notes to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Mr. McDaniel served as a consultant to and a director of CP Ventures, Inc., a venture capital firm, from April 1995 to April 1996 and June 1996, respectively. From 1987 to March 1995, Mr. McDaniel was the President and a director of CP Ventures, Inc.

Marla S. Persky (51) Ms. Persky became one of Cytyc's directors in November 2003. She is Vice President, General Counsel and Corporate Secretary of Boehringer Ingelheim Corporation. Prior to joining Boehringer in May 2005, Ms. Persky was with Baxter International Inc. for nineteen years in a variety of legal and management positions, most recent of which was Acting General Counsel and Corporate Secretary.

Directors Whose Terms expire in 2009

Sally W. Crawford (53) Ms. Crawford became one of Cytyc's directors in January 1998. From April 1985 until January 1997, Ms. Crawford served as Chief Operating Officer of Healthsource, Inc., a publicly held managed care organization headquartered in New Hampshire. During her tenure at Healthsource, Inc., Ms. Crawford held a variety of positions and responsibilities, including leading that company's Northern Region operations and marketing efforts. Since January 1997, Ms. Crawford has been a health care consultant in New Hampshire. Ms. Crawford serves as a director of Exact Sciences Corporation, Chittenden Corporation and CombinatoRx, Inc.

Patrick J. Sullivan (55) Mr. Sullivan has served as Cytyc's Chief Executive Officer and as one of Cytyc's directors since March 1994. In January 2001, he was named Vice Chairman of the Cytyc board of directors and in January 2002 he was named Chairman-elect. In May 2002, Mr. Sullivan became Chairman of the Board. From March 1994 to January 2002, and from July 2002 to the present, Mr. Sullivan also has been serving as President, and from January 1991 to March 1994, Mr. Sullivan served as Vice President of Sales and Marketing. Prior to joining Cytyc, Mr. Sullivan was employed in several senior marketing positions for five years by Abbott Laboratories, a diversified healthcare company, and was a consultant with McKinsey and Company, an international management consulting firm. Mr. Sullivan is a graduate, with distinction, of the United States Naval Academy and received an M.B.A., with distinction, from Harvard University.

Wayne Wilson (58) Mr. Wilson became one of Cytyc's directors in July 2003. A certified public accountant, Mr. Wilson has been an independent business advisor since September 2002. From January 1998 to September 2002, Mr. Wilson served as President and Chief Operating Officer, and from August 1995 to January 1998, he served as Senior Vice President, Chief Operating Officer and Chief Financial Officer, of PC Connection, Inc., a direct marketer of information technology products and services. From June 1986 to August 1995, he was a partner in the Assurance and Advisory Services practice of Deloitte & Touche LLP. Mr. Wilson also serves as a director of Edgewater Technology, Inc.

Director Independence

The Cytyc board of directors has a standing audit committee, compensation committee, nominating and corporate governance committee, finance committee and venture investment committee. The Cytyc board of directors is composed of a majority of independent directors, and all of the committees are composed entirely of independent directors, as such term is defined in the listing standards of The Nasdaq Stock Market. The Cytyc board of directors has determined that the following directors are independent, as such term is defined in the listing standards of The Nasdaq Stock Market: William McDaniel, Walter E. Boomer, Sally W. Crawford, Brock Hattox, Joseph B. Martin, M.D., Ph.D., Marla S. Persky and Wayne Wilson. In addition, the audit committee is composed entirely of independent directors as such term is defined in Section 10A(m)(3) of the Exchange Act.

Properties

Cytyc's executive offices, as well as its administrative, research, and certain manufacturing and distribution operations are located in a leased facility consisting of approximately 216,000 square feet in Marlborough, Massachusetts for a term of 15 years, beginning January 2004. In July 2006, Cytyc entered into a 12-year lease agreement for a building with approximately 146,000 square feet also located in Marlborough, Massachusetts, to be principally used as an additional manufacturing facility and began occupying a portion of the facility effective June 1, 2007. Cytyc has an option to lease an additional 30,000 square feet in this facility in June 2011. Cytyc owns approximately 2.7 acres of land and 46,000 square feet of facilities housing additional manufacturing operations in Londonderry, New Hampshire. Cytyc also leases a distribution facility consisting of approximately 37,000 square feet in Methuen, Massachusetts. Certain manufacturing, administrative, sales and marketing, research and development and operations for Cytyc's NovaSure, MammoSite and GliaSite products are conducted at its Mountain View, California facility consisting of approximately 62,000 square feet. This lease expires in August 2012 and will remain in effect despite Cytyc's 2007 consolidation of its Mountain View operations into its Costa Rica and Massachusetts operations. Cytyc's primary manufacturing and operations facility for the NovaSure single-use devices consists of approximately 26,500 square feet in San Jose, Costa Rica. The lease for this facility expires in 2008, with an option to renew for two additional five-year terms. In addition, in April 2007, Cytyc signed a non-cancelable ten-year lease agreement for a building with approximately 164,000 square feet located in Alajuela, Costa Rica, which will be used as an additional manufacturing facility and office building.

Legal Proceedings

On June 16, 2003, Cytyc filed a suit for Declaratory Judgment in United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts asking the court to determine and declare that certain of TriPath Imaging, Inc.'s (TriPath) patents are invalid and not infringed by Cytyc's ThinPrep Imaging System. On June 17, 2003, TriPath announced that it had filed a lawsuit against Cytyc in the United States District Court for the Middle District of North Carolina alleging patent infringement, false advertising, defamation, intentional interference, unfair competition, and unfair and deceptive trade practices. In its complaint TriPath sought the issuance of a preliminary and permanent injunction enjoining Cytyc from infringing the asserted patents and to award unspecified damages, unspecified treble damages and attorneys' fees, and the impounding and destruction of the alleged infringing products. As to the non-patent claims, TriPath sought unspecified damages, punitive damages and attorneys fees. The non-patent claims have been dismissed and the patent cases have since been consolidated into a single action. On August 22, 2007 the judge issued rulings on summary judgment motions filed by both Cytyc and TriPath. As a result, two of the four asserted patents were determined to be either invalid or not infringed by Cytyc and the remaining two patents were found to have questions of fact for resolution at trial. The Court has scheduled a trial start date of October 29, 2007. Cytyc continues to believe that the claims against it are without merit and intends to vigorously defend this suit. Given the stage and current status of the litigation, Cytyc is unable to reasonably estimate the ultimate outcome of this case.

Cytyc is subject to legal claims and assertions in the ordinary course of business. Although the outcomes of any other lawsuits and claims are uncertain, Cytyc does not believe that, individually or in the aggregate, any such lawsuits or claims will have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, results of operations or liquidity.

Risk Factors

If the merger is not completed, Cytyc will continue to be subject to the following risks:

Cytyc depends principally on the sale of a limited number of product lines.

Prior to Cytyc's acquisitions of Novacept in March 2004, Proxima Therapeutics, Inc. (Proxima) in March 2005 and Adeza Biomedical Corporation (Adeza) in March 2007, Cytyc derived most of its revenues from sales of its ThinPrep processor, filters and other disposable supplies for use in gynecological and non-gynecological testing applications. As a result of the Novacept, Proxima and Adeza acquisitions, Cytyc manufactures and markets the NovaSure, MammoSite, GliaSite, FullTerm and TLI_{IQ} Systems, which together represented 44% and 41% of worldwide consolidated net sales in the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively. Nevertheless, Cytyc still relies heavily on sales of its ThinPrep products to generate a significant portion of its net sales and earnings. If Cytyc is unable to continue to successfully develop and commercialize its current products as well as other new or improved products, its business, sales and profits may be materially impaired.

In addition, in October 2003, an article in the New England Journal of Medicine suggested that the interval between screenings for cervical cancer could be extended from one year to three years for women over 30 who have had consistently negative results from previous screenings. If screening periods are extended as suggested, aggregate demand for testing is likely to decrease and if Cytyc is unable to successfully develop additional products, Cytyc's business may be materially adversely affected. Furthermore, Cytyc may be required to obtain FDA approval for any other new or improved products that it is able to develop or acquire, and it may not be able to do so.

Cytyc's sales are dependent on third-party reimbursement.

Widespread adoption of Cytyc's ThinPrep, ThinPrep Imaging, NovaSure, MammoSite, GliaSite, FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test and TLI_{IQ} Systems in the United States and other countries is dependent upon the ability of healthcare providers and laboratories to secure adequate reimbursement from third-party payors such as private insurance plans, managed care organizations, Medicare and Medicaid and foreign governmental healthcare agencies. Although a majority of managed care organizations in the United States have added the ThinPrep Pap Test, NovaSure, FullTerm and TLI_{IQ} to their coverage and the MammoSite and GliaSite procedures are reimbursed by many private healthcare insurance and managed care payors, Cytyc cannot guarantee that reimbursement will increase or continue to be available, or that reimbursement levels will be adequate to enable healthcare providers and clinical laboratories in the United States and other countries to use Cytyc's products instead of conventional methods or existing therapies, such as whole breast irradiation and brachy therapy, or the products of Cytyc's competitors. Reimbursement and healthcare payment systems in international markets vary significantly by country and include both government-sponsored healthcare and private insurance. There can be no assurance that third-party payors will provide or continue to provide such coverage, that third-party reimbursement will be made available at an adequate level, if at all, for Cytyc's products under any such overseas reimbursement system or that healthcare providers or clinical laboratories will use Cytyc's products in lieu of other methods. Cytyc also will be required to secure adequate reimbursement for any new products it develops or acquires, and it may not be able to do so successfully.

Cytyc is dependent upon a relatively small number of large clinical laboratory customers in the United States for a significant portion of its sales of the ThinPrep System.

Cytyc is dependent upon a relatively small number of large clinical laboratory customers in the United States for a significant portion of its sales of the ThinPrep System, and its business may materially suffer if Cytyc is unable to increase sales to, or maintain its pricing levels with its existing customers and establish new customers both within and outside the United States. Due in part to a trend toward consolidation of clinical laboratories in recent years and the relative size of the largest United States laboratories, it is likely that a significant portion of ThinPrep System sales will continue to be concentrated among a relatively small number of large clinical laboratories.

Cytyc's business faces intense competition from other companies.

Cytyc's products face direct competition from a number of publicly-traded and privately-held companies. Some of Cytyc's competitors are large companies that enjoy significant competitive advantages over Cytyc, including:

significantly greater name recognition;

established distribution networks;

additional lines of products, and the ability to offer rebates or bundle products to offer discounts or incentives to gain competitive advantage;

greater resources for product development, sales and marketing; and well-established products for procedures such as the radical mastectomy or traditional radiation therapy.

The markets Cytyc sells in are intensely competitive, subject to rapid change and significantly affected by new product introductions and other market activities of industry participants. Other companies may develop products that are superior to Cytyc's or less expensive, or both. Improvements in existing competitive products or the introductions of new competitive products may reduce Cytyc's ability to compete for sales, particularly if those competitive products demonstrate better safety or effectiveness, clinical results, ease of use or lower costs. The development, FDA approval and commercial marketing of competitive systems for cervical cancer screening, treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding, radiation treatment of early-stage breast cancer, and radiation treatment of patients with malignant brain tumors could have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business and financial condition. If Cytyc is unable to compete effectively against existing and future competitors and existing and future alternative treatments, Cytyc's sales could decline and its business could be adversely affected.

The success of Cytyc's business depends on its ability to protect its intellectual property rights.

Cytyc relies on a combination of patents, trade secrets, copyrights, trademarks and confidentiality agreements to protect its products' proprietary technology, rights and know-how. Cytyc also is the exclusive licensee of certain patented technology for use in the field of cytology related to the ThinPrep System and in the treatment of any proliferative disease relating to Cytyc's GliaSite System.

Cytyc owns all intellectual property rights with respect to the NovaSure System, the MammoSite System and the GliaSite System. However, the medical device industry in general, and the therapeutic use of devices employing radiofrequency energy, such as the NovaSure System, in particular, have been subject to extensive litigation and administrative proceedings regarding patents and other intellectual property rights.

If Cytyc fails to protect, defend and maintain the intellectual property rights with respect to any of its products or if Cytyc is subject to a successful third-party claim of infringement, the competitive position of these products could be impaired. In addition, infringement, interference and other intellectual property claims and proceedings, with or without merit, are expensive and time-consuming to litigate and could adversely affect Cytyc's business, financial condition and operating results.

If breast surgeons, radiation oncologists and patients do not continue to adopt the MammoSite System as a preferred treatment for early-stage breast cancer, the intended benefits of Cytyc's commercializing this product may not be realized and the market price of its common stock could decline.

One of Cytyc's products acquired as a result of its acquisition of Proxima is the MammoSite System, which is used to treat early-stage breast cancer. At the time of acquisition, the MammoSite System was supported by less than four years of patient follow-up studies from the initial 43-patient study that was designed to gain clearance from the FDA and the one-year follow-up study from a 1,600-patient registry following the FDA clearance. Some of the existing data has been produced in studies that involve relatively small patient groups, and such data may not be reproduced in wider patient populations. Currently, with respect to Cytyc's MammoSite System, Cytyc is competing against breast cancer treatment using external beam radiation, which has longer-term data on patient outcome.

Cytyc may have difficulty gaining further acceptance of the MammoSite System among breast surgeons, radiation oncologists and patients for a number of reasons including:

the presence of competing products sold by companies with longer operating histories, more recognizable names and more established distribution networks;

the introduction or existence of competing products or technologies that may be more effective, safer or easier to use than the MammoSite System;

the results of long-term clinical studies relating to the effectiveness of the MammoSite System;

the availability of alternative treatments or procedures that provide comparable levels of improvement in breast cancer treatment at a lower cost than the MammoSite System;

breast surgeons, radiation oncologists and patient perceptions of the MammoSite System as compared to other treatments for breast cancer; and the continued availability of satisfactory reimbursement from healthcare payors for breast cancer treatment procedures.

Cytyc believes that continued recommendation and support for the use of the MammoSite System by influential breast surgeons and radiation oncologists and treatment centers are essential for widespread market acceptance. If the MammoSite System does not continue to receive support from these key constituencies, or if longer-term data does not demonstrate continued support for the clinical efficacy of the MammoSite System, breast surgeons and radiation oncologists may not use, and hospitals and outpatient surgery centers may not purchase, the MammoSite System. If this occurs, the intended benefits of the acquisition, such as increased net sales, may not be realized and the market price of Cytyc's common stock could decline.

Current levels of growth in the market for endometrial ablation procedures for the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding may not be indicative of future growth.

Demand for newly introduced technologies or treatments can initially be exaggerated as supply increases to meet pre-existing demand. However, once the pre-existing demand is met, growth in the market may abruptly stop or significantly slow. Cytyc believes that some of the current growth in the market for new endometrial ablation procedures may be the result of a considerable pre-existing unmet demand for products of this nature. Cytac cannot determine what portion of Novacept's historical sales is attributable to this pre-existing demand, nor can Cytac predict when, or at what rate, this demand may stop or decline in growth. Cytac cannot assure you that it will be successful in continuing to attract physicians and women to use the NovaSure System, or whether or not evolving trends in the treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding will favor new endometrial ablation procedures as compared to traditional approaches. If the demand for treatments like the NovaSure System were to stop abruptly or begin to decline, Cytyc's operating results and profitability could be adversely affected.

The success of Cytyc's ThinPrep System depends upon the continued market acceptance of Cytyc's ThinPrep System products.

Cytyc's success and growth depends on the continued market acceptance of its ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System, including any follow-on applications of ThinPrep technology. The laboratory cost of using the ThinPrep System and ThinPrep Imaging System for cervical cancer screening, both together and individually, is higher than that of a conventional Pap smear and, Cytyc believes, competing liquid-based slide preparation systems. Due in part to increased competitive pressures in the healthcare industry to reduce costs, Cytyc's ability to continue gaining market acceptance of the ThinPrep System and follow-on products depends on its ability to demonstrate that the higher cost of using the ThinPrep System is offset by (i) a reduction in costs often associated with conventional Pap smears or competing liquid-based slide preparation systems, such as inaccurate diagnoses and the need for repeat Pap smears, as well as (ii) the ability to conduct additional testing, such as testing for the HPV, Chlamydia trachomatis and Neisseria gonorrhoea on samples collected in a ThinPrep vial of preservative. In particular, for the ThinPrep Imaging System, Cytyc needs to continue to work with healthcare providers, insurance companies and other third-party payors, and clinical laboratories to reinforce the known clinical efficacy and cost-effectiveness of the ThinPrep Imaging System products.

