Nuveen Equity Option Closed-End Funds

Q&A: Proposed Product Line Restructuring

Nuveen announced today a series of proposals designed to simplify and enhance the appeal of its equity option closed-end fund product line. The proposals, if approved at special shareholder meetings later this year, will create a streamlined set of equity option strategies that offer fund shareholders an opportunity to participate in the returns of one of three key equity indices with less expected volatility and a measure of downside protection over time. The following Q&A is intended to provide additional shareholder information regarding the proposals.

Q: What are the expected benefits of the proposed restructuring?

A: By creating fewer, larger, clearly differentiated investment choices and clarifying intended investment outcomes, the proposals seek to promote increased investor interest. This increased interest may, over time, narrow the discount at which each surviving fund's common shares trade relative to net asset value, as well as mitigate the potential for persistent longer-term discounts. Additionally, the larger combined funds would be expected to enjoy increased economies of scale and consequently generate on-going fee and expense savings, which may enhance total return for shareholders in the merging funds.

Q: What are equity option strategies?

A: Equity option strategy funds invest in a portfolio of stocks (equities), and sell (write) call options on either individual stocks or stock indices for the purpose of enhancing risk-adjusted total return, reducing volatility and providing a measure of downside protection over time. The fund receives a premium from the buyer of the call option, and must sell or deliver the underlying stock (or cash, in the case of a stock index call option) if the call option is exercised. The value of the stocks that are linked to call options sold, relative to the value of the full stock portfolio, is termed the Option Overwrite %.

Q: What equity option strategies will Nuveen offer going forward?

A: Subject to obtaining the necessary shareholder approvals, Nuveen will offer the following four equity option funds going forward:

Full/Constant Overwrite Fund

Dynamic Overwrite Funds

Q: Who are these funds designed for?

A: The funds are designed for investors who want to participate in the potential capital appreciation of the respective equity indices but may be concerned with the ups and downs of traditional equity investments. The funds' call option strategies are intended to provide the potential for less volatility and a measure of downside protection over time, and consequently are intended to result in attractive risk-adjusted return potential over time. In seeking to limit volatility and reduce downside risk, the funds may not fully capture all of the potential upside of the corresponding equity index. The funds seek to provide:

Exposure to Key Equity Indices The funds offer investors an opportunity to participate in the returns of the S&P 500, Dow 30<sup>SM</sup> or Nasdaq 100 market indices.

Less Volatility and a Measure of Downside Protection The funds generally sell call options on their underlying stock portfolios. While capital growth potential is reduced, this hedged equity approach is designed to reduce volatility and mitigate downside risk.

Regular Cash Flow The funds make quarterly distributions that seek to convert expected total returns into regular cash flow. This can help investors diversify their sources of cash flow.

Q: What is the main difference between the full/constant overwrite option strategy and the dynamic overwrite option strategy?

A: The main difference is in the execution of the call option program. Each fund's manager uses an active approach when implementing the call option program and actively manages strike price selection, call option contract roll timing, and evaluation of expected and realized volatility.

Gateway Investment Advisers' approach maintains an approximately 100% option overwrite all the time, meaning call options are written on approximately 100% of the value of the fund's equity portfolio. This has the potential to offer less volatility than both (a) an unhedged equity index investment and (b) the dynamic overwrite approach, in return for more limited upside participation with the potential for attractive risk-adjusted returns.

The dynamic overwrite strategy applied by Nuveen Asset Management seeks a long-run target option overwrite of 55%, although the range may vary between approximately 35% and 75%. NAM uses its proprietary view of the market's return and volatility profile to dynamically adjust the overwrite percentage. Generally, if NAM expects the equity market to appreciate, the overwrite percentage will be reduced to offer more potential upside capture. Likewise, the overwrite percentage may be increased if NAM expects equity markets to be flat or to decline, thus managing the fund to potentially receive additional cash flow from higher sales of call options. This dynamic approach offers potential for solid upside capture with a measure of downside protection.

Q: How will the proposed restructuring affect existing funds?

A: Shareholders of each existing fund will be asked to vote on a series of proposals required to implement the proposed restructuring goals. Key elements of these proposals are outlined below, and will be described in detail in solicitation materials that are expected to be mailed to shareholders during summer 2014.

Q: Will the proposed restructuring be a taxable event to shareholders?

A: No. The proposals will not create a taxable event for fund shareholders.

May 1, 2014

Q: Do the proposed portfolio management changes reflect concerns regarding portfolio manager performance?

A: No. The proposals are not due to portfolio performance concerns.

Q: Will the successor funds change their distribution policies?

A: No. The funds' distribution policies will not change if the proposals are approved by fund shareholders. Each surviving fund will continue to employ a managed distribution policy and make quarterly distributions that seek to convert expected total returns of the fund into regular cash flow. There will be no disruption in the timing of the distributions shareholders receive.

Q. How many shares does a target fund shareholder receive in a merger?

A. In a merger, the acquiring fund issues new shares to shareholders of a target fund in exchange for their target fund shares. The initial net asset value per share of the combined fund will be set to that of the fund whose performance track record survives. The number of new acquiring fund shares received by a target fund shareholder is based on the ratio of the target fund's net asset value per share to the acquiring fund's net asset value per share, as of the effective date of the merger.

Q: When will the proposed restructuring take place?

A: Fund shareholders will be asked to vote on the proposals required to implement the proposed restructuring at special shareholder meetings. These meetings are expected to take place in early fall 2014. Subject to market conditions, the restructuring is expected to be completed shortly after receipt of shareholder approval.

Q: Do I need to take any action at this time?

A: No. You should look for additional information regarding proposed changes to your fund in solicitation materials that are expected to be mailed to you during summer 2014.
