NEWS RELEASE

VERIZON WIRELESS AND VODAFONE CO-OPERATE ON TRANSATLANTIC

TEXT MESSAGING SERVICE FOR CUSTOMERS

Verizon Wireless, the leading U.S. wireless service provider, and Vodafone, the world's largest mobile community, today announces that they are introducing transatlantic text messaging. This collaboration will enable their respective customers to send and receive text messages between the Verizon Wireless CDMA network and Vodafone's GSM networks.

The transatlantic text messaging services will be introduced on a phased basis in the U.S. and 10 of Vodafone's GSM networks. All Verizon Wireless customers with TXT messaging-capable handsets, and Vodafone customers across Germany, Greece, Ireland*, Italy, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Portugal, Spain, Sweden and the UK, will be able to use the service beginning in early 2004. Vodafone intends to extend the service to an even wider footprint during 2004.

Each text message sent travels between GSM and CDMA networks and is converted by InphoMatch, a U.S. vendor, before being forwarded to the recipient's handset. Testing of the process shows that the conversion process and message delivery occurs within seconds.

John Stratton, VP and chief marketing officer at Verizon Wireless, noted, "Vodafone and Verizon Wireless are helping to make the world a little smaller as we mobilize our strengths to provide transatlantic text messaging."

The existing collaboration between Verizon Wireless and Vodafone continues to flourish and is now moving into new areas. The introduction of this new era of transatlantic text messaging services is a clear indication to our customers that, as well as introducing innovative new global multimedia services, we continue to improve our existing service offerings," said Peter Bamford, Chief Marketing Officer, Vodafone.

VODAFONE EXTENDS PARTNER COMMUNITY WITH SECOND MTC AGREEMENT

Edgar Filing: VODAFONE GROUP PUBLIC LTD CO - Form 6-K

Vodafone today announces its second Partner Network Agreement with Mobile Telecommunications Company (MTC)*. This latest Partner Network Agreement extends Vodafone's existing relationship with MTC in Kuwait into the Bahraini market, following the launch of MTC-Vodafone Bahrain on 28th December, and brings the total number of Vodafone Partner Networks to 11.

In April 2003, MTC was chosen by Bahrain's Telecommunications Regulatory Authority to develop the country's 2G GSM service. As with MTC in Kuwait, the Bahraini subsidiary will operate under the brand MTC-Vodafone.

MTC-Vodafone Bahrain will start to introduce Vodafone's international services in 2004, providing Vodafone and its partners' customers seamless access to Vodafone's international mobile services while travelling in Bahrain. In turn, MTC-Vodafone Bahrain's customers will be able to enjoy the benefits of Vodafone's roaming services across its global footprint.

Peter Bamford, Chief Marketing Officer, Vodafone said: "The launch of the MTC-Vodafone network in Bahrain builds on Vodafone's existing relationship with MTC and expands Vodafone's brand and services in the Middle East. The adoption of a dual-brand by MTC originally in Kuwait and now in Bahrain, illustrates the scale and scope of Vodafone's international brand profile."

Dr Saad Al Barrak, Director General of the MTC Group of Companies responded saying: "The launch of the MTC-Vodafone service in Bahrain is a significant step forward not only for Bahrain but also for the Middle East. Deregulation of the wider telecoms sector will drive natural competition all to the benefit of mobile users as new, creative services and keener pricing come into play."

Following today's announcement, Vodafone's portfolio of global services, supported by its global brand, will be available in 11 Partner Network countries: Austria, Bahrain, Croatia, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, Iceland, Kuwait, Lithuania, Singapore and Slovenia.

VODAFONE ANNOUNCES WINNERS OF JAVA(TM) GAMES CHALLENGE 2003

Vodafone today announced the winners of its Java(TM) Games Challenge 2003. The competition, launched at Sun Microsystems' Java(TM) developer conference, Java(TM)One, is part of Vodafone's ongoing initiative to reach out to the Java(TM) community to find high quality and innovative games for Vodafone live!. More than 15,000 members of the developer community were present at the conference held in June 2003.

The three successful participants, who will each receive a Sharp GX20, the latest Vodafone live! handset, and have the opportunity to secure a commercial contract with Vodafone enabling them to see their game reach Vodafone live! subscribers in up to five countries throughout Europe, were:

Skidlock Racer! - developed by Spectrum Wired. Skidlock Racer! is a top-down racing game. The aim of the game is to race at high speed and skidding and sliding as much as you can whilst staying on track to win the race.

The Office - developed by Vaka. In The Office the player is forced to undertake all the worst jobs in the office on behalf of his boss. If these tasks are performed well the office darling will reward the player with a kiss.

Trails of Terror - Mutiny - developed by Universomo. In this game the player searches for his lost daughter on an alien planet whilst fighting the alien invaders, driving futuristic vehicles and hacking consoles.

Guy Laurence, Global Marketing Director at Vodafone Global Product and Content Services, said: We were extremely impressed by the high standard of submissions to the Vodafone Java(TM) Games Challenge 2003 and were forced to cut the number of entries down to 90 of the most appealing games. Choosing winners from that number of high calibre games was a very difficult task. The competition has shown us that, in addition to the current selection of games offered through Vodafone live!, there is still a vast pool of quality mobile gaming potential to be tapped into. I look forward to welcoming the winners to Vodafone's portfolio.

The Java(TM) Games Challenge 2003 was open to any person or entity from any country, excepting employees or family members of Vodafone or Vodafone Group. Applications were submitted in J2ME format and were evaluated by Vodafone Global Product and Content Services based upon their appeal, quality, usability, commercial potential and ease of deployment.