If Cytyc has difficulty in achieving and sustaining market acceptance of the products acquired as a result of Adeza, the intended benefits of Cytyc's acquisition of such products may not be realized and the market price of its common stock could decline.

Cytyc's products acquired as a result of its acquisition of Adeza is the FullTerm and the TL₁₀ Systems. The commercial success of these products depends in large part on Cytyc's ability to achieve and sustain market acceptance. Cytyc plans to expand sales of its TL₁₀ System in hospitals and clinical laboratories and increase the related sales of the Fetal Fibronectin Test and other consumables used in conjunction with the TL₁₀ System by convincing healthcare providers of the benefits of these products through various means, including through published papers, presentations at scientific conferences and additional clinical trials. If existing users of these products determine that these products do not satisfy their requirements, or if Cytyc's competitors develop a product perceived to better satisfy their requirements, Cytyc's sales of Fetal Fibronectin Tests and other consumables may decline.

Cytyc also acquired a product candidate called Gestiva. Even if the FDA approves Gestiva, physicians may adopt Gestiva only if they determine, based on experience, clinical data, side effect profiles and other factors, that it is preferable to other products or treatments then in use. Acceptance of Gestiva among influential practitioners will be essential for market acceptance of Gestiva. If Cytyc's products acquired from Adeza are unable to achieve or maintain broad market acceptance, the intended benefits of the Adeza acquisition, such as increased net sales, may not be realized and the market price of Cytyc's common stock could decline.

Cytyc's success depends on its ability to manage growth effectively.

The scope of Cytyc's operations and facilities, the number of Cytyc's employees and the geographic area of Cytyc's operations have grown rapidly. If Cytyc is not able to manage its growth effectively, its business and financial condition will materially suffer. Cytyc's growth may significantly strain its managerial, operational and financial resources and systems. To manage Cytyc's growth effectively, Cytyc will have to continue to implement and improve additional management and financial systems and controls, and to effectively expand, train and manage its employee base.

Cytc may not be able to successfully integrate future acquisitions.

Cytc continually explores opportunities to acquire related businesses, some of which could be material to Cytc. Cytc's ability to continue to grow may depend upon identifying and successfully acquiring attractive companies, effectively integrating such companies, achieving cost efficiencies and managing these businesses as part of Cytc. Cytc may not be able to effectively integrate acquired companies and successfully implement appropriate operational, financial and management systems and controls to achieve the benefits expected to result from these acquisitions. Cytc's efforts to integrate these businesses could be affected by a number of factors beyond Cytc's control, such as regulatory developments, general economic conditions, increased competition, the loss of customers resulting from the acquisitions and the assumption of unknown liabilities. In addition, the process of integrating these businesses could cause an interruption of, or loss of momentum in, the activities of Cytc's existing business and the loss of key personnel and customers. The diversion of management's attention and any delays or difficulties encountered in connection with the integration of these businesses could negatively impact Cytc's business if any of the above adverse effects were to occur. Further, the benefits that Cytc anticipates from any future acquisitions may not develop.

Future acquisitions may also harm Cytc's operating results, dilute its stockholders' equity and create other financial difficulties for Cytc.

Cytc may, in the future, pursue acquisitions that it believes could provide it with new technologies, products or service offerings, or enable it to obtain other competitive advantages.

potential dilutive issuances of equity securities;

incurrence of debt or amortization expenses related to certain intangible assets; and future impairment charges related to diminished fair value of businesses acquired as compared to the price Cytc pays for them.

Cytc may not be successful in overcoming the risks described above or any other problems associated with future acquisitions. Any of these risks and problems could materially harm Cytc's business, prospects and financial condition. Additionally, Cytc cannot guarantee that any companies it may acquire will achieve anticipated revenues or operating results.

Cytc is subject to the risk of product liability claims relating to its products.

Regardless of the technology employed, surgical procedures involve risk of complications, and companies that produce medical devices for use in surgical procedures are subject to risk of product liability litigation. Cytc has become a party to legal proceedings involving injuries to patients that occurred when one of its products was used. Cytc vigorously defends against any product liability claims that arise related to any of its products. However, there can be no assurance that any defense against alleged claims will be successful.

If one of Cytc's products is found to have caused or contributed to injuries or deaths, Cytc could be held liable for substantial damages. Product liability insurance is in place for all of Cytc's products. However, Cytc cannot assure that available insurance will be sufficient to cover damages from any possible claims. In addition, claims could adversely affect the reputation of the related product, which could damage its competitive position in the market. The sale and use of one of Cytc's diagnostic products could also lead to the filing of product liability claims if someone were to allege that one of Cytc's products contained a design or manufacturing defect that resulted in the failure to detect a disorder for which it was being used to screen or caused injuries to a patient. Any product liability claim brought against Cytc, with or without merit, could result in the increase of Cytec's product liability insurance rates or the inability to secure additional coverage in the future. Also, even a meritless or unsuccessful product liability claim could be time consuming and expensive to defend, which could result in a diversion of management's attention from Cytec's business and could adversely affect the perceived safety and efficacy of Cytec's products, as well as Cytec's financial condition and operating results.

Cytec's quarterly operating results may fluctuate.

Cytec's operating results have fluctuated significantly in the past on a quarterly basis. Cytec's operating results may fluctuate significantly from quarter to quarter in the future and Cytec may experience losses in the future depending on a number of factors, including the extent to which its products continue to gain or maintain market acceptance, the rate and size of expenditures incurred as Cytec expands its domestic and establishes its international sales and distribution networks, the timing and level of reimbursement for Cytec's products by third-party payors, seasonality and other factors, many of which are outside Cytec's control.

Cytec may not be successful in growing its international sales, which could have a material adverse effect on its business and financial condition.

Cytec believes the growth in its international sales is a key element to its future success. Cytec commenced sales in countries outside the United States in 1998 and has grown its international sales to 11% and 12% of consolidated net sales for the year ended 2006 and the six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively. However, Cytec cannot guarantee that it will successfully continue to develop international sales channels or capabilities that will enable it to generate significant revenue from international sales. Even though Cytec has established international sales capabilities and has experienced growth in the international markets, Cytec may not be able to obtain favorable third-party reimbursements and required regulatory approvals in foreign countries. While Cytec believes it has developed a comprehensive international patent filing strategy, it has not secured patents in all foreign countries in which it currently sells or plans to sell its products. In some cases Cytec's ability to pursue patents in certain countries has lapsed. In those countries where Cytec does have patents covering its products, it cannot guarantee that such patents may be successfully enforced against infringing products. If Cytec fails to continue to increase international sales, its business and financial condition may suffer materially.

The increase in Cytec's international operations exposes Cytec to additional operational challenges that it might not otherwise face.

As Cytec increases its international operations, it will have to confront and manage a number of risks and expenses that it would not face if it conducted its operations solely in the United States. Any of these risks or expenses could cause a material adverse effect on Cytec's operating results. These risks and expenses include:

difficulties in staffing, managing and operating an international operation as a result of, among other things, distance, language and cultural differences;

less flexible labor laws and regulations;

expenses associated with customizing Cytec's products for clients in foreign countries;

foreign currency exchange rate fluctuations;

protectionist laws and business practices that favor local companies;

political and economic instability in some international markets;

multiple, conflicting and changing government laws and regulations (including, among other things, antitrust and tax requirements, international trade regulations and the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act);

B-23

trade barriers;

reduced protection for intellectual property rights in some countries; and potentially adverse tax consequences.

Cytec's business outside the United States is conducted primarily in local currencies, except at its Costa Rica subsidiary, where the majority of business is conducted in U.S. dollars. Fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates could affect Cytec's cost of goods and operating margins and could result in exchange losses. In addition, currency devaluation can result in a loss to Cytec if it holds deposits of that currency. Hedging foreign currencies can be difficult, especially if the currency is not freely traded. Cytec currently has no foreign exchange contracts, option contracts, or other foreign hedging arrangements. Cytec currently estimates that risks associated with currency fluctuations are unlikely to have a material adverse effect on its operating results. However, Cytec's operating results may be adversely affected by currency fluctuations in the future, especially as Cytec expands its international operations.

Cytec's operating results may be adversely affected as a result of restructuring operations and/or reductions in workforce.

In 2006, management approved restructuring plans designed to reduce future operating expenses by consolidating Cytec's Mountain View, California operations into Cytec's existing operations in Costa Rica and Massachusetts. This restructuring includes the elimination of positions and the incurrence of expenditures related to severance and facility-related costs, all of which have impacted Cytec's operating results in 2006 and during the six months ended June 30, 2007. There can be no assurance that Cytec's current restructuring, as well as any potential future restructurings, and related transition issues, will not adversely affect Cytec's operations or customer perceptions. The uncertainty caused by such restructurings and integration-related events could result in reduced productivity by Cytec's remaining employees, which in turn may affect Cytec's revenue in the future.

In addition, any decision to limit investment in, dispose of or otherwise exit business activities may result in the recording of special charges, such as technology write-offs, workforce reduction costs, or charges relating to consolidation of excess facilities. Cytec's estimates with respect to the useful life or ultimate recoverability of Cytec's carrying basis of assets, including intangible assets, could change as a result of such decisions. Further, Cytec's estimates related to the liabilities for excess facilities are affected by changes in real estate market conditions. Additionally, Cytec is required to perform goodwill impairment tests on an annual basis and during the year in certain circumstances. There can be no assurance that future goodwill impairment tests will not result in a charge to earnings.

Cytec is highly dependent on key personnel.

Cytec is highly dependent on the principal members of its management staff. Loss of its key personnel would likely impede achievement of Cytec's research and development, operational, or strategic objectives. To be successful, Cytec must retain key employees and attract additional qualified employees.

Cytec's reliance on single source or limited source suppliers could harm its business.

Cytec currently obtains certain key components of its products, including the proprietary filter material and microscope slides used in the ThinPrep Pap Test, radioisotopes, certain balloons and other items used in the design and manufacture of the MammoSite System and the Iotrex liquid isotope used with the GlioSite System, from single or a limited number of sources due to technology, availability, price, quality and other considerations. Additionally, the NovaSure System utilizes several components that may become obsolete or no longer be manufactured. Cytyc also relies on a limited number of suppliers for both raw materials and components necessary for the manufacture of FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test, and TLI_{IQ} System. Cytyc has no manufacturing capabilities for Gestiva and it may depend on third parties who are single source suppliers to manufacture Gestiva. Cytyc attempts to mitigate these risks by working closely with key suppliers regarding its supply needs and it has qualified backup vendors for several of its key components. Although Cytyc believes that alternative sources for these components are available, a supply interruption could harm its ability to manufacture its products until a new source of supply is identified and qualified. If Cytyc is unable to obtain sufficient quantities of key components that meet its quality and technical requirements at reasonable prices and in a timely manner, it will not be able to manufacture and sell its products on a timely and cost-competitive basis, which would materially and adversely affect its business and financial condition.

Cytyc's lack of redundant manufacturing capabilities could harm Cytyc's business.

Cytyc assembles all of its ThinPrep Processors, ThinPrep Imaging System, TLI_{IQ} System and the single-use disposable devices in the NovaSure System, as well as performing final assembly and testing of its RF Controllers, MammoSite and GliaSite systems. In addition, Cytyc contracts with third-parties to manufacture its MammoSite System and GliaSite System. Cytyc has established a certain level of site redundancy on its core products, or has developed alternate sources. While Cytyc has made significant efforts to safeguard these core manufacturing processes, the loss or closure of any of these facilities, such as Cytyc's closure of its Mountain View facility, or third-party manufacturing providers would impede Cytyc's manufacturing and sales efforts, which would materially and adversely affect Cytyc's business and financial condition.

Because the NovaSure and MammoSite Systems are manufactured in Costa Rica, Cytyc will be subject to the political and economic risks of doing business there.

Cytyc manufactures the Novasure System and MammoSite System in a facility in Costa Rica and recently signed a non-cancelable ten-year lease agreement for a building with approximately 164,000 square feet located in Alajuela, Costa Rica, which will be used as an additional manufacturing facility and office building. Cytyc cannot guarantee that the political, labor and economic climate in Costa Rica will remain sufficiently stable for uninterrupted manufacturing operations in that country. Cytyc's operations relating to the NovaSure System and MammoSite System could be adversely affected by political unrest and Cytyc could also be harmed by strikes and other labor disruptions. Any of these events could result in increased costs or in disruptions of supply of the NovaSure and MammoSite disposable devices, or any other product or component Cytyc may elect to manufacture in Costa Rica in the future, which could harm Cytyc's business, financial condition and operating results.

Cytyc is subject to numerous FDA laws and regulations, and non-compliance with such laws, as well as changes in such laws or future interpretations of such laws, could cause Cytyc to incur significant compliance costs and/or subject it to significant civil and criminal sanctions.

Cytyc's products are subject to expansive FDA regulation. Complying with these requirements imposes significant expenses on Cytyc's operations. If Cytyc fails to comply with applicable regulations, it could be subject to a wide range of civil and criminal enforcement sanctions, its promotional practices may be restricted, and its marketed products could be subject to recall or loss of FDA marketing claim approval.

Cytyc cannot guarantee that it will obtain or maintain necessary regulatory approvals for its products.

The FDA regulatory approval process can be expensive, lengthy and uncertain for both original and supplemental approvals.

There can be no assurance that Cytyc will be able to obtain necessary regulatory clearances or approvals for any proposed future products or modifications of existing products. The failure to obtain clearances or approvals, loss of previously received clearances or approvals, or a failure to comply with existing or future regulatory requirements, would have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, financial condition and operating results.

Any modifications to a device that has received a pre-market approval that affect its safety or effectiveness require a pre-market approval supplement or possibly a separate pre-market approval, either of which is likely to be time-consuming, expensive and uncertain to obtain. The FDA requires the device manufacturer to make and document its determination whether or not a pre-market approval or supplement is required, but the FDA can review the manufacturer's decision. If the FDA requires Cytyc to seek one or more pre-market approval supplements or new pre-market approvals for any modification to a previously approved device, Cytyc may be required to cease marketing or to recall the modified device until it obtains approval, and Cytyc may be subject to significant criminal and/or civic sanctions, including but not limited to, regulatory fines or penalties.

If Cytyc or its contract manufacturers fail to comply with the FDA's Quality System Regulation, manufacturing operations could be interrupted, and Cytyc's product sales and operating results could be adversely affected.

Cytyc's design and manufacturing processes are required to comply with the FDA's Quality System Regulation, which covers the procedures and documentation of the design, testing, production, control, quality assurance, labeling, packaging, sterilization, storage and shipping of Cytyc's devices. The FDA enforces its Quality System Regulation through unannounced inspections. If one of Cytyc's manufacturing facilities fails an inspection, operations and manufacturing could be disrupted. Failure to take adequate and timely corrective action in response to an adverse inspection could force a shutdown of these manufacturing operations or a recall of the product. If Cytyc shuts down manufacturing operations or recalls its products, it may lose customers and experience a decline in its revenues.

Cytyc's products may be subject to recalls even after receiving FDA clearance or approval, and if a recall occurs, the reputation of Cytyc's products and its operating results could be adversely affected.

The FDA and similar governmental bodies in other countries have the authority to require the recall of Cytyc's products in the event of material deficiencies or defects in design or manufacture. A government mandated or voluntary recall by Cytyc could occur as a result of component failures, manufacturing errors or design defects, including defects in labeling. Any recall could harm the reputation of Cytyc's products and adversely affect Cytyc's financial condition and operating results.

Some of Cytyc's activities may subject Cytyc to risks under federal and state laws prohibiting kickbacks and false or fraudulent claims.

Cytyc is subject to the provisions of a federal law commonly known as the Medicare/Medicaid anti-kickback law, and several similar state laws, which prohibit payments intended to induce physicians or others either to refer patients or to acquire or arrange for or recommend the acquisition of healthcare products or services. While the federal law applies only to referrals, products or services for which payment may be made by a federal healthcare program, state laws often apply regardless of whether federal funds may be involved. These laws constrain the sales, marketing and other promotional activities of manufacturers of medical devices, such as Cytyc, by limiting the kinds of financial arrangements, including sales programs, with hospitals, physicians, laboratories and other potential purchasers of medical devices. Other federal and state laws generally prohibit individuals or entities from knowingly presenting, or causing to be presented, claims for payment from Medicare, Medicaid, or other third-party payors that are false or fraudulent, or are for items or services that were not provided as claimed. Anti-kickback and false claims laws prescribe civil and criminal penalties for noncompliance that can be substantial. While Cytyc continually strives to comply with these complex requirements, interpretations of the applicability of these laws to marketing practices is ever evolving and even an unsuccessful challenge could cause adverse publicity and be costly to respond to, and thus could have a material adverse effect on Cytyc's business, operating results and financial condition.

