Item 4. Purpose of Transaction

As disclosed in prior filings, Lawndale has concerns over the composition, independence and functioning of Sparton's Board of Directors and certain of its Board committees.

On August 9, 2004 Lawndale sent a letter to the Sparton board of directors (a copy of which was attached as Exhibit B to Amendment No. 3 to Schedule 13D filed August 10, 2004) in which Lawndale expressed its objections to Sparton's calling a September 24, 2004 special meeting proposing shareholders both approve removal of shareholder's cumulative voting rights and institute a notice requirement for shareholders who desire to nominate director candidates, and sought a meeting with Sparton's independent directors to discuss the Special Meeting and other issues. On September 7, 2004 Lawndale sent another letter to Sparton's board (a copy of which is attached as Exhibit B to Amendment No. 4 to Schedule 13D filed September 8, 2004) which noted that Glass Lewis & Co., one of the country's leading Proxy Advisory services, released its report and analysis on Sparton's proposals, in which it recommended that its Sparton shareholder clients vote AGAINST BOTH proposals. The September 7th letter also noted that, to date, Lawndale has not received any reply to its expressed governance and operational concerns and reiterated Lawndale's request for a meeting with Sparton's independent directors.

Lawndale is also sending a letter to Sparton's board for delivery Monday, September 13, 2004 (a copy of which is attached as Exhibit B to this Amendment No. 5 to Schedule 13D and its text is incorporated by reference), noting that another one of the country's leading independent Proxy Advisory services, Institutional Shareholder Services, Inc. (ISS), has recently come out with a report and analysis recommending its Sparton shareholder clients vote AGAINST the proposal to eliminate cumulative voting. Lawndale believes such analysis and report is material information to Sparton shareholders and requested that Sparton provide this information to all Sparton shareholders. This letter also noted that ISS's analysis was critical of Sparton's new shareholder communication policy, that Sparton's Corporate Governance Quotient rating was near the lower third of its peers and that while the report did recommend a vote FOR the advance notice proposal it did so considering that Sparton continued to have cumulative voting. Lawndale's letter also requested that Sparton promptly disclose the vote on the measures to be considered at the Special Meeting, as well as the costs incurred by Sparton in conducting the meeting.

Edgar Filing: LAWNDALE CAPITAL MANAGEMENT LLC - Form SC 13D/A

Lawndale incorporates by reference the discussions in its prior Schedules 13D to the extent not inconsistent with the discussion herein.

Item 5. Interest in Securities of the Issuer

The beneficial ownership of the Stock by each Filer at the date hereof is reflected on that Filer's cover page.

The Filers have not effected any transactions in the Stock since filing Amendment No. 4 to Schedule 13D.

LCM is the general partner of DAP and other clients pursuant to limited partnership agreements providing to LCM the authority, among other things, to invest the funds of such clients in Stock, to vote and dispose of Stock and to file this statement on behalf of such clients. Pursuant to such limited partnership agreements, the general partner of such clients is entitled to allocations based on assets under management and realized and unrealized gains.

Re: Proxy advisor ISS recommends vote AGAINST elimination of cumulative voting. Rates Sparton near lower third of its peers and criticizes its "communications" policy

Dear Board Member:

As you know, for the second time in just one week a leading proxy and governance advisory service has recommended against Sparton's proposal to eliminate cumulative voting at the September 24, 2004 Special Meeting called by the Company. Specifically, Institutional Shareholder Services ("ISS"), which claims to be the "world's leading provider of proxy voting and corporate governance services", recommends a vote AGAINST the Company's proposal, stating that "cumulative voting is an important tool in the protection of shareholders' rights..."

As with the Report and Recommendation by Glass Lewis, which also urged Company shareholders to vote AGAINST elimination of cumulative voting, we believe the ISS report is material information which the Company should provide to its shareholders. We further note that the ISS report ranks Sparton near the BOTTOM THIRD of its peer group under ISS' corporate governance quotient ("CGQ") index. We believe that the Board's decision to call a special meeting for the purpose of taking action contrary to basic principles of good governance demonstrates the fact that this group of directors is out of touch with these basic principles, particularly in light of the Company's abysmal CGQ.

We also recognize that, while Glass Lewis recommended a vote AGAINST the company's advance notice proposal, ISS differed and recommended a vote FOR this proposal. However, we note that ISS' support for this proposal was given with reference to the fact that the Company has cumulative voting. We believe that, given the current governance practices of this board, calling a special meeting of shareholders for adopting an advance notice provision that wouldn't be effective until 2005's annual meeting is wasteful, unwise and improper. We feel Glass Lewis' analysis correctly pointed out, "shareholders can always vote against those [alternative nominees] that appear with little prior notice, but would not have the chance to support them if they are not even on the ballot for consideration due to new deadlines." In addition, assuming such new notice requirement were in effect for the upcoming November 10, 2004 annual meeting (less than 60 days from now), with the Company not yet disclosing its director nominee slate for this meeting, shareholders do not have adequate information on whether they desire to nominate any alternative candidates. For example, if this notice requirement were already in place, shareholders would be precluded from nominating a better alternative candidate to Sparton director Peter Slusser, who has had historical conflicts at Sparton and who was a former longtime director and member of the Compensation Committee of Tyco International, a company whose governance failures are well known.

We also note that ISS's analysis strongly criticizes the Company's new "shareholder communication" policy, stating "...this policy gives the Office of the Corporate Secretary excessive control in determining which shareholder communications will be forwarded to independent directors and which will be disregarded." We believe, as the CII/NACD joint task force report on this issue also supports, that Sparton's communication's policy must provide a means for shareholders to communicate directly with independent directors on any issue without interference by management. We reiterate our request for dialogue with Sparton's independent directors, as we believe there are important governance issues that ought to be addressed in advance of Sparton's November 10, 2004 annual meeting.

Finally, we trust that, once the special meeting is over, unlike the company's failure to adhere to SEC disclosure requirements after last year's annual meeting, you will timely release the results of the voting, as well as the true costs of the meeting. We believe it is important for all shareholders to know the results, and further believe that the Company is obligated to release this information. If, for any reason, the Company is contemplating not releasing the voting results and meeting's true costs immediately following the meeting, please let us know so that we can take appropriate action to discover the truth.

Sincerely,

Andrew Shapiro

President
