Transaction Q&A

1. What is the Transaction?

The Transaction includes the split of common shares and an increase in the economic rights of preferred shares in the same ratio as well as amendments to the Company's Bylaws, which are described in the press release, the draft of the Bylaws and other documents disclosed by the Company.

2. Who will vote on the Transaction?

The Company's shareholders will vote on the Transaction at a shareholders' meeting to be convened in due course. As described in the press release, all of the Company's shareholders will be entitled to participate and vote in the shareholders' meeting. The Controlling Shareholder will vote in accordance with the majority of the Company's non-controlling shareholders in order not to influence the outcome of the voting.

3. What is the purpose of the Transaction?

The Transaction will increase the Company's capacity to raise equity capital. Due to legal and regulatory restrictions, the Company is currently unable to issue additional preferred shares without simultaneously issuing common shares. The Transaction will enable the Company to issue new preferred shares without issuing common shares, thereby allowing it to finance its operations more effectively.

4. What do I do if I want to vote in the shareholders' meeting?

The Company will publish the call notice of the shareholders' meeting, which will have detailed information about the location, time, voting procedures and proxies.

5. How will the Transaction affect the number of preferred and common shares issued by the Company?

The number of common shares will be multiplied by 35. The number of preferred shares will remain the same, but the economic rights of the preferred shares will be multiplied by 35 so as to offset the economic effect of the split, as detailed in the draft of the Bylaws.

6. Will the Transaction affect the trading of the Company's ADRs and preferred shares.

The Transaction will not, in any way, affect the trading of the Company's ADRs and preferred shares.

7. What additional rights will preferred shareholders receive as a result of this Transaction?

If the economic interest (defined as Participation in the Dividends in the Bylaws) of the Controlling Shareholder is equal to or less than 50%, preferred shareholders will be entitled to vote in an extraordinary meeting on the matters listed under the BM&FBOVESPA Level 2 regulation, as detailed in the draft of the Bylaws.

Irrespective of the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends, preferred shareholders will have the right to vote in an extraordinary meeting on any change to the Bylaws of rules governing a) extraordinary meetings; b) membership of the Board of Directors; c) the Governance Committee; d) limitations on sales of shares by the Controlling Shareholder; e) 30% Tender Offer; and f) voting rights of preferred shareholders, as detailed in the draft of the Bylaws.

8. How will the Transaction affect membership of the Board of Directors?

The representation of preferred shareholders and independent directors on the Board of Directors will be increased in as much as the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends is decreased as a result of issuing new preferred shares and/or any sales of shares held by the Controlling Shareholder, as the case may be.

- If the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends is equal to or less than 35%, at least 40% of the Board of Directors must be independent directors and the Company's preferred shareholders may elect one director in a separate vote. The representative of the preferred shareholders will count as an independent director.
- If the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends is equal to or less than 15%, at least 50% of the Board of Directors must be independent directors and the Company's preferred shareholders may elect two directors in a separate vote. The representatives of the preferred shareholders will count as independent directors.
- If the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends is equal to or less than 7.5%, at least 60% of the Board of Directors must be independent directors and the Company's preferred shareholders may elect two directors in a separate vote. The representatives of the preferred shareholders will count as independent directors.

The Bylaws will include recommendations on the preferable qualifications of potential directors. If the Controlling Shareholders' Participation in Dividends is equal to or less than 15%, the directors may only be removed from office during their mandates with the approval of the preferred shareholders.

Other election procedures will be described in the draft of Bylaws.

9. What Committees will be created as a result of the Transaction?

The Audit Committee will become a permanent body, whereas currently the Board of Directors must decide on its establishment. The Audit Committee will have operational autonomy and a wide range of responsibilities, as detailed in the draft of the Bylaws.

If the Controlling Shareholder's Participation in Dividends is equal to or less than 35%, a Governance Committee will be established. This committee will be responsible for opining on the appointments of independent directors, membership of the Board of Directors and situations that create potential conflicts of interests, among other matters. The majority of members on the Governance Committee will be independent directors. The draft of the Bylaws contains more information regarding the Governance Committee.

The table below summarizes the governance rules according to the percentage of the Participation in the Dividends of the Controlling Shareholder:

10. What are the restrictions on the sale of shares by the Controlling Shareholder as a result of the Transaction?

- Preferred shares owned on the date of approval of the Transaction
 - Prohibition on the sale on any exchange for 12 months,
 - Sale on stock exchange of up to 50% after 12 months,
 - Termination of restrictions after 24 months, and
 - Sale outside of a stock exchange if the purchaser accepts restrictions on sales on stock exchanges above.
- Common shares owned on the date of approval (including converted preferred shares)
 - Direct sale on a stock exchange or a block trade representing up to 3% of the Company's Participation in Dividends, with a restriction on sales on a stock exchange or a block trade for six months after each sale,
 - Sale of more than 3% only through public offer registered with the CVM, and
 - Private sales impose on the purchaser a restriction on sales on stock exchanges for 12 months after the private sale and on private sales for six months for the Controlling Shareholder after the private sale.

Shares purchased by the Controlling Shareholder after the date of approval will not be subject to any of the above restrictions. Restrictions will terminate if (1) the Controlling Shareholder's economic interest in the Company falls below 15%, or (2) a public tender offer occurs a change of control.

11. What is the “30% Tender Offer” described in the Bylaws and Transaction?

If any person acquires an interest representing 30% of the Company’s Participation in Dividends (except the current Controlling Shareholder in certain cases), the acquirer will be obligated to launch a public tender offer for any and all outstanding shares at the highest price paid by such person in the preceding twelve months.

The Controlling Shareholder will only be obligated to launch a public tender offer if it reduces its Participation in Dividends below 7.5% and subsequently increases it to above 30%. The terms of the 30% tender offer are detailed in the draft of the Bylaws.

12. How will the Transaction affect the rights of the preferred shareholders.

To preserve current preferred shareholder’s rights, the Transaction contemplates the addition to the Company’s Bylaws of a provision that will grant preferred shareholders, based on their economic rights, the rights that are generally provided under applicable law as a result of the percentage of the Company’s capital stock. This provision ensures that the Transaction will not limit or eliminate any of the Company’s shareholders’ political rights, as described in the table below:
