OBSIDIAN ENTERPRISES ANNOUNCES PLAN TO COMMENCE OFFER FOR NET PERCEPTIONS

After a Four Week Delay by Net Perceptions' Board of Directors, Obsidian Will Now Make Offer Directly to Net Perceptions' Shareholders; Obsidian's Offer Will Provide Net Perceptions Shareholders the Opportunity to Receive Two Shares of Obsidian Common Stock for Each Share of Net Perceptions

INDIANAPOLIS, December 11, 2003 -- Obsidian Enterprises, Inc. (OTCBB: OBSD), a holding company headquartered in Indianapolis announced today that it plans to commence an offer that will provide shareholders of Net Perceptions, Inc. (Nasdaq: NETP) the opportunity to receive two shares of Obsidian common stock for each share of Net Perceptions common stock.

Timothy S. Durham, Chairman and CEO of Obsidian, stated, "We have tried over the past four weeks to work with the Net Perceptions Board of Directors and they have not responded to our proposal in a constructive manner." It is our belief that by failing to timely and meaningfully respond to Obsidian's proposals, the Net Perception's Board of Directors and management are not acting to maximize the recovery for the Net Perceptions shareholders. Further delay does not serve the shareholders' interest."

"Assuming that the Net Perception's Board of Directors and management will begin to act in a responsible manner and remove the impediments to Obsidian's offer, including the elimination of Net Perception's Poison Pill and Net Perceptions taking no further action to harm the value of the enterprise, the Net Perceptions shareholders will have the opportunity to evaluate and accept what we believe is a far superior alternative to the uncertain and likely delayed consideration that may be realized under the plan of liquidation proposed by the Net Perception Board," concluded Mr. Durham.

Obsidian intends to complete the necessary initial filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission and commence the offer for Net Perceptions within the next 10 days.