Certain provisions of Cytoc's certificate of incorporation, bylaws and Delaware law may delay or prevent a change in control of Cytoc.

Cytoc's certificate of incorporation, bylaws and Delaware law contain provisions that may enable Cytoc's board of directors to resist a change in control of Cytoc. These provisions include:

a staggered board of directors;

limitations on persons authorized to call a special meeting of stockholders;

the authorization of undesignated preferred stock, the terms of which may be established and shares of which may be issued without stockholder approval;

advance notice procedures required for stockholders to nominate candidates for election as directors or to bring matters before an annual meeting of stockholders; and a stockholder rights agreement or poison pill.

In addition, Cytoc is subject to the anti-takeover provisions of Section 203 of the DGCL, which may prohibit large stockholders, in particular those owning 15% or more of Cytoc's outstanding voting stock, from merging or consolidating with Cytoc except under certain circumstances.

These anti-takeover defenses could discourage, delay or prevent a transaction involving a change in control of Cytoc. These provisions could also discourage proxy contests and make it more difficult for stockholders to elect directors of their choosing and cause Cytoc to take other corporate actions stockholders desire.

The implementation of SFAS No. 123R has reduced and may continue to reduce Cytoc's reported earnings, which could result in a decline in Cytoc's stock price.

As part of Cytoc's compensation to employees, it issues equity awards, primarily in the form of stock options. Many of the companies within Cytoc's industry and with whom Cytoc competes for skilled employees use stock-based compensation as a means to attract these employees. While Cytoc has structured the estimated cost of its equity program to be comparable to other companies within its industry and similar to its size, not all companies use equity awards as part of their compensation packages nor do they issue the same level of equity awards. In addition, if Cytoc unexpectedly hires additional employees or acquires another company, the impact of the implementation of Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 123R, Share-Based Payment, may be more significant for Cytoc than previously forecasted. To the extent investors believe the costs incurred for SFAS No. 123R are higher than those incurred by other companies, Cytoc's stock price could be negatively impacted.

Table of ContentsCYTIC MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL CONDITION AND RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

The following discussion is provided by Cytyc's management as its analysis of Cytyc's financial condition and results of operations. This analysis should be read in conjunction with the following information included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus: (i) the audited consolidated financial statements of Cytyc and its subsidiaries as of December 31, 2006 and 2005 and for each of the three years ended December 31, 2006, 2005, and 2004, and the notes thereto; and (ii) the condensed consolidated financial statements (unaudited) of Cytyc and its subsidiaries as of June 30, 2007 and 2006 and for each of the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, and the notes thereto.

Overview

Cytyc Corporation is a diversified diagnostic and medical device company that designs, develops, manufactures, and markets innovative and clinically effective diagnostic and surgical products. Cytyc's products cover a range of cancer and women's health applications, including cervical cancer screening, pre-term birth risk assessment, treatment of excessive menstrual bleeding, radiation treatment of early-stage breast cancer, and radiation treatment of patients with malignant brain tumors. Cytyc operates its business in three reportable segments: domestic diagnostic products, domestic surgical products and international. Cytyc's domestic diagnostic products segment develops and markets the ThinPrep® System in the United States primarily for use in cytology testing applications, such as cervical cancer screening, and FullTerm®, The Fetal Fibronectin Test, acquired as part of Cytyc's purchase of Adeza Biomedical Corporation (Adeza), which offers clinical and cost benefits for the assessment of the risk of pre-term birth. Cytyc's domestic surgical products segment develops and markets the NovaSure® System, an innovative endometrial ablation device to treat menorrhagia, or excessive menstrual bleeding, the MammoSite® Radiation Therapy System, a device for the treatment of early-stage breast cancer that positions radiation sources directly into the post-lumpectomy site to optimize radiation treatment delivery while minimizing damage to healthy tissue, and the GlioSite® Radiation Therapy System for the treatment of malignant brain tumors. The domestic surgical segment, as part of Cytyc's purchase of Adiana, Inc. (Adiana), acquired the Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization System® (TCS), which is a form of permanent female contraception intended as an alternative to tubal ligation and for which Cytyc is in the process of seeking a pre-market approval (PMA) from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). The domestic surgical products segment markets these products in the United States. Cytyc's international segment markets its diagnostic and surgical products outside of the United States.

On March 16, 2007, Cytyc acquired all of the fully-diluted equity of Adiana, and on March 19, 2007, purchased a majority of the outstanding common shares of Adeza and completed the acquisition as of April 2, 2007. Cytyc's operating results include the results of Adiana and Adeza from March 17, 2007 and March 20, 2007, respectively.

Critical Accounting Estimates

Cytyc management's discussion and analysis of Cytyc's financial condition and results of operations are based upon Cytyc's consolidated financial statements, which have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States. The preparation of these financial statements requires Cytyc to make estimates and judgments that affect the reported amounts of assets, liabilities, revenues and expenses, and related disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities. A critical accounting estimate is one which is both important to the portrayal of Cytyc's financial condition and results and requires management's most difficult, subjective or complex judgments, often as a result of the need to make estimates about the effect of matters that are inherently uncertain. Cytyc continuously evaluates its critical accounting estimates. Cytyc bases its estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that are believed to be reasonable under the circumstances, the results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities that are not readily apparent from other sources. Actual results may differ from these estimates under different assumptions or conditions.

Table of Contents

Valuation of Long-Lived Assets, Intangibles and Goodwill Tangible and intangible assets acquired in a business combination, including acquired in-process research and development, are recorded under the purchase method of accounting at their estimated fair values at the date of acquisition. The fair values of acquired assets are determined by management using relevant information and assumptions and assisted, in certain situations, by independent appraisers. Fair value of acquired intangible assets is generally calculated as the present value of estimated future cash flows using a risk-adjusted discount rate, which requires significant management judgment with respect to revenue and expense growth rates, analyses of project accomplishments, assessment of overall contributions, project risks and the selection and use of an appropriate discount rate. Amortization of all of Cytyc's intangible assets with defined lives, including those acquired individually, is calculated either using the straight-line or cash flow method. The cash flow method requires management's estimate of net cash flows over the life of the intangible asset, reflecting the pattern in which the economic benefits of the intangible asset are expected to be consumed, and is subject to change.

Prior to 2007, Cytyc allocated amortization of all of its intangible assets to research and development within Cytyc's condensed consolidated statements of income as the developed technology has benefited multiple line items (i.e., cost of sales and research and development) and any allocation that would have been made to cost of sales was not deemed to be material. During 2007, Cytyc acquired a significant amount of developed technology ($143.0 million) as part of its acquisition of Adeza and is including the amortization of such developed technology within cost of sales based upon its intended use. For the amortization of Cytyc's other developed technology, beginning in 2007, Cytyc is allocating the majority to cost of sales based upon Cytyc's determination that such developed technology is primarily being used to generate sales of Cytyc's products. A portion of the amortization expense also will be allocated to research and development based upon Cytyc's determination that such developed technology is primarily being utilized to support Cytyc's research and development efforts (e.g., FirstCyte Breast Test).

Cytyc assesses the impairment of long-lived assets, identifiable intangible assets and goodwill whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying value may not be recoverable and at least annually in the case of goodwill. If it is determined that the carrying value of long-lived assets, intangible assets or goodwill might not be recoverable based upon the existence of one or more indicators of impairment, Cytyc would measure any impairment based on a projected discounted cash flow method if the undiscounted cash flows did not exceed the carrying value of such assets. No significant impairment charges have been recorded to date. Cytyc is required to perform an impairment review for goodwill on an annual basis, or earlier if indicators of potential impairment exist. Based on Cytyc's impairment review during 2006, the carrying amount of goodwill did not exceed its fair value and, accordingly, no impairment loss exists. Cytyc is in the process of updating its impairment review as of July 31, 2007, but does not expect any impairment loss. At June 30, 2007, Cytyc had $912.1 million of net intangible assets, of which $595.1 million represented goodwill. An impairment of Cytyc's intangible assets could result in a material, non-cash expense in Cytyc's consolidated statements of income (loss).

Income Taxes and Deferred Taxes Cytyc files income tax returns in eleven countries as well as many states and other localities. Cytyc must estimate its income tax expense after considering, among other factors, differing tax rates between jurisdictions, allocation factors, tax credits, non-deductible items and changes in enacted tax rates. A 1% change in Cytyc's 2007 effective income tax rate would have the effect of changing net income (loss) for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 by approximately $0.5 million and $1.1 million, respectively, or less than $0.01 and zero per common share, respectively. The carrying value of Cytyc's deferred tax assets assumes that Cytyc will be able to generate sufficient future taxable income in certain tax jurisdictions, based on estimates and assumptions, to fully recover the net carrying value of the assets. If these estimates and related assumptions change in the future, Cytyc may be required to record a valuation allowance against its deferred tax assets resulting in additional income tax expense in Cytyc's consolidated statement of (loss) income.

Effective January 1, 2007, Cytyc adopted Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Interpretation (FIN) No. 48, Accounting for Uncertainty in Income Taxes - An Interpretation of FASB Statement No. 109.

FIN No. 48 requires significant judgment as to what constitutes a tax position as well as assessing the outcome of each tax position. Changes in facts or judgments surrounding recognition or measurement will result in a tax benefit or charge to Cytoc's consolidated statements of income (loss).

Legal Proceedings Cytoc is involved in various legal actions, the outcomes of which are not within Cytoc's complete control and may not be known for prolonged periods of time. In some actions, the claimants seek damages, as well as other relief, which, if granted, would require significant expenditures. Cytoc records a liability in its consolidated financial statements for these actions when a loss is known or considered probable and the amount can be reasonably estimated. Cytoc reviews these estimates each accounting period as additional information is known and adjusts the loss provision when appropriate. If the loss is not probable or cannot be reasonably estimated, a liability is not recorded in the consolidated financial statements. Cytoc's significant legal proceedings are discussed above under Information About Cytoc Legal Proceedings.

Stock-based Compensation Stock-based compensation to employees, including grants of employee stock options, is recognized in the financial statements based on their fair values in accordance with SFAS No. 123R. In order to determine the fair value of Cytoc's stock options and employee stock purchase plan shares, Cytoc is using the Black-Scholes option pricing model and is applying the multiple-option valuation approach to the stock option valuation. Cytoc is recognizing stock-based compensation expense on a straight-line basis over the requisite service period of the awards for options and restricted stock units granted following the adoption of SFAS No. 123R. For unvested stock awards outstanding as of January 1, 2006, Cytoc will continue to recognize stock-based compensation expense using the accelerated amortization method prescribed in FIN No. 28, Accounting for Stock Appreciation Rights and Other Variable Stock Option or Award Plans.

Cytoc's estimates of the fair value of equity awards will be affected by the future market price of Cytoc's common stock, as well as the actual results of certain assumptions used to value the equity awards. These assumptions include, but are not limited to, the related income tax impact, the expected volatility of the common stock, and the expected term of options granted.

As noted above, Cytoc determines the fair value of stock options and employee stock purchase plan shares by using the Black-Scholes option pricing model and applying the multiple-option valuation approach to the stock option valuation. The options have graded-vesting on an annual basis over an average vesting period of four years. In applying the multiple-option approach, Cytoc separately values each option tranche based on when the tranche vests. Cytoc estimates the expected option term by calculating the average period of time before the employees exercise their options and adds this to the vesting period of each tranche. Historically, this period of time has averaged one year from the date the options vest. The expected term of employee stock purchase plan shares is the average of the remaining purchase periods under each offering period. For equity awards granted prior to the adoption of SFAS No. 123R, Cytoc estimated the volatility of the common stock using historical volatility. For equity awards granted since January 1, 2006, Cytoc is estimating the volatility of the common stock using a combination of historical and implied volatility, as discussed in Staff Accounting Bulletin (SAB) No. 107, Considering the Information Between SFAS No. 123R and Certain Securities and Exchange Commissions Rules and Regulations. By using this combination, Cytoc is taking into consideration the historical realized volatility, as well as factoring in estimates of future volatility that it believes will differ from historical as a result of Cytoc's product diversification over the last three years, the market performance of Cytoc's common stock, the volume of activity of the underlying shares, the availability of actively traded options of Cytoc's common stock, and overall market conditions.

Cytoc determines the risk-free interest rate used in the Black-Scholes option pricing model by looking at historical U.S. Treasury zero-coupon bond issues with remaining terms equal to the expected terms of the equity awards. In addition, Cytoc uses an expected dividend yield of zero in the option valuation model, because Cytoc does not expect to pay any cash dividends in the foreseeable future. Lastly, in accordance with SFAS No. 123R, Cytoc is required to estimate forfeitures at the time of grant and revise those estimates in subsequent periods if actual forfeitures differ from those estimates. In order to determine an estimated pre-vesting forfeiture rate for equity awards, Cytoc used historical forfeiture data. This estimated forfeiture rate has been applied to all unvested options outstanding as of January 1, 2006 and to all options and restricted stock units granted since January 1, 2006. Therefore, stock-based compensation expense is recorded for only those options and restricted stock units that are expected to vest.

In February 2007, Cytac issued 160,700 performance-based restricted stock units (Performance Shares) that vest over a three-year period based upon specific future performance milestones. A grantee may also earn, over the course of three years, a total number of shares ranging from 0% to 175% of the number of shares equal to his or her initial grant of performance shares, which range is based on the actual achievement of the performance milestones. The market price of Cytac's common stock on date of grant was $30.44. Each period Cytac will assess its estimate of the probability that such performance milestones will be met and, if necessary, will adjust the related stock-based compensation expense. Cytac is recording stock-based compensation expense for these equity awards over the three-year vesting period for those Performance Shares that are expected to vest, assuming all future performance milestones will be met.

The statements of income (loss) classification of Cytac's stock-based compensation is consistent with the classification of Cytac's cash compensation expense related to the salaries of the employee equity award holders. Total stock-based compensation recognized in Cytac's condensed consolidated statements of income (loss) for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006 was as follows:

	Three Months Ended June 30,		Six Months Ended June 30,
	2007	2006	2007	2006
	(in thousands)
Cost of sales	$ 290	$ 344	$ 551	$ 705
Research and development	677	803	1,286	1,647
Sales and marketing	2,129	2,525	4,044	5,176
General and administrative	1,742	2,066	3,309	4,235
Total stock-based compensation expense	$ 4,838	$ 5,738	$ 9,190	$ 11,763

As of June 30, 2007, total unrecognized stock-based compensation expense relating to unvested employee stock awards, adjusted for estimated forfeitures, was $44.1 million. This amount is expected to be recognized over a weighted-average period of 2.8 years. If actual forfeitures differ from current estimates, total unrecognized stock-based compensation expense will be adjusted for future changes in estimated forfeitures.

The above list is not intended to be a comprehensive list of all of Cytac's accounting estimates. In many cases, the accounting treatment of a particular transaction is specifically dictated by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (GAAP), with little need for management's judgment in their application. There are also areas in which management's judgment in selecting any available alternative would not produce a materially different result. See Cytac's audited consolidated financial statements and notes thereto included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus which contain accounting policies and other disclosures required by GAAP.

Stock Option Review and Restatement of Financial Statements

During the first quarter of 2007, Cytac became aware of a report prepared by an independent equity research firm suggesting that Cytac was at an elevated risk for issues with the dating of stock option exercises prior to the effective date of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. At the request of the General Counsel and the Chief Executive Officer, the audit committee (the audit committee) of the Cytac board of directors, with the assistance of independent outside counsel and Cytac's internal audit department, conducted a voluntary review of circumstances relating to the exercising of employee stock options. As a result of that review, the audit committee concluded with respect to two current executives the Chief Executive Officer and the General Counsel that on several occasions during the period from 1996 through 2002, qualified incentive stock options granted under Cytyc's stock option plans (the "Plans") were reported as having been exercised before all of the actions required by the Plan to effect such an exercise were completed. To the extent an exercise can be reported as occurring before all the required actions are complete, an option holder has the opportunity to obtain an exercise date using hindsight (hereafter referred to as "exercise back-dating" or "look-back") and thereby exercise on a date with a preferable market price. In connection with the above review, the Cytyc board of directors concluded that the affected executives did not understand the potential implications of their actions to Cytyc. The executives have reimbursed Cytyc for additional amounts which might have been due to Cytyc, as well as a portion of the costs of the audit committee's review. The Cytyc board of directors continues to have full confidence in the integrity of the affected individuals.

