SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT

The Markets in Review

Dear Shareholder,

Financial market performance was generally positive for the 6- and 12-month periods ended April 30, 2015, although volatility increased from the remarkably low levels seen in recent years. In 2014, as the U.S. Federal Reserve (the Fed) gradually reduced its bond buying program (which ultimately ended in October), U.S. interest rates surprisingly trended lower and stock prices forged ahead despite high valuations on the back of a multi-year bull market.

Around mid-year, however, geopolitical tensions intensified in Ukraine and the Middle East and oil prices became highly volatile, stoking worries about economic growth outside the United States. As the U.S. economy continued to post stronger data, investors grew concerned that the Fed would raise short-term rates sooner than previously anticipated. The U.S. dollar appreciated and global credit markets tightened, ultimately putting a strain on investor flows, and financial markets broadly weakened in the third quarter.

U.S. economic growth picked up considerably in the fourth quarter while the broader global economy showed signs of slowing. U.S. markets significantly outperformed international markets during this period even as the European Central Bank (ECB) and the Bank of Japan eased monetary policy, which drove further strengthening in the U.S. dollar. Oil prices plummeted due to a global supply-and-demand imbalance, sparking a selloff in energy-related assets and stress in emerging markets. Fixed income investors piled into U.S. Treasuries as their persistently low yields became attractive as compared to international sovereign debt.

Equity markets reversed in 2015, with U.S. stocks underperforming international markets. Investors had held high expectations for the U.S. economy, but after a harsh winter, first-quarter data disappointed and high valuations took their toll on U.S. stocks. The continued appreciation of the dollar was an additional headwind for exporters. Although U.S. economic momentum had broadly weakened, the labor market a key determinant for the Fed s decision on the future of interest rate policy showed improvement, keeping investors on edge about when to expect the first rate hike.

In contrast, economic reports in Europe and Asia easily beat investors very low expectations, and accommodative policies from central banks in those regions helped international equities rebound. The ECB s asset purchase program was the largest in scale and effect on the markets. Global sentiment improved with a ceasefire in Ukraine and an improving outlook for Greece s continued membership in the eurozone. Emerging market stocks rebounded in April as oil prices appeared to stabilize.

At BlackRock, we believe investors need to think globally, extend their scope across a broad array of asset classes and be prepared to move freely as market conditions change over time. We encourage you to talk with your financial advisor and visit blackrock.com for further insight about investing in today s markets.

Sincerely,

Trust Summary as of April 30, 2015

BlackRock Credit Allocation Income Trust

Trust Overview

BlackRock Credit Allocation Income Trust s (BTZ) (the Trust) investment objective is to provide current income, current gains and capital appreciation. The Trust seeks to achieve its investment objective by investing, under normal market conditions, at least 80% of its assets in credit-related securities, including, but not limited to, investment grade corporate bonds, high yield bonds (commonly referred to as junk bonds), bank loans, preferred securities or convertible bonds or derivatives with economic characteristics similar to these credit-related securities. The Trust may invest directly in such securities or synthetically through the use of derivatives.

No assurance can be given that the Trust s investment objective will be achieved.

Portfolio Management Commentary

How did the Trust perform?

For the six-month period ended April 30, 2015, the Trust returned 3.66% based on market price and 2.71% based on NAV. For the same period, the closed-end Lipper Corporate BBB-Rated Debt Funds (Leveraged) category posted an average return of 3.16% based on market price and 1.90% based on NAV. All returns reflect reinvestment of dividends and/or distributions. The Trust s discount to NAV, which narrowed during the period, accounts for the difference between performance based on price and performance based on NAV. The following discussion relates to the Trust s absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

The Trust s positions in high-yield bonds and capital securities (which combine the features of corporate bonds and preferred stock and typically offer higher yields than corporate debt since they are lower in the capital structure), which outperformed the broader investment-grade corporate bond market, made a positive contribution to performance during the six-month period. On a sector basis, allocations to the financials, industrials and utilities sectors had a positive impact on performance.

The Trust utilized derivatives during the period for the purposes of managing risk in its allocation to financials and targeting specific positioning with respect to the yield curve. On balance, these positions detracted from performance. The Trust also held a conservative duration positioning during the period, which prevented it from fully benefiting from the modest decline in bond yields. Describe recent portfolio activity.

The Trust had a bias toward higher quality securities, and it continued to look for opportunities to increase credit quality. In addition, the Trust reduced its overweight position in 30-year corporate bonds late in 2014.

The Trust added to its position in the energy sector by increasing exposure to the midstream sub-sector, which is largely made up of gas pipeline companies. The Trust remained overweight in financials, particularly in the life insurance industry, as the financial sector typically features lower event risk than the industrials sector. Within the financial sector, the Trust maintained an allocation to capital securities given the attractive yield premium available by moving down the capital structure.

Describe portfolio positioning at period end.

The Trust remained defensively positioned on the belief that overall valuations in the credit sectors were not particularly attractive. However, the investment advisor continued to look for ways to capitalize on market volatility and idiosyncratic opportunities. The Trust maintained a bias toward higher-quality securities and sought to avoid the risks associated with events such as mergers and acquisitions or other activities designed to benefit equity investors over bondholders.

