Form N-30B-2

Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc.

Investment Overview

Dear Shareholders,

We are pleased to present this third quarter report for Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc. (LGI or the Fund), for the period ended September 30, 2005. LGI is a diversified, closed-end management investment company that began trading on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE) on April 28, 2004. Its ticker symbol is LGI.

With close to a year and a half of performance, we are pleased with the returns that have been generated by LGI on its investments since inception, and believe that the Fund has provided investors with an attractive yield and diversification, backed by the extensive experience, commitment, and professional management of Lazard Asset Management LLC (Lazard).

Portfolio Update (September 30, 2005)

For the third quarter of 2005, the Fund's performance, as measured by the Net Asset Value per share (NAV), rose 4.7%, while the benchmark, the Morgan Stanley Capital International (MSCI®) World® Index gained 7.0%. Although the Fund underperformed the Index in this period, LGI's historical performance has been strong, such that the annualized since-inception NAV return of 12.9% still compares very favorably with the Index's return of 12.4%. Shares of LGI ended the third quarter with a closing market price of $19.20, representing a 8.5% discount to the Fund's NAV. The Fund's net assets were $201.6 million as of September 30, 2005, with total leveraged assets of $291.8 million, representing 30.9% leverage.

We believe that LGI's investment thesis remains sound, and we are encouraged by strong performance over the last year, and since inception. However, NAV returns for the year-to-date have been weaker than hoped for, with the Fund's large capitalization, developed market equity stocks underperforming, and the short duration emerging market currency and debt portfolio adding only moderate value to overall returns so far in 2005.

As of September 30, 2005, approximately 69.1% of the Fund's total leveraged assets consisted of global equities and approximately 30.7% consisted of emerging market currency and debt instruments, while the remaining 0.2% consisted of cash and other assets.

Declaration of Dividends

Pursuant to LGI's level distribution policy, the Fund's Board of Directors has declared a monthly dividend distribution of $0.1042 per share on the company's outstanding stock for each month since the Fund's initial distribution on July 23, 2004. This distribution level represents an annualized market yield of 6.5%, based on the share price of $19.20 at the close of the NYSE trading on September 30, 2005. To date, LGI has met all of its dividend obligations without returning any of the Fund's capital.

Additional Information

Please note that frequent updates on the Fund's performance, press releases, and a monthly fact sheet that provides information about the Fund's major holdings, sector weightings, regional exposures, and other characteristics are available on www.LazardNet.com. uations. Examples of equity investments as of September 30, 2005 included GlaxoSmithKline, a global, research-based pharmaceutical company based in the United Kingdom; Home Depot, a U.S.-based company that operates warehouse-style stores selling building materials, home improvement supplies, and lawn and garden products; Nokia Corp., the Finnish manufacturer of mobile telephones, enhanced communicators, entertainment and gaming devices, and media and imaging telephones; and Total SA, the French-based energy supplier that explores for, produces, refines, transports, and markets oil and natural gas.

These companies are all based in developed-market regions around the world. As of September 30, 40.3% of the global equity portfolio's stocks were based in North America, 30.8% were from continental Europe (not including the U.K.), 22.6% were from the U.K., and 6.3% were from Japan. The global equity portfolio is similarly well diversified across a number of industry sectors. The top two sectors, by weight, at the end of September were financials (27.7%), which includes banks, insurance companies, and financial services companies, and consumer staples (15.4%), a sector that encompasses those industries that manufacture and sell food/beverages, tobacco, and household products. Other sectors included consumer discretionary, energy, health care, industrials, information technology, and telecommunications services.

Global Equity Market Review

After concerns regarding global growth emerged in the first quarter of 2005, stocks rebounded in the third quarter, as the outlook for global growth improved. The U.S. dollar weakened early in the quarter and, later, rallied to end roughly flat. Energy stocks outpaced the market during the quarter, as the price of oil briefly topped $70 per barrel after hurricanes Katrina and Rita devastated the Gulf shores, crippling U.S. oil production and refining in the area. In September, consumer confidence fell, and the U.S. Federal Reserve raised the benchmark interest rate by 25 basis points, the second hike this quarter, and the eleventh consecutive increase since the Fund's April 2004 inception. Growth in the European economies appeared to be picking up. In Germany, business confidence rose to a new high in September, unemployment in Italy reached a new low, and consumer spending in France was strong. European economies have benefited from a weak euro this year, making their goods more attractive abroad. From a sector perspective, the rally was broad based, as all sectors had positive returns. In particular, energy and materials dramatically outperformed during the quarter. Energy stocks were up sharply, as the price of oil rose dramatically, and the materials sector performed well as commodity producers benefited from further commodity price increases. Regionally, the rally was broad based with most countries performing roughly in line with the market. However, Japanese markets rallied sharply during the quarter, as this country's economy is showing signs of improvement. The U.S. markets lagged the rest of the world.