Subsequent to the completion of Cytyc's 2006 consolidated financial statements and the filing of its 2006 Annual Report on Form 10-K, Cytyc determined that variable award accounting should be considered for certain employee stock options as a result of the exercises described above. Based on additional research performed by Cytyc and accounting specialists engaged by counsel to the audit committee, Cytyc determined that all stock options granted to the Chief Executive Officer and General Counsel and still outstanding at any date following the first in a series of exercises by each of these executives reported as occurring before all the required actions were completed during the period 1996 through August 28, 2002 (the date the look-back practice was no longer available based on the change in the SEC's filing requirements reducing the reporting window for equity share activity) are subject to variable award accounting because the exercise price of those options was not fixed on the date of grant. Under variable award accounting, non-cash, stock-based compensation expense is recognized based on the difference between the market price of Cytyc's common stock for each affected period and the exercise price of the option. Accordingly, Cytyc has recorded stock-based compensation expense or benefit for each of the years ended December 31, 1996 through 2002 (noting there was no compensation expense or benefit for any years subsequent to 2002 related to these stock options) taking into consideration the vesting provisions of the award and the timing of exercise.

Cytyc has analyzed the circumstances surrounding exercises by other executives and other non-officer employees for purposes of determining whether any of the exercise activity under review would result in accounting consequences. Based on this analysis, Cytyc has concluded that single stock option grants to one current and one former executive (the "Two Other Executives") were modified, from an accounting perspective, on the date of exercise in 2000. As a result, Cytyc has recorded a stock-based compensation charge during the year ended December 31, 2000, based on the excess of the quoted market price of Cytyc's common stock as of the modification date over the option exercise price for those options.

The restatement impacts net income in the year ended December 31, 2002 (as presented in "Selected Historical Financial Data of Cytyc") and impacts net (loss) income in the years ended December 31, 1996 through 2002 (as discussed in Note 15 to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements). The cumulative impact to net (loss) income in the years ended December 31, 1996 through 2002 is reflected in an adjustment to retained earnings in Cytyc's consolidated balance sheets, with a related tax impact on deferred tax assets. There was no restatement required for Cytyc's consolidated statements of income for the years ended December 31, 2003, 2004, 2005 or 2006.

Separately, in light of the number of publicly-disclosed stock option grant back-dating activities at other companies, during 2006 Cytyc's internal audit department, acting under the direction and supervision of the audit committee of the board of directors, reviewed Cytyc's employee stock option granting practices and no inappropriate grant dates were identified. During 2007, such work of Cytyc's internal audit department was reviewed by the independent outside counsel of the audit committee, which performed certain additional procedures and also did not identify any inappropriate grant dates.

- (2) The international segment includes international sales of Cytec's diagnostic products of $19.8 million and $14.9 million during the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and $37.9 million and $28.9 million during the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively. This segment also includes international sales of Cytec's surgical products of $2.8 million and $1.4 million during the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and $5.2 million and $2.5 million during the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively.

Net sales for each segment as a percentage of total consolidated net sales is as follows (dollars in millions) for the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006:

Cytec's domestic surgical net sales increased 32% during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 as compared to the same periods of 2006, primarily reflecting growth in unit sales and increased average sales price of single-use disposable devices of both the NovaSure System and MammoSite Radiation Therapy System. Domestic net sales of Cytec's NovaSure System represented 86% and 85% of the domestic surgical products segment's net sales during the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and represented 86% and 84% of the domestic surgical products segment's net sales during the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively. Net sales of the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System represented 13% of the domestic surgical products segment's net sales during the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and 14% of the domestic surgical products segment's net sales during the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, no customer represented more than 10% of total domestic surgical net sales.

Cytec's domestic diagnostic net sales increased 19% and 15% during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, as compared to the same periods of 2006, due primarily to the continued increase in adoption and utilization of the ThinPrep Imaging System across Cytec's customer base. In addition, net sales during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 include $14.0 million and $17.6 million of net sales of FullTerm, The Fetal Fibronectin Test, acquired as part of Cytec's purchase of Adeza, from the date of acquisition. During the three months ended June 30, 2007, two customers represented 12% and 14%, respectively, of total domestic diagnostic net sales. During the six months ended June 30, 2007, two customers represented 13% and 14%, respectively, of total domestic diagnostic net sales.

Net sales in Cytec's international segment, which is comprised of net sales to customers outside the United States of both diagnostic and surgical products, increased 39% and 37% during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, as compared to the same periods of 2006, primarily reflecting higher unit sales of the ThinPrep Pap Test and the NovaSure single-use disposable devices. During the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, no customer represented more than 10% of total international net sales.

During the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, no customer represented 10% or more of Cytec's consolidated net sales.

Cytec's gross margin was 74% and 78% during the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and was 75% and 78% during the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively. Cytec's gross margin decreased during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, primarily as a result of: (i) slightly lower gross margins in Cytec's domestic diagnostic products segment as a result of increased placements of the ThinPrep Imaging System which generally carry lower gross margins than domestic sales of the ThinPrep Pap Test; (ii) Cytec's inclusion within cost of sales of $4.8 million and $8.0 million of non-cash amortization expense related to Cytec's intangible assets during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively; and (iii) growth in net sales at Cytec's international segment, which generally carries lower margins than sales in the United States, although there was an increase in gross margins within the international segment during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 as compared to the same periods of 2006, reflecting product mix.

Table of ContentsOperating Expenses

Total operating expenses increased to $86.6 million and $246.4 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, an increase of 28% and 87%, respectively, as compared to $67.5 million and $131.9 million for the same periods of 2006, primarily as a result of the in-process research and development charges totaling $89.5 million associated with Cytyc's March 2007 acquisitions of Adeza and Adiana Inc. (Adiana), incremental operating expense from these two subsidiaries, and fees of approximately $6.2 million related to Cytyc's pending merger with Hologic. The following is a summary of operating expenses for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006:

	Three Months Ended				Six Months Ended

Research and Development

Cytyc's core research and development strategy is to (i) enhance its existing product lines, such as the ThinPrep Imaging System, the NovaSure System, and the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System, through operational enhancements and cost reductions, and (ii) develop additional innovative medical diagnostic and surgical devices and therapeutic applications for cancer and women's health, such as the Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization (TCS) System®, Gestiva™, Cellient™ Automated Cell Block System and the Helica Thermal Coagulator System products. Cytyc's research and development costs increased to $11.4 million and $21.1 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, an increase of 6% and less than 1%, respectively, as compared to the same periods of 2006, primarily reflecting: (i) $2.4 million and $2.9 million of incremental expenses during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, from the inclusion of the research and development activities of Adeza and Adiana in Cytyc's consolidated results from the dates of acquisition, including continued development efforts surrounding the Gestiva product and the FDA approval process for the TCS System; and (ii) increased engineering costs to continue to improve the ThinPrep System, NovaSure System and the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System and to develop related technologies to grow Cytyc's product lines. These costs were slightly offset by a $2.1 million and $4.2 million reduction of non-cash amortization as a result of recording this amortization within cost of sales during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, where all such non-cash amortization had been included within research and development expenses in prior years.

In-Process Research and Development

As part of the allocation of the purchase prices of Adeza and Adiana from the dates of acquisition in March 2007, all intangible and tangible assets were identified and valued. It was determined that certain developed and in-development technology had ongoing value. As a result of this identification and valuation process, Cytyc allocated $43.5 million and $46.0 million, respectively, of the purchase prices to in-process research and development projects during the three months ended March 31, 2007. This allocation represents the estimated fair values based on risk-adjusted cash flows related to incomplete research and development activities associated with: (i) Adeza's development of Gestiva, which is currently pending final approval from the FDA, as well as Adeza's induction of labor diagnostic product which is in an earlier stage of development than Gestiva; and (ii) Adiana's TCS System for which Cytyc is in the process of seeking a PMA from the FDA.

Table of Contents

The rates utilized to discount the net cash flows to their present value was based on estimated weighted-average cost of capital calculations. A discount rate of 14% was used to value the in-process research and development projects purchased as part of the Adeza acquisition and a discount rate of 26% was used to value the in-process research and development projects purchased as part of the Adiana acquisition. These discount rates were higher than Cytoc's weighted-average cost of capital due to, as applicable, the earlier-stage overall life cycles of the acquired products, the inherent uncertainties surrounding the outcome of the upgrade and development projects and successful commercialization and development of the acquired assets, the useful life of the acquired technology, the profitability levels of such technology and the uncertainty of technological advances that were unknown at that time.

As of the respective dates of acquisition of Adeza and Adiana, the acquired in-process research and development was charged to expense in the condensed consolidated statement of loss for the three months ended March 31, 2007.

Sales and Marketing

Sales and marketing costs increased to $48.2 million and $89.3 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, an increase of 15% and 9%, respectively, as compared to the same period of 2006, due primarily to (i) $4.5 million and $5.4 million of incremental expenses during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, from the inclusion of the sales and marketing activities of Adeza in Cytoc's consolidated results from the date of acquisition, including costs associated with the integration of the Adeza sales force and (ii) incremental sales and marketing costs, primarily related to headcount to support the growth in sales and commissions on higher net sales in Cytoc's domestic surgical products business. These higher sales and marketing costs were partially offset by a $0.4 million and $1.1 million reduction in non-cash stock-based compensation expense during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, as compared to the same periods in 2006.

General and Administrative

General and administrative costs increased to $27.0 million and $46.5 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, an increase of 83% and 61%, respectively, as compared to the same periods of 2006, primarily due to: (i) $6.2 million of costs incurred during the three months ended June 30, 2007 related to Cytoc's pending merger with Hologic, (ii) $1.2 million and $1.6 million of incremental expenses during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, from the inclusion of the general and administrative activities of Adeza in Cytoc's consolidated results from the date of acquisition, (iii) increased personnel and facility costs to support the growth of Cytoc's business; and (iv) increased efforts to enhance Cytoc's management information systems. These increased costs were partially offset by $0.3 million and $0.9 million reduction in non-cash stock-based compensation expense during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, as compared to the same periods in 2006.

Other (Expense) Income, net

Cytoc recorded interest expense of $3.8 million and $1.8 million for the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and $6.2 million and $3.6 million for the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, related primarily to: (i) $1.8 million and $3.6 million of interest expense during both the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, from Cytoc's 2.25% convertible notes due 2024, which were issued on March 22, 2004, including amortization of $0.4 million and $0.8 million of deferred financing costs for both the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, associated with the issuance of these notes; and (ii) $1.9 million and $2.5 million of interest expense during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, related to Cytoc's borrowing on its line of credit facility during the first quarter of 2007, to facilitate the purchases of Adiana and Adeza. Interest income decreased to $0.6 million and $3.3 million for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007, respectively, as compared to $1.8 million and $3.7 million for the same periods of 2006, respectively, as the average total balance of Cytyc's cash, cash equivalents and investment securities was lower during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 as compared to the same periods of 2006 due to the acquisitions of Adeza and Adiana.

Income Taxes

Cytyc's effective tax rate for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 was 34.1% and 193.6%, respectively. Exclusive of the effects of the non-deductible in-process research and development charges incurred in connection with Cytyc's acquisitions of Adeza and Adiana in March 2007 Cytyc's effective tax rate for the six months ended June 30, 2007 would have been 33.7%, including the impact of the recognition of a $1.6 million tax benefit related to a tax examination that closed during the first quarter of 2007, as well as the reversal during the second quarter of 2007 of $1.4 million of deferred tax liabilities related to permanently reinvesting the undistributed earnings realized by Cytyc's Costa Rica subsidiary. The effective tax rate for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 also reflected $4.4 million of non-deductible costs associated with Cytyc's pending merger with Hologic incurred during the second quarter of 2007. The effective tax rate was 36.5% for both the three and six months ended June 30, 2006. Cytyc believes it has adequate liabilities for uncertain tax positions. If Cytyc ultimately determines that these liabilities are greater or less than the amounts paid, it will adjust the liabilities for uncertain tax positions and recognize a tax benefit or charge in the consolidated statement of income (loss) during the period in which Cytyc makes the determination or, if the adjustments relate to unrecognized tax benefits for deferred tax assets recorded in connection with an acquisition, Cytyc will adjust the carrying value of goodwill. Cytyc estimates its effective tax rate for 2007 will be in the range of 55% to 56% and, exclusive of the effects of the in-process research and development charges, Cytyc estimates its effective tax rate will be in the range of 35% to 36%.

(1) Cytyc's 2005 operating results include the results of Proxima from the date of acquisition (March 7, 2005). Cytyc's 2004 operating results include the results of Novacept from the date of acquisition (March 24, 2004).

(2) The international segment includes international sales of Cytyc's diagnostic products of $62.3 million, $50.3 million and $40.5 million in 2006, 2005 and 2004, respectively. This segment also includes international sales of Cytyc's surgical products of $6.0 million, $2.8 million, and $1.1 million in 2006, 2005, and 2004 respectively.

Net sales for each segment as a percentage of total consolidated net sales is as follows (dollars in millions):

Cytec's domestic surgical products net sales increased 43% in 2006 as compared to 2005 and increased 130% in 2005 as compared to 2004, primarily reflecting growth in unit sales and increased average sales price of single-use disposable devices of both the NovaSure System and MammoSite Radiation Therapy System. These increases also reflect the timing of Cytec's acquisitions of Proxima (March 7, 2005) and Novacept (March 24, 2004). Domestic net sales of Cytec's NovaSure System represented 85% and 86% of the domestic surgical products division's net sales in 2006 and 2005, respectively, and net sales of the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System represented 14% and 12% of the domestic surgical products division's net sales in 2006 and 2005, respectively. Cytec's 2005 operating results include the results of Proxima from the date of acquisition and Cytec's 2004 operating results include the results of Novacept from the date of acquisition.

Cytec's domestic diagnostic products net sales increased 7% in 2006 as compared to 2005 and 8% in 2005 as compared to 2004, due primarily to the continued increase in adoption and utilization of the ThinPrep Imaging System across Cytec's customer base.

Net sales in Cytec's international division, which is comprised of sales to customers outside the United States of both diagnostic and surgical products, increased 29% in 2006 as compared to 2005 and 28% in 2005 as compared to 2004. The increase in each year primarily reflects higher unit sales of the ThinPrep Pap Test and the NovaSure single-use disposable devices.

For the year ended December 31, 2006, no customer represented 10% or more of Cytec's consolidated net sales. Net sales to one customer within its domestic diagnostic division represented 11% and 17% of Cytec's consolidated net sales in 2005 and 2004, respectively.

Gross Margin

Cytec's gross margin was 78% in 2006 and was 79% in 2005 and 2004. The gross margin decreased during 2006, in part reflecting the inclusion of $1.3 million of stock-based compensation expense within cost of sales. Apart from this impact, gross margin reflected product mix, with increased placements of the ThinPrep Imaging System and growth in international sales of Cytec's diagnostic products, both of which generally have lower profit margins than sales of Cytec's disposable devices in the United States. The gross margin remained consistent in 2005 as compared to 2004, as the impact of domestic net sales of the ThinPrep Pap Test and increasing sales of the higher-margin NovaSure and MammoSite disposable devices were offset by increased placements of the ThinPrep Imaging System and growth in international sales of Cytec's diagnostic products, both of which generally have lower profit margins.

Table of ContentsOperating Expenses

Total operating expenses increased to $272.4 million for 2006, an increase of 26% over 2005, as compared to an increase of 22% in 2005 over 2004. Operating expenses in 2006 include $19.9 million of stock-based compensation expense pursuant to the provisions of SFAS No. 123R. As a result of the adoption of SFAS No. 123R on January 1, 2006, as required, Cytyc began to recognize all stock-based compensation to employees, including grants of employee stock options, in the financial statements based on their fair values. Operating expenses in 2006 also include a restructuring charge of $2.9 million relating to Cytyc's decision to consolidate its Mountain View, California operations into Cytyc's existing operations in Costa Rica and Massachusetts. Operating expenses in 2005 include a $7.8 million charge as a result of an arbitration decision (see Note 10(e) to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements), and Cytyc's operating expenses in 2004 include a charge of $19.1 million to write off acquired in-process research and development costs related to its acquisition of Novacept in March 2004. The following is a summary of operating expenses for the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005 and 2004:

Research and Development

Cytyc's core research and development strategy is to enhance its existing product lines, such as the ThinPrep Imaging System, the NovaSure System, the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System and the GliaSite Radiation Therapy System, through operational enhancements and cost reductions, as well as to continue to develop additional innovative medical diagnostic and surgical devices and therapeutic applications for cancer and women's health, through Cytyc's existing intellectual property as well as the acquisition of new intellectual property. Cytyc's research and development costs increased to $44.1 million in 2006, an increase of $11.8 million or 37%, over 2005, as compared to an increase of $11.5 million or 55% in 2005 over 2004, primarily reflecting: (i) $3.0 million of stock-based compensation expense recorded in 2006 pursuant to SFAS No. 123R; (ii) $4.1 million and $3.7 million of incremental non-cash amortization of Cytyc's developed technology intangible assets during 2006 and 2005, respectively, specifically resulting from Cytyc's acquisitions of Novacept in March 2004 and Proxima in March 2005, which are amortized using the cash flow method; (iii) incremental expenses supporting the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System which were included in Cytyc's operating results for the full year of 2006 as compared to slightly more than nine months in 2005 and none in 2004; and (iv) increased engineering costs and clinical trial costs to continue to improve the NovaSure System and the MammoSite Radiation Therapy System and to develop related technologies to grow Cytyc's product lines, as well as incremental clinical trial costs in support of the FirstCyte Breast Test.