The Trust remained underweight in the industrials sector, with its largest underweights in the consumer cyclical, consumer non-cyclical, technology, and energy industries. Within the energy space, the Trust held a significant position in gas pipeline companies, which are less sensitive to fluctuations in the price of the underlying commodity.

Believing U.S. bond yields are too low given the nation s healthy economic fundamentals, the Trust closed the period with a short duration (or an interest-rate sensitivity below that of the benchmark). The Trust maintained a bias toward a flattening yield curve on the belief that rate hikes by the U.S. Federal Reserve could have a disproportionate impact on short-term bonds. (Prices and yields move in opposite directions). The Trust is more cautious on the international debt markets, however, as quantitative easing actions in Europe and Asia are likely to exacerbate a misallocation of capital flows and further delay the undertaking of true fiscal reform.

The Trust may invest directly in such securities or synthetically through the use of derivatives.

No assurance can be given that the Trust s investment objectives will be achieved.

Portfolio Management Commentary

How did the Trust perform?

For the six-month period ended April 30, 2015, the Trust returned 5.78% based on market price and 3.98% based on NAV. For the same period, the closed-end Lipper Loan Participation Funds category posted an average return of 5.86% based on market price and 2.60% based on NAV. All returns reflect reinvestment of dividends. The Trust s discount to NAV, which narrowed during the period, accounts for the difference between performance based on price and performance based on NAV.

The following discussion relates to the Trust s absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

After declining in late 2014 along with global risk markets more generally, the market for floating rate loan interests (i.e. bank loans) recovered steadily from around mid-December through the end of the period. Within the loan portfolio, individual security selection in the electric sector, particularly Energy Future Holdings Corp., as well as a focus on higher quality companies in the independent energy sector, were the most significant positive contributors. The Trust s use of leverage was also a contributor in a strong market for loans, as were modest allocations to collateralized loan obligations (CLOs) and high yield bonds.

Allocations to loans within metals & mining and oil field services detracted from performance as those sectors declined.

Describe recent portfolio activity.

Throughout the six-month period, the Trust maintained its focus on the higher quality segments of the loan market in terms of loan structure, liquidity and overall credit quality. During the period, the Trust modestly increased its exposure to loans rated BB and B, while reducing exposure to CCC-rated loans. The Trust also modestly increased holdings of CLOs given attractive valuations. With respect to individual holdings, the Trust reduced its position in Caesars Entertainment Resort Properties LLC as the company continued its restructuring, and added to its position in Valeant Pharmaceuticals International as the company did a large acquisition financing.

At period end, the Trust held 93% of its total portfolio in bank loans, with the remainder primarily in corporate bonds and collateralized loan obligations. The Trust continued to favor loans rated B where the investment advisor was comfortable with credit quality, in view of the incremental income they offered versus BB loans. The Trust had a cautious stance with respect to loans rated CC and below and nonrated loans, as well as smaller, less liquid loans. The Trust s largest portfolio positions included Valeant Pharmaceuticals (pharmaceuticals), Level 3 Communications (wirelines) and HD Supply (building materials).

The views expressed reflect the opinions of BlackRock as of the date of this report and are subject to change based on changes in market, economic or other conditions. These views are not intended to be a forecast of future events and are no guarantee of future results.

The Trust seeks to achieve its investment objectives by investing, under normal market conditions, at least 80% of its assets in loan and debt instruments and other investments with similar economic characteristics. The Trust may invest directly in such securities or synthetically through the use of derivatives.

Portfolio Management Commentary

How did the Trust perform?

For the six-month period ended April 30, 2015, the Trust returned 3.42% based on market price and 3.75% based on NAV. For the same period, the closed-end Lipper General Bond Funds category posted an average return of 2.42% based on market price and 1.70% based on NAV. All returns reflect reinvestment of dividends. The Trust s discount to NAV, which widened during the period, accounts for the difference between performance based on price and performance based on NAV.

The following discussion relates to the Trust s absolute performance based on NAV:

What factors influenced performance?

The Trust s positions in high yield corporate bonds and bank capital securities were the most significant contributors to performance. The Trust also received positive contributions from its exposures to securitized assets in the form of commercial mortgage-backed securities, asset-backed securities (ABS) and non-agency mortgage-backed securities (MBS).

The main detractor from the Trust s performance came from its long positioning with respect to duration (sensitivity to interest rate movements).

Describe recent portfolio activity.

With valuations increasingly stretched and market volatility elevated as event risk increased within the corporate credit space, the Trust s exposure to corporate and high yield credit was marginally reduced over the reporting period. In contrast, the Trust s exposure to ABS was increased as the investment manager viewed valuations there as relatively attractive given continued strong market fundamentals of healthy demand and limited supply. The Trust also added marginally to non-agency MBS as their spreads offered more attractive income than other fixed income securities.

Describe portfolio positioning at period end.

The Trust continued to hold significant exposure to high yield and structured credit including ABS and non-agency MBS in order to maximize income within a market environment that is supportive of fixed income spread sectors.