What Helped and What Hurt LGI

During the quarter, the Fund's global equity portfolio's large position in energy stocks helped performance, as this sector dramatically outperformed the market due to a sharp increase in the price of oil. Despite the rise in stock prices, the global equity portfolio's holdings in integrated oil companies trade at attractive valuations that do not discount the current high level of oil prices. Stock selection in technology detracted from performance, as Oracle Corp. declined after reporting earnings. The company reaffirmed earnings for next year, but the outlook for revenues was less positive. However, we believe that Oracle's strategy of consolidating the enterprise software industry, through acquisitions, and reducing its costs should drive returns going forward. The company currently trades at an attractive valuation. An underweight position in the materials sector detracted from performance, as metals prices rebounded from weakness in the spring. Current valuations in this group discount an extreme period of strong prices.

Emerging Market Currency and Debt Portfolio
(30.7% of total leveraged assets)

The Fund also seeks enhanced income through investments in high-yielding, short duration<sup>1</sup> (typically, below one year) emerging market forward currency contracts and local currency debt instruments. As of September 30, this portfolio consisted of primarily forward currency contracts (85.5%) with a smaller allocation to sovereign debt obligations (14.5%) . The average duration of the emerging market currency and debt portfolio was approximately 3.2 months as of the end of September 30, with an average credit rating<sup>2</sup> of A.

As of September 30, the Fund's emerging market currency and debt holdings were highly diversified across 27 countries within Eastern Europe (18.2%), Asia (30.8%), Latin America (17.3%), the Middle East (7.4%), Africa (12.4%), and the Commonwealth of Independent States and the Baltic countries (18.2%) .

Emerging Market Currency and Debt Market Review

In the third quarter, the emerging markets experienced an increase in volatility that was triggered by several macro and market events. Commodities continued to rise and emerging market external debt spreads tightened. On the macro front, the twin hurricanes Katrina and Rita raised concerns regarding potential damage to the U.S. economic growth. The end of the Chinese ren-minbi peg to the U.S. dollar as well as news of China's move to a floating exchange rate was announced on July 21, which resulted in a +2% revaluation versus the U.S. dollar. Malaysia also broke with its currency peg regime, moving to a floating rate system. The broad-based rally in Asian currencies (the Malaysian ringgit and renminbi forwards) proved short lived as the quarter revealed more details of the new Chinese currency regime, which essentially was termed inadequate. At the September 20 FOMC meeting, the Fed hike in interest rates signaled their view that post-hurricane production setbacks were only temporary. Growth- and interest-rate expectations in the United States rose again due to a rally in U.S. dollar, especially against the euro.

What Helped and What Hurt LGI

Brazil, once again, was the star performer during the third quarter of 2005. A combination of high carry and strong trade and current account numbers helped Brazil's currency to appreciate 4.5% . Combined with high, implied interest rates (19%), the portfolio's real position posted a strong return despite volatility intra-quarter. Turkey, which has been a multi-quarter top performer, contributed significantly. While its currency weakened modestly over the quarter, the high level of interest rates, over 15% in U.S.-dollar terms, led to a strong total return. The portfolio also benefited by reducing its exposure to Turkey as the tourist season ended along with the inflow of tourists' dollars. Poland had a strong quarter, as the local bond market rallied on continued rate-cut expectations, and the currency strengthened on the back of continued strong balance-of-payment support from foreign direct investment and cross-border portfolio inflows.