Table of ContentsIn-Process Research and Development

As part of the allocation of the purchase price of Novacept in March 2004, all intangible assets were identified and valued. It was determined that certain developed and in-development technology had value. As a result of this identification and valuation process, Cytyc allocated $19.1 million of the purchase price to in-process research and development projects in 2004. This allocation represents the estimated fair value based on risk-adjusted cash flows related to incomplete research and development activities associated with an upgrade to the RF Controller. The RF Controller delivers radio frequency energy and is one of the two primary components of the NovaSure System. The upgrade to the RF Controller was necessary to replace the existing power supply, a critical component of the RF Controller which was being discontinued by its supplier.

The rate utilized to discount the net cash flows to their present value was based on estimated weighted-average cost of capital calculations. A discount rate of 20% was used to value the in-process research and development project. This discount rate was higher than Cytyc's weighted-average cost of capital due to the early-stage life cycle of the acquired products, the inherent uncertainties surrounding the outcome of the upgrade project and successful commercialization and development of the acquired assets, the useful life of the acquired technology, the profitability levels of such technology and the uncertainty of technological advances that were unknown at that time.

As of the date of acquisition (March 24, 2004), the upgrade to the RF Controller was under design review, the remaining costs to complete the project were not material and the project was anticipated to be, and actually was, completed in late 2004 with net cash inflows commencing at that time. Accordingly, the acquired in-process research and development was charged to expense as of the date of the acquisition. There have been no variations from Cytyc's underlying projections and assumptions as compared to actual operating results that would have had a material impact on the valuation of the in-process research and development. In addition, since that time, there have been no additional significant, ongoing activities associated with the in-process research and development and there were no other significant acquired projects. There were no in-process research and development charges in connection with Cytyc's acquisition of Proxima in March 2005.

Sales and Marketing

Sales and marketing costs increased to $161.9 million for the year ended December 31, 2006, an increase of $30.6 million or 23% over 2005, as compared to a 29% increase in 2005 over 2004, primarily due to incremental sales and marketing costs of Cytyc's domestic surgical products division. These costs reflect: (i) $9.3 million of stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2006 pursuant to SFAS No. 123R; (ii) the continued growth in the sales force to support increased sales of Cytyc's surgical products, including the expansion of its domestic sales force resulting from the acquisition of Proxima in March 2005; and (iii) customer training costs associated with increased sales of Cytyc's surgical products to new customers. These incremental costs were slightly offset by a decrease in costs related to the integration and cross-training of Cytyc's sales forces, as the majority of these costs were incurred during 2005 following the Proxima acquisition.

The 29% increase to $131.4 million for the year ended December 31, 2005 over 2004, was primarily due to sales and marketing costs at Cytyc's domestic surgical products division. The increase of approximately $29.4 million in 2005 reflects the expansion of Cytyc's domestic sales force resulting from the acquisitions of Novacept and Proxima in March 2004 and 2005, respectively, costs to integrate and cross-train Cytyc's sales forces following the Proxima acquisition and costs associated with a direct-to-consumer marketing program launched during 2005 for Cytyc's NovaSure product. In addition, Cytyc incurred incremental sales and marketing costs of approximately $3.4 million in 2005 as compared to 2004 to support its international expansion efforts.

Overall, Cytyc's sales and marketing expense increased to 27% of net sales in 2006 as compared to 26% in both 2005 and 2004.

Table of ContentsGeneral and Administrative

General and administrative costs increased to $63.5 million for the year ended December 31, 2006, an increase of $18.2 million or 40% over 2005 and such costs increased 28% to $45.3 million for the year ended December 31, 2005 over 2004, primarily due to: (i) $7.6 million of stock-based compensation expense during the year ended December 31, 2006, pursuant to SFAS No. 123R; (ii) $3.6 million of costs associated with the acquisition and sale of shares of Vision Systems Limited; and (iii) increased costs during 2006 and 2005 to support the growth of Cytyc's business, such as increases in personnel and facility costs, enhancements to Cytyc's management information systems and increases in its product liability insurance coverage. The increases in general and administrative costs during 2006 were offset in part by a decrease in costs associated with litigation as compared to 2005 (See Note 10(e) to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements).

As a percentage of net sales, general and administrative expenses were 10% in 2006 and 9% in both 2005 and 2004.

Restructuring

During the fourth quarter of 2006, Cytyc's management approved a restructuring plan designed to reduce future operating expenses, by consolidating Cytyc's Mountain View, California operations into its existing operations in Costa Rica and Massachusetts. In connection with this plan, Cytyc incurred $2.9 million of restructuring costs during the fourth quarter of 2006 related to severance expenses and expects to incur additional restructuring costs in 2007 of approximately $5 million to $6 million, primarily resulting from retention costs and incremental depreciation of leasehold improvements. None of the severance has been paid as of December 31, 2006 and all is expected to be paid during 2007.

Other Income (Expense), net

As a result of the sale of Cytyc's shares of Vision Systems Limited in December 2006, Cytyc realized a gain of $11.2 million and included this gain within gain on strategic investments, net in its consolidated statement of income. In addition Cytyc recorded a realized foreign currency gain of $1.9 million related to this transaction and included such gain in other income (expense).

Cytyc recorded interest expense of $7.5 million, $7.2 million, and $5.4 million for the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005, and 2004, respectively, related primarily to its 2.25% convertible notes due 2024, which were issued on March 22, 2004, including amortization of $1.7 million, $1.5 million, and $1.2 million, respectively, of deferred financing costs, primarily associated with the issuance of these notes. Interest income increased to $7.2 million, $3.3 million, and $2.4 million in each of the years ended December 31, 2006, 2005 and 2004, respectively, as the average interest rate for Cytyc's cash, cash equivalents and investment securities was higher in each year as compared to the immediately preceding year.

Income Taxes

During the year ended December 31, 2006, Cytyc completed tax audits that resulted in the recognition of a tax benefit in its consolidated statement of income of approximately $2 million and a decrease in its effective tax rate for 2006 to 35%. Cytyc's effective tax rates for 2005 and 2004 were 36.5% and 43.6%, respectively. Exclusive of the effects of the non-deductible $19.1 million in-process research and development charge incurred in connection with the Novacept acquisition in March 2004, Cytyc's effective tax rate for 2004 would have been 38%. The decrease from 2005 to 2006 was due to the completion of various tax audits and an increase in tax-exempt interest income. The decrease from 2004 to 2005 was due to savings from tax planning initiatives which began in 2003, as well as the impact in 2005 of the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004. Cytyc is undergoing various audits on the state level and expects these audits to conclude at various dates throughout 2007. Although Cytyc believes it has adequate reserves for potential assessments, Cytyc recognizes liabilities for potential tax audit issues in the United States and other tax jurisdictions based on its estimate of whether, and to the extent to which, additional taxes will be due. If Cytyc ultimately determines that these reserves are greater or less than the amounts paid, Cytyc will adjust the reserves and recognize a tax benefit or charge during the period in which it makes the determination or, if the adjustments to the reserves relate to deferred tax assets recorded in connection with an acquisition, Cytyc will adjust the carrying value of goodwill. Cytyc estimates that its effective tax rate for 2007 will be in the range of 35% to 35.5% as Cytyc continues to realize savings from tax planning initiatives, as well as the impact of the American Jobs Creation Act of 2004.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

At June 30, 2007, Cytyc had total cash, cash equivalents and investment securities of $33.3 million. Cash provided by operations was $85.1 million for the six months ended June 30, 2007, an increase of 17% compared to $72.6 million during the same period of 2006, primarily as a result of increased net sales as compared to the same period in the prior year and Cytyc's $11.4 million payment to DEKA during the first quarter of 2006 relating to the arbitration panel decision. Cytyc's net accounts receivable increased 20% to $113.7 million at June 30, 2007 as compared to $94.9 million at December 31, 2006, reflecting continued growth in net sales, the timing of cash collections, as well as the addition of receivables obtained in the acquisition of Adeza in March 2007. Cytyc's Days Sales Outstanding (DSO) was 54 and 52 days at June 30, 2007 and December 31, 2006, respectively. Cytyc has had no significant issues of collectibility. The slight increase in DSO is largely the result of Cytyc's acquisition of Adeza, which has generally had a higher DSO than Cytyc's historical average. The term Days Sales Outstanding, which Cytyc calculates by dividing gross trade accounts receivable at the end of the quarter by its average consolidated daily net sales for the quarter, refers to the estimated number of days worth of sales that are outstanding and unpaid at any given time. Cytyc's inventories increased 11% to $32.7 million at June 30, 2007 as compared to $29.5 million at December 31, 2006, primarily reflecting an increase in inventory to support the growth in net sales in Cytyc's domestic diagnostic and surgical products businesses, as well as an increase as a result of Cytyc's acquisition of Adeza during the first quarter of 2007.

At December 31, 2006, Cytyc had cash, cash equivalents and investment securities totaling $297.7 million. Cash provided by operations was $173.7 million for 2006, a decrease of 1%, as compared to cash from operations of $176.0 million in 2005, primarily as a result of Cytyc's $11.4 million payment to DEKA during the first quarter of 2006 relating to the arbitration panel decision (see Note 10(e) to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements), partially offset by increased net sales and timing of cash collections as compared to the prior year. Cash provided by operations in 2005 increased 28% as compared to cash from operations of $137.6 million in 2004, primarily as a result of increased net sales and the utilization of favorable tax attributes included in the Novacept and Proxima acquisitions. Cytyc's net accounts receivable increased 15% to $94.9 million at December 31, 2006, as compared to $82.8 million at December 31, 2005, reflecting continued growth in net sales, as well as the timing of cash collections. DSO improved to 52 days at December 31, 2006 as compared to 53 days at December 31, 2005. Cytyc's inventories increased 23% to $29.5 million at December 31, 2006, as compared to $24.0 million at December 31, 2005, primarily reflecting an increase in inventory to support growth in net sales across its business.

Cytyc's investing activities used cash of $285.1 million during the six months ended June 30, 2007, primarily related to the acquisitions of Adeza and Adiana in March 2007. The total purchase prices for Adeza and Adiana were $457.3 million and $60.5 million (excluding future contingent payments), respectively, including acquisition-related costs (see Note 3 to Cytyc's condensed consolidated financial statements). During the six months ended June 30, 2007, Cytyc paid $427.7 million and $58.4 million, respectively (net of cash acquired), related to these acquisitions using a combination of cash on hand and borrowings on its line of credit. Also during the six months ended June 30, 2007: Cytyc (i) paid $3.6 million to the former stockholders of Proxima Therapeutics, Inc. (Proxima), a company Cytyc acquired in 2005, for contingent earn-out payments relating to incremental sales growth in Cytyc's breast-related products during 2006 (there will be no further contingent earn-out payments associated with the Proxima acquisition); (ii) invested $12.4 million in equipment under customer usage agreements, of which $10.8 million represented ThinPrep Imaging System units; and (iii) made $9.5 million of capital expenditures related primarily to Cytyc's investment in manufacturing processes to support the growth of its business. During 2007, Cytyc expects to invest between $45 million and $50 million for the manufacture of equipment to be placed at customer sites and capital expenditures, including an investment in systems and infrastructure improvements and other machinery and equipment purchases to support the growth in its business.

During the six months ended June 30, 2006, Cytyc's investing activities used cash of $37.2 million, primarily related to the payment of $21.1 million to the former Proxima shareholders for the contingent earn-out payments relating to incremental sales growth in Cytyc's breast-related products during 2005 pursuant to the terms of the related merger agreement. In addition, during the six months ended June 30, 2006, Cytyc invested $13.5 million in equipment under customer usage agreements, of which $11.5 million represented ThinPrep Imaging System units, and Cytyc made $8.6 million of capital expenditures.

Cytyc's investing activities used cash of $120.6 million in 2006, primarily as a result of: (i) the March 2006 payment of $21.1 million to the former Proxima stockholders for the contingent earn-out payments relating to incremental sales growth in Cytyc's breast-related products during 2005 (see Note 4(b) to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements); (ii) Cytyc's investment of $25.5 million in equipment under customer usage agreements, of which approximately $21.0 million represented ThinPrep Imaging Systems units; (iii) $22.3 million of capital expenditures during 2006, related primarily to Cytyc's investment in manufacturing processes and information systems to support the growth of its business; and (iv) $48.5 million net purchases of investment securities, including proceeds of $11.2 million from the sale of Cytyc's shares of Vision Systems Limited in December 2006 (see Note 4(d) to Cytyc's audited consolidated financial statements).

Cytyc's investing activities used cash of $152.4 million in 2005, primarily related to the purchase of Proxima in March 2005, partially offset by net proceeds from sales and maturities of investment securities. As of December 31, 2005, Cytyc paid $163.0 million of the Proxima purchase price using a combination of cash, cash equivalents and investment securities to fund the purchase. During 2005, Cytyc also invested $27.3 million in equipment used under customer usage agreements, of which approximately $22.0 million represented ThinPrep Imaging Systems for use at customer sites. Cytyc also made $13.4 million of capital expenditures during 2005, related primarily to its investment in manufacturing processes, facilities and information systems to support the growth of its business, as well as costs to manufacture the ThinPrep Imaging System units to be placed at customer sites under usage agreements.

Cytyc's financing activities during the six months ended June 30, 2007 provided cash of $91.2 million, primarily reflecting its net borrowings of $55.0 million on its line of credit facility to facilitate its purchases of Adeza and Adiana, as well as $41.8 million and $2.3 million of proceeds from the exercise of stock options and employee purchases of Cytyc common stock under Cytyc's employee stock purchase plan, respectively, along with related tax benefits of $8.6 million. Partially offsetting these cash inflows was the repurchase of $16.5 million of Cytyc common stock during the six months ended June 30, 2007 as part of Cytyc's stock repurchase program. Cytyc's financing activities during the six months ended June 30, 2006 used cash of $59.0 million, primarily reflecting Cytyc's repurchase of $78.6 million of its common stock as part of Cytyc's stock repurchase program, partially offset by proceeds and tax benefits of $16.8 million and $2.0 million from the exercise of stock options and employee purchases of Cytyc common stock under Cytyc's employee stock purchase plan, respectively.

Cytyc's financing activities in 2006 used cash of $36.7 million, primarily reflecting its repurchase of $108.6 million of Cytyc common stock as part of its stock repurchase program, partially offset by proceeds of $65.8 million and $3.8 million from the exercise of stock options and employee purchases of Cytyc common stock under the employee stock purchase plan, respectively. Cytyc's financing activities in 2005 generated cash of $14.0 million, resulting from proceeds of $61.1 million and $2.9 million from the exercise of stock options and employee purchases of Cytyc common stock under the employee stock purchase plan, respectively, partially offset by its repurchase of $50.1 million of Cytyc common stock, including $0.1 million in commissions, as part of its stock repurchase program.

Convertible Notes On March 22, 2004, Cytyc completed the sale (the Offering) of $250 million aggregate principal amount of its 2.25% convertible notes due 2024. The convertible notes were sold to qualified institutional buyers pursuant to an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. The notes bear interest at a rate of 2.25% per year on the principal amount, payable semi-annually in arrears in cash on March 15 and September 15 of each year, beginning September 15, 2004. The holders of the notes may convert the notes into shares of Cytyc's common stock at a conversion price of $29.67 per share, subject to adjustment, prior to the close of business on March 15, 2024, subject to prior redemption or repurchase of the notes, under any of the following circumstances: (1) during any calendar quarter commencing after June 30, 2004 if the closing sale price of Cytyc's common stock exceeds 120% of the conversion price for at least 20 trading days in the 30 consecutive trading days ending on the last trading day of the preceding calendar quarter (if the specified threshold is met, the notes will thereafter be convertible at any time at the option of the holder prior to the close of business on March 15, 2024); (2) during the five business day period after any five consecutive trading day period in which the trading price per $1,000 principal amount of notes for each day of such period was less than 98% of the product of the closing sale price of Cytyc's common stock and the number of shares issuable upon conversion of $1,000 principal amount of the notes; (3) if the notes have been called for redemption; or (4) upon the occurrence of specified corporate events.

