Important News about Ameritrade and TD Waterhouse

Today, Ameritrade announced plans to purchase the U.S. brokerage business of TD Waterhouse and create a new financial services company named TD Ameritrade. The combined company will represent a new force in financial services, giving you and your clients more power than ever before. Plus, you'll have access to an even greater breadth of investment solutions to meet your clients' needs.

Bringing you the next generation of financial services

Over the next several months, a group of senior executives from both companies will be tasked with shaping this new company. Built on a legacy of service and technology, we plan to bring together the very best of both TD Waterhouse and Ameritrade including:

Continued access to industry leading advisor services technology

A robust suite of advisor tools

The outstanding service you have come to enjoy

The proposed acquisition of TD Waterhouse requires approval by shareholders and regulators which will probably take about six months. It will then take another several months to bring the strengths of both companies together. We'll keep you posted about our progress, and notify you in writing well in advance of any new developments.

You and your clients continue to be our focus

We're committed to ensuring that it will be business as usual for now and you'll continue to speak with our professional service associates and have full access to the same tools and services you do today.

If you have questions or comments, we definitely want to hear them. Just e-mail me directly at james.wangsness@ameritradeadvisor.com.

Sincerely,

James Wangsness
Senior Vice President
Ameritrade Advisor Services

Frequently Asked Questions

Q: Why is this happening?

A: Ameritrade and TD Waterhouse felt we could better serve our clients as a combined entity. This transaction allows us to combine the powerful online trading tools, advanced technology, and 24/7 service you expect from Ameritrade, with the extensive branch network, personalized investment services and financial advice that TD Waterhouse offers.

Q: What's in this for me?

A: Once the transaction closes you'll have access to an extensive branch network and a broader range of investment services.

Q: What kinds of changes are going to happen to my account, commissions and services?

A: There will be no changes until the acquisition has been completed. We estimate it will take six months for regulatory approvals and there will be no changes in your account during that time.

Q: When will you know if there will be changes?

A: Ameritrade and TD Waterhouse cannot share information regarding business policies, commissions, fees etc. with each other until after the acquisition is complete, so there will be no information about these changes until after the transaction has closed.

Q: When do you think changes will occur?

A: We anticipate finalizing the transaction sometime late in 2005 or early 2006. There will be no changes until after time and we will contact you in writing, well in advance.

Q: How will I be informed of any changes?

A: We'll keep you informed. You'll always find the latest acquisition news on this Web site, and if any changes to your account are planned, we'll contact you in writing regarding the details. To ensure you get all information as quickly as possible, please update your e-mail address.

Q: Will I be able to purchase Ameritrade's products at a local TD Waterhouse branch?

A: TD Waterhouse branches will continue to sell and service only TD Waterhouse products until Ameritrade and TD Waterhouse are integrated under the TD Ameritrade name.

Q: Is there anything I need to do now?

A: No. Your relationship, commissions and services are unchanged.

Q: Will the features, terms and conditions of my account remain in effect?

A: Yes. Your account terms and conditions, privacy policy, commissions, rates and fees etc. remain in effect unless we notify you of any specific changes that will affect your account. To ensure you get all the related information, please update your e-mail address.

Q: What if I need to contact Client Services will I be able to go to a TD Waterhouse branch?

A: Please continue to contact Client Services by e-mail or phone 24/7. Although we are very eager to offer our clients added branch access that service will not be available until after the acquisition is completed.

Q: Can I expect the same level of execution quality I get today?

A: There will be no change to the routing and execution of your orders at this time. Ameritrade prides itself in quality execution and offers a 5 Second guarantee. We will continue to seek best execution on your trades.*

TD Waterhouse Canada announces purchase of Ameritrade Canada

On June 22, 2005 TD Waterhouse Canada announced its intention to purchase the Canadian operations of Ameritrade. In Canada, the merged entity will operate under the name TD Waterhouse. TD Waterhouse is a leader in the Canadian discount broker industry and also offers clients a comprehensive range of additional wealth management services.

The proposed acquisition is part of a larger transaction announced today in which Ameritrade will acquire the U.S. brokerage business of TD Waterhouse U.S.A. and is conditional on that transaction closing, as well as customary closing conditions. Both this acquisition and the larger transaction require regulatory approvals. The closing is expected to occur in about six months.

Our commitment to Ameritrade Canada clients

We are committed to ensuring that there will be no changes for now and that means:

You will continue to access your account through the same web address and same phone numbers and the same e-mail address

Commissions, fees and account numbers stay the same

All current products and services will continue to be available

The same service that you have come to expect

With the added resources of TD Waterhouse, we are confident that we can continue to meet your present and future needs. As we integrate our operations you will get:

Access to a network of Investor Centres

Access to a more comprehensive range of wealth management services

Access to integrated banking and investment services

We want to assure you that for now it will be business as usual and there are no changes to your account or the products and services you currently have access to. As we finalize the transaction we are committed to minimize any impact on Ameritrade Canada clients. Our goal will be to provide an enhanced level of products and services after the merger is approved. You will be kept informed of all developments through updates on the Canadian web sites of TD Waterhouse and Ameritrade. We will notify you personally, in writing and well in advance, about any merger-related changes to your accounts. You will continue to have uninterrupted access to your accounts.

We look forward to having all Ameritrade Canada clients as part of the TD Waterhouse family and are confident we will provide a new level of service and wealth management services that are unparalleled in Canada.

Sincerely,

John See
