Clarifications on exploration in Iran

(Rio de Janeiro, February 17, 2009). – PETRÓLEO BRASILEIRO S/A - PETROBRAS, [Bovespa: PETR3/PETR4, NYSE: PBR/PBRA, Latibex: XPBR/XPBRA, BCBA: APBR/APBRA], a Brazilian international energy company, does not confirm it has made a discovery in the Persian Gulf, as announced by the press. During a press conference held today (02/13), the director of the Company's International Area, Jorge Luiz Zelada, said Petrobras has found evidence of hydrocarbons in an exploration block in Iran, which is not economically viable, and that the technical reports have not been completed yet.

According to the oil industry's standards, evidence of hydrocarbons cannot be considered an economically viable accumulation before the data have been assessed and drilling tests done.

FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

This press release may contain forward-looking statements. These statements are statements that are not historical facts, and are based on management's current view and estimates of future economic circumstances, industry conditions, company performance and financial results. The words "anticipates", "believes", "estimates", "expects", "plans" and similar expressions, as they relate to the company, are intended to identify forward-looking statements. Statements regarding the declaration or payment of dividends, the implementation of principal operating and financing strategies and capital expenditure plans, the direction of future operations and the factors or trends affecting financial condition, liquidity or results of operations are examples of forward-looking statements. Such statements reflect the current views of management and are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties. There is no guarantee that the expected events, trends or results will actually occur. The statements are based on many assumptions and factors, including general economic and market conditions, industry conditions, and operating factors. Any changes in such assumptions or factors could cause actual results to differ materially from current expectations.