Holders may require Cytyc to repurchase the notes on March 15 of 2009, 2014 and 2019 at a repurchase price equal to 100% of their principal amount, plus accrued and unpaid interest, including contingent interest and liquidated damages, if any, to, but excluding, the repurchase date. Cytyc may redeem any of the notes beginning March 20, 2009, by giving holders at least 30 days' notice.

On July 19, 2007, Cytyc announced that it is delivering a notice to the holders of the notes in connection with Section 15.01(a)(i) of the indenture between Cytyc and U.S. Bank Trust National Association, as trustee, under which the notes were issued (the Indenture). The notice advised that effective July 1, 2007, holders are entitled to convert the convertible notes into shares of the Cytyc's common stock due to the closing sale price of Cytyc's common stock exceeding 120% of the notes conversion price for at least twenty trading days out of the last thirty trading days in the quarter ended June 30, 2007. The conversion price of the notes is $29.67 under the Indenture. The notes will remain convertible into shares of Cytyc's common stock at any time at the option of the holder through maturity.

As of September 4, 2007, none of the convertible notes have been converted into Cytyc's common stock.

Credit Agreement Cytyc has a five-year Credit Agreement (the Credit Agreement) with a syndicate of lenders, which provides for a $345 million senior unsecured revolving credit facility. Cytyc may request an increase in available borrowings under the Credit Agreement by an additional amount of up to $155 million (for a maximum amount of $500 million) upon satisfaction of certain conditions. The loan proceeds are available to be used by Cytyc and its subsidiaries to finance working capital needs and for general corporate purposes, including future business acquisitions, as defined. Four of Cytyc's wholly-owned subsidiaries are guarantors under the Credit Agreement. On May 14, 2007, Cytyc and its related lenders amended the Credit Agreement in order to: (i) extend the delivery deadline for both the audited financial statements for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2006 and the unaudited financial statements for the fiscal quarter ended March 31, 2007; and (ii) amend the negative covenant concerning Indebtedness (as such term is defined in the Credit Agreement) to increase the maximum size of the receivables financing facility permitted thereunder from $50 million to $100 million.

Amounts under the Credit Agreement may be borrowed, repaid and re-borrowed by Cytyc from time to time until the maturity of the Credit Agreement on June 30, 2011. Voluntary prepayments and commitment reductions requested by Cytyc under the Credit Agreement are permitted at any time without penalty (other than customary breakage costs relating to the prepayment of any drawn loans) upon proper notice and subject to a minimum dollar requirement. Borrowings under the Credit Agreement bear interest at a floating rate, which will be, at Cytyc's option, either LIBOR plus an applicable margin (which is subject to adjustment based on financial ratios), or a base rate.

The Credit Agreement requires Cytyc to comply with maximum leverage and minimum fixed charge coverage ratios. The Credit Agreement contains affirmative and negative covenants, including limitations on additional debt, liens, certain investments, and acquisitions outside of the healthcare business. The Credit Agreement also includes events of default customary for facilities of this type. Upon the occurrence of an event of default, all outstanding loans may be accelerated and/or the lenders' commitments terminated.

As of June 30, 2007, Cytyc had $55.2 million outstanding under this Credit Agreement at an interest rate of 5.8%, of which $15.2 million was repaid in July 2007.

Adiana Earn-out Payments As part of Cytyc's acquisition of Adiana, Cytyc may be required to make contingent earn-out payments tied to future performance milestones (see Note 3(b) to Cytyc's condensed consolidated financial statements).

Contractual Obligations Cytyc's future contractual cash obligations as of June 30, 2007 are as follows (in thousands):

Cytc expects that its cash and cash equivalents, investment securities, cash flows from operating activities and funds available under its Credit Agreement will be sufficient to meet its projected operating cash needs for the next twelve months, including capital expenditures, lease and purchase commitments and tax payments. However, from time to time, Cytc reviews its capital structure and financing arrangements. As a result of these reviews, Cytc may periodically elect to pursue alternatives to its current structure, including the refinancing of its existing debt securities, the issuance of additional debt securities, the expansion of the existing credit facility, and the emplacement of an additional credit facility. In addition, if Cytc makes future acquisitions, it may be required to seek additional capital.

Off-Balance Sheet Arrangements

Cytc does not maintain any off-balance sheet financing arrangements apart from the operating leases described above.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

In September 2006, the FASB issued SFAS No. 157, Fair Value Measurements. Among other requirements, SFAS No. 157 defines fair value and establishes a framework for measuring fair value and also expands disclosure requirements regarding fair value measurements. SFAS No. 157 is effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after November 15, 2007 and interim periods within those years. Cytc is evaluating the potential impact that adopting SFAS No. 157 will have on Cytc's consolidated financial statements.

In February 2007, the FASB issued SFAS No. 159, The Fair Value Option for Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities Including an amendment of FASB Statement No. 115, which permits entities to measure various financial instruments and certain other items at fair value at specified election dates. The election must be made at initial recognition of the financial instrument, and any unrealized gains or losses must be reported at each reporting date. SFAS No. 159 is effective for financial statements issued for fiscal years beginning after November 15, 2007, and interim periods within those fiscal years. Cytc is evaluating the potential impact that adopting SFAS No. 159 will have on Cytc's consolidated financial statements.

Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures About Market Risk

Derivative Financial Instruments, Other Financial Instruments, and Derivative Commodity Instruments

At June 30, 2007, Cytc was not a party to any derivative financial instruments, other financial instruments for which the fair value disclosure would be required under SFAS No. 107, Disclosures about Fair Value of Financial Instruments, or derivative commodity instruments. At June 30, 2007, all of Cytc's investments were in municipal bonds that are carried at fair value on Cytc's books. Accordingly, Cytc has no quantitative information concerning the market risk of participating in such investments.

Primary Market Risk Exposures

Cytc's primary market risk exposures are in the areas of interest rate risk and foreign currency exchange rate risk. Cytc's investment portfolio of cash equivalents and investment securities is subject to interest rate fluctuations, but Cytc believes this risk is immaterial due to the short-term nature of these investments. Cytc's business outside the United States is conducted primarily in local currencies, except in Costa Rica, where the majority of business is conducted in the U.S. dollar. Cytc has no foreign exchange contracts, option contracts, or other foreign hedging arrangements. Cytc estimates that any market risk associated with its international operations is unlikely to have a material adverse effect on Cytc's business, financial condition or results of operations.

Interest Rate Risk and Management

As of June 30, 2007, Cytc's debt portfolio included both a fixed rate instrument ($250 million) and a floating rate instrument (approximately $55.2 million). The weighted average interest rate during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 of the fixed instrument portfolio was 2.25% and the weighted average interest rate during the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 for the variable instrument portfolio was approximately 5.8%. While Cytyc's fixed rate instrument guarantees that the impact on Cytyc's consolidated statements of income (loss) and cash flows will be predictable, changes in interest rates can cause the value of Cytyc's fixed rate debt to change. However, such a value change has no impact on either Cytyc's consolidated statements of income (loss) or cash flows unless Cytyc determines that it wishes to retire a fixed rate debt obligation on the open market.

Alternatively, Cytyc's future consolidated statements of income (loss) and future cash flows can fluctuate with its floating rate borrowings. However, the impact would be partially mitigated by the floating rate interest earned on excess cash. If there were a hypothetical 10% change in interest rates, the net impact to Cytyc's consolidated statements of income (loss) and cash flows would not be material. The potential change in cash flows and earnings is calculated based on the change in the net interest expense over both one and two quarters due to an immediate 10% change in rates.

CYTYC EXECUTIVE AND DIRECTOR COMPENSATION

Compensation Discussion & Analysis

This discussion should be read in conjunction with the tables and related discussion beginning on page B-58 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Introduction

Cytyc's executive compensation program is designed to attract, retain and motivate high-performing leaders to achieve strong business results and enhance stockholder value. To this end, Cytyc's executive compensation program is strongly linked to the delivery of long-term returns to its stockholders, the achievement of short- and long-term strategic business objectives, individual performance, and the demonstration of competencies that are aligned with its values.

The compensation committee uses its business judgment to establish Cytyc's executive compensation philosophy and policies, and oversees the implementation of Cytyc's executive compensation programs, drawing on internal and external resources to provide necessary information and recommendations, as appropriate.

Executive Compensation Objectives and Considerations

The fundamental objective of Cytyc's executive compensation program is to support the creation of long-term stockholder value. The executive officers named in the Summary Compensation Table on page B-58 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus (named executive officers or NEOs) and other executive officers are critically important to Cytyc's ability to create stockholder value. It is in the stockholders' interests that the compensation of Cytyc's executive officers be structured in a manner which encourages the efforts of Cytyc's executive officers which will enable Cytyc to reach desired objectives. Cytyc believes that it is in the best interest of the company, its stockholders and Cytyc's other important non-stockholder constituencies to employ highly-talented, able, high-performing leaders who are able to sustain and improve upon Cytyc's strong performance.

In order to achieve this fundamental objective, Cytyc believes that it is appropriate to focus primarily on each executive officer's total compensation opportunity, reviewed annually on a prospective basis, and that a significant portion of each executive officer's total compensation opportunity should be performance-based, reflecting both upside potential and downside risk. In addition, as a means of ensuring that the interests of Cytyc's executive officers are aligned with those of its stockholders, Cytyc believes that executive officers should build and maintain an equity interest in the company. To this end, Cytyc pays these officers a meaningful portion of their compensation in equity, and, in March 2007, adopted revised stock ownership guidelines for Cytyc's executive and other officers.

General Considerations

Executive compensation, particularly incentive-based compensation, is material to the company because Cytyc believes it has a strong impact on the performance of its executive officers. The actions of Cytyc's executive officers, both individually and as a group, are extremely important in shaping business outcomes in both the short- and the long-term. Therefore, it is important to strike a balance between rewarding short-term financial results while also rewarding actions that will lead to desired business results over a period of several years.

It is Cytyc's objective to have a portion of each executive officer's compensation contingent upon the achievement of specific pre-determined corporate objectives, as well as upon each executive officer's individual level of performance.

The impact of the NEOs and other executive officers is not merely on matters that can be readily measured (e.g., financial performance indicators), but also on other important, subjective variables, including culture and values. Consequently, a focus on objective indicators, while important, must be balanced by other, broader considerations which impact Cytoc's business.

No system can be perfect, and every executive compensation system, if rigidly applied, can have unintended consequences. Judgment in application is therefore important.

Proven, capable senior leaders who know the company, have industry knowledge, operational experience, and a track record of success are extremely valuable. Such individuals are commercially sophisticated, informed, attractive to competitors and have many other opportunities available to them, both in public companies and in other sectors of the economy. The cost of locating or developing alternative executives, whether internally or through external recruiting, is high.

The success of a complex organization such as the company is critically dependent upon effective teamwork at the executive officer level, as well as on individual capability.

Individuals vary in the value they attach to specific elements of compensation, but in general, the highest value is attributable to immediately available compensation. Cytoc seeks to balance the value of each element of compensation to the company against the perceived value of such element to the executive officer.

Individuals generally prefer a clear understanding of the factors that determine compensation, but a strictly formulaic approach can lead to undesired behaviors. Cytoc seeks to provide a high degree of clarity, ensuring that executive officers are focused on the key drivers of success, while also retaining a degree of discretion to recognize particular circumstances.

Major decisions affecting the long-term future of Cytoc's business are a constant part of decision-making. It is difficult in the short-term to measure the precise impact that good and bad decisions in these areas will have on long-term prospects. As a result, Cytoc's choice of performance objectives, as well as the specific values of the targeted objectives, are affected by the current and future needs of the business and may change from year-to-year. Cytoc seeks to encourage executive officers to make decisions that are designed to support long-term value creation balanced against the need to also deliver short-term results.

Compensation Consultant

From July 2004 through June 2006, Towers Perrin served as the compensation committee's independent compensation consultant. In setting executive total compensation levels for 2006, the compensation committee utilized Towers Perrin as its executive compensation consultant. Towers Perrin provided data on executive compensation market trends and levels that were used to establish executive compensation for Cytoc's NEOs.

In October 2006, the compensation committee engaged FW Cook as its independent compensation consultant and asked them to perform a comprehensive review of Cytoc's approach to and delivery of executive compensation. The results of the study were used in refining Cytoc's compensation strategy and setting executive officer compensation for 2007.

Committee Activity

Following FW Cook's review of Cytoc's executive compensation strategy, the compensation committee, in early 2007, approved the recommendations set forth by FW Cook. As a result, and among other considerations, the compensation committee decided to:

Update the peer group of companies (the peer groups for both 2006 and 2007 appear below under Competitive Considerations) with respect to which executive compensation comparisons would be made, to more closely align the company with its market contemporaries;

Modify the definition of financial metrics employed in the performance-based cash incentive program;

Change the form of long-term equity awards from all options to a combination of options and performance shares (performance shares to be earned based upon achievement of certain performance measures over a three-year period);

Eliminate Cytyc's supplemental executive health-care benefit effective January 1, 2007 for Cytyc executive officers, and effective January 1, 2008 for all vice presidents who are not executive officers; and Adopt and implement the revised executive stock ownership guidelines.

Competitive Considerations

Determination by the Compensation Committee Cytyc believes that it is critical to its long-term performance to offer its executive officers compensation opportunities that are broadly commensurate with their competitive alternatives. However, competitive alternatives vary from individual to individual and may extend beyond equivalent positions in Cytyc's industry or at other publicly traded or similarly situated companies. As a result, the compensation committee sets each executive officer's total compensation opportunity and each compensation element based primarily on a series of both subjective and objective factors, such as (i) Cytyc's past performance and expectations of future performance, (ii) individual scope of responsibility, performance and experience, (iii) the executive compensation reports of independent consultants engaged by the compensation committee and (iv) past compensation levels.

Market Comparisons and Peer Group Selection Cytyc obtains market comparison information from analyses of publicly-available information for a peer group comprised of companies from the medical device and diagnostics industry as well as and the pharmaceutical industry. The compensation committee selects the companies to be included in the peer group from the medical device, diagnostic and pharmaceutical companies because Cytyc's business model takes into account certain aspects of these three life science sector markets, and employment opportunities for Cytyc's executives as well as the talent pool from which Cytyc recruits, stem from similar companies. The peer companies are chosen based on their relative annual revenue, revenue growth, size, and relevance to Cytyc's mix of businesses. They are generally publicly-traded companies of similar size and scope to Cytyc, and share some or all of the following characteristics with Cytyc: requisite skill bases, competitive intensity, degree of regulation and operating requirements. For 2006, the compensation committee approved the following peer group, which was chosen with the assistance of Towers Perrin:

Medical Devices & Diagnostic Companies:

Affymetrix, Inc.
 Arrow International, Inc.
 Advanced Medical Optics, Inc.
 The Cooper Companies, Inc.
 Diagnostics Produce Corporation
 Haemonetics Corporation

With the assistance of FW Cook, the compensation committee revised the peer group peer group effective for 2007 by removing three medical devices and diagnostic companies (Diagnostics Produce Corporation, IDEXX Laboratories, Inc. and Mentor Corporation) and adding four new companies (Bio-Rad Laboratories, Inc., Conmed Corp., Hologic Inc and Millipore Corp.), and by removing three pharmaceuticals companies (American Pharmaceuticals Partners, Inc., Gilead Sciences, Inc. and Par Pharmaceutical Companies, Inc.) and adding Abraxis Bioscience Inc. The updated peer group effective for 2007 consists of:

In light of Cytac's practice of making a relatively high portion of each executive officer's compensation based on performance (i.e., at risk) as compared to its peers, and because most of Cytac's performance targets are set at the top quartile or higher (as compared to the performance of Cytac's peers on the targeted factors), the compensation committee generally examines peer company data at the 50th and 75th percentiles for the peer companies. The opportunity for compensation for NEO and other executive officers is generally available at the 75th percentile of peer practice in order to encourage performance that is equal to top quartile or higher performance among comparable peers and reasonably aligned with Cytac's strategic plan.

