(Attach extra Sheets if Needed)

On August 1, 2005, the Audit Committee (the Committee) of First BanCorp (the Company) determined that the Committee should review the background and accounting for certain purchases of mortgage loans made by the Company between 2000 and 2005. The Committee's decision to undertake this review was based on several factors, including discussions with the Company's external auditors. The extension is needed to permit the Committee to complete its review of the mortgage loan purchase contracts and to determine the impact, if any, of the results of the review on the Company's previously issued interim and audited financial statements. The Committee has engaged independent counsel to undertake this review, which is currently in progress.

The transactions to be reviewed involve the Company's purchases of mortgage loans originated by other financial institutions. The Company has accounted for these transactions as regular purchases of mortgage loans with variable contractual rates payable to the Company. At the time of these purchases, the Company recorded the outstanding balance of these loans as mortgage loans receivable. The variable interest collected by the Company on these mortgage loans has been recorded as interest income. The Company did not record any derivatives or interest only strips as a result of these transactions. The issues currently being reviewed by the Committee are related to the terms and conditions of the purchase contracts.

At the present time, the Company believes its accounting for these transactions was made in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. In the event that the Committee concludes that the terms of the transactions are different from those that were considered by the Company to record these transactions, the Company will have to determine the impact, if any, of such terms on the Company's financial statements. At the present time, the Company does not know the impact, if any, that different terms may have on the accounting for these transactions.

At the present time, the Company is uncertain as to when the Audit Committee's review of these transactions will be completed and when the Company will file its Form 10-Q for the quarter ended June 30, 2005.