The views expressed reflect the opinions of BlackRock as of the date of this report and are subject to change based on changes in market, economic or other conditions. These views are not intended to be a forecast of future events and are no guarantee of future results.

SEMI-ANNUAL REPORT

The Benefits and Risks of Leveraging

The Trusts may utilize leverage to seek to enhance the yield and net asset value (NAV) of their common shares (Common Shares). However, these objectives cannot be achieved in all interest rate environments.

In general, the concept of leveraging is based on the premise that the financing cost of leverage, which will be based on short-term interest rates, is normally lower than the income earned by a Trust on its longer-term portfolio investments purchased with the proceeds from leverage. To the extent that the total assets of each Trust (including the assets obtained from leverage) are invested in higher-yielding portfolio investments, the Trust s shareholders benefit from the incremental net income. The interest earned on securities purchased with the proceeds from leverage is paid to shareholders in the form of dividends, and the value of these portfolio holdings is reflected in the per share NAV.

To illustrate these concepts, assume a Trust s capitalization is $100 million and it utilizes leverage for an additional $30 million, creating a total value of $130 million available for investment in longer-term income securities. If prevailing short-term interest rates are 3% and longer-term interest rates are 6%, the yield curve has a strongly positive slope. In this case, the Trust s financing costs on the $30 million of proceeds obtained from leverage are based on the lower short-term interest rates. At the same time, the securities purchased by the Trust with the proceeds from leverage earn income based on longer-term interest rates. In this case, the Trust s financing cost of leverage is significantly lower than the income earned on the Trust s longer-term investments acquired from leverage proceeds, and therefore the holders of Common Shares (Common Shareholders) are the beneficiaries of the incremental net income.

However, in order to benefit Common Shareholders, the return on assets purchased with leverage proceeds must exceed the ongoing costs associated with the leverage. If interest and other costs of leverage exceed the Trust s return on assets purchased with leverage proceeds, income to shareholders will be lower than if the Trust had not used leverage. Furthermore, the value of the Trust s portfolio investments generally varies inversely with the direction of long-term interest rates, although other factors can influence the value of portfolio investments. In contrast, the value of the Trust s obligations under its leverage arrangement generally does not fluctuate in relation to interest rates. As a result, changes in interest rates can influence the Trust s NAVs positively or negatively. Changes in the future direction of interest rates are very difficult to predict accurately, and there is no assurance that a Trust s intended leveraging strategy will be successful.

Leverage also generally cause greater changes in the Trusts NAVs, market prices and dividend rates than comparable portfolios without leverage. In a declining market, leverage is likely to cause a greater decline in the net asset value and market price of a Trust s shares than if the Trust were not leveraged. In addition, the Trust may be required to sell portfolio securities at inopportune times or at distressed values in order to comply with regulatory requirements applicable to the use of leverage or as required by the terms of leverage instruments, which may cause the Trust to incur losses. The use of leverage may limit the Trust s ability to invest in certain types of securities or use certain types of hedging strategies. The Trust incurs expenses in connection with the use of leverage, all of which are borne by shareholders and may reduce income to the shares. Moreover, to the extent the calculation of the Trust s investment advisory fees includes assets purchased with the proceeds of leverage, the investment advisory fees payable to the Trust s investment advisor will be higher than if the Trust did not use leverage.

Each Trust may utilize leverage through a credit facility or reverse repurchase agreements as described in the Notes to Financial Statements.

Under the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended (the 1940 Act), BTZ and BGT are each permitted to issue debt up to 33 1/3% of their total managed assets and BIT is permitted to issue debt up to 50% of its total managed assets. A Trust may voluntarily elect to limit its leverage to less than the maximum amount permitted under the 1940 Act. In addition, a Trust may also be subject to certain asset coverage, leverage or portfolio composition requirements imposed by its credit facility, which may be more stringent than those imposed by the 1940 Act.

If a Trust segregates or designates on its books and records cash or liquid assets having values not less than the value of the Trust s obligations under the reverse repurchase agreement (including accrued interest), then such transaction will not be considered a senior security and will not be subject to the foregoing limitations and requirements under the 1940 Act.

Derivative Financial Instruments

The Trusts may invest in various derivative financial instruments. Derivative financial instruments are used to obtain exposure to a security, index and/or market without owning or taking physical custody of securities or to manage market, equity, credit, interest rate, foreign currency exchange rate, commodity and/or other risks. Derivative financial instruments may give rise to a form of economic leverage. Derivative financial instruments also involve risks, including the imperfect correlation between the value of a derivative financial instrument and the underlying asset, possible default of the counterparty to the transaction or illiquidity of the derivative financial instrument. The Trusts ability to use a derivative financial instrument successfully depends on the investment advisor s ability to predict pertinent market movements accurately, which cannot be assured. The use of derivative financial instruments may result in losses greater than if they had not been used, may limit the amount of appreciation a Trust can realize on an investment and/or may result in lower distributions paid to shareholders. The Trusts investments in these instruments are discussed in detail in the Notes to Financial Statements.