Elements of Executive Compensation

Focus on Total Compensation Opportunity Cytac's annual executive compensation decisions begin with a determination of the appropriate total compensation opportunity to be made available to each NEO. The compensation committee reviews the combined value of all of the elements of compensation, considering proposed compensation, actual compensation for the previous year, and the balance among the elements. Cytac believes that a significant portion of each NEO's total compensation opportunity should be performance-based, reflecting both upside potential and downside risk, and, generally, that the higher an executive's level within Cytac's executive structure, the greater the proportion of total compensation which should be at risk. Each NEO's annual total compensation opportunity is comprised of a mix of compensation elements, consisting of base salary, annual performance-based cash incentive, longer-term equity incentives and certain personal benefits. Cytac expects that this mix can and should be revised from time-to-time as its needs and objectives, as well as industry and peer group practices, change.

Balance Among the Elements When determining the proportion of total compensation that will be comprised of each compensation element, the compensation committee reviews current market practices and industry trends. Within the performance-based compensation category, the compensation committee seeks to focus the efforts of the NEOs on company goals related to increasing stockholder value. In addition, the compensation committee considers the NEOs' perceived value of the various elements of compensation and seeks input from the Chief Executive Officer (but only with respect to compensation for other NEOs), as well as the advice of its independent compensation consultant, to assist in maximizing cost efficiency and motivational value.

Table of Contents

2006 Executive Compensation Components For the fiscal year ended December 31, 2006, the principal components of compensation for the NEOs were:

base salary;

performance-based cash incentive compensation;

long-term equity incentive compensation; and

Base Salary Cytyc pays base salaries to compensate its executive officers for performing their basic responsibilities. Base salaries for each of Cytyc's executive officers, including the Chief Executive Officer, are generally set within a range of salaries paid to executive officers at peer companies with comparable qualifications, experience, responsibilities and performance. In setting compensation levels, the compensation committee takes into account such factors as (i) Cytyc's past performance and expectations of future performance; (ii) individual scope of responsibility, performance and experience; (iii) the reports of independent compensation consultants engaged by the compensation committee; (iv) past salary levels; and (v) the recommendations of the Chief Executive Officer, but only with respect to other NEOs. The compensation committee does not assign relative weights or rankings to these factors, but instead makes a determination based upon the consideration of all of these factors, as well as the progress made with respect to Cytyc's long-term goals and strategies.

At its meeting in January 2006, the compensation committee considered base salary levels for the NEOs. Effective January 1, 2006, the compensation committee approved increases in NEO salaries as follows:

Name and Position	Annual Base Salary	Increase from Previous Year
Patrick J. Sullivan	$ 575,000	11.7%
Chairman, Chief Executive Officer and President
Timothy M. Adams	325,000	8.3
Senior Vice President, Chief Financial Officer and Treasurer
Daniel J. Levangie	425,000	6.3
Executive Vice President and President, Cytyc Surgical Products
John P. McDonough	325,000	8.3
Senior Vice President and President, Cytyc Development Company
A. Suzanne Meszner-Eltrich	285,000	9.6
Senior Vice President, General Counsel and Secretary
Performance-Based Cash Incentive Compensation

General. Cytyc's 2006 Executive Incentive Plan (the "2006 Plan") was intended to focus the NEOs' attention on shorter-term attainment of high levels of operating and financial performance. NEOs were eligible for annual cash incentive compensation under the 2006 Plan based primarily upon the level of achievement, both by the individual officer and the company, of performance targets established for each year, as well as on the compensation committee's assessment of individual performance.

Edgar Filing: HOLOGIC INC - Form 424B3

Cytoc's annual incentive payments for NEOs are determined based on a combination of performance elements consisting of corporate financial objectives, corporate stretch goals and individual performance. Baseline incentive awards are determined by (i) corporate revenue and (ii) profit before interest and taxes, with each metric assigned equal weighting in order to support and balance the Company's strategic focus on top-line and bottom-line growth. The baseline bonus targets range from 60% to 100% of base salary, depending on the NEO. An NEO can earn more than the target amount for superior performance. Corporate stretch goals, based on certain incremental predetermined operational goals, provide an NEO with the opportunity to earn an additional 10% (in total) of baseline bonus. Individual goals (Mr. Sullivan has only company goals) serve to modify the baseline bonus earned by +/-20% (in total). All metrics were approved by the compensation committee to provide the balanced measurement of current external results to stockholders, efficient and effective internal decisions to generate future stockholder returns, and strategic and operational initiatives.

B-53

The maximum incentive payment under the 2006 Plan was 155% of the baseline bonus, consisting of (i) a maximum of 125% of baseline bonus based on the company's financial performance; (ii) a maximum of 10% of baseline bonus based on the company's achievement of corporate stretch goals and (iii) a maximum of 20% of baseline bonus based on individual performance.

The incentive awards were structured to comply with the performance-based compensation rules of Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (Section 162(m)) to ensure the tax deductibility of compensation paid to NEOs. See Tax and Accounting Considerations below.

Setting Performance Targets. The compensation committee set minimum, target and maximum levels for each component of the corporate financial objective portion of 2006 Plan. As a general principle, Cytac believes that performance targets should be set at levels that reflect excellent performance, superior to the results of typical companies in Cytac's industry, but that the targets should be achievable that is, significant, sustained creative effort on the part of the executive team should be required in order to attain the targets, while at the same time the targets should represent a reasonable expectation of performance, assuming the team delivers the effort. Target levels that are set too low may fail to result in the best performance attainable, while target levels that are set too high can fail to serve as motivation. To achieve this, target levels are set in such a way to encourage performance that is equal to top quartile or higher performance among comparable peers and reasonably aligned with Cytac's strategic plan. In making the annual determination of the minimum, target and maximum levels, the compensation committee considers: (i) the specific circumstances facing the company in the current year; (ii) financial objectives of Cytac's strategic plan; and (iii) stockholders' expectations regarding the company performance. Over time, the compensation committee seeks to maintain this basic principle.

2006 Performance-Based Incentive Awards for the Named Executive Officers. For Mr. Sullivan, President and Chief Executive Officer, the compensation committee considered only the company's performance to derive his final incentive award. For each of the other NEOs, individual performance related to each of their areas of responsibility was also considered. In years where the company's performance is above or substantially above the performance of its peers, Cytac expects that annual incentive awards will be paid to the NEOs at a rate exceeding the targeted rate. For 2006, the NEOs annual incentive awards were as follows:

Named Executive Officer	2006 Base Salary	Incentive Target	Annual	2006 Incentive Award
		as % of Base Salary	Incentive Achieved
Patrick J. Sullivan	$ 575,000	100%	126.1%	$ 725,000
Timothy M. Adams	325,000	60	69.2	225,000
Daniel J. Levangie	425,000	80	82.4	350,000
John P. McDonough	325,000	60	66.2	215,000
A. Suzanne Meszner-Eltrich	285,000	60	70.2	200,000

The amounts set forth above for the NEOs' 2006 annual incentive awards are also set forth in the Non-Equity Incentive Plan Compensation column in the Summary Compensation Table on page B-58 of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

While performance targets are established at levels that are intended to be achievable, a maximum bonus payout would require very high levels of both individual and company performance which Cytac believes are possible to be achieved only with extraordinary effort. Generally, the compensation committee sets the target and maximum performance requirements such that relative difficulty of achievement is consistent from year to year.

Table of ContentsLong-Term Equity Incentive Compensation

General. The portion of the NEOs' compensation comprised of equity-based compensation is designed to reward longer-term performance, retain executives and more closely align the interests of Cytyc's executives with the interests of stockholders. Equity ownership by executive officers helps to balance the short-term focus of annual incentive compensation with a longer-term view and may help to retain executive talent. Cytyc has historically relied predominantly on stock options as the preferred form of long-term compensation. Cytyc believes that granting stock options is consistent with similarly high-growth oriented companies and competitive practices in that they reinforce long-term results and align Cytyc's executives' interests with those of its stockholders. However, in light of Cytyc's evolving strategic goals, the stage of development of the Company, and the requirement for stock option expensing for financial statements beginning in 2006, Cytyc has decided to adjust the long-term incentive strategy for NEOs and other executives and grant both stock options and performance shares beginning in 2007.

The compensation committee generally grants options that become exercisable over a four- to five-year period as a means of encouraging executive officers to remain with Cytyc and promote its long term success. The compensation committee awards options with exercise prices equal to the closing market price of the common stock on the date of grant. As a result, executive officers will benefit from these stock option grants only to the extent that the price of Cytyc common stock increases and Cytyc stockholders have also benefited.

2006 Long Term Equity Incentive Compensation Awards for the Named Executive Officers. Stock options are granted to the NEOs and other executives early in each calendar year on the date of the compensation committee meeting that is set the previous year to review Cytyc's performance in the prior year (the 2006 meeting held on January 24, 2006 was scheduled on February 9, 2005). The exercise price of options granted is equal to the closing market price of Cytyc's common stock on the date of grant (for the 2006 option grants, January 24, 2006). Equity awards may also be made to new executive officers upon hire or promotion, effective upon the first date of employment in the position. The compensation committee does not time equity grants to take advantage of information, either positive or negative, about the company which has not been publicly announced. The number of stock options awarded is typically based on the recommendations of independent consultants engaged by the compensation committee, and an NEO's individual performance and results. Individual grant of stock option awards can either increase or decrease depending on a subjective assessment of each NEO's performance over the last year, as well as expected contribution in future years.

2007 Performance Share Grants. On January 23, 2007, the compensation committee approved the 2007 Long-Term Incentive Plan. Under this plan, certain executive officers, including the NEOs, became eligible to earn performance shares in addition to receiving stock option awards. The initial grant of performance shares will be earned based upon annual earnings per share (EPS) goals over a three-year period beginning in 2007. A grantee may also earn, over the course of three years, a total number of shares ranging from 0% to 175% of the number of shares equal to his or her initial grant of performance shares, which range is based on the actual achievement of the predetermined EPS goals. Provided annual EPS goals are achieved, fifty percent of the initial grant of performance shares may be earned as of 2007, an additional thirty percent as of 2008, and the remaining twenty percent as of 2009, and will be vested in 2010, subject to the executive's continued employment through the third anniversary of the grant date. The NEOs received the following initial grant of performance shares:

Named Executive Officer	EPS Performance Shares Granted in 2007
Timothy M. Adams	12,000
Daniel J. Levangie	20,000
A. Suzanne Meszner-Eltrich	10,000

Guidelines for Stock Ownership With the goal of encouraging long-term ownership of Cytyc common stock by executive management, the compensation committee adopted revised guidelines for target levels of stock ownership by executive officers in early 2007. The guidelines apply to vice presidents and above, and are in the process of implementation. To mitigate the need to place time restrictions on attaining the targets and avoid the need for executives to make significant out-of-pocket purchases or prematurely exercise options, executives are expected to retain a specified percent of the after-tax value of option exercises and vesting of restricted and performance shares until the stock ownership guideline is met.

The Company's insider trading policy prohibits executives from engaging in certain transactions for the purpose of hedging the economic risk of his or her current or future ownership of shares.

Other Personal Benefits The NEOs are eligible for the same health and welfare programs offered to exempt employees, including medical, dental and vision coverage, wellness programs, use of Cytyc's employee assistance program, short and long-term disability, and paid time off in accordance with company policies. For programs to which employees contribute premiums, executives pay the same premiums as other exempt employees. In 2006, in addition to the benefits programs described above, which were available to all employees, Cytyc also provided to its executive officers and executives at the vice president level and above a financial services reimbursement plan, providing reimbursement for certain financial services not to exceed $3,000 per individual per calendar year, and an executive healthcare supplement program. Cytyc provided these additional benefits in order to maintain market competitiveness in its overall compensation and benefits packages. Effective January 1, 2007, Cytyc terminated the executive healthcare supplement program for its executive officers and increased the financial services reimbursement to $5,000 per individual. Effective January 1, 2008, Cytyc plans to terminate the executive healthcare supplement program for all executives at the vice president level and above who are not executive officers.

Post-Employment Compensation

Change of Control Agreements Each of Cytyc's executive officers, including NEOs, is party to a change of control severance agreement with the company. The compensation committee determined that such arrangements were appropriate based on their prevalence within the life science industry and the dynamic nature of mergers and acquisitions activity within this industry. Given the nature of the responsibilities of its executive officers, Cytyc believes they are likely to be involved in critical decisions relating to a potential change of control transaction and to be responsible for the successful implementation of such transactions, while being at risk of losing their job if a change of control transaction occurs. The change of control agreement is intended to provide sufficient protection for the executive officer to permit them to consider potential transactions that are in the best interest of Cytyc stockholders, without being unduly influenced by the effects of the transaction on their compensation. If an executive officer's employment is terminated by him or her for good reason or by the company without cause following a change of control transaction, the executive officer will receive a lump sum payment equal to a specified number times the sum of salary and bonus (three times the sum of salary and bonus for Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie and 1.5 times for Messrs. Adams and McDonough and Ms. Meszner-Eltrich) if he or she is terminated within a certain period of the change of control transaction (two years for Messrs. Sullivan and Levangie and 18 months for Messrs. Adams and McDonough and Ms. Meszner-Eltrich). The change of control agreements are described in greater detail below under Interests of Cytyc Executive Officers and Directors in the Merger.

In addition, the stock options and performance shares held by the executive officers and executives at the vice president level and above provide for immediate acceleration of vesting upon a change of control transaction, without regard to continued employment.

Employee 401(k) Plan and Employee Stock Purchase Program Cytyc maintains a retirement plan which is qualified for favorable tax treatment under the Internal Revenue Code a defined contribution 401(k) plan.

Cytc also maintains an employee stock purchase program. These plans are generally available to all company employees. Each of the NEOs participates in the 401(k) plan, and Messrs. Adams and McDonough participate in the employee stock purchase plan.

Tax and Accounting Considerations The compensation committee carefully considers the tax impact of Cytc's compensation programs on the company as well as on the NEOs. However, the compensation committee believes that decisions regarding executive compensation should be primarily based on whether they result in positive long-term value for Cytc's stockholders, customers, employees and other important stakeholders. The compensation committee considers the impact of Section 162(m) in structuring Cytc's executive compensation program. Section 162(m) limits Cytc's annual income tax deduction for compensation paid to each of Cytc's NEOs to $1 million to the extent the compensation does not meet the qualified performance-based compensation requirements of Section 162(m). To the extent reasonably possible in light of Cytc's compensation goals and objectives, the compensation paid to the NEOs has been structured so as to qualify as performance-based and to be deductible under Section 162(m). However, in light of the competitive nature of the market for executive talent, the compensation committee believes that it is more important to encourage the NEOs to remain focused on building stockholder value than to use a particular compensation practice or structure solely to ensure tax deductibility, and thus retains discretion to address tax deductibility of executive compensation as one key element of compensation decisions.

Cytc Compensation Committee Report

The compensation committee has reviewed and discussed the Compensation Discussion & Analysis required by Item 402(b) of Regulation S-K with management and, based on such review and discussion, the compensation committee recommended to the board of directors that the Compensation Discussion & Analysis be included in this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Cytoc provides annual incentives to its NEOs. This award is determined based on the following three components: (i) Company financial performance; (ii) corporate stretch performance goals; and (iii) individual performance. This program is described in the Compensation Discussion & Analysis Elements of Executive Compensation Performance-Based Cash Incentive Compensation section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

Cytoc's long-term incentive awards are provided in the form of stock options and, beginning in fiscal year 2007, performance shares. Details regarding this program, including criteria for determining amounts of awards, can be found in the Compensation Discussion & Analysis Elements of Executive Compensation Long-Term Equity Incentive Compensation section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus.

CYTYC CORPORATION

NOTES TO CONDENSED CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (Unaudited)

(1) Basis of Presentation

The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements of Cytac Corporation and subsidiaries (the Company or Cytac) have been prepared pursuant to the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the SEC). Certain information and footnote disclosures normally included in financial statements prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States (GAAP) have been condensed or omitted pursuant to such rules and regulations. These financial statements should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and notes included in Amendment No. 2 to the Company's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2006.

The notes and accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements are unaudited. The information furnished reflects all adjustments, which, in the opinion of management, are necessary for a fair presentation of results for the interim periods. Such adjustments consisted only of normal recurring items. The interim periods are not necessarily indicative of the results expected for the full year or any future period.

The preparation of these condensed consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosures of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of net sales and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(2) Plan of Merger with Hologic, Inc.

On May 20, 2007, the Company entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger (the Merger Agreement) with Hologic, Inc., a Delaware corporation (Hologic), and Nor-easter Corp. (MergerSub), a Delaware corporation and wholly-owned subsidiary of Hologic. The Merger Agreement provides that, upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the Merger Agreement, the Company will merge with and into MergerSub, with MergerSub continuing as the surviving corporation under the name Cytac Corporation and as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Hologic.

