Item 8.01 Other Events.

On August 8, 2011, Standard & Poor's ("S&P") downgraded our long-term senior debt rating to "AA+" with a negative outlook. Previously, our long-term senior debt had been rated by S&P as "AAA" and had been on CreditWatch Negative. S&P affirmed our short-term senior debt rating of "A-1+" and removed it from CreditWatch Negative.

S&P took these ratings actions following its downgrade of the U.S. government's long-term debt rating to "AA+" on August 5, 2011, due to our direct reliance on the U.S. government. In assigning a negative outlook on the U.S. government's long-term debt rating, S&P noted that it may lower the U.S. government's long-term debt rating to "AA" within the next two years if it sees that less reduction in spending than agreed to, higher interest rates, or new fiscal pressures during the period result in a higher general government debt trajectory than it currently assumes. If S&P further lowers the U.S. government's long-term debt rating, we expect that it would lower our long-term debt rating correspondingly shortly thereafter.

As of August 8, 2011, our long-term debt continued to be rated "Aaa" by Moody's Investors Service, Inc. and "AAA" by Fitch Ratings.

We cannot predict the ultimate impact of the S&P downgrade on our access to or cost of debt funding, or on our business, liquidity, results of operations, financial condition or net worth. See "Risk Factors" in our quarterly report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended June 30, 2011, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on August 5, 2011, for a discussion of the risks to our business relating to a decrease in our credit ratings.
