Update on the CenturyTel / EMBARQ Merger

The last few weeks have been busy as we move forward with the CenturyTel/EMBARQ merger and I want to give you an update on our progress.

This merger is a very compelling transaction for customers, employees, shareholders and our companies. It has generated a great deal of interest and enthusiasm from stakeholders who share our confidence in this merger.

In our conversations with these groups, we talk about forming a company that is expected to be in a much better position to compete and grow, and will have the financial strength and flexibility to introduce great new services to customers. With operations in 33 states, almost 8 million access lines, 2 million broadband customers and 400,000 video customers, we will be the clear leader in our industry sector.

Merger Update

The road to approval

The merger must be approved by certain state and federal agencies and both companies' shareholders. We have already made good progress in this area. Regulatory and legal teams from both CenturyTel and EMBARQ have been working together to expedite these approvals. As of today, the following steps have been accomplished:

- Department of Justice/Federal Trade Commission: On November 21, 2008, the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission granted CenturyTel's and EMBARQ's request for early termination of the Hart-Scott-Rodino waiting period, so this approval requirement has been satisfied.
- State approval: Last week, we began the process of obtaining state regulatory approval by filing the required applications in several states.
- FCC: An application for Consent for Transfer of Control was filed with the Federal Communications Commission today.
- Shareholders: We have filed a preliminary joint proxy statement with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Once we clear the SEC review process, we will be mailing both companies' shareholders the definitive joint proxy statement that will provide shareholders information about the merger and its benefits, and information on how they can vote on the transaction. Both companies' shareholders are expected to vote on the merger late in the first quarter of next year.
- We continue to expect the closing of the merger to occur in the second quarter of 2009.

Integration planning

Teams with representatives from CenturyTel and EMBARQ who represent a variety of functions -- like HR, IT, operations and others -- have begun the important work of deciding how to best combine our companies. Stacey Goff, CenturyTel general counsel, is co-leading the effort with Maxine Moreau, CenturyTel vice president of operations. Dennis Huber, EMBARQ chief strategy and technology officer, and Les Meredith, EMBARQ treasurer and vice president of finance, are the leading EMBARQ representatives on the team. Among the decisions being addressed:

- Organization structure
 - Systems
 - Brand
 - Product focus
 - Network
 - Best practices

We understand that you have questions about what this merger means for you personally. Those questions will be answered as we make our way through the integration process. I do not expect substantial information to be available about organizational changes until after the first of the year; however, I am committed to keeping you informed as key decisions are made.

Continuing to perform

As we make our way through this process, we must remain focused on the business. The challenges and opportunities we faced before the merger was announced must still be addressed today, tomorrow and even after the merger is approved. Our focus on performance must continue.

As we prepare to celebrate Thanksgiving, I want to thank you for the tremendous effort you invest each day to make CenturyTel successful. I know that our customers and communities are grateful for the many ways in which you have made their lives better and brighter and I join them in thanking you.

On this holiday that is all about being thankful and being together, please join me in keeping our military families who are separated from each other in our thoughts and prayers and in giving thanks for all of the loved ones in our lives.
