Lamperd Less Lethal, Inc. Expands Market

Lamperd Less Lethal (PINKSHEETS: LLLI) increased its world-wide market footprint expanding to Russia and Egypt. One of the largest product distribution companies in Russia sent personnel to our plant last Thursday where they received product demonstrations and ordered crowd control products for shipment this year. An Egyptian representative visited the plant in September followed by an order and receipt of our core products for demonstration. The demonstration has been represented as a success and we expect to receive orders from the effort in the near future.

LLLI continues to receive growing recognition from countries who hadn't been introduced to our products previously. Many of the countries have needs to control crowds at political rallies and civil demonstrations and are looking for the less lethal solutions we manufacture and sell.

About the Company