All Asian exposures, except the Philippines, hurt the portfolio's performance in the third quarter. Rising oil prices (all Asian countries in the portfolio except Malaysia are oil importers) affected balance of payments. The small revaluation of the Chinese renminbi inspired regional central banks to aggressively intervene to prevent substantial currency strengthening in order to retain competitiveness with China. Central banks continue to choose economic growth at the risk of increased inflation, seeking to help their exporters by preventing FX appreciation.

Indonesia, although a member of OPEC, imports finished oil products (gasoline, heating oil, etc.) while exporting crude oil. With huge oil subsidies in place for the consumer, like many Asian economies, oil price increases were transformed into additional fiscal losses. Loose monetary policy and lack of immediate policy response led to a sharp fall in the value of the rupiah.

Lazard Global Total Return & Income Fund, Inc.

The government then announced its plans to phase out oil subsidies starting in early October, and the Central Bank hiked rates, successfully stemming the sell off of the rupiah.

The portfolio has had no exposure to the Chilean peso and thus did not participate in its strong performance this quarter. The currency's combination of extremely low yields, speculative capital, and a tendency to be viewed as a copper proxy on the upside and a Latin American proxy on the downside leads to high volatility. Thus the portfolio continues to avoid exposure to Chile.

Dividend Reinvestment Plan

(unaudited)

Unless you elect to receive distributions in cash (i.e., opt-out), all dividends, including any capital gain distributions, on your Common Stock will be automatically reinvested by the Plan Agent in additional Common Stock under the Fund's Dividend Reinvestment Plan (the "Plan"). You may elect not to participate in the Plan by contacting Computershare Shareholder Services, Inc., as dividend disbursing agent (the "Plan Agent"). If you do not participate, you will receive all distributions in cash, paid by check mailed directly to you by the Plan Agent.

Under the Plan, the number of shares of Common Stock you will receive will be determined on the dividend or distribution payment date, as follows:

- (1) If the Common Stock is trading at or above net asset value at the time of valuation, the Fund will issue new shares at a price equal to the greater of (i) net asset value per Common Share on that date or (ii) 95% of the Common Stock's market price on that date.
- (2) If the Common Stock is trading below net asset value at the time of valuation, the Plan Agent will receive the dividend or distribution in cash and will purchase Common Stock in the open market, on the NYSE or elsewhere, for the participants' accounts. It is possible that the market price for the Common Stock may increase before the Plan Agent has completed its purchases. Therefore, the average purchase price per share paid by the Plan Agent may exceed the market price at the time of valuation, resulting in the purchase of fewer shares than if the dividend or distribution had been paid in Common Stock issued by the Fund. The Plan Agent will use all dividends and distributions received in cash to purchase Common Stock in the open market within 30 days of the valuation date. Interest will not be paid on any uninvested cash payments.

You may withdraw from the Plan at any time by giving written notice to the Plan Agent. If you withdraw or the Plan is terminated, you will receive whole shares in your account under the Plan and you will receive a cash payment for any fraction of a share in your account. If you wish, the Plan Agent will sell your shares and send you the proceeds, minus a $15 service fee plus $0.12 per share being liquidated (for processing and brokerage expenses).

The Plan Agent maintains all stockholders' accounts in the Plan and gives written confirmation of all transactions in the accounts, including information you may need for tax records. Shares of Common Stock in your account will be held by the Plan Agent in non-certificated form. Any proxy you receive will include all Common Stock you have received under the Plan.

There is no brokerage charge for reinvestment of your dividends or distribution in newly-issued shares of Common Stock. However, all participants will pay a pro rata share of brokerage commissions incurred by the Plan Agent when it makes open market purchases.

Automatically reinvesting dividends and distributions does not mean that you do not have to pay income taxes due upon receiving dividends and distributions.

If you hold your Common Stock with a brokerage firm that does not participate in the Plan, you will not be able to participate in the Plan and any dividend reinvestment may be effected on different terms than those described above. Consult your financial advisor for more information.

The Fund reserves the right to amend or terminate the Plan if, in the judgment of the Board of Directors, the change is warranted. There is no direct service charge to participants in the Plan (other than the service charge when you direct the Plan Agent to sell your Common Stock held in a dividend reinvest account); however, the Fund reserves the right to amend the Plan to include a service charge payable by the participants. Additional information about the Plan may be obtained from the Plan Agent at P.O. Box 43010, Providence, Rhode Island 02940-3010.
