Light oil discovery in Espírito Santo Basin

Rio de Janeiro, December 16th, 2010 - PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, announces the discovery of light oil in sandstones reservoirs of the post-salt section of Espírito Santo Basin.

This new discovery was the result of the drilling of well 1-BRSA-882-ESS, informally referred to as Indra, and is located in the BM-ES-32 (Block ES-M-594) Exploratory Concession. Petrobras, which holds a 60% stake in this Concession, is the Operator of the Consortium composed of Statoil, holder of the remaining 40%.

This new oil and gas accumulation is located 140 kilometers from the city of Vitória, and the reservoirs containing oil have a total payload thickness around 70 meters, and is approximately 3,850 meters deep, at a water depth of approximately 2,100 meters, therefore, it is the deepest oil discovery of Espírito Santo Basin.

Preliminary estimates suggest that the oil accumulation ranges from 25<sup>º</sup> to 30<sup>º</sup> API, with quality similar to the oil discovered in Golfinho Field, which is approximately 70 kilometers away. Additional studies will be necessary to evaluate volumes, extent and productivity of these reservoirs.