Subject to the terms and conditions of the Merger Agreement, which has been unanimously approved by the boards of directors of both companies, at the effective time and as a result of the merger, each share of the Company's common stock, par value $0.01 per share, issued and outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the merger will be cancelled and converted into the right to receive a combination of (i) 0.52 of a share of common stock of Hologic, par value $0.01 per share, and (ii) $16.50 in cash without interest. The combined company will not issue any fractional shares of Hologic common stock in the merger. Instead, the Company's stockholders will receive cash in lieu of any fractional shares of Hologic common stock that they would have otherwise received in the merger. Based on Hologic's closing stock price (as reported on the NASDAQ Global Select Market) of $57.61 per share on May 18, 2007 (the last trading day prior to the public announcement of the transaction), the transaction represents a value of $46.46 per share of the Company's common stock, or a total consideration of approximately $6.2 billion. Under the Merger Agreement, the Company's stockholders will receive an aggregate of an estimated 69 million shares of Hologic common stock and $2.2 billion in cash, assuming the conversion of the Company's outstanding convertible notes.

The market prices of Hologic common stock and the Company's common stock likely will fluctuate between the date of the Merger Agreement and the completion of the merger. No assurance can be given concerning the market prices of Hologic common stock or the Company's common stock before the completion of the merger or the market price of Hologic common stock after the completion of the merger. The merger consideration is fixed in the Merger Agreement and will not be adjusted for changes in the market value of the common stock of Hologic or the Company.

The Merger Agreement contains customary representations, warranties and covenants of the Company and Hologic, including, among others, covenants (i) to conduct their respective businesses in the ordinary course consistent with past practice during the interim period between the date of the execution of the Merger Agreement and the consummation of the merger, (ii) not to engage in certain kinds of transactions during such period, (iii) to use commercially reasonable efforts to convene and hold a meeting of their respective stockholders to consider and vote upon the approval of the transaction and (iv) that, subject to certain exceptions, the boards of directors of Hologic and the Company will each recommend that their respective stockholders approve the transaction. Each party has also agreed not to (a) solicit proposals relating to alternative business combination transactions or (b) subject to certain exceptions, enter into discussions or an agreement concerning or provide confidential information in connection with any proposals for alternative business combination transactions.

Consummation of the merger is subject to customary conditions, including (i) approval of the transaction by the common stockholders of both Hologic and the Company in accordance with Delaware law and the requirements of the NASDAQ Stock Market, (ii) absence of any applicable law prohibiting the merger, (iii) expiration or termination of the Hart-Scott-Rodino Act waiting period and certain other regulatory approvals, (iv) subject to certain exceptions, the accuracy of the representations and warranties of each party, (v) performance in all material respects of each party of its obligations under the Merger Agreement and (vi) the delivery of customary opinions from counsel to Hologic and counsel to the Company to the effect that the receipt of stock merger consideration by the Company's stockholders will be a tax-free reorganization for federal income tax purposes, subject to the exceptions provided therein.

Under the Merger Agreement, upon completion of the merger, John W. Cumming, Chief Executive Officer of Hologic, will become Chief Executive Officer of the combined company, and Patrick J. Sullivan, Chairman, Chief Executive Officer and President of the Company, will become Chairman of the board of directors of the combined company. The combined company's board of directors will be comprised of 11 members, with six nominated by Hologic and five nominated by the Company.

The Merger Agreement contains certain termination rights for both Hologic and the Company and further provides that, upon termination of the Merger Agreement under specified circumstances, the Company may be required to pay Hologic a termination fee of $50 million or $150 million or Hologic may be required to pay the Company a termination fee of $33 million or $100 million, in each case depending on the termination event.

The accompanying condensed consolidated financial statements have been prepared assuming the Company continues on a stand-alone basis and do not reflect any adjustments or disclosures that may be required upon consummation of the merger. Refer to the Registration Statement on Form S-4 (File No. 333-144238), as may be amended from time to time, filed by Hologic with the SEC, for a more complete description of the merger and related agreements. The merger is expected to close in late September or early October of 2007.

(3) Acquisition Activity(a) Acquisition of Adeza Biomedical Corporation

On February 11, 2007, the Company entered into an Agreement and Plan of Merger (Plan of Merger) with Augusta Medical Corporation, a Delaware corporation and a newly-formed wholly-owned subsidiary of Cytyc (the Purchaser), and Adeza Biomedical Corporation, a Delaware corporation (Adeza). Pursuant to the Plan of Merger, the Purchaser commenced a cash tender offer to purchase all outstanding shares of Adeza's common stock (the Shares) in exchange for $24.00 per share in cash (the Offer Price). On March 19, 2007, the Purchaser acquired a majority of Adeza's outstanding Shares through the tender offer. On April 2, 2007, pursuant to the terms of the Plan of Merger, Cytyc acquired Adeza through the merger (the Merger) of Purchaser with and into Adeza. The Merger was consummated without a meeting of the stockholders of Adeza in accordance with the Delaware General Corporation Law. In connection with the Merger, Adeza's name was changed from Adeza Biomedical Corporation to Cytyc Prenatal Products Corp. As a result of the Merger, all remaining outstanding Shares were converted into the right to receive $24.00 per share in cash, without interest, other than Shares held by Cytyc or any of its subsidiaries or Shares held by Adeza stockholders that perfect their rights to appraisal in accordance with the Delaware General Corporation Law. The purchase price was paid out of the Company's existing cash and the Company's existing credit facility.

The aggregate purchase price for Adeza was $457.3 million, of which $452.3 million represented cash payable to Adeza shareholders and $5.0 million represented acquisition-related fees and expenses. As of June 30, 2007, the Company paid $427.7 million of the purchase price (net of $26.3 million of cash acquired) and has $3.3 million accrued related to the Adeza acquisition. The acquisition was accounted for as a purchase in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards (SFAS) No. 141, Business Combinations, and accordingly, the results of operations of Adeza were included in the consolidated statements of income (loss) from the date of acquisition of March 19, 2007. The purchase price was supported by estimates of future sales and earnings of Adeza, as well as the value of sales force and other projected synergies.

Deferred tax liabilities, net	(26,881)	(80)	(26,961)
In-process research and development	43,500		43,500
	$ 456,676	$ 632	$ 457,308

As part of the purchase price allocation, all tangible and intangible assets and liabilities were identified and valued. Of the total purchase price, the Company allocated $62.3 million to acquired net tangible assets. The net deferred tax liabilities of $27.0 million are primarily comprised of deferred tax liabilities of $57.2 million relating to patents and developed technology, offset by $30.2 million of deferred tax assets relating to acquired net operating losses primarily related to net operating loss carry forwards and tax credits. The Company determined the fair value of Adeza's tangible assets and liabilities based on a review of Adeza's historical and then current financial statements and an understanding of the ongoing nature of the assets and liabilities.

The Company also allocated $143.0 million to the acquired patents and developed technology. The acquired patents expire at various dates through 2018. Based on the average life of the patent portfolio, the remaining economic life of the developed technology is expected to be approximately 12-15 years. The Company is amortizing the patents and developed technology over this period using the cash flow method, under which amortization is calculated and recognized based upon the Company's estimated net cash flows over the life of the intangible asset, reflecting the pattern in which the economic benefits of the intangible asset are consumed in accordance with SFAS No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets. The Company believes the patents provide sufficient coverage for differentiated products to sustain some competitive advantage in the marketplace over the average remaining life of the patents.

The Company also allocated $43.5 million of the purchase price to in-process research and development projects. This allocation represents the estimated fair value based on risk-adjusted cash flows related to the incomplete research and development activities. The incomplete research and development activities primarily were associated with Adeza's development of Gestiva, a therapeutic drug, which is pending final approval from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), as well as an induction of labor diagnostic product. The acquired in-process research and development was charged to expense as of the date of the acquisition and is included in the Company's statement of loss for the six months ended June 30, 2007.

The Company valued the intangible assets acquired, including the portfolio of patents and technologies, and the in-process research and development projects, based on present value calculations of income using risk-adjusted cash flows for each product, an analysis of project accomplishments and remaining outstanding items, an assessment of overall contributions, as well as project risks. The value assigned to the in-process research and development projects was determined by estimating the costs to develop the acquired technology into commercially viable products, estimating the net cash flows resulting from the projects, and discounting the net cash flows to their present value. The Company expects to continue its efforts on the in-process research and development projects through the end of 2008.

The projections used to value the acquired intangible assets and the in-process research and development projects were based on estimates of relevant market sizes and growth factors, expected trends in technology, and the nature and expected timing of new product introductions by the Company and its competitors, as well as estimates of cost of sales, operating expenses, and income taxes resulting from the acquired products and the in-process research and development projects. In addition, the projections reflect the Company's expectation that improvements to the current products will continue to be made over the life cycle of the product lines. As a result, the completed technology that existed as of the acquisition date was assumed to represent a declining percentage of the products' technological composition over time. The rate utilized to discount the net cash flows to their present value was based on estimated weighted-average cost of capital calculations. A discount rate of 14% was used to value the acquired intangible assets and the in-process research and development projects. This discount rate was higher than the Company's weighted-average cost of capital due to the earlier-stage life cycles of the acquired products, the inherent uncertainties surrounding the outcome of the projects and commercialization and development of the acquired intangible assets, the useful life of the acquired technology, the profitability levels of such technology, and the uncertainty of technological advances that were unknown at that time.

The adjustments recorded during the three months ended June 30, 2007 relate primarily to the finalization of the valuation of the acquired intangible assets, as well as adjustments to goodwill resulting from changes in the original severance accrual recorded. The allocation of the purchase price is substantially complete, with the remaining allocation to be completed primarily related to the resolution of tax matters, which the Company expects to record as adjustments to goodwill and deferred taxes.

The excess of the purchase price over the fair value of tangible and identifiable intangible net assets, as well as the in-process research and development projects, was allocated to goodwill, which is non-deductible for tax purposes and totaled $208.5 million. In accordance with SFAS No. 142, this goodwill will not be systematically amortized. Instead, the Company will perform an annual assessment for impairment by applying a fair-value-based test.

(b) Acquisition of Adiana Inc.

On March 16, 2007, the Company acquired Adiana, Inc. (Adiana), a privately-held company located in Redwood City, California, in a non-taxable transaction. As a result of the acquisition of Adiana, all of its fully-diluted equity immediately prior to the acquisition was automatically converted into the right to receive an initial cash payment of $60 million, plus milestone payments. The milestone payments include (i) payment of up to $25 million tied to the timing of certain FDA milestone achievements of the Adiana permanent contraception product and (ii) potential contingent payments tied to future revenue performance milestones. The contingent payments are based on incremental sales growth of the Adiana permanent contraception product during the four-year period following FDA approval of this product, are subject to an aggregate cap of $130 million, and will be recorded as additional goodwill when paid, if at all. No payments can be earned after December 31, 2012. According to the terms of the related merger agreement, total payments, including the initial cash payment, the potential FDA milestone payment and the four-year contingent payments, will not exceed $215 million.

The initial purchase price payment was paid out of the Company's existing cash. Pursuant to the merger agreement, $3.0 million of the purchase price was placed in escrow to satisfy potential claims. The purchase price was supported by estimates of future sales and earnings of Adiana, as well as other projected synergies.

The aggregate purchase price for Adiana was $60.5 million, of which $59.4 million represented cash payable to Adiana shareholders and $1.1 million represented acquisition-related fees and expenses. As of June 30, 2007, the Company paid $58.4 million of the purchase price (net of $1.9 million of cash acquired) and has $0.2 million accrued related to the Adiana acquisition. The acquisition was accounted for as a purchase in accordance with SFAS No. 141, and accordingly, the results of operations of Adiana were included in the consolidated statement of loss from the date of acquisition.

Purchase Price Allocation

The following table summarizes the preliminary fair values of the assets acquired and liabilities assumed at the date of acquisition for an aggregate purchase price of $60.5 million, including acquisition costs:

As part of the purchase price allocation, all tangible assets and liabilities were identified and valued. Of the total purchase price, the Company allocated $14.5 million to acquired net tangible assets. The net deferred tax assets of $20.0 million primarily relate to acquired net operating losses and tax credits. The Company determined the fair value of Adiana's tangible assets and liabilities based on a review of Adiana's historical and then current financial statements and an understanding of the ongoing nature of the assets and liabilities.

The Company also allocated $46.0 million of the purchase price to an in-process research and development project. This allocation represents the estimated fair value based on risk-adjusted cash flows related to the incomplete research and development activities. The incomplete research and development activities are associated with the Adiana Complete Transcervical Sterilization (TCS) System form of permanent female contraception intended as an alternative to tubal ligation, and primarily relate to activities to be performed in order to obtain FDA approval. The acquired in-process research and development was charged to expense as of the date of the acquisition and included in the Company's statement of loss for the six months ended June 30, 2007.

The Company valued the in-process research and development project based on present value calculations of income using risk-adjusted cash flows, an analysis of project accomplishments and remaining outstanding items, an assessment of overall contributions, as well as project risks. The value assigned to the in-process research and development project was determined by estimating the costs to develop the acquired technology into a commercially viable product, estimating the net cash flows resulting from the project, and discounting the net cash flows to their present value. The Company expects to complete its efforts on the in-process research and development project in 2008.

The projections used to value the in-process research and development project were based on estimates of relevant market sizes and growth factors, expected trends in technology, and the nature and expected timing of new product introductions by the Company and its competitors, as well as estimates of cost of sales, operating expenses, and income taxes resulting from the in-process research and development project.

The rate utilized to discount the net cash flows to their present value was based on estimated weighted-average cost of capital calculations. A discount rate of 26% was used to value the in-process research and development project. The discount rate was higher than the Company's weighted-average cost of capital due to the early-stage life cycle of the in-process research and development project, the inherent uncertainties surrounding the commercialization and development of TCS, the useful life of the future product, the profitability levels of such technology, and the uncertainty of technological advances that were unknown at that time.

The excess of the fair value of tangible net assets over the purchase price of $3.2 million was allocated to expected contingent earn-out payments related to future milestones in accordance with SFAS No. 142 and recorded in current liabilities.

The initial allocation of the purchase price is substantially complete, with the remaining allocation to be completed primarily related to the resolution of tax matters, which the Company expects to record as adjustments to goodwill and deferred taxes.

June 30, 2006 presents the combined results of operations of Cytyc, Adeza and Adiana as if the acquisitions had occurred as of January 1, 2006.

Pro forma results for the three and six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006 are as follows:

	Three Months Ended June 30,		Six Months Ended June 30,
	2007	2006	2007	2006
	(in thousands, except per share data)
Net sales	$ 188,837	$ 163,426	$ 368,582	$ 314,759
Net income	$ 33,540	$ 26,604	$ 58,857	$ 50,297
Basic	$ 0.29	$ 0.23	$ 0.51	$ 0.44
Diluted	$ 0.27	$ 0.22	$ 0.49	$ 0.42

All periods presented include pro forma adjustments to reflect interest costs related to the borrowings on the line-of-credit facility (see Note 12). The pro forma results for the six months ended June 30, 2007 include $10.5 million of transaction fees and expenses incurred by Adeza and Adiana prior to the acquisitions related to the merger, but exclude $89.5 million of in-process research and development costs. The pro forma adjustments are based upon available information and certain assumptions that management believes are reasonable. The unaudited pro forma financial information is not intended to represent or be indicative of the consolidated results of operations or financial condition of the Company that would have been reported had the acquisition been completed as of the dates presented.

(4) Amortization of Intangible Assets

Amortization expense related to identifiable intangible assets, which consists of the Company's acquired patents and developed technology, was approximately $5.2 million and $2.5 million for the three months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively, and approximately $8.8 million and $4.9 million for the six months ended June 30, 2007 and 2006, respectively (see Note 11 for amortization expense by operating segment). Prior to 2007, the Company allocated amortization of all of its intangible assets to research and development within its condensed consolidated statements of income as the developed technology has benefited multiple line items (i.e., cost of sales and research and development) and any allocation that would have been made to cost of sales was not deemed to be material. During 2007, the Company acquired a significant amount of developed technology ($143.0 million) as part of its acquisition of Adeza and is including the amortization of such developed technology within cost of sales based upon its intended use. For the amortization of its other developed technology, beginning in 2007, the Company is allocating the majority to cost of sales based upon its determination that such developed technology is primarily being used to generate sales of its products. A portion of the amortization expense is also being allocated to research and development based upon the Company's determination that such developed technology is primarily being utilized to support the Company's research and development efforts (e.g., FirstCyte Breast Test).

Available-for-sale securities are shown in the consolidated financial statements at fair market value with unrealized gains or losses recorded as a component of other comprehensive income (loss).
